Babson Forecast Gives Insight Into '72 Year

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., December 30, 1971. A year ago our Forecast for 1971 looked hopefully toward a better business year than had prevailed in 1970. Unfortunately, the trouble spots we cited combined to frustrate the possibilities offered by the favorable forces. For example, the vexing problems of high unemployment, underutilization of industrial productive capacity, dangerous inflationary pressures, the huge federal budget deficit, and labor problems did, indeed raise barriers to economic progress in 1971.

1971—Another Crisis Year

As we look back upon 1971, therefore, we can justly label it another "crisis year", just as 1969 and 1970 had been. However, the crises of the previous two years were largely of a domestic economic nature, albeit the burden of the Vietnam war was a contributiong ingluence to the dislocations. In 1969 the main villain was the grinding credit crunch; in 1970 it was the harrowing corporate liquidity squeeze, plus two major strikes and the surprise of the foray into Cambodia.

In 1971 the focal point was more the "flight from the American dollar" in the leading foreign exchange markets of the free world. This crisis had been building for many years, and it also had been inexorably linked with a complex of other probelms. These included cost-push inflation, a steady weakening of the U. S. foreign trade position, and the long succession of federal budget deficits and imbalances in our international payments position—which resulted from our foreign aid and military programs plus sizable private spending and investments abroad. There was also the aggravation of the long and costly strikes during 1971; but in the final analysis, the real havoc was wrought by the dollar's troubles.

Stabilization or Trauma?

In a counteroffensive to combat the dollar's woes, to bridle the inflationary spiral, and to revitalize the nation's economy, the Nixon Administration took everyone by surprise by dramatically reversing its economic approach. In the first phase of the new program, President Nixon imposed a 90-day emergency freeze upon prices, wages, and rents. In addition, he asked Congress to move to an earlier date the planned revision of the federal income tax structure so as to increase consumer disposable income, and to grant a tax credit for certain business capital expenditures. He also imposed a 10 per cent surcharge on certain imports of foreign goods.

Initially, public reaction was favorable. The program was regarded as a positive step in coming to grips with the vital problems afflicting the economy. However, the piecemeal fashion in which the second phase of the program was unveiled left consumers, businessmen, and investors in an uncertain frame of mind. Doubts mounted as early lukewarm labor acceptance of the program turned to antagonism, and as industrial activity, consumer spending, and unemployment failed to respond as quickly as had been anticipated.

Vestiges of Hope

On the surface, the disappointing economic results of 1971 would seem to point to a year of inept failures. A deeper analysis reveals grounds for a contrary view. Even though business and employment did not respond as the Nixon Administration had anticipated, there were extenuating circumstances which critics of the new economic game plan have been remiss in considering.

For example, there was the protracted tie-up of West Coast ports, and subsequently a virtual paralysis of East Coast and many Gulf Coast ports, which exacted a toll on the economy. In addition, there were the coal and copper miners' strikes, and the inescapable liquidation of strike-hedge steel inventory stockpiles. These retardant factors would have exerted adverse influences even if the administration had not opted for "controls".

Furthermore, the fainthearted miracle seekers and the opportunistic politicians may be premature in labeling the Nixon economic game plan an exercise in futility. There has not been enough time to gauge the results of this program. After all, Congress has been agonizingly slow in acting on those facets of the program which are beyond the jurisdiction of the President.

1972—Year of Solid Progress

At this outset of the new year, therefore, the staff of Babson's reports views constructively the prospect of what lies in store for the economy. We are hopeful that the Administration's economic game plan will jell sufficiently to encourage businessmen and consumers to sluff off their cocoons of cautiousness and assume a more optimistic perspective. Such an improvement in public con-

School And State Officials Will Meet This Week

Review of leadership needs in vocational-technical education for the region will take place when Howard B. Casmey, Minnesota commissioner of education, meets with Thief River Falls school officials Wednesday. He will meet with Supt. William Corliss and vocational school director Arnt Aune.

Also meeting with the local officials will be James Staloch, coordinator of post secondary vocational education for the Minnesota department of education. Staloch will evaluate some facilities available locally for possible expansion of the vocational-technical education program.

According to Supt. Corliss, additional space is also needed for the expansion of the vocational center school program which will serve juniors and seniors in high schools here and in neighboring communities. Reimbursement of the local districts is dependent upon state approval of facilities.

"Additional vocational-technical school space is directly related to solving a number of other space problems for the schools," Supt. Corliss said. He cited elementary classrooms, special education classrooms, junior high school classrooms, office space, bus storage, shipping and receiving and storage space and land needs for the future."

A comprehensive educational facilities design, with options, has been prepared by the bureau of field studies of the University of Minnesota and presented to the board. The board is reviewing the options presented and will receive a complete recommendation January 24.

School Pays Out $2,835,938 In 1971 Salaries

Contract employees of the Thief River Falls school district received a total of $2,835,938.83 in salaries during the 1971 calendar year, according to figures compiled by the payroll and personnel office at Lincoln high school. The total was computed during preparation of W-2 forms for the employees.

In addition to the total mentioned above, the St. Hilaire school district paid over $55,000 in salaries for the period of Jan. 1 to July 1, 1971, prior to consolidation with Thief River Falls. Another sum amounting to slightly more than $6,000 was earned by district employees for various hourly paid tasks, although extra-curricular pay is included in the $2,835,938 total.

There were 130 district employees who paid their F.I.A.C. maximum, indicating that they earned over $7,800 during 1971.

Members Will Attend Meeting

Six members of the Thief River Falls board of education will attend the annual convention of the Minnesota school boards association January 9, 10 and 11 in Minneapolis. Major emphasis of the meeting this year will be interpretation of the new negotiations laws.

Board members attending will be Maynard Wedul, Wallace Sparby, Curtis Charlson, E. C. Olson, Kenneth Murphy and Edgar Naplin. Supt. William Corliss will also attend.

Due to the school board convention, there will be only one local meeting of the Thief River Falls board this month. That meeting will be held January 24.

School To Use Milk Cartons In Lunch Program

Change in the school milk program will go into effect on Monday when all Thief River Falls public schools open for their regular schedule following a two-week Christmas and New Year's holiday.

Milk will be served in half-pint cartons for morning and afternoon snacks and with the noon lunch. Previously the district had used bulk dispensers and paper cups for the milk program.

An auditor from the federal government recently inspected the local school and his evaluation was that the amount of milk be controlled so that at least one-half pint of milk is served. The auditor's observation, measurement of milk served and interviewing of students led to his recommendation that the district use the half-pint cartons.

According to Dr. William Corliss, superintendent, the cost difference will be one-half cent per serving and will result in additional costs to the lunch program of about $2,500 for the remainder of the year. The board will have to decide whether this cost is to be absorbed by the district or passed on in an adjustment in lunch charges.

Supt. Corliss pointed out that there has been only one lunch cost adjustment since 1968 and that was for adult lunches. The district currently absorbs about $20,000 in lunch program losses each year.

Other recommendations were also made by the auditor during his visit and efforts are being made to comply with them. The official report of the federal auditor will be sent from the Chicago office to the board of education within the next several weeks.

Arrangements have been made with Bridgeman Creameries to supply the district with the half-pint milk cartons for the remainder of the year.

WOODWORKERS MEET TUES.

Regular monthly meeting of International Woodworkers of America Arctic employees will be held Tuesday at the Eagles hall. Meeting times are 1:30 and 4:00 p.m.

SEVERAL FIRSTS were connected with the first birth of the new year at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Corey Lee Bjorgaard was born at 2:19 p.m. Saturday, New Year's day, to Mr. and Mrs. George Bjorgaard of route 2, Thief River Falls. He is the Bjorgaard's first child, weighed in at 7 pounds, 1¾ ounces and was 19 inches long. And he was born on his mother's birthday, since she was the New Year's baby at the Grafton, N.D., hospital 22 years ago. Mrs. Bjorgaard was also her parents' first child. Maternal grandparents of Corey Lee are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kasprick and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bjorgaard of Viking.

WALLS ARE RISING for Northland Discount Food center east of highway 59 on the southeast edge of Thief River Falls. No completion date has been estimated, but work will continue through the winter. The building will be 120x140 (16,800 square feet) and have a 14-foot ceiling. It is being built of concrete block with Prichard Bros. construction company as the general contractor. A parking lot of 250 cars will also be built at the site of the new building and there will be two points of access from First street and two from highway 59.

County Fair Income In '71 Is $26,521

Total revenue for the 1971 Pennington county fair was $26,521, it was revealed at the annual meeting of the Pennington County Fair association, Inc., held recently in Thief River Falls. Of the total revenue received, $12,573 came directly from operation of the fair.

Five directors were reelected for three-year terms to the board and two new directors were elected. Reelected were Silas Hanson, district one; Fred Sorensen, district two; Donovan Bruggeman, district three; Dr. Donald Goodrich, district four; and W. A. Corbett, St. Hilaire. New directors named were Oliver Swanson, district five, to succeed Ray Oen, and Gordon Hendrickson, Goodridge, to succeed Wallace Payne.

It was announced that the Minnesota association of county fairs will hold its annual meeting in St. Paul January 16-17-18 and that the local board would be represented by at least several officers at the convention. Officers reelected include Bruggeman, president; Sorensen, vice president; Milan Borsheim, secretary; and Wilbur Hallstrom, treasurer.

On a bid basis the present hog and sheep building was sold to Lowell Lindemoen of Newfolden for $852. There were a number of bidders for the building. The fair board plans to erect a new sheep and swine show area for the 1972 fair. Horses will be housed in the former 4-H club building for only a one-day horse show, and then will be removed to permit housing of sheep and hogs in that building.

Review of the annual report showed that revenue from operation of the 1971 fair included the following: Grandstand, $4,920; auto parking, $797; space rentals, $5,308; entry, stall and pen fees, $94.50; premium book and other advertising, $1,410; and other receipts, $41.

Other revenue included $1,992 in state aid, $7,396 in county aid, $100 in rent of grounds and buildings except during the fair and $188 in interest. Other nonrevenue receipts of $4,270 brought the total receipts to $26,521.

Expenditures for fair operation totaled $17,610 and included the following: Premiums, $4,190; advertising and promotion, $1,284; entertainment, $4,717; judging exhibits, $595; administrative expense, $1,668; insurance, $451;

Debt Retirement Request Boosted By District 564

School District 564 in Thief River Falls has increased its request for debt retirement funds from local taxpayers by $5,338, according to Supt. William Corliss.

The increase was requested when it was found to be permissible and will enable the district to initiate repayment of the current $15,000 deficit in the fund. Original request was for $226,062, which would have paid the debt principal and interest due but not reduce the existing deficit. Modified request will now be for $231,400.

The state commissioner of taxation also notified the district that the department would not approve the request for a 1.5 mill levy to reduce the operational debt of $386,000. This means that the deficit will be carried forward, since present levying does not provide any direct means for reduction of the deficit, Supt. Corliss said.

"The board had planned to reduce this deficit under the old laws and had so voted in notifying the county auditor for the October levy," the superintendent explained. "However, the October levy notice was nullified by the new tax law and the new law did not provide an opportunity for the board to reduce the deficit.

Casmey To Talk At Goodridge On Wednesday

Howard B. Casmey, Minnesota commissioner of education, will preside at a public meeting for residents of Grygla and Goodridge school districts on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Goodridge school auditorium.

Commissioner Casmey asked Goodridge school officials to arrange the meeting for the time and place indicated. One of the commissioner's assistants notified the Times that the commissioner wanted to talk to residents of the two districts and to receive information directly from them. School boards of both districts have been invited.

The commissioner's assistant emphasized that the meeting will be open and that all residents of both districts are urged to attend.

Lady of Snows Group Visits Nursing Homes

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America, Our Lady of the Snows court 2023, will be Tuesday, January 4, at 8 p.m. in St. Bernard's church basement with devotions at 7:30 p.m.

The Catholic daughters will meet January 19 at 1 p.m. at 802 South Conley for missionary projects.

During the month of December the Catholic daughters visited all the local nursing homes.

Ursula Dahl, Helen Bruggeman and Marjorie Mazurek brought cookies, punch and candy to the Kees rest home. Marjorie Mazurek played the piano for the residents who sang a number of songs.

Emily Bizek and Margaret Kotaska donated cookies and candy to the residents of the Crestview nursing home. Singing of hymns and Christmas carols was enjoyed by the group with Marjorie Mazurek at the piano.

Visiting the Oakland Park nursing home were Sherry Blaha, Henrietta Ness, Mary Evans and Renae Englert. The group brought cookies along with fruit and candy bags. Carol Amundson played the piano while the visitors' children led in the singing of carols.

Eva Lendobeja played the violin and Carol Amundson played the piano for the residents of the Hanson nursing home. Helping with the program and lunch were Ursula Dahl, Francis Oski, Irene Rausch and Angeline Brezney. Mrs. Lehdobeja brought popcorn balls for a special treat.

A reading was given at the Valley nursing home by Angeline Brezney and Marjorie Mazurek played the piano while Cyrella Rodekuhr, Mrs. Osford and Iona Gonsorowski led in carol singing. The group donated cookies along with Mary Mandt and Donnie Driscoll.

The court sent gifts to each resident in the homes.

Luci Beutler, Jerry Sparby Exchange Wedding Vows

Wedding vows were exchanged between Miss Luci Beutler and Jerry Sparby on November 27 at Trinity Lutheran church in Moorhead.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Percy Beutler of Madison and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sparby of Grygla.

Rev. Bruce Hermann officiated at the afternoon double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Eldon Sparby of Middle River, sister-in-law of the groom, presided at the organ. She played the traditional "Bridal Chorus" for the processional and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" for the recessional. She also accompanied Miss Jane Ramstad of Granite Falls, friend of the couple, as she sang, "For All We Know" and "The Lord's Prayer". Jim Hockett of Frazee, friend of the couple, sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "We've Only Just Begun".

The bride was escorted to the altar, graced with lavendar and white mums and candelabra, by her brother, Ray Beutler of Madison. She was attired in a floor length gown of white crepe and alecon lace which she designed and made. The princess style gown was trimmed with lace on the bodice, collar and cuffs. Her floor length veil was trimmed with matching lace and she carried a large purple orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Patty Morrissey of Bloomington, friend of the couple, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Paul Haaf of Carroll, Iowa, sister of the bride; Mrs. Ron Nealis of Gettysburg, S. D., sister of the bride; Miss Debbi Nielson of Moorhead, friend of the couple and Miss Carol Larson of Madison, friend of the couple. All wore princess styled gowns with ruffles around the cuff and Peter Pan collar. Each carried a long stemmed white mum and wore a headband of small white mums.

Candelighters were Miss Janelle Quaal of Appleton, friend of the couple, Miss Karen Sparby of Grygla, sister of the groom, and Miss Elsie Listrom of Evansville, friend of the couple. They wore dresses styled similar to the bridesmaids and were made of green and white crepe. They each carried a long stemmed white mum and wore a headband of small white mums.

Miss Dodie Barsness, Starbuck, friend of the couple, was the bride's personal attendant.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Bob Sparby, Grygla. Groomsmen were Bill Beutler, Albuquerque, N. M., brother of the bride; Ardy Jergenson, Stephen; Ray Farwell, Alberta, Minn.; and Mick Meyers, Chicago, all friends of the couple.

The ushers were Paul Beutler, Minneapolis, brother of the bride; Eldon Sparby, Middle River and Dennis Sparby, Alexandria, brothers of the groom; Ron Fuglie, Moorhead, and Ron Bird, Thunder Bay, friends of the couple. The groom and his attendants wore black tuxedos. The groom wore a boutonniere of white stephanotis and the attendants wore boutonnieres of abbey roses.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Beutler chose a purple wool dress with black accessories and the groom's mother selected a dark blue knit dress with black accessories. Both wore identical corsages of white gardenias and stephanotis.

A reception was held in the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Sparby, Thief River Falls, aunt and uncle of the groom, as hosts.

Mrs. Rick Hlady, Moorhead, was in charge of the guest book and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Grabow, Fargo and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Schmidt, Dilworth, served the punch.

The four-tiered chocolate wedding cake was iced in white with purple and green decorations and topped with a gold cross and rings. It was served by Mrs. Paul Henderson, Selby, S. D., aunt of the bride and Mrs. Juel Aune, Gatzke, friend of the couple. Mrs. Oscar Sparby, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Charles Burd, Nielsville, were in charge of the coffee servers.

Waitresses were Joan Henderson, Junelle Sparby and Julene Norton, cousins of the couple. Gifts were carried by Steve, Dave and Jim Sparby, brothers of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Madison high school and a senior at Moorhead state college where she was a member of Alpha Phi sorority.

The groom is a graduate of Middle River high school and Moorhead state college where he was a member of the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He is presently teaching elementary science and physical education at Cold Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sparby are now at home at Box 354, Cold Spring.

Rent Inquiries Lead Questions About Phase II

Inquiries on rent regulations continue to lead the questions asked the Internal Revenue service on the economic stabilization program, according to George O. Lethert, IRS district director for Minnesota.

Lethert said, "The most common question from both landlords and tenants is 'can rents be raised?' and the answer is generally no".

Lethert explained that the present Phase II stabilization guidelines deal with rents in broad terms and provide for some exceptions, but are basically the same as during the 90-day freeze.

Exemptions from the rent freeze include: Commercial, industrial, farm and non-residential property which is used for business; newly constructed residential houses and apartments completed and first offered for rent after August 15; and "substantially" rehabilitated rental dwellings, first offered for rent after August 15, where the repair costs equal or exceed one-third of the total value of the property after rehabilitation.

Also if at least 10 per cent of similar rental units of the same landlord were renting at a higher price during the period from July 16 to August 14, the lower rents can be raised consistent with the identical units.

Lethert urged landlords to delay any immediate action on rent increases until the rent advisory board and the price commission have developed specific guidelines for Phase II rent stabilization.

The director said that the rent board is currently meeting to formulate recommendations for consideration by the commission. These recommendations will include clarification and revisions of the existing regulations as well as new guidelines and policies on rents.

"The price commission has promised quick action on the rent advisory board's recommendation," Lethert said. He cautioned landlords that rollbacks of increased rents might be necessary if they are not consistent with the new policy.

Chubby Children Start Too Soon On Solid Food

Starting a baby too soon on solid foods may head him toward a lifetime weight problem, according to a report from a Washington state heart association-sponsored research team that compared a group of overweight teenagers with those of normal weight. Mothers of the obese adolescents said they had introduced solid foods at age six weeks to two months, while their normal-weight counterparts received no solids until the third or fourth month.

Dr. S. L. Hammar and his research associates at the University of Washington's adolescent clinic pointed out that the production of fat cells occurs more rapidly in early life and that chronically obese adults have a greater number as well as larger-sized fat cells than persons of normal weight. This suggests that curtailing excessive weight gain during infancy and early childhood might help to prevent later problems.

Commenting on the report, Dr. Hammar said, "It raises some questions about our present infant feeding practices." He noted a tendency among mothers to be competitive in advancing their babies by introducing new foods sooner than their neighbors. This sort of race is particularly common in housing projects where mothers meet frequently to compare notes, he said.

Among the teenagers studied, only 20 per cent of those with weight problems said they regularly ate three meals a day, while 70 per cent of the non-obese group did follow a meal schedule. The overall caloric intake was almost the same for both groups, but physical activity was markedly reduced among the obese. More than two-thirds of the overweight children had obese parents, many of whom reported having used foods, particularly sweets, as a reward in discipline. These same parents regarded obesity as a protection against boy-girl problems during adolescence and were content that their youngsters did not date.

Minnesota Food Industry Plans Trade Mission

Minnesota's food industry will make a second trade mission to Japan next April 17-21, Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald announced today.

Co-sponsoring the trade mission in addition to the Minnesota department of agriculture are its 11 partners in the Mid-America International Agri Trade Council (MIATCO) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture foreign agricultural service.

Commissioner Wefald said the promotion will be an expansion of the successful April, 1971, mission, with part of the total exhibit in the U.S. Trade Center in Tokyo to be reserved for use of exhibitors from other states.

Success of the 1971 venture led to the decision for a spring 1972 foods festival in Japan, with the warm invitation and approval from the Japanese government and food importing industry stimulating the established enthusiasm of Mid-America co-sponsors.

Minnesota had the largest and most successful delegation of exhibitors for the 1971 trade mission, capturing more than $1 million of the estimated $3 million in new food sales Mid-America exhibitors contracted in Japan.

The 1972 American Food festival to be presented in Tokyo will place special emphasis on categories of food products that market analysis has identified as having the best chance for rapid sales growth in the Japan market. These include meat, poultry and cheese products, canned and frozen vegetables, fruits and juices, dried vegetables and new products introduced or test marketed in the U.S. within the past 18 months.

Minnesota food producer organizations and processing firms interested in taking part in the forthcoming trade mission to Japan are invited to contact Director M. C. Combs or export marketing specialist LeRoy Thoreson at the Minnesota department of agriculture offices in St. Paul.

Other MIATCO states taking part in the Japan trade promotion are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Decore Shoppe To Open Tuesday At Falls Theatre

Jim's Decore Shoppe will open Tuesday at 215 LaBree av. N. in the Falls Theatre building space formerly occupied by the Navy. Mr. and Mrs. James D. Erickson are owners of the business and Mrs. Darrell (Pamela) Hinklin will manage the business as consultant in interior decoration and art.

The store will handle three lines of paints and a full line of art supplies and related items. Other items include wallpaper, brushes and rollers stains, varnishes and antique finishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Erickson are both natives of Thief River Falls and returned here two and one-half years ago after a six-year absence while he worked for the state of Minnesota. Erickson will continue his insurance business and Mrs. Erickson will continue in her position as an executive secretary in the day-night unit of Northwestern hospital services.

Grand opening of the store will take place in about a month.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

The following comments and recipe are from a publication of the American Dairy association.

"Something old, something new" is more than a bride's reminder rhyme on her wedding day. It can also be applied to the manufacturing changes in sour cream since grandmother let cream "go sour". Today's uniform dairy-fresh, high quality cultured sour cream is made from fresh sweet cream.

Grandmother learned that cakes and breads made with sour cream were lighter and stayed fresh longer. Today's homemaker enjoys all the "old-fashioned" flavor in sour cream with modern, fresh sour cream available at her door or in the store.

Versatile sour cream can be used in a wide variety of recipes to make ordinary foods taste extraordinary.

For you wives whose husband has a hearty appetite for breakfast include scrambled eggs and sour cream on the menu. The following recipe makes four servings:

5 eggs
½ cup dairy sour cream
½ tsp. salt
one-eighth tsp. pepper
2 tblsp. butter
2 tblsp. chopped green onion

Method: Beat eggs, sour cream, salt and pepper just until blended. Melt butter in skillet. Add onion and saute' until tender. Pour in egg mixture and cook over low heat until done. Turn portions of egg mixture with spatula as it begins to thicken; do not stir and do not overcook. Garnish with paprika and parsley.

State Insurance Investigator To Visit In City

A. E. Isberner, insurance investigator for the state of Minnesota, will be in Thief River Falls Thursday at the Minnesota manpower service office between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

He will be available to handle complaints for people of the community against insurance companies, agents or other problems they may have relating to insurance. His services are offered free of charge by the Minnesota insurance division.

The function of the insurance division, complaint section, is to protect the rights of the state in regard to all lines of insurance. The insurance division cannot determine guilt or innocence or the amount of the loss. Such matter, when disputed, must be decided by the courts.

The complaint section will protect policyholders' rights by demanding an explanation from the insurance company for a delay or refusal to settle a legitimate claim and determine the validity of such reasons.

1972 Highway Maps Available

Featuring a striking night picture of the newly-illuminated state capitol, the 1972 official trunk highway map is now available for general distribution. As in recent years, the map is being issued early in the year to make it useful in the planning of vacation trips, inasmuch as the map shows the projected status of all Minnesota trunk highways as of July 1, 1972.

Maps can be obtained from several local sources, including district and maintenance area headquarters of the department, local Chambers of Commerce and the Moorhead and Dresbach information centers.

The maps will also be available from the office of public information by sending postcards to: Office of Public Information, State Highway Bldg., St. Paul 55155.

The reverse side of the map, which includes a large map of the Minneapolis-St. Paul metropolitan area, also has a detailed map of Minnesota's interstate highways, showing the interchanges to assist motorists in planning trips. For the first time, illustrations of several of the rest areas on both the interstate and trunk highways are also included on the map.

The printing contract calls for the production of 1,300,000 copies of this popular promotion item. It serves not only as a highway map, but as a travel brochure as well. It contains information on state parks, institutions, national historical monuments, recreation areas, U.S. ports of entry and their hours of operation, rest areas, camp grounds, Indian reservations and other valuable information.

Skidding accidents kill 10,000 persons each year. If your car starts to skid out of control, take your foot off both the gas pedal and the brake. Control can be regained by countersteering and pumping the brakes.

University Seeks To Hire Women, Minority Groups

University of Minnesota will give preference to members of minority groups and women in filling administrative and professional vacancies, according to Eugene Eidenberg, assistant vice president and equal opportunity officer for the university.

Eidenberg has sent a directive to provosts, deans and department heads telling them to take steps to improve the ratio of minority groups and women in professional positions.

University units will have to name a person in each department responsible for seeing that there is equal employment opportunity in the unit, Eidenberg said.

He said departments must also analyze their work forces to determine whether there is discrimination and set a timetable for correcting any deficiencies. They will also change their recruiting methods to "ensure that both women and minorities will be made aware of all present and future positions in the department."

University officials admit that their record is not good on the employment of minority groups, but the Eidenberg memo is felt to be a strong move to correct the situation.

Lillian William, assistant equal employment officer, said up-to-date figures are not available on numbers of women and minority group members currently employed by the university. But she discussed the situation as it was last year.

During the 1970-72 school year, the university employed 13,813 persons of whom 6,932 were male and 6,881 were female. Among the 6,292 professional employees, 4,052 were male and 2,240 were female while the 3,108 office workers included 173 men and 2,935 women.

The number of professional women may be misleading, Mrs. Williams said, because professions such as nursing and education may include large numbers of women while others may include very few.

Last year the university employed 605 members of minority groups including 427 blacks, 250 Orientals, 64 American Indians and 64 Spanish-surnamed Americans, including people of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban and Spanish origin.

In the professionals category, 84 blacks, 211 Orientals, 16 Indians and 34 Spanish-surnamed persons were employed last year. Office help included 80 blacks, 14 Orientals, eight Indians and seven persons of Spanish origin.

There were 654 persons classified as administrative officials last year including 561 men and 93 women. Of these officials, six were black and three were Oriental. None of them were of Indian or Spanish origin.

Mrs. Williams said the classifications are those of the department of health, education and welfare and include a number of other categories such as technicians, craftsmen, laborers and service employees.

"These are last year's figures. We believe there has been some improvement this year and, at this point, data is being compiled about this year," Mrs. Williams said.

"I really and truthfully feel that we're making some progress," she said. "The university is trying to honor its commitment of equal opportunity and employment for all people."

The steps outlined in Eidenberg's memo are necessary to implement the regents' policy statement on equal opportunity, she said.

The memo was sent to all hiring units. It said: "In the absence of evidence that the hiring unit already has achieved reasonable balance in its minority and women's employment pattern, vacancies should be opened first to qualified minority and women candidates.

"If good faith efforts to recruit qualified minority or women applicants fail, the positions may be filled in the normal manner. Without such consideration and efforts, vacancies may not be filled."

Skid Stopping Hints Offered By Tire Council

Kids may get a big "bang" from skidding their feet across the winter ice but for motorists the bang from a skid can be much more serious and unpleasant.

Since it's skid season in many parts of the country the Tire Industry safety council suggests it's a good time to review prevention and cure techniques.

To prevent skids keep tires properly inflated. To prevent swerving while braking, tire pressures on the same axle must be equal.

Drive more slowly on slippery roads and approach intersections with particular caution.

Never jam on brakes; pump them to avoid locking wheels, which can cause a skid.

If a skid starts take your foot off the gas; keep off the brakes; braking only makes the skid worse; steer into the skid by turning wheels in the direction in which your rear wheels are sliding; and when the car comes out of the skid, straighten your wheels and pump brakes gently to slow down.

"Snow tires and studded tires are obviously a good safety measure to minimize the chance of skidding," says Ross R. Ormsby, chairman of the Tire Industry safety council.

"But," he adds, "special tires still can't take the place of a careful driver prepared to cope with the tricky stop-and-go conditions of cold weather."

To aid proper inflation, a prime factor in preventing skids, tire pressure should be monitored more closely as weather gets colder. For every 10 degree drop in temperature, tire pressure drops approximately one pound.

The council recommends special caution in planned braking where winter has really taken hold; experience has shown that stopping on glare ice or packed snow can take up to ten times the normal distance on a dry road.

The council also suggests checking tires for safe tread depth if you live in a temperate climate where snow is intermittent, and haven't switched to snow tires.

When the tire is down to 1-16 inch of tread groove depth it is unsafe, the council says. This measurement has been adopted as a legal minimum standard in 27 states.

"Urban hospitals are even more prone to losses than suburban hospitals," because "people hired in suburban areas are more affluent and less tempted to steal," he said.

Polaris Builds Final Machine For This Season

Final machine of the 1971 Polaris production season rolled off the assembly line at Polaris Industries in Roseau last Thursday as layoffs began for the interim period between production runs.

Plant manager Ron Payne said that the layoffs will be the shortest in the history of Polaris Industries, with production expected to begin on the new models in March, although some of the new machines will be produced beginning in February.

The payroll was cut Thursday from about 900 employees to about 500. Those remaining on the job are now engaged in producing parts, sub-assemblies, part fabrication for next year's models, maintenance and re-layout of the plant for the next construction year, Payne said.

The majority of machines produced this year have been Colts, with Chargers running a close second in numbers. Next year's production calls for face-lifting of the 1971 models with added safety features. Polaris expects to sell close to 50,000 machines this year, Payne said.

Traffic Court Training Plan Is Developed

New federally-funded program to develop a traffic courts administrative procedures manual and to train local traffic court judges and staff personnel has been started by the Minnesota Supreme Court.

Program will be under the direction of the Supreme Court administrator's office and implemented by a special staff hired for this purpose.

First phase will be the development of a uniform procedures and rules manual for operation of the state's traffic courts. The principal purpose of this manual will be to achieve a greater uniformity in the conduct and administration of the state's traffic courts.

The initial work on the new manual will be completed prior to July 1, 1972, at which time a training program for traffic court judges and other personnel will start. The course will be approximately two and one-half days in length, and the curriculum will be custom tailored to the needs of Minnesota.

Future objectives of the program will include development of a uniform traffic citation, review of codes and laws for compliance with the uniform vehicle code, and drafting of legislation to effect uniform vehicle code compliance. William Haugh, an experienced attorney, has been hired to implement the new program.

Photo Licenses Said Impossible To Counterfeit

Minnesota's new Photo Driver Licenses are virtually impossible to forge or counterfeit, thanks to a new tamper-proof polycarbonate plastic material, according to Wallace R. Hoaglund, commissioner of public safety.

A five-year contract for production of the licenses was awarded earlier this year to the Scott & Fetzer company of Cleveland, Ohio. Processing of all licenses is handled in a new photo lab at the St. Paul airport. Hoaglund said Minnesota is the 23rd state to require photos on drivers' licenses.

"The Minnesota system," Hoaglund said, "incorporates unique features not required elsewhere. First, the contract requires a license that meets specifications for credit cards with respect to configuration and embossing capability. The new PhotoDriverLicense can be embossed with five or six lines of information with up to 125 total characters.

"Of special significance to Minnesota's 2,500,000 drivers," Hoaglund continued, "is a built-in negative retrieval system which permits issuance of some 200,000 duplicate licenses annually without the driver having to be rephotographed."

Hoaglund pointed out that in Minnesota, when a driver changes name or address, the law requires him to up-date his driver's license to reflect the change.

"With the PhotoDriver License system," Hoaglund noted, "we can retrieve the driver's photo negative from our files and reissue the license containing the new data, complete with the original color photo, without the need for the licensee to appear for rephotographing."

"The new PhotoDriverLicense," Hoaglund explained, "is a great stride forward as a means of positively identifying a driver by law enforcement officers."

In addition, because the license is virtually indestructible and tamperproof, any attempt to alter it is readily discernible and appropriate action to revoke it can be taken.

"By specifying an embossed card," Hoaglund said, "we will eventually enjoy other benefits. For example, we are currently working on a system that will incorporate a small, low-cost imprinter as standard equipment in state and municipal police cars. When an officer makes an arrest, he will be able to insert the driver's license in the imprinter in the car and all pertinent data is accurately transferred to the citation. The need to decipher an arresting officer's handwriting is thus eliminated. Moreover, it can be used to prepare accident reports, auto inspections, and for other purposes as the need arises."

Hoaglund said 130 dual lens cameras will be strategically located at 130 driver licensing stations and clerks of district court throughout the state. Because Minnesota licenses are issued on a four-year cycle, new applicants and drivers with early license expiration dates will be the first to be issued the new PhotoDriverLicense.

Head Accountant Retires At 'U' M

Chief accounting officer for the University of Minnesota retired at the end of December after 42 years of service to the institution.

Clifford S. Plank, 67, the university's controller, worked under six university presidents since he joined the staff in 1929 as a statistician.

"Clifford Plank's 42 years at the university stand as a monumental record of steadfast service to this institution," President Malcolm Moos said. "All of us join his many friends in saluting him on this achievement. He has been a very dedicated and loyal member of the university all this time. He will be sorely missed."

Plank, who was born and attended schools in Pipestone, went to Hamline university and graduated from the University of Minnesota.

He worked his way up through the ranks in the business office. He was promoted from statistician to senior accountant. Later, he was named assistant chief accountant and chief accountant and assistant controller. In 1960, he was appointed controller.

Before joining the university, he had been an accountant in Chicago and Minneapolis.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—What is the largest loan the Veterans administration will guarantee for a mobile home?

A—For purchase of a mobile home only, $10,000 to be repaid over 12 years and 32 days.

Q—I am a World War II veteran who filed for Veterans administration pension and was told to submit a medical report of my disabilities. I don't have a doctor, and can't afford to pay for a physical examination. What should I do?

A—Notify the VA office handling your claim of your circumstances. Describe your disabilities as best you can, making it clear that you are unable to pay for an examination. It may be possible to arrange for a VA clinic to examine you for your pension claim.

Q—Is it true that pensioners over 72 years old no longer have to file annual income questionnaires with the Veterans administration?

A—Yes. A recent law exempts pensioners who are 72 years old or older and dependent parents drawing dependency and indemnity compensation during two consecutive years from filing these questionnaires. However, they still must report changes in income.

FFA Foundation Donors Meet In St. Paul Today

Eighteenth annual meeting of the donors to the Minnesota Future Farmers of America (FFA) Foundation, Inc., is being held this afternoon (Wednesday) at the St. Paul campus student center. Board of directors will be named and officers will be elected. About 300 donors contributed to the foundation during its 18th year of operation.

Activities financed by the foundation include recognizing FFA members excelling in leadership, citizenship, international activities, community service, safety, scholarship, natural resources management and supervised agribusiness experience programs.

The Minnesota FFA foundation was established in December of 1953 to provide business, industrial, civic, farm and service organizations and individuals in Minnesota an opportunity to participate in furthering the programs of FFA and vocational agriculture in public secondary schools.

All funds accepted by the foundation are used exclusively for the purpose of motivating and promoting the best interest of the 13,606 members of the Minnesota FFA in 268 high schools.

The new activities and projects discussed at today's meeting include: Alumni FFA, environmental management, 'gentle' release of mallards, shelters for weather instruments and deer habitat improvement projects.

Russ Stansfield of Minneapolis has served as vice president and chairman of the finance committee of the foundation during the past year; Paul M. Day, state supervisor of agriculture education, Faribault, as president; and W. J. Kortesmaki, state FFA executive secretary, St. Paul, as secretary - treasurer. Harlan Hokanson of Karlstad is a director.

The state FFA's joint project with the national weather service and the state climatologist in recording precipitation on a year-around basis will be reviewed. Proposals on recognition of the state's 2,000 chapter climatologists will be made.

Steve Thal, Watertown, state FFA president, will present plaques to the 10-year-donors to the foundation and official FFA paperweights to the retiring board members.

State FFA student secretary Paul Fixen, Minneota, will report on Minnesota FFA's state-wide safety activities including plans for defensive driving courses and distribution of 27,000 anti-smoking posters at the 1971 state fair.

Roger Steinkamp, Renville, state FFA treasurer, will announce Minnesota FFA's plans to expand its "Living to Serve' activities as part of the "Building Our American Communities" (BOAC) programs. Minnesota FFA chapters have contributed to Camp Courage over $300,000 since 1953 for camperships, funds to construct an $80,000 speech therapy building and a greenhouse. The Minnesota FFA also participates in the Christmas drive for the mentally retarded, fund drives for Tri-State Camp Winnebago and in the March of Dimes campaigns.

Tom Husnik, reporter, Forest Lake, will report on the state FFA's anti-litter and wildlife conservation programs. During the past year Minnesota FFA members raised and released about 300 wild turkeys, 3,400 wild mallard ducks and about 34,000 pheasants; incubated over 500 pheasant chicks from salvaged eggs and planted over 850,000 tree seedlings. The Minnesota FFA received a 1971 national Keep America Beautiful (KAB) award.

Marty Rupprecht, sentinel, St. Charles, will give a resume of Minnesota FFA's agricultural work-study programs for members with special needs.

First vice president Rod Christianson, Halstad, will report on the national FFA's overseas work experience programs and the state FFA annual people - to - people good will tour to Europe.

and all other expenses, $4,702. Maintenance of grounds, buildings and equipment totaled $2,511, while debt service totaled $3,532 including $2,924 in principal and $608 in interest. Year end bank balance is $6,202, about $1,300 under 1970.

Division of the $4,190 in premiums paid included $1,345 in open class livestock, $231 in open class agricultural, $478 in women's activities, $126 in other open class premiums, $1,901 in 4-H club division and $108 in Future Farmers of America division.

Balance sheet of the association shows an improved financial condition with a larger excess of assets over liabilities than a year ago, although assets decreased slightly.

Total assets of the association are $37,417 as compared with $38,824 a year ago. This year's assets include $2,229 in cash, $3,894 in savings certificates, $9,000 in land and $22,292 in buildings. Last year the assets showed a larger amount of cash on hand.

Liabilities total only $9,103 at the end of the 1971 fiscal year as compared with $12,028 at the end of the 1970 period. This entire amount is in the form of notes payable and represents the long-range financing arranged when the fair association succeeded the former county agricultural society a few years ago. Excess of assets over liabilities is $28,313 this year as compared with $26,796 a year ago.

Association officers are looking for ideas for some type of multiple purpose structure which can be used for the swine and sheep show area and also be of benefit to the community at other times during the year.

3 S. Minn. 4-H'ers Earn Chicago Trips

Projects in 4-H work which won three southern Minnesota youths trips to the 50th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, has also provided them the background for their future careers.

Benita Harmann, 16, of Litchfield, Meeker County; Dale Alan Mathwig, 18, of Dunnell, Martin County, and Victoria Nickel, 18, of Sanborn, Cottonwood County, are now students preparing for work in home economics, agriculture and horticulture, respectively.

They were among about 30 state winners selected by the Cooperative Extension Service to attend the golden anniversary congress held in Chicago, Nov. 28 to Dec. 2, in awards programs arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Miss Harmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Harmann, lives on a farm. She is an active junior leader and was especially involved in projects concerning clothing and dairy.

Her food-nutrition project work included a demonstration at the state fair which involved the making of a bread called "hoska," which is native to Czechoslavakia.

She also became proficient in meat cookery, making good pie crusts, how to plan a meal and how to make meals attractive.

A high school sophomore, she has been in 4-H for six years and has held the post of both president and vice president in her club. She has not yet decided on her career.

Her trip was provided by General Foods Corporation, program donor.

Mathwig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Mathwig, plans to become a farmer and his swine project has given him a good start plus a profit of $6,000.

Some of the money, he said will be spent on his education in agriculture at Iowa State University, Ames.

Besides helping his father tend a 600-acre farm and 800 hogs, Mathwig has developed his own herd of 44 Berkshires and three crossbreeds over the last eight years.

His trip was provided by Moorman Mfg. Co.

Miss Nickel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernett Nickel, learned early that the winds in Minnesota are strong, so she helped build a windbreak for her family's farm by planting the trees at an angle against the wind.

Studying nursery work, landscape design and floristry at the University of Minnesota, she hopes to become a professional horticulturist.

Her nine-year horticulture project which made her a community authority on flowers and trees earned her the trip from Allis-Chalmers, program donor.

Aged Most Often Victims Of Home Falls And Fires

Americans tend to be appalled with the annual highway death toll, but probably give little thought to home accidents that in 1970 caused many thousands of deaths.

Insurance information institute cited national safety council data showing that, while car crash victims numbered 54,800, home accidents country-wide claimed 26,500 deaths, of which 499 were in Minnesota.

Home accidents also were blamed for disabling five million persons, and 16 million also suffered minor injuries. The institute said that falls and fires caused the largest number of deaths in homes.

It also pointed out that the recent wave of publicity prompted by the recent White House conference on aging brings accident problems of older people into focus when the fall and fire figures are examined. These disclose that the largest share of deaths by falls, 6,100, occured in the 75 and over age group, 36 per cent of "all falls". Fires' largest death toll in the home is in the 45 to 64 age group, accounting for 1,500, or 27 per cent of total deaths by fire.

The infant fire mortality rate also is high; there were 800 deaths in the age group 0 to 4 years. This age group ran a close second, a questionable distinction.

The institute said that contrary to popular thinking it is not mothers busy with toddlers and kitchen distractions that account for the largest loss of life by fire or falls. True, many women and men are hurt using unsafe boxes or chairs for step ladders and many tumble on slippery floors.

It went on to state that the older people at home need to be cautioned about safe practices and to be watched to help keep them from injuries. For example, well-lighted rooms, staircases and halls and sound hand rails on stairways can reduce the fall hazards. Floors and stairs should be kept clean of toys and other objects. Also, a sturdy bath tub rail facilitates getting in and out of tubs and showers safely. Non-skid tub surfaces are a "must".

It is not unusual for older people to forget to turn off burners on cook stoves or space heaters. A kindly reminder and sopt-check may save a life or a serious burn case.

The institute suggests that younger people consider conducting safety seminars for the retired groups as well as initiating safe practices around the home. Insurance companies and agents provide helpful safety folders without charge that are useful to people of all ages.

By caring for the older citizens and being a little more careful around the home, Americans can help to reduce the $1.8 billion in lost wages and related annual costs charged to home accidents.

Above all, said the institute, the needless suffering and deaths can be sharply reduced if everyone does his share. And for your own sake, whatever you do, indoors or out: Take Care!

Two New Bills Give Aid To Older Veterans

Holiday season will be more cheerful for many Minnesota veterans and their dependents as the result of two laws signed recently by President Nixon. Both become effective January 1.

One measure provides cost-of-living increases averaging 6.5 per cent in nonservice-connected disability and death pensions paid by the Veterans administration to nearly two million veterans, widows and children. Another provision of the law hikes income limits by $300 for all pensioners.

Existing annual income limit of $2,300 for a veteran or widow with no dependent goes up to $2,600, with the present limit of $3,500 for a veteran or widow with dependent raised to $3,800.

Pensioners covered under an earlier law are also included in the raised income limits, with the present ceiling of $1,900 for a veteran with no dependents going up to $2,200, and the $3,200 limit for a veteran with dependents increased to $3,500.

Second law signed by the President provides a 10 per cent increase in dependency and indemnity compensation benefits for 176,000 widows, a five per cent increase in these benefits for 46,000 children, and a 6.5 per cent increase in benefits for 68,500 parents of servicemen who died because of service-connected disabilities.

In a news conference following the signing of the two bills, administrator of veterans affairs Donald E. Johnson said the President "has prevented hardships that would have occurred starting January 1 when Social Security increases become effective.

"Without the legislation, 1,150,000 pensioners would have had their VA pensions reduced owing to Social Security increases, and more than 16,000 on the VA rolls would have lost their pensions entirely," he said.

Administrator Johnson also said that a new "formula" approach embodied in the legislation, which takes the place of tables of payment rates and income limitations in the present law, "will better allocate VA payments to relative need, and will in the future avoid a disproportionate reduction of payments when outside income increases."

The new "formula" approach also applies to and will benefit those parents who are receiving dependency and indemnity compensation payments.

The VA head said the bills—H.R. 11651 and H.R. 11652—will have a "massive impact" in terms of people and money. More than two-million disabled veterans, widows, orphans and dependent parents will benefit immediately, "as will countless Veterans administration beneficiaries who come on the rolls in the years to come." The estimated cost of these bills in the first year will amount to some $195 million.

Administrator Johnson said that "one of the most significant features of the new legislation is the innovative formula approach which will relate VA pension payments directly to the beneficiary's income in lieu of the present table of payment rates, with its $100 increments, and income limitations."

He said that Congressman Olin E. Teague, chairman of the House committee on veterans' affairs, "has complimented the VA for what he termed its 'ingenuity' in devising this new approach, and has expressed the belief that it will effectively minimize future concern as to the adequacy of the veterans' pension program.

"I cannot begin to tell you how very pleased the President and all of us are with the new legislation, chiefly because those who benefit are mostly older, low-income veterans who are totally disabled, and widows and children who most need this financial support," he said.

Pennington county veterans services officer L. W. Hill requested that all veterans receiving checks under the new program refrain from calling his office until after they receive their January checks. He will only be able to help veterans after they receive the checks.

Crop Damage By Insects Said Less Than 1970

Insect damage to 1971 corn and forage crops, although extensive, was not as serious as last year, according to a special report from the plant industry division of the Minnesota department of agriculture.

However, Director Clare Floyd cautioned that corn borers and grasshoppers will be a potentially serious economic problem in selective areas of the state in 1972. Survey data obtained by state inspectors and technicians has not yet been translated into the economic impact of 1971 crop damage due to insects.

Corn borer damage was the most severe, particularly in southern Minnesota and in southern counties of the central districts. Farmers whose corn harvest has been delayed by adverse weather conditions still face the prospect of heavy ear droppage due to second generation corn borer infestation of the corn ear shanks.

Survey revealed that as high as 45 per cent of the corn shanks were infested by borers in south central districts fields, 40 per cent in the southwest, 33 per cent in west central, 23 per cent in southeast, 16 per cent in central, 12 per cent in northwest and 10 per cent in the east central district.

Stalk breakage attributed to corn borers ranged up to 18.6 per cent of the plants in the southwest district above the corn ears and up to 3.36 per cent of the stalks below the corn ears in the west central district. South central district had the top rate of actual ear loss on the ground, .96 per cent.

West central district has the highest potential borer population carryover with the survey indicating an average of 179 borers per 100 corn plants.

Also in the 1972 problem outlook and their respective borer population averages are south central, 171, southwest, 102, and southeast, 95.

Grasshopper damage this year affected about 252,000 acres of forage crops, down from the 405,000 acres hit in 1970. Moderate to abundant grasshopper infestations can be expected in multi-county areas in east central, west central, central and the south central districts. However, weather conditions at the critical time of grasshopper egg hatch and early nymphal growth could modify this problem in 1972.

Rites Held For Mrs. Ida Berg Last Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Rasmussen Berg were held Friday at the First Lutheran church in Middle River with Rev. Donald Fredine officiating. Interment was made in the Riverside cemetery in Middle River.

Mrs. Floyd Peterson was organist and accompanied Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Blom and Naomi Blom as they sang, "How Great Thou Art" and "When His Glory Paints the Sky."

Pallbearers were Melvin Dyrseth, George Hill, Howard Young, Norman Anderson, Edgar Olson and Squire Holmes.

Ida Olson was born to the late Paul and Annie Olson on Jan. 21, 1887, in Sweden. At the age of one year she came with her parents to this country where they set up residence at Warren. In 1895 they moved to Middle River where she grew to womanhood.

In 1908 she was united in marriage to Oscar Rasmussen and the couple lived and farmed in the Middle River community until his death in 1948.

She remarried in 1952 after moving to the village of Middle River to Carl Berg who passed away in 1968.

She was a Gold Star mother, her son Fred Rasmussen, passing away during World War I.

She is survived by four sons: Henry, Walter, Elmer and John, all of Middle River; five daughters: Mrs. George E. (Alvina) Nelson, Mrs. Sylvester (Ellen) Hemp, Mrs. Walter (Bertha) Nelson and Mrs. Guy (Elsie) Knutson, all of Middle River, and Mrs. Seno Meyer of Fargo: two sisters, Mrs. Alma Anderson of Middle River and Mrs. Clarence (Hilma) Benston of Thief River Falls: two brothers, Hilmer and Elmer, both of Middle River; 32 grandchildren and 41 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents, two husbands, one daughter, two sons and two grandchildren.

The Collins funeral home of Middle River was in charge of arrangements.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Jensen To Be Held Fri.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jens (Ida) Jensen will be held today (Monday) at 2 p.m. at the Green funeral chapel with Rev. Harold Peterson officiating. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery and the body will repose at the funeral home until time of services.

Pallbearers are Richard Mosbeck, Raymond Ortloff, Clarence Sevre, Earl Johnson, Kenneth Bakke and Sam Mosbeck. Organist is Mrs. Harold Peterson and the soloist, Mrs. Arnold Hammer, will sing "In the Garden" and "Rock of Ages."

Ida George was born Dec. 11, 1879, at Morgan to the late Lars and Mary George and grew to womanhood there.

She was united in marriage to Jens Jensen on June 3, 1902 at Sleepy Eye and moved to Pennington county in 1919. They farmed here until they retired in 1949 and moved to this city, where she had since resided.

She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Morris (Ann) Jaranson, Mrs. W. L. (Sadie) Bugge, both of this city, Mrs. Donald (Sophie) Sevre of Minneapolis; Mrs. Louis (Myrtle) Johnson, Independence, Mo., and Mrs. Glen (Alyce) Sevre of St. Hilaire. She is also survived by two sons, Alfred of this city and Leonard of Minneapolis and two brothers, Harry George of Long Prairie and Elmer George of Morgan; 15 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents, husband, one son, one daughter, two grandsons, two granddaughters, one sister and three brothers.

Jennifer Hunt Interment Held Friday Morning

A Vigil prayer service was held Thursday evening at the Green Funeral chapel for Jennifer Ann Hunt, 13, and funeral services were held Friday, December 31, at St. Bernard's Catholic church. Rev. James Bernauer officiated with interment at the St. Bernard's cemetery.

Pallbearers were her four brothers, John, Thomas, Don and Jeffrey Hunt.

Jennifer Ann Hunt was born at Crookston on Aug. 25, 1958, and lived in Thief River Falls with her parents until June of 1969 when she was admitted to the state hospital at Brainerd where she had since resided.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Hunt of this city; two sisters; Mrs. James (Susan) Wickham of Amsterdam, New York, and Cherie at home; her four brothers; her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Albert Kriel, and paternal grandfather, Ralph N. Hunt, both of Thief River Falls.

She was preceded in death by her maternal grandfather and paternal grandmother.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Green funeral home.

Funeral Services For John Sande Held Thursday

Funeral services for John Sande, 70 were held Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Redeemer Lutheran church in this city. Rev. Phil Lathrop officiated and interment was made in the Greenwood cemetery.

John Sande was born July 24, 1901, in Helgeland township, Polk county, to the late Hans and Johanna Sande. He was baptized and confirmed in the Christian faith. In 1916 the family moved to the Thief River Falls community.

He was united in marriage to Ella Newman on Nov. 27, 1922, at Park Rapids and continued to farm in the Thief River Falls area.

In 1946 he moved to Erskine where he set up a business and in 1965 he returned to Thief River Falls and began operating the Sande Auto and Implement company which he still operated at the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife Ella; four sons, Rolland and Darrel of this city, Glenn of Minneapolis and Milton of Erskine; two brothers, Henry of Banning, Calif., and Clarence, Grand Forks; and one sister, Mrs. Clifford (Jenny) Schantzen of Red Lake Falls. He is also survived by 12 grandchildren and was preceded in death by his parents, three brothers and three sisters.

Pallbearers for John Sande were Robert, Steven, David and Peter Sande, Lawrence Schantzen and Ernest Newmann. Organist was Mrs. William Halbasch and Kenny Poole was soloist.

Life Insurance Co. Makes Predictions

The nation now has an opportunity to put its economic house in order, and "there is a chance," according to Dr. Charles Moeller, vice president and economist for Metropolitan life insurance company, "that 1972 can be one of the best years in U.S. economic history."

In a newly released report, "The Economy in 1972," Dr. Moeller cautions, however, that "this will occur only if all sectors of the economy, supported by sound monetary and fiscal policy, cooperate in helping to bring the new economic program to the successful conclusion sought by the government and the general public."

U.S. output of goods and services next year may reach $1,147 billion, compared with an estimated $1,053 billion in 1971, according to the company's business economics department. In current dollars, gross national product will advance by an unusually large nine per cent compared with an estimated 8.1 per cent raise in 1971. After allowance for expected price increases, the gain may be about 5.5 per cent in contrast to the sluggish three per cent raise estimated for this year.

The study goes on to state that all major sectors of the economy are in a position to expand substantially in 1972, and it is this expectation that largely explains the substantial 1972 increases projected for the overall economy. The gains will be relatively uniform compared with the more widely dispersed changes that took place in 1971 when private housing spurted, federal government purchases showed practically no increase, and business fixed investment showed a relatively small rise.

In the report, the economists discuss first the various aspects of the new economic program initiated by President Nixon on August 15 and then the major economic sectors.

NEP: Wages and Prices

While the wage-price freeze had the effect of substantially reducing inflationary expectations in all sectors of the economy, artificial wage-price restraint cannot indefinitely contain an inflation fueled by inappropriate monetary and fiscal action, the economists noted. Given proper monetary and fiscal support, our sights should be trained on substantial productivity improvements, from which the solid gains in real purchasing power will come, as well as on the long-run structural corrections required to insure a resumption of solid noninflationary economic expansion.

Nevertheless, considering the overall economic outlook, observed the economists, "the Administration goal of reducing inflation by 2 to 3 per cent by the end of 1972 seems optimistic."

NEP: Fiscal Actions

Coupled with the effects of the 1969 tax reform act, the overall impact of recent fiscal policy actions—the reinstatement of the seven per cent investment tax credit, the liberalization of capital cost recovery provisions for machinery and equipment under the asset depreciation range system, as well as other provisions of the legislation congress approved in acting on the administration's tax proposals—is moderately expansionary, with the stimulus timed to occur gradually over a period of several years. A much stronger fiscal stimulus, or one more heavily concentrated in any single year, would run the risk of excessive demand aggravated by huge federal budget deficits generating a new round of inflationary pressures.

Consumer Economy

The outlook for consumer spending in 1972, according to Metropolitan's economists, is for a good year but not for a spending spree. Total personal income is increasing at slightly less than seven per cent in 1971; it could rise by about eight per cent next year. For families of two or more persons, this means a rise in average money income before taxes to more than $12,000 in 1972—or nearly double what it was a decade ago. Naturally, the purchasing power of family income has not done nearly as well.

In 1971 total outlays for goods and services will expand to $666 billion, while next year an 8.5 per cent expected increase will carry the total to $722 billion.

Among the three broad sectors of consumer expenditures, durable goods may well show the sharpest percentage increase again in 1972, but by a much smaller margin over nondurable goods and services than this year.

Gross Private Domestic Investment

All investment sectors—business outlays for plant and equipment, residential construction, and business inventory change—are expected to show improvement next year.

Residential construction experienced a phenomenal year in 1971, with expenditures about one-third higher than in 1970 and private housing starts reaching a record 2.0 million, compared with 1.4 million a year earlier. The gains in 1972, not likely to be as spectacular, should show outlays up about 12 per cent and starts averaging around 2.1 million units.

Despite excess capacity in the economy, particularly in the manufacturing area, business capital spending should be up by more than seven per cent, and business inventory accumulation is likely to provide more stimulus to the economy next year.

Government sector

Government purchases of goods and services—federal, state and local—are expected to exceed $250 billion next year, a rate of expansion just over eight per cent and the highest in four years, according to Metropolitan Life. State and local purchases are estimated to rise by about $14 billion while federal purchases, after totaling just under $100 billion in each of the last four years, are estimated to rise by $6 billion in 1972.

After declining by almost $6 billion during 1970 and 1971, in total, national defense purchases are scheduled to rise next year in spite of a continuing withdrawal of U.S. forces from Indochina.

Labor Market Developments

The U.S. labor force exceeded 87 million in the third quarter of this year, including all segments of the work force, both civilian and military. The civilian force totaled about 84.5 million. About six per cent of the civilian labor force was unemployed.

Among the country's 150 labor market areas, the number of areas in the "substantial" unemployment category grew to 65 in October, representing the highest proportion of the major labor market areas so designated since late 1961. By November, 60 of these areas or 40 per cent had substantial unemployment. (In general, substantial unemployment is defined by the government as a six per cent or higher jobless rate which is expected to continue at least two more months).

The unemployment rate for married men, while running higher than it has been for a long time, was less than 3.5 per cent in the third quarter of this year, as well as in October and November. In fact, the rates for all adult men and women both averaged less than the national figure. Young people, on the other hand, continue to pose a severe problem. The unemployment rate among all teenagers from 16 to 19 years old is running about 17 per cent.

While the outlook for next year indicates some lessening of the overall unemployment rate as economic activity improves, it is unlikely that rates below five per cent can be expected, even toward the end of 1972, Dr. Moeller noted.

A MATTER OF LIFE OR DEATH

A MATTER OF LIFE OR DEATH has become the battle standard of the National PTA in its nationwide effort to alert youngsters to the hazards of smoking. More than ten million of the brochures which the children in this picture are reading have been distributed nationally during the National PTA's dynamic ongoing Smoking and Health Project. Supported by funds from the United States Public Health Service, the project has been operational for almost six years. During the period January 9-15, 1972, the National PTA has urged its members to participate in the observance of National Education Week on Smoking. As with all its major projects, the National PTA is accelerating its efforts on Smoking and Health in 1972 — the 75th anniversary of the founding of the organization. For more information, write to Mrs. Carolyn Hendrick, Project Director, Smoking and Health, National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Indian Dinner Will Be Served At Moorhead

Dinner featuring buffalo meat, wild rice, squash and cranberries, prepared under the direction of American Indians, will be held Friday at Moorhead state college as a main feature of an American Indian week program.

Tickets for the public dinner, to be served between 6 and 7 p.m. in MSC's Comstock memorial student union, are $3 each for adults and $1 each for children under 12 years. Tickets may be obtained by writing Box 6 at MSC or phoning 236-2109. Students from the Wahpeton Indian school will provide the dinner entertainment.

Preceeds from the dinner will be used to help establish an Indian cultural center in Moorhead that will encourage Indians of all ages in the Fargo-Moorhead area to recall and promote much of their heritage, according to representatives of the American Indian association at MSC.

The new association is prime organizer of the week-long program, which is bringing five widely-known Indian figures to the MSC campus for public and classroom appearances throughout the week.

Vine Deloria Jr., educator, spokesman and author, will be the main speaker at public convocations scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday in MSC's center for the arts and at 8 p.m. Thursday in Concordia's humanities auditorium.

Floyd Westerman, noted Indian folk singer, will present a public concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in MSC's center for the arts. Tickets at $2 each for this concert may be purchased at the MSC box office.

Informal discussion sessions with individual Indian leaders, also open to the public, are planned for 3 p.m. most days in MacLean hall 103 at MSC.

Dennis Banks, executive director of the American Indian Movement (AIM), headquartered in Minneapolis, is scheduled for such a discussion session Tuesday; Deloria on Wednesday; Roger Buffalohead, chairman of American Indian Studies at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, on Thursday and Will Antell of St. Paul, director of American Indian Education for the Minnesota department of education, on Friday.

Invite Students To Enter Science Awards Program

March 1, 1972, is the deadline date for submitting projects in the second annual "Tomorrow's Scientists and Engineers Awards Program." The awards program, open to all junior and senior high school students, was established in 1970 to encourage interest in science and engineering by recognizing and rewarding student research activities.

Sponsored by the National Science Teachers association, the Engineers' council for Professional Development, Scholastic Magazines, Inc., and the Humble Oil and Refining company, it is designed to involve the nation's youth in actively exploring ways in which science and engineering can help solve the problems facing society.

Awards in the program consist of 10 $6,000 national scholarships and 900 regional awards. The regional awards are distributed in equal numbers in grades 7-8, 9-10, and 11-12 and in each of 12 geographic regions. The national winners are selected from the twelfth grade regional winners.

To enter the awards program, students must submit an experimental or investigative project, or conduct an extensive field study, and submit a comprehensive and clearly written report of their findings. Students are encouraged to use the procedures of practicing scientists and engineers, conducting their work in a professional manner.

Recipients of the 10 national awards will be invited with their teachers to a three-day recognition program held next May in Washington, D.C. All winning entries are also eligible for publication in "Science World Magazine."

Entries must be submitted by first class mail and postmarked no later than March 1, 1972. Entry material and rules booklets may be obtained by teachers from Mrs. Dorothy K. Culbert, Program Director, T.S.E., c-o N.S.T.A., 1201 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Winnipeg Tour Is Scheduled By History Group

Group tour to Winnipeg, Man. is being arranged by the Red Riverland organization, a division of the Red River Valley historical society. A bus will leave Fargo-Moorhead at 10 a.m. January 14 and make a number of pick-up stops enroute, returning from Winnipeg on Sunday, January 16, at 1 p.m.

In Winnipeg the group will stay at the St. Regis hotel where a number of meetings and luncheon sessions are being planned. Topics will be international heritage tourism and travel, Red River carts and trails, general business and tours of Winnipeg.

Cost will be $27 per person round trip, including dinner Friday and Saturday evenings, Saturday continental breakfast and noon luncheon and Winnipeg tours and transportation. Other hotel and meal costs are to be handled individually, although arrangements are being made for a block of rooms at reduced rates.

The tour bus will leave Fargo-Moorhead at 10 a.m. January 14 and stop to pick up tour members at 10:30 a.m. at Halstad bus depot, 11 a.m. at Robert's cafe in Crookston, 11:30 a.m. at the Westward Ho motel in Grand Forks, 12:15 p.m. at Grafton high school and 1 p.m. at the Assumption church at Pembina. Arrival in Winnipeg is scheduled for 3 p.m.

Further information may be received from Don Myrold, director, Red River Heritage Tours, Minard Hall, North Dakota State University, Fargo, N.D. 58102.

SBA Rep Will Visit Bemidji

Wayne Hoganson, loan officer of the Small Business administration, will be in Bemidji on January 13 to visit with small businessmen interested in obtaining SBA loans, and other services.

SBA provides several services to small firms such as long-term financing along with their many management counseling programs. Most of the loans being made by SBA are under the guaranty plan where SBA may guarantee up to 90 per cent of a bank loan to a small firm.

Management counseling can be obtained from SBA staff members as well as from SCORE, which is an organization of retired business executives who serve on a voluntary basis. In addition SBA sponsors and conducts many management workshops, conferences and management seminars for owners of small firms. Also available are publications on many subjects related to business management.

More information about any of these programs can be obtained from SBA's Minneapolis office or by an appointment with Hoganson through the Bemidji Chamber of Commerce, Bemidji avenue and Third street, telephone 751-3540.

Less formal proof of marriage and birth is now acceptable to the Veterans administration on applications for benefits, the agency announced.

"Confession is good for the soul only in the sense that a tweed coat is good for dandruff—it is a palliative rather than a remedy." —Peter De Vries

Back To Work

The following editorial appeared recently in the Stephen Messenger:

It used to be popular to make New Year's Resolutions. We'd make them in all good faith, keep them awhile, and then let them fall by the wayside.

Suppose, for a moment, that all of us decided to make the same resolution for 1972—a resolution based on a philosophy recently expressed by President Nixon when he said: "Hard work is what built America, and it is time in this country that we demonstrate a new appreciation of work and what it means."

If every American pledged himself to work harder at his job, to give it all he's got, to turn out better products, to provide better service—think what it would mean to our economic well-being and general prosperity. Once again we would have pride in our jobs. We would have confidence in the things we buy, in the services we use.

And if the "let's go back to work" philosophy really took hold, the thousands and thousands of able-bodied Americans now on welfare would accept any job that comes along and stop refusing jobs they consider menial.

President Nixon had an answer for those people. He said: "I guess every job my father had was a menial job, but any job that puts food on the table and buys shelter and clothing and education for a man's family is not a menial job. Let's recognize that in America, one and for all. Let us recognize that the only thing demeaning in America is for one man to refuse to work and to let another man who does work pay taxes to keep him on welfare. Any work is preferable to welfare."

So, our resolve for 1972: Let's get back to work!

Political Ambition

Announcement of Mayor John Lindsay of New York that he will seek the Democratic Presidential nomination is another case of political ambition. His announcement was entirely expected and of no surprise to anyone, and he thus becomes one of a growing group of Democrats seeking the Presidential nomination.

In fact, the list of potential candidates is becoming so large that the party could almost pay off last election's multimillion dollar campaign debts if it imposed a surcharge of $100 a head on Presidential aspirants.

As news commentator Eric Sevareid noted in regard to the Lindsay announcement, it took the New York mayor 50 years to decide he was a Democrat and only four months to decide he should be that party's candidate for President. That's sort of like a Potestant joining the Catholic church at the age of 60 and hoping to be the next Pope.

Rural American will—and should—scoff at the Lindsay announcement. Rural people need Lindsay for President like sheep need wolves for shepherds. He apparently believes that the sun rises on the east side of New York City and sets on the west side of New York City, and the rest of the nation exists only for the urban mess to sprawl across. To Mayor Lindsay, if you aren't urban. . . . you aren't anything.

Well, Lindsay's political ambition may not be too harmful. His chance of getting the nomination is about as good as the chance of a pail of water staying liquid outdoors during a northern Minnesota winter. He probably will not even seriously affect the total Presidential picture, although he will capture more than his fair share of news ink and television film in the effort.

Those in the Democratic party will certainly to able to see through the thin veil of Lindsay's political switch and subsequent announcement. Compared to Lindsay's winning the Presidential nomination, we'd sooner bet on a lame horse to win the triple crown.

Formula Needed

Comment on the technicalities which permit convicted criminals to go free is contained in this editorial from the Walsh County Record at Grafton, N.D.

Because of various decisions of the so-called Earl Warren Supreme Court, prisoners convicted of crimes have been released from prisons all over the country in recent years.

A few days ago we read where a prisoner convicted of murder was set free after only two years of imprisonment because his confessions to police were not properly obtained. He himself said he was amazed.

One must move cautiously in opposing leniency, freedom or acquittal since the foundation of justice, on which our laws are based, is designed to give every shadow of the doubt to the accused. The principle involved is that it is preferable several guilty parties go free than one innocent victim wrongly imprisoned. It's an admirable principle few Americans would abandon.

After accepting this philosophy, however, one can still legitimately object to court actions that free criminals on technicalities. Applying rules of the Warren court to cases decided before Warren guidelines were known or accepted opened a pandora's box to enterprising attorneys. Retrial of many of those convicted of serious crimes is impossible and smart lawyers can find technical violations in a good percentage of earlier-day trials, based on new Warren court standards. Thus the guilty in recent years have often been freed on technicalities.

There is no way to stop the present process, nor would that necessarily be desirable, but one hopes the present Supreme Court can find a more acceptable formula for dealing with past technical violations in criminal trials so that the accused is given the benefit of every doubt but the public interest better and more sensibly protected.

For the Long Run

Following editorial appeared in the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Today a college diploma will not assure that its holder can find a good job.

Graduates in 1971 discovered that getting started in a career can be a difficult and slow task. Job opportunities in virtually all fields were down, even more than in 1970 when the bottom began to fall out of the job market for college graduates. Many big firms cancelled the agressive recruiting policies which had sent representatives to college campuses to sign the more promising graduates.

Workshops were held at some colleges to prepare graduates for searching for jobs on their own. Instead of being contacted in their senior years by eager firms, students had to wage their own campaign by mail and door to door visits at business places. Some accepted jobs in areas where they did not really wish to settle. Others started at salaries below the figure they had expected. Many took jobs in fields which are not their first preferences. Some are still without employment.

Better than average students who were willing to work anywhere did quite well. But some graduates were compelled to accept positions outside their major fields or to take part-time jobs while continuing to search for more desirable employment. An 80 to 90 per cent drop was reported in the number of jobs readily available to liberal arts graduates, for example. Demand for engineering graduates continued downward. Accounting remained the best field, but even in that area there were not as many jobs, and competition was keen.

Teachers found they often had to accept positions in rural areas or in inner-city schools where they did not really wish to start their careers.

Surveys reveal that starting salaries were generally about the same as in 1970 or only slightly higher. Average starting salaries were down from 1970 in some areas.

What about the future? It doesn't look rosy. But none of these problems minimizes the importance of a college education or of sound vocational training. If people who are well-educated have difficulty finding employment, it will be even more of a problem for those with less education. A college education will not assure anyone of the job he may have dreamed of for years. But it is still the best assurance that the graduate will have a chance in a constantly more competitive labor market. Although the job market of the 1960's for college graduates may not return, those who have a purpose and work hard in school and prepare themselves wisely will do well over the long run.

Cold Sober

The following "Ode to the Martini Drinker" was printed in Forest Abbott's column in the Baudette Region and may be appropriate just after the New Year's holiday:

Starkle, starkle little twink,
Who the heck you are I think;
I'm not under what they call
The alcofluence of incohol.
I'm not as drunk as some thinkle peep,
I'm just a little slort of sheep.
Really don't know who is me yet;
The drunker I stay here the longer I get.
So just one more to fill my cup—
I've all day sober to Sunday up!

Borrowed Nonsense

All of the men on a bus came suddenly alert one morning when a shapely young woman in a tight, knitted outfit came aboard.

She paid her fare and turned to walk to the rear of the bus but lost her balance when the vehicle began moving. As she grabbed for a seat to hold onto she missed—and gave one unfortunate guy a stiff whack across the forehead.

Embarrassed, the young woman started to apologize but the man stopped her cold when he said, "Don't worry, honey. For what I was just thinking, I deserved it."

Each week during the spring and summer, thousands of tourists visit Minnehaha park in Minneapolis. Here the gay, splashing, rippling waters of Minnehaha creek dash across the rocks, in a setting of picturesque trees and wild flowers, then drop over historic Minnehaha falls into a placid pool.

Rounding out the attractive setting is a life-size statue of Hiawatha and his beloved bride, Minnehaha. The bronze figures were created in 1893 by sculptor J. Fjelde, and bears this inscription from Longfellow's immortal poem: "Over wide and rushing rivers, in his arms he bore the maiden."

Although the official name of the park—Minnehaha state park—is a misnomer today, it was originally correct when the Minnesota state legislature set the land aside in an attempt to create a state park. Lacking funds to develop and maintain the area, however, the legislature's plans were abandoned.

In the late 1800's, a fledgling Minneapolis board of park commissioners urged the city to finance these costs and acquire the land. This was done, but the name was never been changed.

During the last dozen years or so, the city has spent about a half million dollars to make this famous park one of the nation's finest. Among the improvements are complete family picnic facilities, replanting of the lower valley and insuring a flow of water over the falls at all critical times of the year.

The entire area surrounding the park follows the Longfellow pattern. Near the site of the falls is beautiful Lake Nokomis, named for Hiawatha's grandmother. A short distance away is Hiawatha lake and Hiawatha golf course. Minnehaha and Hiawatha avenues lead to the falls and Wenenah Place is a peaceful avenue near the park.

Although Minnehaha park and its falls are visited most frequently during the summer, many believe them to be most beautiful during midwinter, and the trek of visitors continues on even the coldest winter day.

4-H CLUBS

Happy Acres

December meeting of the Happy Acres 4-H club was called to order by Vice President Nancy Finstad. Flag and 4-H pledges were said. Roll call was taken with responses being what the members wanted for Christmas. Treasurer's report was given and the secretary's report was read and approved.

Roland E. Waller, Chief
Thief River Falls Police Dep't.

With the winter season in full swing, it is time for me to talk a little bit on the snowmobile problem as it pertains to the citizens of Thief River Falls. You saw the article in last week's Times about the stronger enforcement that is being directed at "Sno-Cats" and their operators. There still seems to be much lack of knowledge on the restrictions.

Most of our complaints in town are in regard to the disturbances of the Cats being driven back and forth in residential areas. I know that with the many Sno-Cats in this city that they may seem to be going back and forth but are actually other ones coming from or going to open area. If the complaints keep coming in, the city may have to go to the complete forbidding of Cats within the city limits except as they are being hauled on a trailer. You, as an operator, should face up to this possibility and keep your street travel to the very minimum.

City ordinance requires the light to be on at all times on streets or alleys. This is being enforced. Speed must not exceed 15 miles per hour on a street or alley. I foresee some enforcement on the river as we have clocked some Sno-Cats going more than 70 miles per hour with our new radar set.

No one under 14 years old can drive on a street or alley and then only with a Certificate of Operational Knowledge. Remember that all traffic laws pertain to Sno-Cats and they must yield to all cars and pedestrians. No more than two persons may be on the seat. The business area downtown is forbidden territory except in an extreme snow emergency. Towing can only be done with a solid hitch, no ropes or chains, etc., and the towed vehicle must be reflectorized. No loud popping mufflers are permitted.

The Sno-Cat must be properly registered with the registration numbers affixed forward of the handle bars on each side of the cowling on the upper half of the machine. The numbers must be at least three inches high. Sno-Cats cannot be operated on highways such as 59, 32 or 1 except to cross, whether inside the city or out. Any accident involving injury or damage over $100 must be reported to the state.

Another very serious thing to remember is that the registered owner is responsible for a snowmobile operated contrary to the law. If you knowingly permit someone to violate the law, you may be held liable. If you have an under-age child that you let operate your machine, you may see an officer come to your door and give you a citation along with the one your child gets.

This past week we have seen at least four deaths of snowmobilers in the state and two very serious accidents right here in Thief River Falls. We call upon you to use good judgment in driving your Sno-Cat. I am surprised that we have not had more serious accidents as I view the careless actions of many sno-catters on the river in front of my home. I hope the next injury will not be to you.

Peanut Party Pastry

If you can't decide whether to serve pie or cake, why not serve them both? Choco-Peanut Cake Pie is easier to make than it is to say. It combines those flavor partners peanuts and chocolate in one glamorous dish. The result is a delightful dessert with the flavors you have loved since childhood. There's no better time to try this dessert than National Peanut Week, March 3-13, 1971.

Choco-Peanut Cake Pie

- Pastry for 9-inch, one-crust pie
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1½ ounces unsweetened chocolate
- ½ cup evaporated milk plus ½ cup water
- ½ cup chopped salted peanuts
- Salted peanuts (not chopped) and whipped cream for topping

Line a nine-inch pie pan with pastry. Trim and flute edges. Sift together sugar, flour and salt. Beat egg yolks until thick and stir into dry ingredients. Melt chocolate and stir into sugar and egg mixture. Combine milk and water and stir in. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold into batter. Fold in chopped peanuts. Pour into pastry-lined pan. Sprinkle a few peanut halves in a circle or other design on top of pie filling. Bake pie in a very hot oven (450°F.) for 15 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350°F. and bake about 30 minutes longer or until filling is firm in center. Cool. Top with whipped cream just before serving. Makes one 9-inch pie.

fidence, after the long siege of uncertainty of the past three years, should produce a definite pattern of business improvement.

It would be well not to expect an immediate return of boom conditions for the economy as a whole. The fight against inflation will require continuing vigilance and therapy, and with the large reservoir of idle productive capacity in American industry the task of paring unemployment will require patience. The Nixon Administration's economic program was not set forth as one which would produce deflation, but rather one which would restrain inflationary pressures sufficiently to create productivity gains and make for solid progress in the economy as opposed to the illusory gains of recent years when price inflation accounted for much of the advance. So, to the extent that inflation is curtailed, Babson's Reports forecasts that 1972 will emerge as a period of genuine achievement.

Less Worrisome Climate

The primary characteristic which the staff of Babson's Reports expects will mark 1972 and enable the economy to regain its forward thrust in the next twelve months is an anticipated easing in certain troublesome areas. The major labor groups are tied to multi-year contracts, and the next "go around" is not scheduled until 1973. Hence, on the labor front, it will be a year of relative quiet on the part of the major unions, whose walkouts can be quite debilitating to the economy. To further brighten the background picture for the coming year, we anticipate no real money and credit worries for the better part of 1972.

Even as demand for money and credit increases in pace with the projected improvement in economic activity, the monetary authorities are well situated to pump in additional credit to meet legitimate business needs, thus obviating the likelihood of another restrictive credit crunch. Corporate liquidity in general has been bolstered quite significantly during the past two years; thus, except for the marginal companies which have trouble securing credit under most circumstances, the threat no longer looms of businesses being pushed to the wall.

We must also remember that even though the tax incentives have been extremely slow in gaining congressional approval, it is very likely that initial benefits to the economy will be seen by the end of the first quarter of 1972. Moreover, the Administration will strive to impart more zip to the economy because of the national elections coming up in the fall of 1972. Probably one method will be to increase attempts to stimulate trade with hitherto restricted Communist countries. One thing is true, however—that the Nixon Administration in girding for 1972's elections does not have the latitude to stimulate the economy which other incumbent Administrations have had in the past, due to the grave budget deficit problem. Nevertheless, the healthier background climate prevailing should produce a greater willingness to spend on the part of consumers. Some pickup in retail trade surfaced in the later part of 1971, albeit on a spotty basis. Improved consumer demand, higher inventory requirements as a result of a more buoyant level of general business, and the incentive of the investment tax credit should bring management thinking around toward policies emphasizing the expansion of inventories and increases in capital spending.

The Iffy Features

At this juncture, there are some important iffy aspects to the 1972 outlook. As 1971 drew to a close, however, some of these vital issues did take a turn for the better. But until they are actually resolved, these adverse factors will exert some dampening influence on public sentiment. The most important change for the better was the monetary situation. The leading free world nations achieved a meeting of the minds and realigned their currency parities. The American dollar was devalued 8.57 per cent via an increase in the official price of gold, while stronger foreign currencies were revalued upward formally. On the other hand, it will require a little time to hammer out new trade agreements providing for a more equitable climate for American goods in foreign markets. Until the trade agreements are revised, foreign commerce will remain a tenuous area.

Another iffy area concerns the machinery of Phase Two. Will it be successful in keeping inflation in check, or do the generous concessions to labor in the initial rulings of the Pay Board portend an inevitable loss of effectiveness in the fight against inflation? Also, will labor groups revolt against the game plan and provoke widespread general strikes? For the record, we are hopeful that union leaders will bend enough to give Phase Two some latitude to operate.

A third area of uncertainty is of a military nature. We refer to the threat that one of the world trouble spots will suddenly lose its limited scope overnight and become the "cause celebre" in the jockeying for supremacy of the three major powers. There is adequate precedent in each of the now known tinder boxes, namely the Middle East, Southeast Asia, and India and Pakistan. Indeed, the list could well grow even longer if the rest of the Arab world should gang up on Jordan and if Northern Ireland becomes Britain's Vietnam. Let us hope the attempts of the Nixon Administration to establish rapport with Russia and Red China, the winding down of American participation in the Vietnam conflict, and our thus far resolute stance against being drawn into the Arab-Israeli "brink of war" problem will provide a calming influence and keep these trouble spots from becoming the breeding grounds for World War III.

Inflation Versus Deflation

The shift in Nixon's economic strategy last summer never did include a goal of deflating the economy. Rather, the object was to restrain the dangerous pace of inflation, which had been accelerating during 1969, 1970, and the first half of 1971. Therefore, once again the staff of Babson's Reports rules out deflation in the coming year. However, we no longer regard inflation as "Public Enemy No. 1" as we did in our forecasts for 1970 and 1971.

But it would be unrealistic to expect an equilibrium between inflationary and deflationary forces. Instead, what we look for is a moderate degree of inflation on both price and cost fronts. Buffers against a return to hyper-inflation are expected to be the monitoring on the part of the Federal Government and, for the better part of the year, the carryover of 1971's record farm production, plus the large reservoir of unused industrial productive capacity. One must remember also that despite the generous wage concessions to the coal miners, the railroad signalmen, and others, the major labor union contracts are going into either their second or their third years. In multi-year contracts, the labor cost increase is usually "front-end loaded," which means that almost half the total increment of the contract is granted in the first year, so that each of the succeeding two years has substantially smaller labor cost increases by comparison.

The most difficult area of inflationary potential which faces the country in 1972 is that of public finance. The Federal Government in the fiscal year which ends June 30, 1972 will find it hard to improve on the horrendous deficit of $23.2 billion for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1971. Indeed, unless Congress shows greater spending restraint, the federal budget is in jeopardy of "falling into the red" by well over $30 billion in this fiscal year. As the next fiscal year unfolds, President Nixon's inability to hold overspending to a tolerable level might haunt him and the Republican Party in the elections of 1972.

Dollar Devaluation

The devaluation of the American dollar near the end of 1971 took place pretty much in line with the expectations of the Babson's Reports staff, at 8.57 per cent in terms of the official price of gold. Moreover, the multi-national currency realignment process was pretty much what the Babson staff had anticipated, and the elimination of the 10 per cent surcharge on imports as a part of the effort to revitalize international commerce took place as expected.

The term "devaluation" implies the probability of a loss of public confidence, along with chaotic business and investment conditions. However, the American public has been conditioned to the prospect of devaluation in recent years, and more particularly over the past year or so. Therefore, since devaluation does not affect the value of consumer purchasing power here at home for domestically produced goods (the loss will be evident in higher prices for foreign goods shipped into this country, and less buying power for Americans traveling abroad), no traumatic or protracted turbulence greeted the devaluation. It is likely that more equitable trade agreements will be consummated which, with the beneficial aspects of the total currency realignment program should be a net plus factor for the American economy over the next few years. That is, the U. S. should gain a more equitable position in world trade, and also, since our burden of military assistance to the now well-to-do NATO nations is likely to be shared—albeit grudgingly—by those countries over which we have held a protective umbrella, the adverse trade and payments balances should post some improvement in 1972.

Building and Construction

The residential building picture "saved the bacon" for 1971. Strength was centered largely in housing and in heavy construction related to the generation of electric power. For all practical purposes, however, home building was the main show in the building field, with an average annual rate equivalent to 2 million units for 1971 compared with 1.4 million units started in 1970. Looking ahead, Babson's Reports forecasts that residential building will remain in the forefront of a high level of total building and construction activity. The chief ingredients for sustaining the building boom in housing should again be present during the year ahead: Money and credit for mortgage demand are ample; the cost of long-term credit has backed away somewhat from peak levels; and the rate of new family formations is definitely on the upswing. Indeed, the latter could be accentuated in 1972 if the improvement in business, employment, and personal income picks up as expected.

With the high level of home building expected to persist throughout 1972, the building materials, home furnishings and accessories, and appliance industries should enjoy brisk business in the year ahead. The housing sector of the economy packs a powerful wallop in terms of materials and manpower utilization, and in contributing flow-through strength to related industries. All in all, this will make for a stronger real estate market in the year ahead.

We look for non-residential construction to start slowly but gather steam as 1972 progresses. Because of the delay by Congress in implementing the 7 per cent investment tax credit, many businesses have had to "sit on their hands" when it came to large-scale capital expenditures. Furthermore, industrial activity will have to make quite a bit of headway before enough excess productive capacity is absorbed to make businessmen more expansion-minded.

Consumer Spending

The Babson staff forecasts a good increase in consumer spending for 1972. A beginning of the long-awaited revival in consumer spending was evident during the past year even though, for the most part, retail trade was sporadic and periods of promising gains could not be sustained. In addition, an inordinately high percentage of personal income went into savings in 1971, further fattening the backlog of buying power. With fewer major danger points in the offing, consumers should be much more willing to loosen their purse strings in 1972.

Increases over the past two years in personal consumption expenditures and private domestic investments in residential building have figured very prominently in lifting the American economy above the trillion-dollar gross national product mark. And, in 1972, the GNP should show a net gain approximating 8 per cent over 1971's figure in current dollar value, and about 5 per cent on a deflated basis.

Personal Income And Employment

The emergency freeze and the subsequent controlled economy slowed the upward trend of personal income. Not only were wages frozen, but the rent freeze restrained rental income of individuals and non-corporate entities, while investment income from dividends and interest likewise leveled off. In view of the generous awards approved by the Pay Board, we forecast a resumption of the uptrend in total personal income in the year ahead. Babson's forecast calls for gross personal income in 1972 to average about 8 per cent above that of 1971.

This will not all be the result of higher wage rates. Since the second quarter of 1971, total employment has had an upward bias. Unemployment followed a more or less sideways trend during the months of 1971. As economic activity gains strength, we look for employment to show more distinct betterment in 1972. There will be some progress along the line of reducing unemployment, but it will be difficult to shrink the jobless ranks below the 5 per cent unemployment rate by year-end 1972, according to estimates of Babson's Reports. Because the labor force is now in a period of accelerated growth, and the military is expected to reduce its manpower requirements further, the task of absorbing new entries into the labor market will be difficult.

Business Profits and Dividends

Babson's Reports forecasts a gain in after-tax profits approximating 10 per cent over 1971. Were it not for some examples of inequitable disparities between wage boosts over price hikes in the initial rulings of the Wage Board and the Price Commission, we probably would have projected a larger increase—say, somewhat in excess of 15 per cent. While profit margins will be controlled, there is still room for net corporate profits to show progress. This is because a rise in business volume and the benefits of some rather stringent cost-reduction programs enacted over the past two years will permit many corporations to pull down some of the increment in revenues to the profit figure. Also, those companies which had suffered poor earnings in one or two of the past three years can raise prices in order to allow depressed profit margins to assume a healthier status without violating the guidelines.

The ceiling on dividend increases imposed upon corporations which had been disbursing a higher-than-normal rate of cash dividends will, naturally, limit the progress of income for investors. This is another area in which 1972 and its anticipated economic improvement will differ from other years of business rebound. The limitation on dividend increases will not act entirely to the detriment of investors because many corporations will have no alternative but to plow back more earnings into the business. This will augment their liquidity, further shore up working capital, and enhance capabilities for acquisition, expansion and modernization programs.

Taxes

Taxpayers should experience at least a small degree of relief at the Federal level on income taxes during 1972. However, part of this advantage will undoubtedly be negated at the state and municipal levels, personal property, and sales on products and services. But it will be nip and tuck even at the Federal level, unless the improvement in business brings a sudden expansion of revenues from taxes, and unless Federal expenditures can be reduced from currently projected lofty rates. The odds are that, in view of election-year considerations, the danger of a Federal income tax boost will be greater in 1973 than in 1972. For corporations, restoration of the investment tax credit will yield some tax advantage at the Federal level. In summary, we expect recently enacted tax relief measures to provide some benefit for both individual and corporate taxpayers.

Bond Market Outlook

The decline during 1971 was abrupt for short-term money rates, but more gradual at the longer end of the maturity scale. Inasmuch as the economic profile for 1972 is viewed by the Babson staff as one in which the ascent is likely to be solid but gradual, it is not likely that the demand for money and credit will be voracious. But we look for short-term money rates to remain near current levels initially and then exhibit firm-to-higher moves as 1972 progresses. Longer-term interest rates will reflect continuing heavy capital needs at the Federal, state, and local government levels.

Bond prices, therefore, should show some further firming as 1972 unfolds, but any additional increase is likely to be quite limited. Indeed, possibly after midyear, there will be signs of a tightening in credit supplies. Thereafter, the bond market may anticipate a turn back upward in interest rates. Just how much ground bond prices will give up depends upon the degree of inflationary psychology and the vigor in business capital spending in the second half of 1972. Therefore, while yields on bonds and preferred stocks are considerably lower than at the height of the credit crunch of 1969-70, investors will have a generally favorable climate for making investments in good-quality fixed-income securities.

However, because inflation is likely to persist in 1972, albeit at a restrained pace, those investors who are not obliged to seek the highest current yield possible (safety of principal and income included) may be better off to place some of their funds in convertible securities. As the new year makes its debut, there is still a goodly supply of bonds and preferred stocks which have the conversion privilege and which offer the investor a little better income than common stocks. But his opportunity may not be present for long. As stock prices advance, these convertible securities take on greater value, and as their market prices increase, the percentage yields which are available to investors naturally decrease.

Stock Market Outlook

Babson's Reports is looking for a good year for the stock market in 1972. The advance which began just after Thanksgiving Day 1971 should be extended in the year ahead, although correction phases are to be expected. Barring some unforeseen major development, such as a radical degeneration of international conditions, the Dow Jones Industrial Average can mount yet another challenge to the previous all-time high near the 1,000 mark. Indeed, chances are that the previous top can be pierced as the stock market marches toward its high for the year, with the peak coming sometime in either the latter part of the summer or the fore-portion of the fall season.

Right now, the bargain counter is still laden with attractive buys in common stocks of all varieties. One can find an array of good-quality growth stocks, rebound situations for capital appreciation, and speculative situations at varying prices. Naturally, as previously mentioned, with the favorable prospects for building, stocks of companies which stand to benefit from the home building boom are among the attractive buys for 1972. Nor should investors overlook the companies which stand to benefit from the investment tax credit. These include manufacturers and purchasers of trucks and truck transportation equipment. The farm equipment companies can also benefit from this "tax break", and considering the excellent farm year of 1971, demand for agricultural equipment should be turning upward after a long downtrend. Other groups of stocks which should reflect better sales and profits in 1972 include chemicals, containers, pollution and waste control, and those which have participation in the medical equipment lines. Remember also that the role of consumer spending looms important over the coming year. Therefore, many retail, food, and apparel stocks represent good candidates for capital appreciation.

Boschwitz Reviews Domestic Policies

by Rudy Boschwitz,
Minnesota Republican
National Committeeman

President Nixon's domestic policy sure doesn't satisfy everybody. That is not only the way it should be—but always will be—no matter who is President or what his party is.

Many Republicans feel that people have come to rely too little upon themselves and too much upon government. Not surprisingly, politicians promise more and more, deliver more and more, by spending more and more, and the government bureaucracy gets bigger, at a faster growth rate than either the population or the economy.

Yet if people are asked about the President's domestic policy, they often respond by asking: "Well, what's he done?" He's done a lot.

The Economy And Unemployment

Somehow presidents are supposed to be omnipotent. They are supposed to stop wars, discharge veterans, close down military-industrial complexes and yet keep full employment.

During President Nixon's three years in office, a war has been wound down, millions of veterans discharged, defense jobs eliminated, and the economy changed from war to peace time. Many hardships have developed.

Despite this, unemployment during the Nixon years has hovered around six per cent, a lower level than during President Kennedy's three-year term.

Most importantly Prsident Nixon's Phase I and II has finally cut the rate of inflation in half—a tremendous accomplishment. Talk today is no longer based upon lack of confidence in the economy; rather, talk today is that Phase II is not being stringently enough enforced.

To halt inflation people are willing to sacrifice, and most people appear to have confidence in Phase II if it will be uniformly enforced.

The fact that our economy has difficulties shouldn't come as a great surprise nor be terribly discouraging. No one has yet found a way to uninterrupted growth and prosperity. Economic disturbances are most common when the transition is made from war to peace. The most dramatic part of the President's economic moves is not the domestic wage and pricing freeze, but rather his absolute sparkling (though complex) moves in foreign trade. These culminated in the first major devaluation of world currencies since World War II.

For 25 years our country has defended most of the free world at tremendous costs. We created competitiors for our own industry. We helped squeeze our own economy, and our domestic inflation did the rest by pricing our goods out of the world market. On top of that we even allowed other countries unrealistic advantages through monetary exchange rates.

We finally took a strong stand and the advantages to our economy will be many. Before this new policy, foreign aid goods were unrealistically cheap in the United States while our own goods were unrealistically expensive overseas and at home when compared to the imports.

Of course the Democrats criticized. "It should have been done a long time ago," they said. They're right. They should have done it themselves because basically President Nixon was undoing problems they created. But it wasn't an easy thing to do. We took money out of the pockets of other countries. So the President ran the risk of upsetting our foreign relations and starting a trade war. But he pulled it off like a master. Our employment picture will surely benefit.

The Democrats also say the whole thing is just good for business, not people. Sheer bunk. If creating jobs and a sound economic situation is the charge—then Republicans plead guilty.

Human Resources

For the first time in 20 years the budget provided more dollars for human resources than for military purposes.

Environment—A strengthening and refinancing of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) with expanded programs for water treatment facilities, land acquisition for parks and wilderness areas, national air quality standards, plus control of pesticides.

Social Security—Raised 10 per cent this past year. And a needed measure for people who have been caught in the inflationary spiral. It also sensibly allows people to earn up to $2,000 (raised from $1,680) without losing Social Security benefits.

Hunger—Fighting hunger and malnutrition are basic requirements in the food stamp program increasing participants from 2.9 million in 1968 to 10.5 million this year. School lunch programs have more than doubled. Ten thousand nutrition experts now work in low income communities. In 1968 there were none.

Crime—The Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1970 (plus other ligislation and a renewed determination to enforce the law) has slowed the upward trend of crime by half. Every major city in the United States experienced the smallest increase in crime since 1965. Aggressive steps are under way to halt the inflow of drugs from abroad. (50 per cent of all crime is drug related).

Minorities—Black Americans and other minorities have benefited from better employment opportunities—a basic Nixon approach to real achievement of equal rights. The Philadelphia Plan to insure fair employment in federal construction projects raised minority employment from 2 per cent to 15 per cent in Philadelphia. The Supreme Court finally approved the plan and it is spreading nationwide. Minority employment by the federal government increased during a period when total federal employment decreased. In 1971, 3.2 million of 3.7 million minority children in 11 Southern states were in desegregated schools; in 1969 the figure was 500,000.

Welfare—The President called this "workfare" rather than "welfare" and he considers it "the most important piece of domestic legislation in 34 years." The bill has passed the House and is awaiting Senate action. It encourages work; indeed there are work and training requirements. Also it levels out the wide variation in welfare payments from state to state to prevent migration of welfare recipients.

Agriculture And Rural Developments

Today's feed grain prices make some of the farm situation look temporarily discouraging—and reflect the basic farm industry's problem—over production. There are many bright spots. When the Nixon administration took office, agriculture exports were in the second straight year of decline. They have been going up ever since and have reached a record 7.7 billion in fiscal 1971 with improved prospects ahead.

The December 27 issue of Times Magazine says about the President's new foreign economic policy: "Aemerican farmers stand to reap some of the biggest gains."' American farm products will be 8 per cent to 17 per cent cheaper all over the world. Midwest farmers should do well because half our soybean crop is exported plus many feed grains and other products.

Many Republicans are seeking a revitalization of rural areas by getting the government involved not so much in spending but in expanded low interest loans or loan guarantees to business firms that locate there. Creating jobs in rural America is absolutely basic. And if that is good for business too, we Republicans plead guilty again. Because if what's good for business creates jobs, we are for it.

And So It Goes

You should become involved in the political process. It is fun, fascinating, rewarding, and regretfully so few people participate that those who do can get ahead.

Remember what Winston Churchill said: "Politics is too important to be left to the politicians."

Interstate Road System Saves Lives

Modern highway design is proving to be an important saver of lives and property damage, Minnesota Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said today.

He cited a recent study by the United States department of transportation which estimates that by 1975 the present 41,000 miles of interstate highways will effect an annual saving of approximately 7,500 lives, 347,000 injuries, and $250 million in property damages.

"This estimate is based upon the improvement in accident rates on the interstate system compared with the highways they replace. Additional savings will be provided by the 1,500 miles of interstate routes added to the system since the study was begun, and by the upgrading of other highways to freeway standards," he pointed out.

"The contribution of interstate engineering to accident prevention is illustrated by the change in the accident patterns when an interstate highway replaces a conventional two-lane highway. The study shows that the head-on collision, which accounted for more than 12 per cent of all rural accidents on the pre-existing highways now accounts for only 2.6 per cent. The single-vehicle accident has become the most numerous on rural interstates while the relatively less severe rear-end collision has become most numerous on urban segments, where congestion is a big factor."

He said the study showed a 76 per cent reduction of fatalities on urban and a 43 per cent reduction on rural interstates over the highway segments they replaced. The total accident rate was reduced 30 per cent on urban and 44 per cent on rural interstates.

"These figures were developed in a 40-state study in which Minnesota participated. While we don't have separate figures on the Minnesota experience, we believe that our record is as good as the average, if not better. Our interstate fatality rate in 1970 was 1.11 per 100 million miles of travel, compared with 5.81 on the state trunk highways and 4.41 on all roads."

If being broke is making you sad, make some "dough" with a Times' Classified Ad.

Green Revolution Poses Conflict In U.S. Policy

United States government could be torn between policies to promote the "Green Revolution" and to protect domestic grain prices, according to University of Minnesota agricultural economists James P. Houck and Mary E. Ryan.

Dramatic increases in farm production, called the Green Revolution, result from the use of new seed varieties and new combinations of water, fertilizer and other factors. This sudden large farm volume is straining local grain markets in developing countries, where inadequate storage and internal transportation systems exert pressure to export excess grain supplies even through critical shortages exist elsewhere within these countries.

Houck and Ryan said lower demand for food aid and periodic exports from developing countries increase competition in world food grain markets, cutting deeply into export markets of the United States, Canada and Australia. Lower world prices reflect the dwindling international market for food grains, particularly wheat.

These short-term problems *could subside as per capita in*comes grow in developing nations, resulting in stimulation of the demand for feed grains, soybeans and high protein, hard bread wheats.

To alleviate the apparent conflict between the Green Revolution and domestic farm income protection, the United States might devote more of its limited foreign aid and technical assistance to the establishment of stronger, more flexible markets and market institutions in nations with major grain production increases, they added.

A feasible short run policy for this country would be to continue to restrain production of food grains at home, especially low quality wheat, whithin the limits of politically-acceptable federal budget expenditures. Also, production controls likely will be continued in some form or another in Canada and Australia, Houck and Ryan said.

Based on the experience in the United States, more expensive programs to hold acreage out of food grains or divert it to other use will meet strong resistance from consumers, taxpayers and government fiscal agencies.

The United Kingdon's entry into the European Economic Community (EEC) may take some pressure off the food grain surplus problem inside the expanded EEC, but it will add to the problem of narrowing markets faced by the United States and other outsiders, the economists said.

Give Pointers For Driving In Minn. Winters

Worst part of yet another of our infamous midwestern winters is just around the next chilly corner. As we bundle up more and more and brace for the biting cold and blowing snow, there is some looking ahead that should be done.

For one thing, if we keep in mind that distant image of what lies in store when warmer weather returns, we may be better off psychologically. If we tend to our autos and driving habits, we may come out ahead financially and physically.

Insurance information institute offers the following suggestions for a safer motoring winter for Minnesota residents. More than 22 billion miles were traveled over the state's 127,000 miles of roads and streets in 1970. One result was that 983 lives were lost in Minnesota traffic accidents, many during winter months. Better preparation of cars and more careful driving might have cut down on not only the death toll but injuries and property damage as well.

To begin with, says the institute, safety starts with the equipment. Prevention is preferable to patching things up after an accident. Items to check include brakes, snow tires or, in non-urban locales, chains, radiator antifreeze, wiper blades, windshield washer antifreeze solvent, ignition system, battery and cable contacts, lights, heater and defroster.

Consider carrying in the car a snow brush and ice scraper, battery booster cables, a short handled shovel, a bag of sand or rock salt, and a flare or two.

Traction can be improved by letting four or five pounds of air out of the rear tires. Water in the fuel line can be reduced by keeping the gas tank full. Exhaust fumes can be prevented by having a tight exhaust system and opening a window slightly.

The best winter accident prevention plan is to stay off the road if at all possible and use public transportation when feasible.

When you must drive, the institute points out, be wary of bridges, which tend to freeze before the road surface, and intersections made slick by continual stopping and starting.

Adjust your speed to conditions. Remember that, for example, at 20 m.p.h., it can take four times the distance to stop on loosely packed snow as on dry pavement, and eight times the distance on glare ice.

For slowing down, apply gentle pressure on the brake pedal. If you must stop fast, "pump" the brakes—on and off—so the front wheels can turn to keep your car going straight. If you find yourself in a skid, the usually recommended procedure is to take your foot off the gas pedal and steer in the direction in which the rear of the car is skidding. When your tires either regain a grip on the road, or the car stops, the wheels should be straightened.

Winter's shorter days and reduced visibility require extra alertness not only for other vehicles but for pedestrians as well. Youngsters, especially, often walk in the street when road shoulders and sidewalks are either snowed in or plowed under.

To see and be seen better, wipe both headlights and taillights clean, often. Brush the snow and scrape the ice from side and rear windows as well as from the windshield. Use your defrosters. Wipe off both the outside and inside mirrors occasionally. When driving in fog, sleet or heavy snow, use your low-beam headlights to reduce glare.

By driving with more caution and less speed during our midwestern winter, you will be doing your part not only to cut down on loss of life, limb and property but, concludes the institute, you will be helping to keep auto insurance rates as reasonable as possible.

Pay Increase Reported For National Guard

Over 12,000 Minnesota National Guardsmen and prospective members of the guard recently received notice that effective November 14 all enlisted men and junior officers will receive more pay for their weekly or monthly drill periods.

Major General Chester J. Moeglein, Minnesota adjutant general, stated that, "The increase in pay, which varies from 10 per cent for first lieutenants to 100 per cent for privates, will not only assist the guard in retaining many of its trained members, but will also assist in drawing prior servicemen and interested non-prior service personnel into the ranks of the Guard."

The adjutant general stated, "The federal mission of the National Guard, which is to be available as a backup force for our active Army in the event of need, has become even more important now that the active forces have shifted to a greater reliance on volunteers, and a much greater reliance on the National Guard and Army reserve in the defense plans of our country."

National Guardsmen presently attend a total of 48 paid drill assemblies and one 15-day annual field training period each year. Prior to this wage increase, newly enlisted guardsmen received approximately $18.00 for a Saturday and Sunday drill period. He now receives approximately $36.00 for the same period. All enlisted pay grades have received a substantial increase, the largest going to the previously underpaid private.

In addition to this wage increase, benefits such as quarters and subsistence allowances for Guardsmen on qualifying periods of active duty have been greatly increased.

General Moeglein stated, "We in the Minnesota National Guard expect this pay increase to assist us to a great degree in retaining our combat effectiveness, and also in accomplishing our State mission as a trained and equipped force available to our State to preserve life and property in the event of disasters."

Lincoln Wrestlers Travel To Roseau

Ed Krystosek's Lincoln high school wrestling team will begin the second half of its 1971-72 mat season tomorrow night (Tuesday) when the Prowlers travel to Roseau for a dual meet against the Rams.

The Prowlers stand 2-4 in dual meet competition over the first portion of their season with wins over Oklee (33-24) and Warren (42-9). The losses have come at the hands of Fertile (27-17), Crookston (39-17), Bagley (35-20) and Greenbush (29-25). The squad also took part in the Sioux Invitational where it placed fourth with 51 points.

At Roseau the Prowlers will be facing two champions from the recent Ada Invitational meet. Doyle Grindahl (145) and Mike Grahn (180) both won individual titles at Ada while Dale Jaenicke (98) and Bob Hedlund (115) placed second.

Following the Roseau match, the Prowlers will take part in the Grand Rapids Invitational January 8, host Park Rapids January 11, travel to East Grand Forks January 20, host Bemidji January 25, travel to Ada February 3, take part in the Northwest Conference meet February 5, host Mahnomen February 8 and take part in the district 31 tournament February 12. The region eight meet will be held at Bemidji February 18.

Pool Schedule

Mon., Jan. 3—7-8 open swimming, 8-9 couples lessons.

Tues., Jan. 4—7-8 open swimming, 8-9 ladies lessons.

Wed., Jan. 5—7-8 open swimming, 8-9 ladies lessons.

Hockey Meeting Scheduled Wed.

An organizational meeting for men's hockey will be held Wednesday, January 5, at 8 p.m. in the office of the park and recreation department, located in the basement of the city auditorium. All interested parties are urged to attend.

Franklin Teams See Game Action

Franklin junior high school basketball team will be out to improve on its 1-2 record tomorrow afternoon (Tuesday) when the Spartans host Bemidji in the Lincoln high school gym, starting at 4 o'clock.

The Spartan wrestling team is in action this afternoon with a dual meet at Crookston.

Winter Ski Trip More Hazardous Than The Slopes

"Whoever said that 'getting there is half the fun' never drove through a blinding snow storm or inched his way up an icy mountain highway to go skiing," says Ross G. Wilcox, executive secretary of the safe-winter driving league.

"Unfortunately, that beautiful white stuff that makes skiing possible can make driving virtually impossible. Many a ski trip has been utterly ruined by miserable driving conditions, or worse yet, by a traffic accident enroute," he said. "Traffic tie-ups and skid-wrecks can make the most ardent skier wish he'd stayed home."

He pointed out that few skiers are deterred by bad weather. Once a trip has been planned, the real ski buff is going ahead, the more snow the better! So the only sensible answer lies in advance trip preparation, making sure your car is ready for the worst that winter may have to offer. This means more than the usual "winterizing" and tune-up. It means paying special attention to your vehicle's traction equipment—tires, snow tires and tire chains—and emergency equipment.

"At the very least," said Wilcox, "be sure your tires have good treads. Good treads are important at any time of year, but especially when driving on snow and ice. Better yet, for pulling through snow, conventional snow tires offer a substantial improvement, although they are of little or no help in stopping on glare ice, according to tests by the National Safety council's committee on winter driving hazards."

For the ultimate in winter traction, the council's tests have shown that reinforced tire chains far out-perform anything else. They provide from four to seven times the pulling ability of regular tires for climbing icy grades or pulling through deep snow. It's a good precaution to take the tire chains along.

Finally, he recommended giving the trunk a "safety check" before heading for the slopes. "Be prepared for an emergency situation that could develop. Your check-list of emergency items should include a shovel, a bucket of sand or rock-salt, a tow chain, blankets, battery booster cables, tire chains, flares and emergency lighting equipment with fresh batteries.

"Good equipment combined with common-sense driving can help skiers to get their thrills on the slopes instead of the highways," Wilcox concluded.

University Prof Number One Fan At Gopher Games

by Judy Vick
University News Service

Win or lose, the Gophers can count on their No. 1 fan at the University of Minnesota, Harold Deutsch.

The 67-year-old history professor hasn't missed a home football game (when he's been in the city) since he joined the Minnesota faculty in 1929—and he has never left a game early.

He is also an ardent basketball and hockey fan and claims he would rather watch the Gopher baseball team than the Minnesota Twins.

An internationally recognized expert on World War II and Germany, Deutsch may also be the university's number one teacher. He hasn't missed a class in all his years on the faculty. (He tapes lectures in advance when he plans to be out of the city.) And within the last year he received two of the university's top awards for teachers—the Standard Oil Foundation-Horace T. Morse award for outstanding contributions to undergraduate education and the college of liberal arts distinguished teaching award.

Deutsch's history class in World War II, not required for any major, is the most popular elective on campus. His former students include many state department officials who are now located in embassies throughout the world and such well known figures as Governor Wendell Anderson, former Senator Eugene McCarthy and University President Malcolm Moos.

A native of Milwaukee, Deutsch accepted his first teaching position at Minnesota after receiving degrees from the University of Wisconsin and Harvard university. Next year he will retire at the mandatory age of 68 and he has already accepted a position for one year with the National War College in Washington, D.C.

Deutsch's reputation as a World War II scholar is well-earned and widespread. He is the author of several books on the subject and is currently working on another, to be titled "The Origins of the Military Conspiracy Against Hitler." During his years on the Minnesota faculty he has spent summers, vacations and an occasional leave of absence working in Europe or for the federal government.

During World War II he served as head of the European axis section of the board of economic welfare. He was chief of political research for Europe, Africa and the Mideast for the office of strategic services for three years and in the summer of 1945 was a member of the state department's special interrogation

The greeting card industry is receiving competition from talented amateurs forsaking packaged messages for do-it-yourself sentiments. One popular idea is the grow-your-own card. Buy a plant, and attach the message to the flower pot. Leave it on a friend's doorstep for a "personal" telegram. Sending a group card? Have everyone record his wishes on bright-color index cards. Hold them together with Scotch transparent tape for an accordion-style greeting. Feeling super creative? Cut out your message from different size types (find them in newspapers, magazines), tape it down with transparent tape and you have an original. When your card is so special, you don't even have to send a gift!

Army Makes ROTC Grants More Available

More money and additional scholarships are now available to help students get their college education under the Army ROTC program in this area, according to Col. Roy W. Burley, chief of the ROTC division at Headquarters Fifth U.S. Army.

Opportunities for more students to win valuable Army ROTC scholarships opened up on Nov. 24 when President Nixon signed into law two bills—one to increase the number of scholarships offered and the other to double the monthly subsistence allowance.

The scholarship law, increases the ceiling of Army ROTC scholarships throughout the nation from 5,500 to 6,500. There are now 1,730 students attending college on Army ROTC scholarships from the Fifth Army area including Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and Wisconsin.

For the first time and new law permits up to 20 per cent of the scholarships to be granted to students in the two-year program. These are junior college graduates and students of four-year colleges who have not taken Army ROTC during their first two years.

The subsistence law doubles the ROTC subsistence allowance from $50 to $100 per month for 10 months of each academic year.

Advanced course cadets and students attending college on ROTC scholarships will have their new $100 a month subsistence allowance made retroactive to November 14, the day the government lifted its tempory freeze on wages and prices.

Each scholarship pays the tuition, text book and laboratory fees for each academic year during the length of the scholarship. At expensive universities the four-year scholarship may be worth upward of $2,500 a year, or $10,000 over the four years until graduation.

Photos Can Aid In Claiming Insurance Loss

What must you provide to an insurance company to prove your loss of personal property?

Here is the answer, according to the insurance information institute: reasonable proof of ownership, value and condition of the property. This applies whether your loss was caused by burglary, hold-up, fire or any other insured cause.

Suggestion for helping the insurance company (and yourself) in this matter is to have pictures of your valuable property and possessions. Photos can supplement the written inventory, which definitely should be kept. This record includes date, place and amount of purchase and should be supported by a paid receipt or, sometimes, an appraisal. Serial numbers and other identifying features also should be entered in the record.

Whether you live in a home, apartment or elsewhere, you are likely to have valuable personal property. This might include sterling, paintings and other works of art, china, crystal, collections and other possessions which can be substantiated by a photographic inventory.

Insurance information institute points out that most people can easily take flash or "available light" photos with either balck-and-white or color film using their family cameras. Several pictures taken from different angles will give a better idea of what the property looked like on all sides. The photos should bear the date taken.

Should you suffer a loss due to robbery or break-in, such photographs are helpful to police in their recovery attempts. In addition, property lost or damaged by fire or in some other way is more readily evaluated by claims adjusters when they are assisted by visual support.

Institute suggests that such photos, along with the negatives, if any, and the written inventory, be kept away from your home. This might be a safe deposit box, or the file might be given to the family's insurance broker or agent for safekeeping.

Remember that a "register-on-film" is not a substitute for a conscientiously gathered inventory, however, but only supplements it. Hopefully you will never need either one.

Symbolic Signs To Be Adopted For Highways

Federal department of transportation today issued a release formally notifying the public that the United States is implementing an international-type system of traffic control devices, which emphasizes pictures and symbolic signs more than written messages. The Minnesota highway department already has plans for the replacement of existing signs with the new signs.

Exp. ned federal highway administrator F. C. Turner:

"While symbolic signs are not entirely new—curve and cross-road symbols have been in use for some time—symbols have several advantages over workd messages. They provide almost instant communication with the driver, since they can be understood at a glance without having to be read. Another important advantage, in view of the growth of international travel, is that they overcome language barriers. Familiarity with the symbolic signs will help Americans traveling abroad, as well as foreign visitors to the United States."

The change will be gradual, announced DOT. States and local communities have until 1973 to implement pavement marking requirements, until 1975 for signs and until 1977 for signals. As the new symbol signs are introduced, companion word message also will be used until the public becomes accustomed to them.

Under the signing system, colors will have important significance. Red indicates stop or a prohibition; green shows movement permitted or gives directional guidance; blue is for signs leading to motorist services; yellow indicates a general warning; black and white is used for regulatory signs such as those for speed limits; orange conveys construction and maintenance warnings; and brown is for public recreation and scenic guidance.

The shapes of signs are also significant. Diamond shaped signs signify a warning; rectangular signs with the longer dimension vertical provide a traffic regulation; and rectangular signs with the longer dimension horizontal contain guidance information. An octagon always means stop; an inverted triangle means yield; a pennant means no passing; and a pentagon shows the presence of a school.

In pavement markings, yellow will be used much more than in the past. Yellow lines will delineate a separation of traffic flow in opposing directions. The center line on two-way roadways will be dashed yellow to differentiate from the dashed white lines used on multilane one-way roadways. This will warn drivers who leave one-way roadways that traffic will be opposing them to the left of the yellow line. Other uses of yellow will include occasional left edge-lines on divided roadways where traffic cannot pull entirely off the roadway, and for the marking of obstructions and islands which must be passed on the right.

EVANGELIST WILL SPEAK TUESDAY

Evangelist Arthur Mueller of Fergus Falls will speak at a gospel service to be held in the Fireside meeting room at Noper's motel Tuesday at 7:30. The service is non-denominational and is open to the public.

AAA Calls For Change To No Fault Insurance

A change in Minnesota's automobile insurance system has been called for by the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) at its 65th annual meeting in Bloomington.

Directors of the 360,000-members motoring organization voted to support the concept of no-fault insurance which has now been adopted in various forms by five states.

The AAA group said the majority of motorists today feel that automobile insurance premiums are much too high and that the present system is not only inefficient, but often unfair.

It called upon the state legislature to "enact an auto insurance compensation system based on the principle that certain damages sustained in automobile accidents should be recoverable without regard to fault and, at the same time, preserve the individual's right to legal recourse for recovery of damages beyond that which the new system would provide".

The AAA plan advocates that basic benefits such as compensation for economic loss, costs of medical care, hospitalization and wage losses should be made within prescribed limits to the injured person by his insurance company without regard to fault.

The AAA plan also calls for establishing reasonable limitations for pain and suffering and regulations which would limit all costs in auto accident cases to a reasonable level.

In another significant action, the AAA group called for a new approach to the financing of mass transit in urban areas. It advocated a single governmental agency, such as a department of transportation, with authority to coordinate, plan and develop all elements of transportation in the state.

It further advocated that the state recognize its share of the urban transportation problem by establishing a program which would match state funds with those raised locally for transit, dollar to dollar.

Local levels of government, it said, should be authorized by the legislature to raise local funds for tansit by a choice or combination of several taxes. . .including a local sales tax, a piggy-bank income tax, an employers tax, and a household tax.

C. L. Bowar, director of public affairs for the association, said it was the feeling of the association's 50-man board of directors that the entire state has a stake in the development of good public transportation in the state's major communities. Hence, the concept of a financing partnership to raise adequate funds.

The association also called for completing the basic freeway systems in major population areas as soon as possible. This, it said, "would eliminate much of the traffic congestion which now prevails in the central business district and would give planners a clearer assessment of the priorities for other components in a complete transportation system".

The motoring group also called for immediate action in developing a high level of bus transit service "so available to large segments of the public and so efficient in providing reduced travel time, that a substantial number of citizens will find transit a more acceptable alternative then the use of their private passenger car, particulary during the morning and evening rush hours".

Newly elected as president of the association is Frank W. Kasper of Fairmont, Minnesota.

Unknown Hearing Losses Can Be Physical Danger

"Undetected hearing losses not only cause inconvenience and embarrassment, but also can place the victims in physical danger," according to David Smith, director of the crusade for hearing conservation.

The crusade, sponsored by an electronics corporation, is designed to make persons aware of the vital need for meaningful hearing conservation programs.

As examples of how an undetected hearing loss can place a person in physical danger, Smith pointed out that a child can be taught to be alert for automobile horns, but if he is unable to hear a horn blast, he may not know he is encountering a traffic hazard. "Similar danger could face an industrial worker who is unable to hear warnings shouted by his fellow workers.

"The problem is compounded because many hearing losses appear so gradually the victim is not aware of his problem until the loss has become acute and handicapping. That is why everyone should be alert for friends and relatives who exhibit the six danger signs of a hearing loss," Smith added.

The danger signs are:

1. Continuously asking persons to repeat what has been said.

2. Operating radios, television sets or record players at volume levels higher than other persons find comfortalbe.

3. Misunderstanding words in conversations, or complaining that other persons are not speaking clearly.

4. Difficulty in locating the direction of sounds in outdoor environments.

5. Complaining of a constant ringing in the ears.

6. Experiencing difficulty hearing clearly in church, the theater or at the movies.

"If you have a friend or relative who exhibits one or more of these hearing loss danger signals, you will be doing the person a favor if you encourage him to have a hearing test by a medical ear specialist, at a hearing clinic or by a hearing aid dealer. You also may be helping to protect the person from dangerous situations," Smith added.

Auto Consultant Gives Tips For Winter Tire Care

Motorists who "bleed" air from their tires in the hope their tires will give better traction this winter are on the wrong track, according to Jinx Brady, Minnesota AAA automotive consultant.

"Although this idea somehow seems to persist," Brady says, "it's a complete myth—the practice not only lessens traction but wears down tread faster."

The AAA official, however, listed these steps car owners should take to preserve the life of their tires during the cold months—and insure a safer ride:

Check inflation on a regular basis. Dropping temperatures cause a decrease in tire pressure. For every 10-degree drop, tire pressure goes down one pound.

When checking tire inflation, do it outdoors where temperatures will be the same as those when driving—not in a heated garage.

All snow tires should be inflated to the same pressure recommended for conventional tires in the car owner's manual.

Make certain that the proper type of tire is on the car for the weather conditions that prevail in your area.

Snow tires in areas with periodic snow and icy conditions should have an open tread pattern and deep grooves.

New winter tires should be given a breaking-in period. Speed should be limited to 60 miles per hour during the first 50 miles of driving.

"Bald" tires, defined by the tire industry safety council as those worn to a tread depth of 1-16th of an inch, are hazardous during all types of weather and should be replaced at once.

Minnesota newspapers would like to meet their critics

My name is Phil Duff. I am president this year of The Minnesota Newspaper Association.

This is an organization almost as old as the state itself. It consists of 393 newspapers . . . dailies, weeklies, suburbans.

Many of us have worked hard to improve our newspapers and serve our communities. We find this to be very busy, but very satisfying work. But we are surprised and puzzled by the rising level of complaints about newspapers.

It seems to us that many of these complaints come as a result of a misunderstanding of the work which newspapers do, and are supposed to do. We recognize that we make mistakes, that we do have shortcomings. This is inevitable. But what troubles us most are the broad, wholesale condemnations of the press, the willingness to suspect and believe the worst, about our work.

So we have created the Minnesota Press Council

We appointed it, but now it's a free agent, making its own decisions and charting its own course.

The Minnesota Press Council consists of 18 men. Half are working newspapermen, and half are drawn from the general public, Minnesotans of many backgrounds, from many walks of life. The Council chairman is Justice C. Donald Peterson of the Minnesota Supreme Court.

The Press Council has set up procedures to hear grievances against newspapers which can't be settled at the local level. It has no authority other than discussion and persuasion. But it will form judgments about the performance of newspapers, and it will make these judgments publicly.

We newspapers want your understanding and support. We've created this Minnesota Press Council so that you will have an independent tribunal to hear your grievances against us. We want to meet and hear our critics.

But we also hope you share our belief that there is no substitute for a completely free and independent press. For more information about the Minnesota Press Council, please write Dr. J. Edward Gerald, School of Journalism and Mass Communication, 111 Murphy Hall, U. of M., Minneapolis, Minn. 55455 or the Minnesota Newspaper Association, 84 So. 6th St., Minneapolis, Minn. 55402.

State of Minnesota
County of Pennington
IN DISTRICT COURT
NINTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT
A. & M. Ranch, Inc., Plaintiff.
vs.
William Reese, Defendant.
NOTICE OF EXECUTION SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN: That pursuant to a writ of execution to me issued from the District Court in and for Pennington County, State of Minnesota, in an action wherein A. & M. Ranch, Inc., is the plaintiff and judgment creditor and William Reese, the defendant and judgment debtor, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of said judgment debtor in and to that certain tract of land lying and being in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to wit:

A tract of land in Lot one (1), Section Two (2) Township One Hundred Fifty-three (153), Range Forty-three (43), described as follows: BEGINNING at a point in the center of County Ditch No. 1, where said Ditch intersects with the West line of said Lot 1; thence running North on said West line of Lot 1 to a point on the Southwest corner of tract of land lying in said Lot 1, and described in Deed dated October 10, 1955, whereby Thorvald Myhrer and Olga Myhrer, his wife, conveyed to William B. TRF Tops St. Paul Hill 3-2 In Holiday Tourney

Thief River Falls erupted for three second period goals Wednesday night to hand 15th ranked St. Paul Hill-Murray a 3-2 setback in the second round of the Roseau holiday hockey tournament.

The Prowlers, trailing 1-0 going into the second period, went in front 3-1 on goals by Don Brown, Rory Anderson and Rob Swenson and then held on the rest of the way for the win over the Pioneers.

In Wednesday's second game, Roseau made it a clean sweep for the north teams with a surprising 4-3 win over a talented Anoka club. The metropolitan schools won both first round games, however, as Anoka topped Thief River Falls 3-2 and Hill edged Roseau 1-0.

Hill took a 1-0 lead over the Prowlers when senior center Tim Doherty's 10-foot backhand beat Prowler goalie Pete Sullivan with 7:47 remaining in the first period. Both teams had battled for possession of the puck in front of the Prowler goal before Joe Nelson was able to slip the puck out to Doherty on the left side for the score.

The Prowlers tied the contest 1-1 on senior Don Brown's backhand shot from the right side with 12:33 left in the second period. Prowler defenseman Mike Protz was given an assist on the play. Just 2:26 later the Prowlers took a 2-1 lead as Mike Hamilton controlled the face-off just to the left of the Hill goal and passed the puck to senior wing Rory Anderson who fired the scoring shot past the surprised Pioneer goalie.

Both teams had power play opportunities in the second period but neither squad was able to mount a serious scoring threat with a man advantage.

Thief River Falls went in front 3-1 when senior defenseman Rob Swenson's shot from a sharp angle sailed over the shoulder of Hill goalie Dave Spannbouer with 2:32 remaining in the second period. Junior wing Tom Goodard assisted on what proved to be the winning score for the Prowlers.

Hill mounted several scoring threats in the final 15 minutes, but managed to score just once, when sophomore wing Mike Belde broke down the right side alone after receiving a long pass from Scott Langevin with 4:16 remaining in the game. Belde skated in on Sullivan, waited for the Prowler goalie to go down and flipped the puck into the high right corner of the net.

The Prowlers were forced to skate off a Hill power play when Brown was whistled off for holding with 4:04 remaining, but several nice defensive plays snuffed out the Pioneer scoring threats.

Sullivan was credited with 21 saves in the Prowler nets while Spannbouer stopped 17 shots in the nets for St. Paul Hill. The loss left the Pioneers with an 8-3 record while Thief River Falls evened their season log at 4-4.

The Prowlers will host Bemidji in the TRF sports arena Saturday night in a match-up of region eight powers. The Prowlers will be trying to avenge an early season 4-3 loss at the hands of the Lumberjacks.

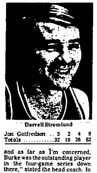
Northland Stops Raiders 92-82



Darrell Stromlund

Chet Engelman's Northland basketball team fell behind 18-9 at the outset of the first half Wednesday night before utilizing a full court press enroute to a 92-82 victory over Anoka-Ramsey at Inver Grove Heights.

The win over the Raiders evened Northland's record at 5-5 for the year with a game against powerful Vermilion scheduled Friday night at Ely. The loss dropped Anoka-Ramsey to 5-4.

Working without a press, Northland dropped behind the Raiders 18-9 with 14 minutes remaining in the first half. A Northland time-out, resulting in the use of the pressing defense, enabled the Northmen to take a 33-32 lead on Dale Hanson's field goal with 4:35 left as Northland moved to a 43-38 halftime lead.

Northland pulled away to a 53-41 lead with 16:59 remaining, but the Raiders managed to cut the difference to 60-56 with 10:11 left. Northland once again stretched its lead to a comfortable 70-58 cushion with 8:30 remaining in the game.

In the next 6:48, Anoka-Ramsey shut off the Northland offense to out-score the Northmen 17-2 and climb to within 75-72 with 2:52 remaining in the game.

Using a full court press, Anoka Ramsey was assessed numerous two-shot backcourt fouls in the final stages of the contest. Unfortunately for the Raiders, many of the fouls sent freshman guard Darrell Stromlund (Greenbush) to the free throw line for the gift tosses. The 5-7 speedster responded like a giant as he sank nine of his 10 opportunities from the charity lane. Hanson added a three-point play in the final moments to give Northland its 10-point win.

"We hustled well against them (Anoka-Ramsey)," said Engelman. "Not as well as we did against Inver Hills (a 75-72 loss), but we came back when we had to. Mike Rasch and Stan Leach both played real good ball for us, and as far as I'm concerned, Burke was the outstanding player in the four-game series down there," stated the head coach. In two games against the metropolitan teams, Burke scored 41 points and pulled down 32 rebounds.

Northland received balanced scoring against Anoka-Ramsey as Burke scored 24, Hanson 22, Bayne 11 and Stromlund, along with Leach, scored 10. Burke hauled down 15 rebounds and Rasch added 12 as the Northmen held a 37-35 rebound advantage.

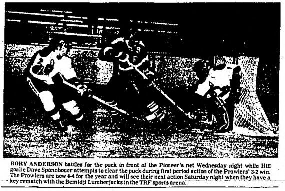
PROWLER GOALIE Pete Sullivan falls back to trap Scott Langevin's shot during the second period of the Thief River Falls-St. Paul Hill game Wednesday night in the Roseau arena. The junior goalie turned in a 21-save performance as the Prowlers defeated the Pioneers 3-2 in the second round of the Roseau holiday tournament. Prowler defenseman Mike Protz and Hill's Mike Belde watch the play in the background.



RORY ANDERSON battles for the puck in front of the Pioneer's net Wednesday night while Hill goalie Dave Spannbouer attempts to clear the puck during first period action of the Prowlers' 3-2 win. The Prowlers are now 4-4 for the year and will see their next action Saturday night when they have a key rematch with the Bemidji Lumberjacks in the TRF sports arena.

Prowler Hoopsters Host Kennedy Rockets Tues.

Lee Swanson's Lincoln high school basketball team, after posting two wins in the Chisago Lakes holiday tournament, will swing back into action tomorrow night (Tuesday) when the Prowlers host Kennedy in the Lincoln high school gym. Game time will be 8 o'clock, with junior varsity action scheduled for a 6:15 start.

Scouting reports on Kennedy indicate the Rockets are not blessed with a great deal of height, but instead rely on quickness. Kennedy has been playing near .500 ball under head coach Louis Deere this season.

The Prowlers waltzed through two wins at Chisago Lakes last week as they throttled Pine City 73-48 and then posted a come-from-behind 81-77 win over Chisago Lakes. The wins moved the Prowler season record to 5-2.

Chisago Lakes moved out to a 30-20 first quarter lead Thursday night and held onto a 47-39 halftime advantage after leading by as much as 17 points. The Prowlers came back to outscore the Trojans 42-30 in the second half as they pulled to a 60-60 tie going into the final eight minutes.

Junior guards Kent Smith and Ordean Peterson led the Prowler attack with 26 and 22 points respectively while Tom Kays and Jeff Rhoden, another junior combination, added 11 and 10 points. Four Trojans reached double figures with Perry Rossow netting 22, Jeff Carlson 18, Jeff Larson 14 and Dan Moody 10.

The Prowlers had little trouble downing Pine City as they posted quarter leads of 20-12, 33-21 and 51-38 enroute to the 73-48 triumph. Team captain Rande Smith saw his first action of the season and collected 17 points and 14 rebounds although seeing just limited playing time. The senior center was held out of the Chisago Lakes game however, and his status for the Kennedy game is still uncertain.

Behind Rande in the scoring column against Pine City were Ordean Peterson and Tom Kays, each netting 11 points. The Dragons were led by Myron Carlson with 12 and Charles Novack, along with Jim Nelson, collected 10.

"We're real pleased with our performance last week," said coach Swanson, "especially the way we came back against Chisago Lakes. We played real good basketball and I think we showed real team togetherness."

The Prowlers will also play at home Friday night, January 7, when they face bagley in the LHS gym.

STRANDQUIST GUARD Monty Boen leaps above Newfolden's Orland Roppe (42) to get off a jump shot during the championship game of the Newfolden holiday tournament Thursday night. Looking on during the first half action were Newfolden's Dan Moose (20) and Sterling Hougard (21) of Strandquist. The Nordics built a 13 point third quarter lead and held on to defeat the Warriors 57-54.

Newfolden Captures Holiday Tournament

Strandquist exploded for 17 points in a 5:12 span of the third quarter Thursday night to overcome a 13-point deficit and send the championship game of the Marshall County Central holiday basketball tournament into the final quarter tied 42-42 before Newfolden pulled out a 57-54 verdict.

The Warriors, trailing 38-25 with 5:24 remaining in the third quarter, out-scored the Nordics 17-4 over that five-minute span to tie the game on Monty Boen's driving lay up with 12 seconds remaining in the third canto.

Newfolden went back in front 46-42 with two quick baskets resulting from a Nordic full court press to begin the final eight minutes. Strandquist came back once again and Boen's two free throws tied the contest 47-47 with 5:09 remaining. Just 37 seconds later the senior shapshooter connected on a 15-foot jump shot to give the Warriors a short-lived 49-47 lead as Boen and Newfolden's Dan Moose challenged each other with a scoring exhibition the final stages of the game. Only one other person besides Boen and Moose scored during the final five minutes of the contest.

Moose tied the contest at 49-all with a lay up and the senior forward added a free throw moments later for a 50-49 Newfolden lead with 3:43 left. Both players made one shot on one and one free throw situations for a 51-50 Newfolden lead with 1:57 remaining.

Boen gave the Warrors a 52-51 edge with two key free throws at the 1:52 mark. Nordic guard Donavon Nelson broke through the scoring streak with a 15-foot jumper for a 53-52 Newfolden lead with 1:40 remaining. The Newfolden press forced Strandquist into coughing the ball up and Moose made an easy lay up for a 55-52 margin with 1:30 remaining. Another Warrior turnover gave the ball to the Nordics with just over a minute remaining and Newfolden sat on the ball until Moose connected on two free throws for a 57-52 Newfolden lead with just 19 seconds remaining. Boen was on target with a 10-foot jump shot with five seconds remaining for the final 57-54 count.

Ron Voth led Newfolden in scoring with 16 while Rick Sethre had 12 and Nelson 10. Moose, playing a reserve role, added seven points, all in the final quarter. Boen led Strandquist with 22 and Gabe Kasprowicz had 14.

Harlan Iverson's 28-point production powered Goodridge to a 69-46 win over Middle River in the consolation game. Mike Peterson led the Skippers with 14.

Newfolden advanced into the championship tilt with a 63-53 win over Middle River Wednesday night while Strandquist nipped Goodridge 59-58 on Boen's field goal with two seconds remaining in the game.

University of North Dakota did not play intercollegiate athletic schedules in 1942-43 due to World War II.

Reelect Carlson As President Of City Council

Robert Carlson was reelected president of the Thief River Falls city council and Ambrose Wysoski was reelected vice president at the reorganizational meeting held Tuesday evening at the council chambers.

Appointed by the council were the following city officers and department heads: Roy Jensen, street commissioner; William Peterson, manager of the municipal liquor store; Morris Owen, superintendent of utilities; Robert Wurst, city attorney; D. H. Stewart, city engineer; Gerald Wigness, city clerk; Duane Noel, fire chief; Mike Mongoven, director of parks and recreation; Alvin Jablinske, superintendent of sanitation; and Dr. H. P. Wendt, health officer.

Following adjournment of the reorganizational session, council members informally discussed filling the vacancy on the council caused by the resignation of Wigness as fifth ward alderman. Expressing an interest in the position and being considered for appointment to the full four-year term are Milton Reierson, James Cuppett, Clayton Restad, Milton Schlechter, Kenneth Berg, Mrs. Vance Newbury and Richard Kotschevar.

Each council member will submit three names to the city clerk and the three persons suggested most frequently will be interviewed by the council. It is hoped that an appointment can be determined prior to the January 25 meeting of the council, president Carlson said.

Reduction In Local Taxes Seen For '72

Reduction in total mill levy of 73.58 mills for taxpayers in Thief River Falls and School District 564 should mean a decrease of about 16 per cent in real estate taxes payable in 1972. Exceptions will be where there were changes in real estate valuations from 1970 to 1971 assessments.

According to preliminary figures prepared by the office of C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor, there are reductions in mill levy for the city of Thief River Falls, School District 564 and Pennington county. The levies have been submitted to the state for final approval.

Total mill levy for the city, county and school district of 387.32 mills is down from the 460.90 mills levied a year ago. The city levy of 72.55 mills is down from 87.80 mills, the school district levy (non-agricultural) of 233.02 is down from 282.10 and the county levy of 81.75 is down from 91 mills last year.

Estimated assessed valuation of the county in 1971 was slightly over $8 million—an increase of approximately $800,000 from the 1970 figure of $7,207,000. (Taxes payable in 1972 are based on the 1971 valuation.) The $8 million figure reflects both new construction during the past year and the revaluation of the county as ordered by the state department of taxation.

The largest increase in valuation was in the city of Thief River Falls, however, but much of that can be attributed to annexations of property formerly located in North and Rocksbury townships—both of which had substantial losses in valuation. Assessed valuation of the city climbed from $3,813,700 in 1970 to $4,460,909 in 1971—an increase of more than $600,000. The remainder of the county, which includes the villages of St. Hilaire and Goodridge, had a valuation increase of only $178,700, from $3,393,300 a year ago to $3,572,000 in 1971.

In dollars the city of Thief River Falls is levying for $323,466 which includes $16,108 for general expense, $297,897 for bond payments and interest, $5,000 for poor relief and $4,460 for the National Guard armory.

The county has a net levy of $679,294 which includes $186,801 for the revenue fund, $182,106 for the road and bridge fund, $281,793 for welfare and $3,933 for the county fair. In addition the county will levy against all taxpayers except those in Thief River Falls to recover a net of $19,416 for cost of the reassessment ordered by the state. A levy of $3,242 will also be made against the residents of former School District 562 in St. Hilaire due to a deficit in the tuition fund at the end of last year. The levy for reassessment costs will total 5.44 mills and the levy in former School District 562 for the tuition deficit will total 4.24 mills.

School District 564 will levy for $1,746,499 which will include $1,329,474 for maintenance, $185,625 for capital outlay and $231,400 for bonds and interest.

Computation made by the auditor on a $15,000 home in Thief River Falls showed a net decrease in real estate taxes of $68.37 or 14.63 per cent for the coming year. Computation of a $24,000 home showed a reduction of $193.91 or 20.45 per cent. The difference in percentage is due to the formula used for computing taxes under the new tax law.

1971 Crop Year Was A Year Of Contrast

Agricultural production during 1971 presented area farmers with near extremes in production and marketing situations. Favorable weather during spring and summer provided near ideal conditions for small grain and sunflower producers, according to Terry Courneya, Pennington county agricultural extension agent.

Farmers reported numerous examples of above average yields in small grains while elevators indicate excellent quality' for those harvested before the wet fall weather set in. Yields of 80 to 100 bushels of oats, 50 bushels of barley and 45 bushels of wheat were not uncommon on well-managed fields. Availability of new varieties of spring wheat enabled producers to reach the 50 and 60 bushels per acre yield in many instances.

Late August and early September rains caused important losses to late harvested small grains, sunflowers and corn. The excess moisture also severely hampered fall tillage practices on many farms. An infestation of rust damaged many of the late planted stands of small grain and isolated cases of sunflower fields, the extension agent said.

In spite of unfavorable harvest weather, there were reports of sunflower yields of 900 to 1,000 pounds per acre in the St. Hilaire and Oklee area on well-managed fields. The Mavie and Goodridge area, however, saw mostly 500 to 700 pounds per acre as typical. The Grygla area reported some acreages of sunflowers with good yeilds. Quality of local sunflowers has been repoted as very good in spite of the fact that most of them had to be harvested after the ground froze in November. Where rust or severe wet conditions prevailed, sunflower losses were estimated at 40 to 50 per cent, although still reaching the 500 to 700 pound level.

Corn production got off to a good start through the growing season, but fall rains prohibited harvesting at favorable moisture and maturity stages for silage. Much of the corn that could not be harvested for silage has been picked during November and December. Corn grain yeilds of 60 to 70 bushels per acre are not uncommon and can be used as a feed alternate to silage for dairy farmers and beef cattle feeders, Courneya said.

Hay yeilds were variable throughout the area. First cutting in general was very good but scattered areas of low rainfall during late June and most of July reduced the second cutting to below average. In general, however, the hay and pasture season was good.

Prices for livestock and milk have been good for most of the season. Livestock producers found themselves in a situation of favorable prices for beef, hogs and dairy products while feed prices have been relatively low. This situation, on the other hand, presents marketing problems for the cash grain producer, the extension agent added.

It is estimated that as much as 30 per cent of the land normally plowed in the fall was too wet. This will undoubtedly cause some problems for crop production during 1972.

Annual Chamber Banquet Slated For January 31

Annual banquet meeting of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday, January 31, at the American Legion club rooms. Robert Shaw, executive director of the Minnesota Newspaper association, will be the guest speaker. Curtis L. Charlson will serve as master of ceremonies at the event which is for Chamber of Commerce members and their wives. Banquet tickets will be sold through a mailing to members and will also be available at the door.

ICC Council To Meet January 19

Board of directors of the Inter-County community council, Inc. will hold their regular monthly executive meeting at the Oklee recreation center at Oklee on January 19 at 6:30 p.m.

The business meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend at that time.

Estate Planning Is Subject Of Legal Seminar

Do you have a will? Do you know what a trust can do for you? Do you realize the problems you create for your loved ones without a will, trust fund or other estate plan?

These and similar questions will be answered in a legal affairs seminar on "Estate Planning" to be held on January 12 and 19. The program, which is sponsored by the cooperative extension service of Pennington county in cooperation with the Fourteenth District bar association, will be held in the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls. The program begins at 7:30 p.m. and lasts through 10 p.m. each evening.

Purpose of the program is to present fundamental information about estate planning for all persons, including professional workers, housewives, wage earners and anyone interested.

Those attending will be exposed to subject matter offered by lawyers, accountants, insurance agents, social security representatives, and county extension personnel. Some of the topics of the presentation include: "Estate Planning Goals", "Your Estate and the Probate Process", "Succession, Wills, Joint Tenancy", "Trusts and Gifts", "Insurance and Annuities", and "Social Security and Estate Planning". Other program topics involve real estate transfer, estate taxes and estate tax planning, general tax planning, and planning your estate.

The overall program is cosponsored by the University of Minnesota cooperative extension service and the Minnesota State bar association in its "Law-for-Laymen" educational program.

C of C Has Signs For Price Freeze

Chamber of Commerce office in Thief River Falls has had a supply of signs prepared to be used by retailers in compliance with guidelines set forth for Phase II of the President's wage and price freeze.

Each retailer must have a sign posted in his business place which states that base price information is available and where application forms can be obtained. Retailers who do not have the signs posted already may obtain them at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Truck Drivers' Course Open

Enrollments for the over-the-road truck drivers' course will be accepted until January 10 at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school.

The 76-hour course will cover all phases of professional truck driving and includes 12 hours of afternoon classes in yard work. On-the-job training includes 32 hours with an experienced driver.

Formal application forms are available at the vocational school or will be mailed upon request. Applications are due Jan. 7.

Immunization At General Clinic Set January 23

General immunization clinic will be held for Pennington county on Sunday, January 23, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the city auditorium in Thief River Falls. The following immunizations will be available under the direction of the Thief River Falls medical association, state health department, Inter-County nursing service and Thief River Falls public schools:

D.P.T. (diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough) for children up to six years of age. After the "baby" shot series of three, a booster is recommended at 18 months of age and at five to six years of age.

D.P. (Diphtheria-tetanus) for persons six years and older. Booster shot is recommended every 10 years. Required by some colleges before entrance.

Oral Polio—The complete series of three will not be offered. However, a booster should be given at four to six years of age.

Rubeola-Rubella (hard measles, German measles) Primarily used in children one to six years of age. No booster is recommended at this time.

There will be no smallpox vaccinations as the Minnesota department of health no longer considers smallpox a problem in the United States.

General guidelines to follow in regard to these immunizations are that they not be given to those suffering from acute illness and fever or those who have a chronic illness or allergy for which they are under a physician's care.

Parental or guardian signature is required for each minor receiving services at these clinics. In addition to legal requirements, it is best to have parents accompany their children for health services. Adults are also urged to make use of this clinic. Kindergarteners and 12th graders are especially urged to bring their immunizations up to date. There will be no other school protection clinic.

A charge of 25 cents per person will be asked to cover costs. However, no one will be turned away for lack of funds.

Persons with questions may call Mrs. Margaret Race at 681-1336 or Mrs. Lillian Ranum at 681-2968.

Oklee Elevator Calls Meeting

Oklee Farmers Co-op Elevator has called a meeting for Thursday, January 13, at the Country Room at Oklee, according to Gary Mitchell, manager.

D. Olson Elected To Head County Board

Donald L. Olson was elevated from vice chairman to chairman when the Pennington county board of commissioners met in reorganizational session Tuesday at the Courthouse in Thief River Falls. The second district commissioner succeeds Carl Anderson in that office. Elected vice chairman was Odin C. Hanson, first district commissioner.

Most of the business transacted at the meeting was of the routine annual variety, including appointments to various boards and committees, appropriation of funds and establishment of procedures. Action on salaries for county employees was deferred to an adjourned meeting on January 17.

The board accepted a proposal from Loeffler Construction company for the stockpiling of 10,000 yards of gravel for the county highway department with two proposals received. The Times was reappointed the official newspaper for publication of county legal notices and meeting dates were set at the first or second Tuesday of each month, preferably to be set a month in advance.

Appropriation of $1,250 was made to the incidental fund for postage, freight, etc., and $1,000 appropriated to the county attorney contingency fund. Commissioner Glenn Tasa was appointed to serve with chairman Olson on the county extension committee and Mrs. Leonard Melin and Stuart McLeod were reappointed to the committee for three-year terms.

Dr. H. P. Wendt was named as county health officer and will serve with Olson and commissioner Otto Stenberg on the county health committee.

The county board as a whole will serve as the county welfare board and function as the road and bridge committee for the

Carol Rokke Becomes Bride Of Robert Boothy

Carol Ann Rokke of Minneapolis and Robert Lee Boothy of Burnsville exchanged wedding vows on November 27 at the United Methodist church in Richfield with Rev. David Boothy of Beverly, Mass., brother of the groom, performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rokke of Newfolden and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Boothy of Meredith, N. H.

The altar was graced with candelabra and bouquets of white gladioli and mums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a candelight crepe gown with empire waist design, long bishop sleeves with venice lace trimming on the sleeves, waist and collar. A venice lace cap crowned a floor-length silk illusion veil. Her circular bouquet was of gardenias, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jerry Wagner of Burnsville, a friend of the bride. She wore a floor-length burgundy red velvet gown with long puff sleeves. It was designed with an empire waist and high collar and trimmed with off-white lace on the bodice and sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses.

The birde's personal attendant was Mrs. Linda Wolke.

Jerry Wagner, friend of the groom, was best man. The men of the wedding party wore charcoal gray tux jackets with gray vests, gray stroller trousers and ascot. The groom wore a gardenia boutonniere while the members of the bridal party wore white carnations.

Ushers were Neil Erhlich of Silver Spring, Md., and Kermit Rokke of Anoka, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a long-sleeved gold knit dress with brown accessories and her corsage was of white and yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a light blue brocade dress with short jacket and complemented with gold accessories. She wore a corsage of pink and white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Rokke, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, hosted the reception which was held in the fireside room of the church.

The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a gold marriage in Christ symbol and was decorated with white roses and green petal design.

Mrs. Lyle Westphal, friend of the bride, was in charge of the punch table and Mrs. Lyle Teigen, sister of the bride, poured.

The guests were registered by Elaine Hankel and Karen Sedler arranged the gifts.

For her travel costume the bride chose a navy blue and rust knit dress with jacket, complemented with navy blue and gold accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Fairview hospital school of nursing in Minneapolis and is now employed as a registered nurse at Fairview Southdale hospital in Minneapolis.

The groom graduated from Paul Smith's college in New York, attended University of Denver and is now employed with Pako Photo Inc., Minneapolis.

The newlyweds are at home at 2009 E. 121st St., Burnsville.

Contest Winners Announced By Garden Club

First place winners in Deer Park garden club Christmas decorating and lighting contest were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lundeen of Oklee in the religious group and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ellingson of Goodridge in the contemporary group.

Winners for second place were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swanson of Goodridge in the contemporary group and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hanson in the religious group.

Lundeens had a complete nativity scene and used lights to form the stable and also a cross erected from lights above the manager scene. It could be seen for miles around.

Ellingsons displayed a table of items their children put up at Christmastime and resembled "toytown." The display, set up in the patio, was surrounded by lights on the patio fence and two lighted candles set at the gate entrance. They also had lights around the windows of the house.

"Santa's workshop", which included five elf figures and a large Santa Claus on the door, was displayed on the front entrance at the Swanson home. A spotlight was used for lighting. Wreaths were also used as part of the display.

Hansons used figures and lettering to represent Christmas carols. The barn displayed "Noel" in large silver letters with a wreath. The display by the house had figures of a shepherds, Wisemen, peace dove and pine boughs. A revolving light was used for effective lighting. Other trees were also decorated with lights in the yard.

The Trail Blazers snowmobile club met Wednesday evening at the Lynn Hanson home for a 10-mile trail ride. For many of the club members, the distance was much greater as they traveled by snowmobile from home.

Half-way down the trail a bonfire was set, giving the riders an opportunity to warm up. Lunch was served at the end of the ride.

'GREAT DAY' QUARTET TO SING AT NEWFOLDEN

There will be a program of songs by the "Great Day" freshmen mixed quartet and presentation of a color slide program called "The Power of God" by students from Oak Hills Bible institute of Bemidji at the Evangelical Free church of Newfolden on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Reception Held For Virgil Phelps

A wedding reception was held December 27 at the Assemblies of God Tabernacle in this city in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Phelps who were married August 20, at Treasure Island, Calif.

Among the honored guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. Otis Miller of this city, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vennes of Fosston, and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Phelps of Goodridge.

Friends of the bride were in charge of the reception and displaying the gifts. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. J. Duane Nelson of Goodridge and Mrs. Fred Sorenson of this city.

Mrs. Alfred Hagenbeck of Newfolden was in charge of the program. Several poems were read by Mrs. Robert Leen and a short talk was given by Rev. Robert Leen. Mike Schroeder and Ordean Peterson, accompanied by Mrs. Ron Heisel on the piano, sang several musical numbers.

The couple has returned to California where he is stationed with the Navy. On their return trip the couple visited at the home of Mr. Phelps' sister, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Glamzer at Pierre, S. D.

A double ring ceremony united in marriage Janice Renae Diehl and Jerome Edmond Axton on October 23, at Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Louis Hermansen officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. George Diehl of this city and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Axton of Detroit Lakes.

Mrs. Carl Nordvall, organist, accompanied Mrs. Arnold Hammer as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "A Time for Us."

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Donald Diehl of Fosston. She wore a white satin gown designed with an empire waist and trimmed in lace and miniature pearls. Her bouquet was champagne carnations and orange roses.

Maid of honor, Judith Diehl, sister of the bride, wore a floor length gown of orange crepe trimmed in lace and styled with an empire waist. Her bouquet was of yellow mums and orange baby rose buds.

The bride's personal attendant was her sister, Mrs. Michael Tuomala of Farmington.

The bridemaids, Mrs. Jerry Erickson, friend of the bride, and Miss Doreen Diehl, sister of the bride, wore gowns and carried bouquets identical to the maid of honor.

Best man was Richard Schafer of Cloquet and the groomsmen were Jerry Erickson and Jeffrey Axton, brother of the groom, both from Detroit Lakes.

Ushers were Harlen Rude of this city and Paul Diehl of Fosston, cousin of the bride.

Flower girl was Kimberly Rude and ring bearer was Curt Rude.

For the wedding, the bride's mother selected a beige knit dress with brown accessories and the groom's mother wore a beige dress complemented with brown accessories. Both wore corsages of champagne carnations and orange baby rose buds.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church parlors.

Mrs. Harlen Rude, sister of the bride, served the punch while Mrs. Ed Chapowski and Mrs. Melvin Molden, aunts of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. John Moran and Mrs. Della Nelson of Detroit Lakes poured.

Waitresses were Susan Johnson, Hellen Olson, Renae Fjeld and Laura Tuomala.

Mrs. Wayne Skarie was in charge of the guest book and Cindy Alby, Ann Bakke, Chris Kayser and Janell Ness displayed the gifts.

Honor guest was Mrs. Anna Diehl of Fosston, grandmother of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to the North Shore, the couple is at home in Detroit Lakes where the bride is employed by St. Mary's hospital as a LPN and the groom is employed by Snappys, Inc.

Alcohol Is Topic Of NSJC Course

Northland state junior college will hold the annual Winter School of Alcohol Studies on its campus beginning Thursday, January 13. The alcohol studies course will consist of six weekly meetings held every Thursday night (January 13 to February 17) from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Alcohol studies course is open to anyone interested and concerned about the chemical dependency problem. Although primarily concerned with alcohol, the weekly sessions will devote some time to the drug problem.

Purpose of the winter school is to explore the state laws regarding public intoxication and chemical dependency problems; to provide an understanding of chemical dependency through lecture and discussion; to present the latest research and information regarding chemical dependency; and to educate interested persons about chemical dependency for use in schools, churches, homes, law enforcement, and community agencies.

Persons interested in attending the Winter School of Alcohol Studies may register for noncredit or for college credit. For Northland college credit, persons will register for two credits in Sociology 199, chemical dependency. Without credit the registration fee is $15. For two undergraduate credits the registration fee is $25.

Each session of the school will be devoted to a different aspect of alcohol and chemical dependency. Also, each session will be conducted by an authority in the area that will be covered during that particular session.

Some of the topics that will be discussed and covered during the six weekly meetings will be 1971 legislature history and impact of law; repeal of drunkenness and implementation of Minnesota hospital and committment act; the many faces of receiving centers; after detoxification—then what?; model look at prevention; you can help an alcoholic even if he doesn't want help; effects of chemicals on our bodies; ethical dimensions of use of psycho-active chemicals, attitudes, abuse of prescription drugs.

Faculty for the "Winter School of Alcohol Studies" are Doyle Kirby, commissioner of alcohol and drug problems, St. Paul; Dick Allyn, attorney general's office, St. Paul; Dan Rouzer, expediter for receiving centers, Bemidji; Dr. Peterson, director alcoholism and drug addiction division, Willmar state hospital; Dave Hancock, director, Lyndville treatment center, Jordon; Lee Stranberg, college of pharmacy, North Dakota state university, Fargo; and Ken Steger, education director on drugs, state of Minnesota.

Sponsors of the winter school are Day-Night unit, Northwestern hospital, Thief River Falls; Northland state junior college; Northwest council on alcohol and drug problems, Crookston; and Northwestern mental health center, Crookston.

For further information or literature about the program contact Willard Kottke, Northland state junior college (681-2181) or Juanita Vigness, Northwest mental health center, Crookston (281-3940).

Cost Of Living Adjustment Made For Veterans

Cost-of-living increases for many Minnesota veterans, their dependents or survivors will be reflected in larger checks received from the Veterans administration early in February, according to the VA.

The local VA office reports there is some apprehension that older veterans, widows and dependent parents affected by the increased payments may think they will get the larger amounts in their January checks since the two new laws are effective Jan. 1.

However, the increases will not be reflected in the January checks because those checks are for the month of December.

The new legislation provides a 6.5 per cent cost of living hike to 2.2 million veterans, widows and children who draw VA benefits based on the death or disability of veterans for non-service-connected causes.

Another new law provides a 10 per cent increase for 186,000 widows of veterans who died of service-connected causes. Called dependency and indemnity compensation, such payments are also made under some circumstances to children and parents of veterans.

About 53,000 children will receive five per cent and 68,500 parents 6.5 per cent hikes under this new law.

VA officials emphasized that no application for the increases will be necessary, and that recipients will be included automatically on February checks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Anderson and Mary of Faribault were New Years guests at the John Waltonen home.

Building Permits Decrease Here For November

Building permits issued during November in Thief River Falls for new buildings and repairs and alterations were valued at $159,000. According to the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis, this was a decrease from $503,000 for permits issued during November of 1970.

The cumulative valuation for the year 1971 was $1,688,000 as compared with $1,415,000 in 1970. There was 13 building permits issued in November, as compared to nine in November of 1970.

For Minnesota the November valuation increased from $58,471,000 in 1970 to $96,413,000 in 1971. The cumulative total for the first 11 months of 1971 was $899,987,000 compared with $803,632,000 recorded during 1970.

Throughout the entire Ninth Federal Reserve district, including Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, northwest Wisconsin and upper Michigan, the total valuation of building permits issued for new buildings and repairs and alterations during November in 313 permit issuing centers was $118,170,000 for 5,253 permits.

In November, 1970, there were 4,194 permits issued with a valuation of $89,784,000. The report from the Federal Reserve bank in Minneapolis also stated that the cumulative total for the first 11 months of 1971 showed an increase from $1,066,876,000 for 60,115 permits in 1970 to $1,181,699,000 for 67,160 permits in 1971.

Auxiliary Ends Coupon Drive On Kidney Machines

Local American Legion auxiliary unit turned in a total of 28,575 coupon points in the Betty Crocker coupon collection program sponsored by Legion auxiliary units throughout the country, according to Mrs. Vern Quam, community service chairman for Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117. The coupons are used to purchase artificial kidney machines.

Mrs. Quam said that as of December 15 over 3.6 million coupon points had been turned in, to purchase six machines for the upper Midwest. It was expected that enough coupons for 10 machines would be turned in by the December 31 deadline.

Over the entire country, 75 machines were purchased through the General Mills redemption program. Each machine costs $3,000 for the basic unit, but additional equipment for proper blood filtration runs the cost to about $5,000 per unit.

Approximately 30 patients will be trained for home dialysis in the coming year. The machines will be put out by the Mayo clinic and Hennepin county general hospital on the basis of patient need. Mrs. Quam thanked local groups and volunteers who helped in gathering the coupons.

Farm Assistance Meetings Set In Marshall Co.

Educational meetings involving Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service, soil conservation service and extension service are scheduled throughout Marshall county next week.

The program for these meetings includes recommended crop varieties, rural environmental assistance programs, 1972 wheat and feed grain program, and technical assistance to farmers.

The meetings will be held Monday at 9:30 a.m. at the Alvarado school gym and at 1:30 p.m. at the Newfolden city hall. Tuesday meeting will be held at 10 a.m. at the Stephen filtration plant and at 1:30 p.m. at the Grygla school gym and at 1:30 p.m. at the Middle River American Legion hall.

Coffee will be served at these meetings and all farmers are invited to attend.

SBA Rep Will Visit Bemidji

Wayne Hoganson, loan officer of the Small Business administration, will be in Bemidji on January 13 to visit with small businessmen interested in obtaining SBA loans, and other services.

SBA provides several services to small firms such as long-term financing along with their many management counseling programs. Most of the loans being made by SBA are under the guaranty plan where SBA may guarantee up to 90 per cent of a bank loan to a small firm.

Management counseling can be obtained from SBA staff members as well as from SCORE, which is an organization of retired business executives who serve on a voluntary basis. In addition SBA sponsors and conducts many management workshops, conferences and management seminars for owners of small firms. Also available are publications on many subjects related to business management.

More information about any of these programs can be obtained from SBA's Minneapolis office or by an appointment with Hoganson through the Bemidji Chamber of Commerce, Bemidji avenue and Third street, telephone 751-3340.

Group Home Parents Meeting Is Scheduled

Informational meeting for parents who would like to become group home parents will be held January 12 at 2 p.m. at the library in Thief River Falls.

Lois Zimmerman from the staff of the Fergus Falls state hospital will explain the group home concept. Roger Young, a group home father from Moorhead, will describe their program.

A group home is a specialized facility that provides care on a 24-hour basis for a selected group of not more than 10 retarded children or adults. The group home parent is the person who carries out the continued daily living program. This person will be subsidized for the care provided.

For further details about the informational meeting call or write RoseMary Henderson, Northwestern mental health center in Crookston.

Poll Shows Many Favor Speed Controls

Women, auto insurors and policemen are overwhelmingly in favor of speed control devices on motor vehicles, Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said today.

Auto manufacturers and auto clubs are overwhelmingly opposed to devices, he said, citing the responses to a proposal of the national highway traffic safety administration to put a built-in 95-mile-per-hour limit on all but police cars made after Oct. 1, 1972. The administration also proposed audible and visual warnings that would be actuated at 81 to 85 miles per hour and an 85-mile top on speedometer dials.

"There were 24,300 responses to the proposals," Hoaglund said. "The final tally was 12,600 opposed and 11,700 in favor. However, the early response was heavily in favor, and the later response reflects in part organized efforts by groups interested in speed. The 8,500 women responding were 90 per cent in favor of speed restrictions."

Hoaglund pointed out that the substantial increases in highway speeds in recent years has alarmed people concerned with highway safety, and inspired efforts to control speed.

"During the 1960's, the number of vehicles exceeding 60 miles per hour on rural trunk highways in the United States grew from 16 to 45 per cent. By 1968, 12 per cent of the vehicles exceeded 70 miles per hour. It seems obvious that increasing speeds will be reflected in increasingly severe highway crashes."

Voluntary Potato Diversion Plan Is Requested

Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald today wired U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz an urgent request for establishment of a voluntary potato diversion program to alleviate "a potentially disastrous economic problem".

The diversion program is sought to remove nearly 300 million pounds of potatoes deemed surplus from the market for human consumption.

Commissioner Wefald's request for a federal diversion program was mandated by a poll of potato growers conducted by the Minnesota department of agriculture. Responding growers, representing a high majority of the state's total potato production, voted 213 to [illegible] in favor of a voluntary diversion program.

"It is ironic that a bumper crop of potatoes this year due to ideal growing conditions has almost destroyed our regional market, while national potato production is down and winter production forecasts indicate a continuing shrinkage of this food staple," Commissioner Wefald declared.

Production estimates indicate that the 1971 Minnesota potato crop, totaling nearly 1.67-billion pounds—331-million pounds more than 1970—has driven prices to lowest levels in more than a decade. Non-contract growers of processing stocks are getting as little as 50 cents per hundredweight. This is less than the actual cost of production.

Commissioner Wefald noted that freight costs alone are 40 to 50 cents per hundred-weight to ship Red River Valley potatoes into the Twin Cities.

Potato production annually provides upwards of $23 million in Minnesota farm income, but current prices indicated that the value of the record 1971 crop may be cut by nearly $8 million. Current prices also are little more than half the $1.63 average of 1968, the last year Minnesota required a potato diversion program. The U.S. Department of Agriculture paid growers 80 cents per hundredweight in early 1968 to voluntarily shift quotas of 1967 surplus potatoes to cattle feed by winter freeze-drying on pasture land.

Four Minnesota counties, Kittson, Marshall, Polk and Clay, have the biggest stocks of 1971 potatoes and face the biggest potential loss on the current market. This particularly compounds an economic problem for growers in Kittson and Marshall who sustained severe losses the two previous years due to unfavorable weather and flood conditions.

Commissioner Wefald said the Minnesota Farmers Union has pledged full support to his efforts to revive markets and raise farm commodity prices to "fair and decent levels".

Donald L. Olson To Head County Commissioners

county. Chairman Olson will serve on the law library committee and an appropriation of $2,000 was made to update the library during the year.

Dr. F. W. Hazard was appointed county livestock inspector at a salary of $17.25 per month. Appropriation of $300 was made to the Red River Valley Development corporation for promotion of the Winter Shows.

Serving as the building and maintenance committee for the coming year will be commissioners Stenberg and Olson and auditor C. W. Rodekuhr. Commissioners Hanson and Tasa were reappointed to the Oakland Park nursing home board.

On and off sale beer licenses were granted for Mrs. Grovum at Highlanding, Mrs. Carpenter at Carpenter's Corner and Clifford Olson of Kife's cafe. An on sale license was issued to the Thief River golf club.

Union state bank and Northern state bank were designated as official depositories for county funds. Chairman Olson was named to serve on the Northwest Council on Alcohol Problems and the OEO council at Oklee.

Named official delegates to the Association of Minnesota Counties organization were the five commissioners and Joseph Seidel, county engineer; C. W. Rodekuhr, auditor; and A. E. Jorgenson, treasurer. Commissioner Anderson was named to the board of the tuberculosis control clinic at Crookston, and to the home health nursing board for the area.

Minimum salary of clerk of court was set at $6,500 in anticipation of election to be held for that position next year.

Thefts, Mishaps Noted By Police

Thefts and numerous traffic accidents were reported to Thief River Falls city police during the last week. Snowmobile seat and gas tank valued at $25 were stolen from Vern's Outdoor Sports and Herman Dargus reported the theft of an outdoor extension cord from his residence.

Last Thursday at 3:15 p.m. a car driven by Ardelle Anderson of Viking, was going north on Main when it was struck in the right side by a pick-up driven by Bernhard Rustan of route 1, who was traveling west on Eighth street and failed to stop for the stop sign. There was $250 damage to the Anderson car and only $5 to the pick-up.

Also on Thursday at 8:45 p.m. a car driven by John Rathbun Jr., Edina, was traveling west on Greenwood when it was struck by a car driven by Madeline Forst, who was driving south on Tindolph. There was a total of $350 damage to the two cars.

On Friday Florian Kritz reported the theft of two 20-pound butane tanks from a trailer in his yard. The tanks were valued at $25 each. At 11:10 a.m. Friday a car driven by Thomas Nepper, Thief River Falls, was headed south on Tindolph when it struck a car driven by Rose Marie Nelson as she was driving east on Hughes. There was a total of $415 damage to the two cars.

Also Friday a car driven by Mark Thyren of route 3 was headed south on the airport road when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Jeanette Austad of Hugo, who was also driving south. There was $950 damage in the accident. David Lee, a passenger in the Austad car, received a severe bump on the head, and Donald Thyren, a passenger in the other car, complained of a sore neck.

On Saturday Ann Bredeson of Thief River Falls reported that a clothes line valued at $12.50 had been knocked down the previous night, and Dr. O. D. Beich of Thief River Falls reported that a black, iron lamppost valued at $40 had been taken from his property along the river bank.

Also on Saturday a car owned by Olaf Omdahl of Minneapolis was properly parked on west Nora street when it was struck in the front by an unknown vehicle, causing $150 in damage. On Sunday a police officer making his rounds found that Flom's grocery store had been broken into. A padlock was pried off and the glass was broken out of an inside door. There was an apparent loss of $3 in coins.

On Monday a car driven by Edwin Foldoe, Thief River Falls, was going north in the alley in the 100 block between LaBree and Horace avenues when the cab was struck by a car driven by Joel Wiener, Thief River Falls, who was coming out of a parking lot. There was $100 damage to each vehicle.

At 8:10 p.m. on Monday a car driven by Roseann Galliher was headed east on Eighth street. The driver lost control of the car and struck a pole at the corner of Eighth and Atlantic, causing $500 damage to the car.

Byron Flateland Receives Honors

Byron B. Flateland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Flateland, Oklee, has been recognized as an outstanding Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFROTC) cadet at the University of North Dakota.

He received the Distinguished AFROTC Cadet Badge for his excellent leadership ability, high moral character and military aptitude.

The cadet also received the AFROTC First Honors Ribbons for his academic achievement during four continuous semesters.

Cadet Flateland is a 1968 graduate of Oklee public high school. His wife, Jill, is the daughter of Lyle C. Williams, 307 Fingal Drive, Alexandria.

REV. FRANCIS SORLEY, missionary to Japan, will be the guest speaker at the First Baptist church of Thief River Falls at 11 a.m. Sunday. Rev. and Mrs. Sorley were two of the first missionaries appointed to Japan by the Baptist general conference following World War II. He is a graduate of Wheaton college and Bethel seminary, and prior to his work in Japan served as a missionary in Minnesota and chaplain with the United States Army. Their son, Bob, and his wife were appointed for service in Japan in 1969, the first second-generation missionaries on the foreign board. The public is invited to attend the service.

Tutorial assistance at Veterans administration expense is available to a veteran studying under the GI bill if needed to pass a course essential to his program of education.

Moorhead Named Clearinghouse For Drug Abuse

Moorhead state college was designated recently by the drug abuse section of the Minnesota state planning agency as a regional clearinghouse for spurring the establishment of and coordinating resources for community aid programs for juvenile delinquents and drug abusers in a 10-county area.

Funding was recently authorized by the Minnesota legislative advisory committee to establish six such regional clearinghouses at MSC and five other college campuses in the state. The clearinghouse at MSC was authorized $12,000 initially and it is expected some $30,000 additional will be authorized for fiscal year 1973.

Counties besides Clay which the MSC clearinghouse will serve are Wilkin, Otter Tail, Becker, Big Stone, Douglas, Grant, Norman, Stevens and Traverse.

Primary function of the clearinghouse will be to provide regional coordination of resources, direction of technical assistance and stimulation for communities throughout the 10 counties to encourage the establishment of comprehensive programs of community-based help and treatment for problem youth and adults.

The clearinghouse will provide information on area resource agencies, consultants, speakers, audio-visual and other library resources, on a periodic basis, to community leaders engaged in drug and juvenile delinquency counseling, research and action programs.

Over-all guidance for the regional program will be provided in large part by an advisory council to the clearinghouse which will be composed of key personnel from throughout the regionactive in criminal justice, mental health and comprehensive health planning fields.

Acting director of the clearinghouse in its initial stages will be Dr. Charles E. P. Simmons, dean of the faculties of the social and behavioral sciences and acting dean of the faculties of the arts, humanities and communications at MSC.

Persons interested in more detailed information about the clearinghouse are asked to write Dr. Simmons.

Otter Tail Sets $18 Million For Construction

Otter Tail Power company's directors have approved a general construction budget for 1972 in excess of $18 million, Albert V. Hartl, company president, revealed today.

In reviewing Otter Tail's financial needs over the next five years, Hartl pointed out that during the period from 1972 through 1976 the company will be financing construction costing more than $93 million, the largest amount in any five-year period of the company's history.

Accounting for more than half of the $93 million is the new 440,000-kilowatt Big Stone plant being constructed near Milbank, S.D., by Otter Tail, Northwestern public service company and Montana-Dakota utilities company. Otter Tail's share of the Big Stone Plant costs involves expenditures of $10 million in 1972 and nearly $19 million each of the years 1973 and 1974.

Hartl stated that most of the site preparation work for the new plant has been completed and that actual construction will begin in the spring of 1972. The plant is scheduled to be in operation by May, 1975.

In addition to the $10 million earmarked for the Big Stone plant, the $18 million budget for 1972 includes more than $3.5 million for electric transmission lines and substation work, $2.5 million for electric distribution projects and materials and $700,000 for equipment; tools and supplies.

"One of the greatest challenges facing our company today is to attract the necessary large sums of new investment capital. Because investors compare our financial image with those of other, larger companies in the money market, our image must be a good one," Hartl said. He also expressed his confidence in the Otter Tail management team's ability to meet that challenge.

School Board Convention Opens In St. Paul Mon.

Minnesota School Boards association (MSBA) opens its 51st state-wide convention next Monday in Minneapolis, centering its three-day program on the theme "Views in '72."

Over 3,500 school board members and educators are expected to attend the sessions which will be held in the Minneapolis auditorium and Leamington motel. Registration and the opening of exhibits will be at 8:30 a.m. Monday.

Minnesota Congressman Al Quie and Dr. Paul B. Salmon, executive secretary of the American association of school administrators, will speak at Monday afternoon's general session.

Monday night there will be a "Wage-Price Freeze Up Date" featuring Roy Scott, stabilization public affairs officer for the St. Paul office of internal revenue service.

Tuesday mornings program will be devoted entirely to a discussion of the new public employees' bargaining law. Among the speakers at this session is Vern Buck, director of the bureau of mediation.

Three high school students, Tim Looby, Osseo; David Jorstad, Kenyon; and Terry Branigan, Virginia; will present their views on "Public Schools—Are they Responsive to Pupil Needs?" Tuesday afternoon.

Following the student panel, Duane Mattheis, former commissioner of education in Minnesota and presently deputy United States commissioner of education, will address the delegates.

Highlighting the annual banquet will be the presentation of MSBA's outstanding school board member award and an address by Professor George Walter, Lawrence College, Wisc., one of America's leading platform personalities.

Wednesday's final session will be the annual business meeting. Delegates will elect a new president and vice president and vote on resolutions submitted to the convention by the association's delegate assembly. This session will determine the Minnesota School Boards association's legislative policy for the coming year.

Potato Research Conference Set At Grand Forks

Research committee for the Red River Valley potato growers association has scheduled a potato research conference to be held January 11-12, at the Grand Forks Armory.

Conference will be divided into five discussion groups, covering the areas of economics, marketing, handling, storage, and production. Each area will be thoroughly explored under the leadership of a group discussion chairman.

Dr. Ned D. Bayley, director of science and education for the United States Department of Agriculture will speak to the conference at an evening banquet on Tuesday, January 11. Dr. Bayley is a native of Battle Creek, Michigan. He received his B.S. degree from Michigan state university in 1940, and his Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1950.

From 1963-1964, he attended the Harvard graduate school in business administration. The author of 28 publications in the field of animal science and research administration, Bayley held numerous federal agricultural positions before accepting his position as USDA director of science and education. He has been with the U.S. Department of Agriculture since 1955. In 1970, he was the recipient of a national civil service league award for federal career service.

The growers association and the research committee both urge all interested growers to attend this important research conference and to take advantage of the opportunity to hear Dr. Bayley speak.

David Reeve Is Honored

David C. Reeve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Reeve, 235 S. Maple Ave., Thief River Falls, has been recognized as an outstanding Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFROTC) cadet at the University of North Dakota.

He received the Distinguished AFROTC Cadet Badge for his excellent leadership ability, high moral character and military aptitude.

The cadet, a member of Sigma Chi, is a 1968 graduate of Lincoln high school. His wife, Adele, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Thompson, N.D.

Crop Improving Day Set For Next Monday

Annual crop improvement day for seedsmen, seed growers and elevator managers will be held Monday at the Midland Hills country club located one mile north and one mile west of the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus.

The day-long session will begin with business meetings in the morning for the Minnesota approved seed processors association, the Minnesota seed dealers association and the Minnesota crop improvement association.

Topics to be discussed during the afternoon sessions include increased soybean yields with fertilizer, seed vigor and crop production and the contribution of crops to Minnesota's economy.

Afternoon speakers include soils scientist George Ham and agricultural economist Dale Dahl from the University of Minnesota, and Don Grabe, an agronomist from Oregon state university.

Presiding at the afternoon session will be Albert J. Linck, dean of the university's college of agriculture.

The day's program will conclude with the annual recognition dinner at 6 p.m. Toastmasters for the evening program will be Boone and Erickson, from WCCO Radio.

The premier seed growers and elevator manager awards will be presented at the dinner.

The program is sponsored by the Minnesota crop improvement association, crop quality council and the Minnesota seed dealers association in cooperation with the University of Minnesota institute of agriculture.

SILVERLEAF F.U. LOCAL TO MEET FRIDAY

Silverleaf Farmers Union local will hold its monthly meeting Friday at 8 p.m. at the Jarvis Torgerson home. An interesting program has been planned and lunch will be served by the David Schwartz, Leslie Nelson and Jarvis Torgerson families. A welcome is extended to all.

Never start a car or snow blower in an enclosed area such as the garage. That start could be your finish if carbon monoxide poisoning results.

Man Sentenced On Four Counts Of Negligence

At a special term of the Ninth Judicial District Court held recently Judge Warren A. Saetre committed Gilbert P. Olson Jr. to the custody of the state commissioner of corrections. A jury found Olson guilty on four counts of criminal negligence resulting in death last September 21. He was the driver of one car involved in a two-car accident.

The sentence was stayed for five years and the defendant was committed to the work farm in St. Louis county for a period of 90 days. When this sentence is completed, Olson will return to Roseau county and be placed on probation for the duration of the five-year sentence.

Conditions set by the court for probation included no drinking whatever. Olson was forbidden to enter a tavern, night club or anywhere liquor is sold and was forbidden to own or operate a motor vehicle for a period of two years and then only with permission of the court.

LAMPINEN SKIS

Lampinen skis are manufactured by the oldest ski manufacturer in Finland. Since 1901, the Lampinen ski factory has provided world famous European skiers with the very finest in cross country touring skis. When life depended on it, dependable Finnish skis carried the hardy Finish ski troops during the winter war of 1939-40.

Due to the careful selection of materials and the painstaking workmanship exercised in the manufacturing process, Lampinen skis are produced only in limited quantities to satisfy the demand for a superior touring ski.

Now, for the first time in history, Lampinen skis are made available to the United States market. To own a pair of Lampinen skis is to own skis that are unequalled in beauty, styling, performance and durability.

Lampinen skis from Finland — you'll be proud to own them — and they last and last and last.

New Guidelines Said To Protect Ethnic Groups

Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson has signed proposed guidelines for promoting and insuring equal employment opportunity without regard to religion or national origin in federally-involved contract work.

The guidelines, issued under Executive Order 11240, as amended, were published in the federal register on December 29. They will be applicable to government contractors and subcontractors and to federally-assisted construction contractors and subcontractors.

Department of labor's experience indicates that members of various religious groups and certain ethnic groups continue to be excluded from executive, middle - management and other job levels because of discrimination based on their religion or national origin.

The religious groups are primarily Jews and Catholics and the ethnic groups are mainly persons of Eastern, Middle and Southern European ancestry. The proposed guidelines are intended to remedy unequal treatment by requiring employers to undertake various affirmative action measures. All sanctions of the executive order, including debarment from federal contracts, are applicable for violations.

Employers are expected to undertake the following affirmative action measures:

Communicate internally their obligation to provide equal employment opportunity without regard to religion or national origin.

Enlist the assistance and support of such recruitment sources as employment agencies, college placement directors and business associates for the employer's equal employment opportunity obligation.

Periodically inform all employees regarding the employer's commitment to fair employment practices.

And, where an employer is informed that underutilization of a particular religious or ethnic group exists, he is expected to take a series of affirmative action steps. These include:

1. Reviewing employment records to determine the availability of members of that particular religious or ethnic minority group within his organization who can be promoted or transferred.

2. Establishing meaningful contacts with the appropriate religious and national origin-oriented organizations for purposes of referral of potential employees, advice, education and technical assistance.

3. Initiating the use of the appropriate religious and national origin-oriented press for institutional and employment advertising.

4. Engaging in significant recruitment activities at educational institutions with substantial enrollments of that particular religious or ethnic minority group.

5. Discussing the employer's affirmative action program with leaders of the appropriate religious or ethnic minority community, and request that they refer applicants for employment

When "underutilization" of members of these groups is brought to an employer's attention, he will be required to make available for government compliance reviews certain information on the approximate numbers of the various religious and ethnic minorities employed at job levels in which a question of "underutilization" has been raised.

In addition, employers are encouraged to make reasonable accommodation to the religious needs and observances of employees and applicants who regularly observe their Sabbath on Friday evening, Saturday or some other day or who observe certain religious holidays during the year.

The public will have 30 days after publication to comment on the proposed guidelines.

Executive Order 11246 prohibits discrimination in federally involved contract work and requires government contractors to take affirmative action to achieve equal job opportunity.

Prowler Wrestlers Post 33-14 Win Over Roseau

Prowler wrestlers recorded three pins in the first five matches last night to lead the way for a 33-14 dual meet victory over Roseau on the Rams' home mat.

The Prowlers, now 3-4 in dual meet competition, will take part in the Grand Rapids Invitational Saturday before hosting Park Rapids Tuesday, January 11, in the Lincoln high school gym.

Junior 98 pound Kurt Muzzy started the Prowlers off on the right foot against Roseau with an easy 10-2 win over Dale Jaenicke. Muzzy led 4-2 after one period and added four points in the second and two in the third for the win.

Prowler 105 pounder Lonnie Olson held an 8-0 lead over the Rams' Marlin Nelson until he recorded a pin with 20 seconds remaining in the match for a 9-0 Prowler lead.

Senior Ron Kalinoski posted a 12-0 victory over Tom Derry at 112 for a four point win and a 13-0 Thief River Falls lead. Kalinoski led 7-0 before putting Derry on his back for a two point predicament and a three point nearfall for the lopsided win.

In a battle of freshmen, the Prowlers' Daryl Myers held onto a 4-0 lead before pinning the Rams' Brian Fak with just eight seconds gone in the second period.

Lyle Olson made it two pins in a row for the Prowlers at 126 with a first period fall over Roseau's Steve Bergland to stretch the Prowlers' team lead to 25-0.

Senior Dwight Lissell finally broke through to the win column for the Rams at 132 with a 6-0 blanking of junior Dave Aaker. Lissell scored a two point takedown in the first period and added two third period predicaments.

Thief River Falls' Rick Nordhagen and Roseau's Dale Jensen, a pair of seniors, traded reversals for a 2-2 draw in the 138 pound match for a 27-5 team score.

Prowler senior Perry Omdahl held a slim 1-0 lead going into the third period of the 145 pound match before the Rams' Doyle Grindahl scored three points and a 3-2 victory. Bob Hedlund made it two close wins in a row for the Rams as he nursed a 1-0 first period lead into a win over the Prowlers' Mark Kaushagen at 155 for a 27-11 match score.

Sophomore Steve Sorvig stopped the short Roseau win streak with a 4-0 win over senior Duane Kujava in the 167 pound match. Sorvig scored a two point first period takedown and added a second period reversal for the win.

Mike Grahn made it 30-14 when he handed the Prowlers' Steve Thorstad a 7-2 setback in the 180 pound match. The two seniors battled to a 2-2 draw after two periods, but Grahn scored five points in the third with a predicament and a nearfall.

Senior heavyweight Larry Panek scored a one point escape in the third period for a 7-6 win over Roseau's Orlan Diverstein in the last match of the evening for the final 33-14 count.

Ken Johnson's Prowler B squad recorded another impressive victory with a 60-6 win in the preliminary matches.

Olympic Puck Squad Faces Warroad Sun.

Nearing the end of a 22-game domestic schedule that has seen them travel more than 10,000 miles in the last month, the United States Olympic hockey team will make an appearance in the Thief River Falls sports arena Sunday, January 9, against the Warroad Lakers. Game time will be 3 p.m.

The Olympic schedule has been grueling, but head coach Murray Williamson feels that the play has helped forge the U.S. team into a cohesive unit. "It's always difficult to put together a team that has not played together before," said Williamson, "but these games have helped us bind the club together."

Leading the United States team have been a couple of northern Minnesota products who used to confound the opposition and excite spectators during the state high school hockey tournaments. Forwards Henry Boucha from Warroad and Tim Sheehy from International Falls and Boston College have been the two most effective attackers on the U.S. squad. Both are also currently in the army, as are five other U.S. skaters. Sheehy has been out of action in recent weeks because of an injury, but is expected to be back in the line-up at any time.

Both Boucha and Sheehy, along with Wally Olds, Tom Meller and Jim McElmury were drafted by the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. Boucha was the Wings' second round choice during last June's amateur draft. This was the highest choice ever of an American born and trained player.

The Olympic squad just completed play in the first annual World Cup tournament against Russia and Czechoslovakia at Metropolitan Sports Center and Colorado Springs. The U.S. squad finished 2-2 with 7-5 and 6-3 wins over the Czech squad, but dropping 13-3 and 11-1 games to the powerfull U.S.S.R. team. The U.S. team was scheduled to meet Russia in exhibition games at Philidelphia last night (Tuesday) and at Madison Square Garden in New York tonight before taking on Warroad Sunday. The University of Minnesota will round out the U.S. schedule before the team leaves for Sapporo, Japan and the Winter Olympics beginning February 3.

The Warroad Lakers have been on a current winning streak as they moved to within a half game of first place in the Canadian Central Hockey league. The Lakers clobbered Dryden, Manitoba, 10-2 Sunday to push their season record to 7-2 in the league, behind Kenora's 8-2 mark. The Lakers are 4-0 at home this season, but were scheduled to play at St. Boniface last night (Tuesday) before taking on the Olympics.

Advance tickets for the game can be obtained at Tony Dorn's Inc. Advance ticket prices are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Tickets at the door will be $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students. All seats are reserved with the proceeds of the game going toward the TRF youth hockey program.

The Thief River Falls Bantam and Pee Wee teams will play Roseau in preliminary games beginning at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

NSJC Icemen Meet Champion Voyageurs

Swede Lund's Northland hockey team, currently the only undefeated junior college ice squad in the state, will receive a severe test Friday and Saturday with a key weekend series against defending state champion Rainy River at International Falls.

The Northmen are 6-0 for the season with a 4-0 conference mark to lead once-beaten Rainy River by a single game in the MJCAA standings. The Voyageurs ended Northland's season last year with a 7-1 first round triumph in the state tournament. Rainy River went on to beat Lakewood in overtime for the title.

"We know they have a tough team," said Lund. "We just hope to be able to play even with them and maybe gain at least a split against them. A weekend sweep would really help our chances." Rainy River handed Northland an 8-7 set-back in a pre-season exhibition game at Roseau.

The Northmen will be bolstered on defense this weekend with the addition of freshman Paul Johnson and the return of sophomore John Hellquist. Johnson, a member of last year's Prowler squad, recently finished his service committment while Hellquist has been hobbled by an ankle injury. Another defenseman, Doug Palm of Roseau, will dress for the Rainy River series, but he is still slowed because of injury.

Northland will still go with just two forward lines and two extra skaters. On the first line will be sophomores Rich Ellerbusch, Leo Marshall and Rodney Bolduc while the second attacking line will feature sophomore Bob Lundbohm and freshmen Mark Hughes and John Barger. Leonard Kotta and Roger Erickson will provide relief. Defensive pairs that will work together will find sophomores Jeff Baumgartner and Rick Lindegard forming one set and sophomores Gary Halvorson and Hellquist on the second unit.

Bob Lundbohm

Leo Marshall

Working in the Northland nets will probably be freshman Tom Matanich, although sophomore Maurie Pearson and freshman Dave Steen could also see duty.

Lundbohm is the club's leading scorer with 15 goals and 16 assists for 31 points. The smooth skating center from Roseau is also the team captain. Leo Marshall, sophomore center from Warroad, is second in the scoring parade with eight goals and 16 assists for 24 points.

Everyone Happy With Moose Hunt

Minnesota hunters and department of natural resource game specialists were both pleased at the results of the moose season which came to a close December 19.

Under terms of the limited hunt, a maximum of 400 moose could have been taken by the 1,600 authorized hunters. A final tally showed that 374 moose were actually taken and 1,300 hunters took part in the season.

Of the 400 parties authorized to hunt, 93.5 per cent were successful.

Department game specialists were pleased with the fact that 65.8 per cent of the moose taken were bulls, nearly all of them adults.

Hunters took many fine trophy bulls during October, the widest antler spread measuring 56 and five-eighths inches. In December, however, many of the bulls had shed their antlers. This year they appeared to be dropping their antlers about two weeks earlier than usual.

Only 10 moose were reported as wounded but not recovered by hunters.

Although the season was a success, hunters will have to wait until at least 1973 before another season can be held, according to terms of the law which authorized this year's season.

In fact, new legislation will be required before another moose season can be held at all.

Saturday Cage Program Resumes

Saturday basketball program will continue in the Lincoln high school gym this week with action scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. Boys from all TRF teams are urged to attend.

11-POUND northern was speared by Ahlert Johnson of St. Hilaire on the Red Lake river millpond at St. Hilaire recently. He was fishing in the darkhouse owned by his son Ronald when the hefty fish swam into view. The Johnsons report that a number of other northerns have been taken on the millpond this season.

TRF Sno Drifters Meet Tonight

Thief River Falls Sno Drifters will meet tonight (Wednesday) at 8 o'clock at the golf club. Members are asked to bring their snowmobiles for a ride after the meeting.

Aquarians Host D. L. Thursday

Thief River Falls vocational technical school basketball team will host Detroit Lakes in the Lincoln high school gym tomorrow night (Thursday) in a conference game, beginning at 7:30.

Coach Paul Jacobs' Aquarians own a 1-4 record for the year, winning a 76-40 decision over Bemidji in their last outing December 16.

Snowcats Violate Wildlife Area

Snowmobile operators are reminded of the ban against operating their machines in state-owned wildlife management areas.

Game managers of the department of natural resources report "a higher than usual" number of violations this winter. Under department regulations, all wildlife management areas lying south and west of a line along U.S. Highways Nos. 2, 71, 10 and 210 are closed to snowmobile use.

Purpose of the regulation is to protect pheasants and other game which use the areas as winter cover. In the agricultural portion of the state, the areas frequently provide the only remaining protection from storms and cold weather.

Snowmobiles drive the game out of this cover into open areas where they cannot survive.

Buena Vista Ski Area Is Open

Buena Vista ski area near Bemidji offers skiing each Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Thursday evening under the floodlights from 4:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Special ski instruction is available on the slopes from 10 a.m. to noon, free of charge, to all first day beginners. Special consideration is given to schools or other groups with advance arrangements, according to Earle S. Dickinson of Buena Vista. The ski area is located 12 miles north of Bemidji on Irvine avenue.

Northland Faces Iron Range Foes

Northland state junior college basketball team will pack its gear and head for a weekend series on Minnesota's Iron Range this week as the Northmen tackle potent Vermilion and Mesabi junior colleges.

Northland will take on Vermilion Friday afternoon at Ely, beginning at 5, and will journey to Virginia to play Mesabi Saturday in a 2 p.m. contest.

Vermilion is the defending Northeast Division champion of the MJCAA and is currently ranked seventh among 30 schools in the upper midwest's region 13. The Ironmen are 6-2 for the year with their only losses coming at the hands of number one ranked Golden Valley and to a tough Fergus Falls squad.

Vermilion lost All-MJCAA selections Jim Mitchell and Tony Pecha due to graduation, but three starters return, along with two of the top high school prospects from Minnesota last year. The Ironmen are led by the play of 6-5, 250 pound center Tom Marinaro and 6-0 guard Rick Anderson. Also playing important roles in the Vermilion attack are freshmen Larry Potter and Dick Weber. Potter was an All-State selection for state champion Duluth Central last year.

Although Northland coach Chet Engelman hasn't had an opportunity to watch Mesabi in action this year, he has plenty of respect for the Norsemen from reports he has heard. "They're suppose to have about eleven men of equal ability that they shuttle in and out of their line-up. They don't have much height, but all of their kids are around the 6-3 mark. They have a fine outfit and have been beaten just three times," said Engleman.

Mesabi, 6-3 for the year, is ranked eighth in the region 13 standings.

The Northmen, blessed with a strong bench early in the season, will have just eight men available for the Iron Range series as a result of injuries and illness. One starter, Kent Hanson of Karlstad is still out of the line-up due to an injured knee.

"The key game is Friday against Vermilion," indicated Engelman, "If we can get by them we should be in good shape for the Mesabi contetst. We know we're going there short handed, but we're still going over with the idea to win, and if we could come back with two wins, we'll be in the driver's seat the rest of the way."

Jeff Rhoden Leads LHS Cagers Over Kennedy Rockets 84-52

Thief River Falls used its superior height to post an 84-52 basketball victory over Kennedy last night in the Lincoln high school gym to up the Prowler season record to 6-2.

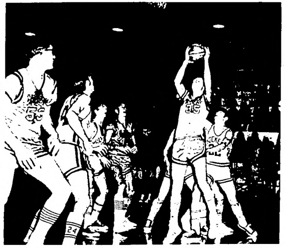
The Prowlers will try to add to their modest four game win streak Friday night when they host Bagley in the Lincoln gym. Game time will be 8 o'clock with junior varsity play scheduled for a 6:15 starting time.

Junior Jeff Rhoden paced the Prowler attack against Kennedy with an outstanding performance that was aided by the presence of team captain Rande Smith. Rhoden used his 6-3 height to pull down 20 rebounds while also leading the Prowler scorers with 24 points. Four Prowlers reached double figures with Tom Kays netting 19 and Rande, along with Kent Smith, getting 12. That foursome also led the Prowler rebounding with Rande pulling down 12 and Kent Smith and Kays grabbing 9 caroms. Thief River Falls held a commanding 57-23 rebound advantage over the Rockets who were able to present just one man standing 6-0 or better.

Kennedy managed to stay within striking range at the outset of the contest until Kent Smith's three point play with 4:08 remaining in the first quarter gave the Prowlers a 10-3 lead. The Prowlers led by nine, 18-9, at the end of the first quarter after holding their biggest first quarter lead at 18-7.

Thief River Falls continued to pull away in the second canto as Rande Smith, seeing spot duty for only the second time this season, stuffed in a rebound for a 43-20 Prowler lead with 1:09 left in the half. Rhoden's short jumper gave the Prowlers a 45-22 lead with 35 seconds remaining, matching the Prowlers' biggest lead of the first half.

After holding a 21-point, 45-24 halftime lead, the Prowlers really turned on the coals in the second half as they pulled out to a 69-37 third quarter lead. Kays made a nice move to get inside his defender for an easy lay-up with 6:20 remaining in the game to give the Prowlers their biggest margin of the contest, 77-37.



ORDEAN PETERSON gained position to pull down this rebound during last night's Thief River Falls - Kennedy game in the Lincoln high school gym. Prowler teammates Tom Kays (53) and Jeff Rhoden (43) watch the play, along with Kennedy's Mark Eukel (24) and Scott Swenson (22). The Prowlers upped their season record to 6-2 with an 84-52 drubbing of the Rockets. The Prowlers will be back in action Friday night when they host Bagley in the LHS gym, beginning at 8 p.m.

The Prowlers shot 47 per cent from the field against the Rockets, hitting 35 of 75. Kennedy, forced to take many long-range desperation shots, managed to shoot just 30 per cent from the field, hitting 25 of 65 attempts.

The Prowler junior varsity was also a winner for the evening as they posted a come from behind 62-41 win over the Kennedy JV's. The teams played to a 16-16 stand-off after one quarter before Kennedy went in front 32-28 at the half. Thief River Falls out-scored Kennedy 34-9 in the second half for the easy win.

Four players hit double figures for the Prowlers in the JV game with Randy Dahlmann and Jeff Wendt netting 14 and Tom Hanson, along with Dave Forney getting 10.

Bemidji Defeats Franklin 53-31

Bemidji freshmen handed the Franklin junior high basketball team a 53-31 defeat Tuesday afternoon in the Lincoln high school gym.

The loss left the Spartans with a 1-3 record with their next game scheduled January 15 in the LHS gym against Newfolden.

Bemidji ran up a 17-2 first quarter lead and maintained a 27-7 halftime margin before Franklin finally found its shooting eye in the second half. The Spartans out-scored Bemidji 16-13 in the third quarter to go into the final canto trailing 40-23.

John McRae led all scorers with 17 for Bemidji while teammate Dale VanHouse added 11. Gary Young paced Franklin with 11 points while Jerry Sandahl added 10.

Golden Glove Boxing Card Features Bouts Tonight

Golden Glove boxing matches begin tonight (Wednesday) at 8:15 in the Thief River Falls city auditorium with a 14-fight card scheduled.

Local fighters who will see action on tonight's card include Bud Comstock, Brian Waale, Jeff Langlie, Pat Tuseth and Charlie Anderson. The card will also feature fighters from Cass Lake, Roseau, Warroad, Beltrami, Grand Forks, Crookston and Langdon, N.D.

Comstock, a hard-punching lightweight, will take on aggressive Gordon Haugen of Roseau in a 135 pound match-up. Comstock made his ring debut December 8 when he recorded a TKO win over Clyde Cornelluson of Roseau. Haugen defeated Wahpeton's Dave Miller on the same card.

Young Brian Waale will go against Scott Larson at 123 pounds. Larson, from Roseau, will be seeing his first ring action while Waale, whom coach Wally Hyde says is "developing into a very clever boxer," will be after his second win in three fights.

Jeff Langlie will meet Crookston's Veages at 130 pounds. "Jeff is a good body puncher and has looked good while splitting two fights," said Hyde.

Pat Tuseth of Beltrami, now working with the Thief River Falls squad, will go up against tough Tyler Robinson of Cass Lake in a battle of 195 pounders. Tuseth has appeared on previous TRF cards and is considered a hard puncher. Robinson has also appeared here before, beating Warroad's Jim Gay in the first card of the season November 3.

Another local favorite on tonight's card will be Charlie Anderson, an East Grand Forks product working with the TRF squad while attending the TRF area vocational-technical school. Anderson has posted two tough triumphs on the local cards and will probably fight in the Wahpeton regional tournament this season after winning the lightweight championship last year. The southpaw swinger will take on Dale Schneider in the main event tonight. Schneider is an experienced fighter who is expected to give Anderson a real battle in the 135 pound class.

Other fighters from the Thief River Falls district appearing on tonight's card include Mike Grahn, a light heavyweight from Roseau who has recorded two TKO wins in his only ring appearances. Hyde rates Grahn the best combination puncher and boxer in the district. The 178 pounder will meet experienced Allen Cloud of Cass Lake.

Jeff Larson, another promising welterweight from Roseau, will fight a tough Ritchie Ames of Langdon. Larson has had limited experience but has shown marked improvement with each fight. Mike Kane, head wrestling coach at Roseau, makes his boxing debut at 118 pounds when he takes on Ed Helle of Grand Forks.

Crookston favorite Brad LaFriniere will try for his third win in four fights when he takes on Ed Obergon of Grand Forks at 139 pounds. The LaFriniere-Obergon fight will be a rematch of the last TRF card when the Grand Forks fighter got by LaFriniere on a close decision.

In what could be the best bout of the card, Dennis Tuseth, a fighting cousin of Pat, takes on Bob Snook of Crookston in a 150 pound bout. Both fighters are rated as tough competitors who like to mix things up. Also on tonight's card will be Vince Lowry of Cass Lake versus Dean Metzger of Langdon at 150 pounds and Donny Morgan of Cass Lake against Wayne Cole of Warroad in a 98 pound match-up.

Tickets will be available at the door, which will open at 7 p.m. The card is co-sponsored by the TRF Eagles Club and Wally Hyde.

LHS Pucksters Take On Jacks

Jim Smalley's high-ranking Bemidji Lumberjacks invade the Thief River Falls sports arena Saturday night for a head-on region eight clash with John Schmitz' Lincoln high school hockey team. Game time will be 8 o'clock, with junior varsity competition beginning at 6:15.

The Lumberjacks were ranked fifth in the latest Minneapolis Tribune prep puck poll. Bemidji carries a 7-1 record into Saturday's confrontation with wins over Cloquet, Hibbing, Duluth Cathedral, Thief River Falls, Moorhead and an 11-0 win last night over Indus. The Jacks' only loss of the year came at the hands of a strong Grand Rapids club.

Bemidji pulled out a 4-3 win over the Prowlers in an early season game at Bemidji when the Lumberjacks overcame a 2-0 first period deficit in a closely fought contest.

The Jacks are a veteran club with nine seniors, many of whom have been regulars for three seasons. Bemidji lost just two players due to graduation this season. Top skaters for the Jacks include senior center Ed Demery and senior wings Dave Howe, Ray Fowler, Dan McGinty and Pat Russell. On defense the Jacks are led by the play of All-State candidate Gary Sargent. Sophomore goalie Jeff Wizner has performed remarkably well for the Jacks this season, and he is backed up by veteran Charles Ward.

The Prowlers are 4-4 for the season with wins over East Grand Forks, Crookston, Eveleth and St. Paul Hill. Losses have come at the hands of Bemidji, Grand Forks Red River, Virginia and Anoka.

The Prowlers will be led by the play of senior center Mike Hamilton who has collected 11 goals and 4 assists for 15 points in the Prowlers' first eight games.

The local skaters will also see action Saturday night when they travel to Roseau for a meeting with the rival Rams.

Hockey Meeting Set Tonight 8 p.m.

An organizational meeting for men's hockey will be held tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in the office of the park and recreation department, located in the basement of the city auditorium.

U of M Prof Tells Of Many "Hustles"

by Bill Hafling
University News Service

The Christmas shopping bustle is just one of many. The reason there are so many "hustlers" is that they are so many "fish."

What's a hustle?

"Dictionaries tell us that to hustle is to shake, push or shove roughly; jostle; often to force roughly or hurriedly as into, out of, or through a place," Professor Gregory Stone of the University of Minnesota reminds. A sociologist, Stone has made studies of shopping behavior, games and sports, and hustling in all areas of human endeavor.

The real meaning of a hustle is subtle. Hustlers know it but the "fish" may not be aware of it. "Fish" to a hustler means "rank fish"—i.e., a sucker. A funny thing about fish is that they can often see that they're being hustled, but this doesn't keep them from either paying or playing.

"Sport fans are good fish," said Stone, who resembles a somewhat diabolical Santa in shape, white hair and beard.

The Christmas shopping hustle is well known to many. With just "so many shopping days 'til Christmas" the fish swarm out to buy the gifts. Most fish know that the prices of everything they are buying will be lower after New Years Day. A few even consider buying gifts early in the year for later presentation at Christmas time.

A minority of wary ones, probably potential hustlers themselves, know that a lot of stores are going to "panic out" just before Christmas and go shopping for the bargains available a day or two before the big event.

"A got of fish know they pay much more than the stuff inside," Stone observes, "but this doesn't keep them from buying."

Hustles Are Everywhere

"Even before Ralph Nader came along, people were aware of the hustling done by big business," Stone said. "Tax cheating, political lobbying, merchandising and advertising gimmicks are just a few of the better known business hustles."

Stone recently returned from a conference on sport and social deviance in New York. At a session on "Beyond the Rules of Sport," Stone and E. Louis Mahigel presented a paper on "Hustling as a Way of Life."

Mahigel also demonstrated card techniques, proving that a good dealer can deal you any hand he wants you to have, before your eyes, and with you doing the shuffling. After Mahigel's demonstration, he and Stone were incredulous when several other professors wanted to get up a "friendly game" of poker with them.

Holding up a flashlight he'd just bought, Stone demonstrated that even an expert can get hustled. "I didn't notice until I had it home that I'd bought a 'sealed beam' flashlight," he said. "This means when the bulb burns out I'll have to pay to replace the whole unit. This same hustle has been used on automobiles for years and no one questions it.

"Faucet washers are another example. Your faucet leaks and you go to get a washer. What do you get to buy at the store? A sealed plastic bag full of assorted washers. You're lucky if one of them fits your faucet when you get home. The rest you throw onto America's growing garbage heap. The stores are full of 'bargains' like these.

"Our real problem is not how to produce things. We have machines available that can produce practically anything people want. They don't require a big labor force. Our big problem now is how to distribute the goods of our society more equitably. Not having solved this problem, people are still concerned with unemployment. We could be proud of unemployment, if people did not have to go hungry. Instead, many people work at jobs that machines could do easier.

Sports Build Character?

"Freezing baseballs, moving the fences and grooming the infield are well-known ways of changing the odds in baseball," Stone has found.

"In football, whether or not the ball is over-or under-inflated can make a big difference. If a team is facing good receivers, they can over-inflate the ball to get it past them and into the end zone. If they're facing weak receivers, they kick an under-inflated ball to make sure they get it on the twenty. Asking to check the ball for pressure is one good way to under-inflate the ball when the game calls for it.

"Shirt and trunk-holding is another trick you can often see if you're watching for it. A basketball center who is quick with his hands can hold another center's shorts while he goes up for the jump ball with his other hand," Stone said. Everyone is watching the ball, even the referee. The other center may not even be aware that he's been hustled."

Big-time wrestling is another hustle where the fans see the hustle happening but keep coming back for more. "The typical rabid wrestling fan is the blue-collar worker's wife and wrestling is the great American passion play," Stone said, "a drama carefully acted out with elaborate signals. As one wrestler grabs another he taps him on the shoulder, for example, so that he'll know which side to fall on. Throwing three-hundred pounds around could be extremely difficult otherwise.

"The dramatic match is called a 'working' match by the wrestlers and the fans love it. Fans don't go for a 'shooting' match where the wrestlers really compete in earnest because such matches are too dull to watch. This explains the low attendance at college wrestling matches. The pros don't like to 'shoot' a match either because it is more dangerous and hurts their fan appeal. They have to fake it—even fake at cheating."

Stone is a member of a University of Minnesota Student Association committee investigating such questions as what sports contribute to the intellectual life of the university, and what the university scene is supposed to be in relation to what sports are. "There's plenty of room for candor and honesty in looking at such questions," Stone said.

"Viewing social interaction or human life from a 'game' perspective is only one way of looking at things. But people should remember: where there's a game, there's a hustle."

Aerial Spraying For Weeds Tops Insect Control

Aerial applications of pesticides for weed-control topped insect control in Minnesota this year, according to a preliminary report from the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Reports from 90 of the 126 licensed aerial pesticide applicators revealed that weed control operations were applied on 939,185 acres, and insect and plant disease controls on 619,097 acres.

European corn borer control flights accounted for the biggest acreage, 345,181, among the 33 categories of aerial pesticide applications. Weed control in wheat was second, with 311,828 acres treated. Also in the top five were weed control on 191,060 acres of corn, 188,312 acres of oats, and 156,822 acres of barley.

Mosquito control came in third among aerial insecticide applications, with 70,685 acres treated. In second place in the insect control category was 79,839 acres of potatoes.

Aerial operations for agriculture this year, reflected by the special survey, also included fertilizing of 7,436 acres, and grain and legume seeding of 5,748 acres.

Use of specially equipped aircraft for brush control in pastures, forests, and along ditches, power and telephone lines accented for 8,005 acres, boosting the total Minnesota acreage treated by aircraft in Minnesota this year to 1,564,287, according to J. R. Sandve, senior entomologist in the department's plant industry division.

Insect control by aircraft this year was almost twice the 1970 acreage treated.

State To Survey 300 Farms For Statistical Info

About 300 farms in 10 Minnesota counties will be part of a nationwide special survey of farmers' production expenditure patterns, Agriculture Commisioner Jon Wefald announced today.

Counties selected for Minnesota's sampling in the first such survey since 1955 are: Lyon, Renville, Blue Earth, Fillmore, Steele, Wright, Pine, Polk, Chippewa and Kandiyohi.

Purpose of the survey is to update the statistical information used in determining Minnesota and national farm cost-price indexes, one of the major tools used in measuring the vital agricultural economy.

According to David Taylor, Minnesota agricultural statistician in charge, the survey will employ an extensive questionnarie to be complpted by personal interviews with each of the farm families selected. It will inventory the types and amounts of goods and services farmers buy to produce their crop and livestock products.

Prior to the actual survey in February, 1972, two special schools will be held to train involved personnel. Doug Darling and Cecil Foss of the Minnesota department of agriculture state-federal crop and livestock reporting service enumerative survey section will attend an instructors' school in ElPaso Texas, January 17-21. On their return they will train the 15 enumerators who will be selected from the present Minnesota staff for the actual field interviews.

Farms to be surveyed are now being selected by computers in Washington, D.C., from the master list of 4,823 farms selected in the ten Minnesota counties. Individual farm data obtained in the survey will be confidential.

Taylor said the ten Minnesota counties selected have about one-fifth of the total of 26,826 farms in this state that had over $20,000 gross sales receipts, one of the criteria for a portion of the sample.

Nationally, the survey will obtain detailed price-cost information from about 10,000 farms in 396 counties.

Interest Payment to First Federal Savers ...

partners in the $200 Billion savings and loan business

This association is one of 5,700 nationwide holding the funds of savers, such as ours, in over 48 million accounts.

Your community benefits two ways from the savings entrusted to us. Savers earn a good interest rate on every dollar placed in their accounts. These savings, plus earnings, become the source for the extras that make life more pleasant.

Hundreds of home buyers share the second benefit. We loan them 95% of the savings on deposit here to help them own their homes debt-free.

You can help yourself . . . and your community . . . during 1972. Open an account or add to savings in January. That way you'll maximize the interest dollars your savings can earn.

That's what makes saucers exciting — no telling where you'll land! No steering . . . no brakes . . . no telling which way you'll turn or how fast you'll go.

Swirling may be exciting on a snow-laden hill. It's something else again on the rugged slopes of life. So many parents who want the very best for their youngsters are living with the gnawing fear of how a child's future may unfold.

The Church offers sound answers to our fear. Religious training provides steering in a human life. Moral principles become the necessary brakes. And for the continuing uphill climb which beckons and challenges youthful souls, faith unlocks the resources of spiritual power.

"The individual must be free, able to develop to the utmost of his ability, employing all opportunities that confront him for his own and his family's welfare; otherwise he is merely a cog in a machine. The society must be stable, assured against violent upheaval and revolution; otherwise it is nothing but a temporary truce with chaos. But freedom for the individual must never degenerate into the brutish struggle for survival that we call barbarism. Neither must the stability of society ever degenerate into the enchained servitude of the masses that we call statism." —Dwight D. Eisenhower

War On Disease

There are people who would have the American public believe that our nation is filled with greedy, self-centered citizens who have no compassion for other people of the world. The following editorial from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review indicates only a part of the humanitarian effort this nation has expended over the years:

Uncle Sam is frequently depicted as a big, bruising, selfish and arrogant world power, intent only on improving his own lot.

Anyone who pays attention to the actions of this country knows better. No nation has shown more concern for its neighbors of the world. No country contributes more of its money and skills to aid others. That is as it should be, for the United States has been blessed to a measure far beyond the dreams of most other countries.

It is important now and then, however, to pause and consider some of the worthwhile efforts of the United States. One project is the campaign to eliminate smallpox. If all goes as expected, that goal will soon be reached. In May of 1965, President Lyndon B. Johnson instructed the U.S. delegation to the 18th World Health assembly in Geneva to pledge American support "for an international program to eradicate smallpox completely from the earth within the next decade."

"As long as smallpox exists anywhere in the world, no country is safe from it," the message declared. "This dread disease spreads so rapidly that even a single case creates the threat of an epidemic. It is clear that every nation of the world, whether or not it has experienced smallpox in recent years, has a major stake in a worldwide eradication program."

No case of smallpox has been reported in the United States for the past 22 years. Yet this nation clearly felt a duty to help. The ten-year campaign which started has become an impressive example of U.S. initiative and participation in a cooperative humanitarian endeavor.

What have been the results? The tide has clearly turned against smallpox which is fast becoming a rare disease. The incidence of actual cases worldwide declined by more than 70 per cent in the first three years of the program. By mid-1971, only nine countries reported smallpox still present within their borders as compared to 43 countries with the disease when the program started in 1966. The discovery of freeze-dried vaccines, the development of jet injection guns, mobile teams and the concerted efforts of the World Health organization (WHO) have been responsible.

United States foreign aid funds totaling about $30,000,000 have been expended in a combined smallpox and measles campaign in West and Central Africa. In another two or three years, smallpox may cease to threaten human life anywhere in the world.

Although new technology deserves the credit for much of the progress, it is well to remember that the most important factor in the drive was the determination of good people to help those who were in trouble. No success of this type can be measured in dollars and cents. It must be considered in the light of love for fellowmen.

Era Of Dependency

Following editorial appeared recently in the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Pick up your newspaper any day of the week and you must conclude that we are indeed living in an era of "dependency."

Drugs are a daily feature, returning veterans, we are told, are dependent on drugs in alarming numbers. Less conspicious but equally menacing is the growing number of American adults who are dependent on that other overpowering drug—alcohol. And all indications now point to the fact that tobacco might well be something more than merely a bad and hazardous habit.

Then, of course, we also have the "establishment"—the government itself upon which we are increasingly dependent. We have "dependent" to fall back on when we are in need of food, shelter, medical care, transportation and a myriad of other services. We complain bitterly when the taxes are due, but we scream to high heaven when the services these taxes provide are no longer available.

Is it unreasonable to suggest that millions of Americans could become a little more "dependent" on themselves, and a little less dependent on the crutches so many of us have so willingly accepted?

Highway Bird Watching

Several area papers have published the following list of strange birds to be seen on our highways. Perhaps we may recognize ourselves as one of the species listed.

The Red-Eyed Veerer: Is he drunk or tired? You can't be sure—but this bird, usually spotted late in the day, meanders from lane to lane in an erratic manner. He may be traveling much in excess of or much below the posted speed limit. A nodding head motion may be the tip-off when you approach him. Pass with care.

The Gray-Tufted Dowager: This dainty little bird is usually found perched in a huge chrome-festooned nest out of which she can barely see through the spokes of the steering wheel. She may be accompanied by a species of the Garbled Chatterer which distracts her attention. From the rear, these birds can be spotted by constant wing motions which accompany their chirping and by the way they constantly look at each other to make sure the other is still there. Watch out for them for they may not be watching out for you.

The Scarlet Teenager: Most youthful drivers accept the adult responsibility that driving entails, but there are a few who see every other car on the road the way Don Quixote saw windmills: for some reason they have to prove their cars and their driving abilities are better. They may react unpredictably to real or imagined slights from other drivers, turning scarlet and stomping on the accelerator. (Note: May be accompanied by a Snuggling Chick which may give the appearance of a two-headed bird due to her close roosting. If so, beware that the driver may not be aware).

The Great-Horned Grouch: This bird sounds a blaring call as he perches on your back bumper. The best thing to do is not to speed up (he will, too), but maintain your speed, signal that you will pull over and let him fly by—hopefully into the talons of the Gold-Crested Speeder Catcher.

The Dim-Bulbed Fender-Nicker: This bird is a mobile slob. You can spot it by broken or burned-out tail lights, headlights and turn signals as well as a dull plumage often mottled with battle scars and rust. His flight is as sloppy as his appearance, and physically he may be suffering from bald tires, loose steering or bad brakes.

The Homing Pigeon: This bird could be you returning to the nest with your flock after a long vacation drive. Don't let the fledglings, the cooing mate or the other birds ruffle your feathers. Of all the creatures in the aviary, this is the one you most often have to watch like a hawk.

Brain Teaser

So you think you have an alert mind that is good at figuring things out and making logical conclusions. Try your hand (or your head) at this brain teaser which we borrowed from the column by Mrs. Floyd Strand in the Morris Tribune. The answer is provided, but see if you can figure it out before having to read it.

A railroad train had a crew of three, and three passengers, traveling between Chicago and New York. The train crew is made up of an engineer, a brakeman and a guard. Their names are Smith, Jones, and Robinson, but not necessarily in that order. The passengers are Smith, Jones, and Robinson but will be referred to as Mr. Smith, Mr. Jones and Mr. Robinson.

Mr. Robinson lives in New York, Mr. Jones' annual salary is $5,000. The guard lives half-way between New York and Chicago and his namesake lives in Chicago. The guard's closest neighbor is one of the passengers and his annual salary is exactly three times that of the guard.

Smith beat the brakeman at billiards.

The problem: What is the name of the engineer?

Answer:

The guard could not have been named Robinson, for Mr. Robinson lives in New York. Since his "closest neighbor" is one of the passengers that means he could not be located in Chicago or New York. He is an equal distance from both of these. It is likely that Mr. Jones' annual salary of $5,000 could not be exactly three times that of the guard's salary since a third of that is an uneven fraction, and it is not likely that the guard's salary could be $1,666.66 and two-thirds. That means Mr. Jones must have lived in Chicago. That would make the guard's name Jones.

Smith beat the brakeman at billiards. Therefore the fireman's name could not be Smith. If the guard's name is Jones, then the brakeman's name must be Robinson.

By elimination that makes the engineer's name Smith.

Potato Crop Is Smaller Than First Estimate

Special survey by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture indicates that Minnesota's 1971 bumper crop of potatoes wasn't as big as earlier estimated.

New data indicates total production of 14,850,000 hundredweight. That is a reduction of 1,848,000 hundredweight from the November estimate. Although 30 per cent larger than the 1970 crop, the new Minnesota figure is only 1,350,000 hundredweight larger than the big 1969 crop.

Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald expressed hope the new official production estimate will breathe new life and a healthy price increase into the sagging potato market.

"Potato prices have taken a brutal beating this fall, mainly on the premise that we have a regional surplus crop.' The hundredweight price dropped 25 cents between October 15 and November 15, and at $1.10 was 40 cents below the November 1970 market. The $1.10 to the grower gets down near or below his actual production costs," Commissioner Wefald said.

Because of grower concern for the apparent surplus and depressed market, Commissioner Wefald is currently conducting a special mail referendum, polling nearly 1,000 producers on whether to ask the U.S. department of agriculture to authorize a voluntary potato diversion program. Results of the referendum will not be determined until after the December 20 deadline for return of poll questionnaires.

Revised production figures reflect a 7,700-acre reduction in total acreage harvested, due in large part to the early onset of winter weather in the Red River valley forcing abandonment of potatoes frozen in the ground. Special survey data also shaved the average yield to 165 hundredweight per acre, compared to the November estimate of 171 hundredweight.

Prime Candidate For Stroke Is Defined By Ass'n.

A profile of a "prime candidate" for a stroke due to closure of a brain artery has been sketched by the American Heart association. It includes "risk factors" that make a person stroke-prone, and it adds that high blood pressure is "the commonest, most potent" risk factor found in candidates for stroke.

Since a person may have high blood pressure for many years without feeling any sumptoms, periodic medical checks are encouraged so that, if necessary, treatment can be given before blood vessels in the brain are damaged.

The profile is contained in a statement prepared for the medical community by a nationwide panel of experts serving on the association's council on cerebrovascular disease. The findings commonly associated with increased risk of stroke include:

(1) High blood pressure.

(2) A history of brief, short-lived "small strokes".

(3) A variety of heart abnormalities which can be detected by medical examination and x-ray.

(4) Evidence of hardening of the arteries in other parts of the body; the heart, neck and the legs.

(5) Diabetes.

(6) Increased levels of blood cholesterol and other fats.

The risk of a stroke mounts rapidly the more of these risk factors a person has, the statement says. Other, less well documented risk factors include:

(1) Cigarette smoking.

(2) High levels of red blood cells.

(3) The presence of gout.

The statement stresses the importance of correcting all these risk factors in an attempt to prevent stroke. It adds that there are many reasons to believe that stroke is not an inevitable accident of nature, but is the end result of a chain of events set in motion many years earlier and the earlier these events can be corrected the better.

The group which developed the report was headed by Dr. William B. Kannel and included Drs. F. William Blaisdell, Ray Gifford, William Hass, Fletcher McDowell, John S. Meyer, Clark H. Millikan, Lewis E. Rentz and Raymond Seltser.

Interstate Now 76% Complete Across Nation

With 32,392 miles open to traffic out of a total projected 42,500 miles of Interstate highways, the system is now 76 per cent complete, according to a recent release from the department of transportation. In addition to this, 4,115 miles are under construction, 4,386 miles of engineering and right-of-way are in progress and 1,607 miles are either in preliminary status or not yet in progress.

In Minnesota the total designated Interstate mileage is 914.13 out of which, according to the report, 600.06 miles or 65.6 per cent are open to traffic. Under construction are 155.28 miles, 137.47 in engineering or right-of-way and 21.32 in either preliminary status or not yet in progress.

Minnesota's total Interstate cost to date is $772 million out of which $649 million is federal funding. Cost of projects still under way or authorized is $304.3 million out of which $272.5 million is federal.

Jumping to 32,392 miles from 30,595 a year ago, 1,797 miles were opened to traffic during the past 12 months.

Serving both civilian and defense needs, and carrying over 20 per cent of all traffic, the Interstate system will be the nation's key highway network. Congress has required that projects be planned to accommodate adequately the traffic anticipated 20 years beyond their design period.

Most of the mileage now open, exclusive of tolls, was built or improved under the federal-aid Interstate program (90 per cent federal, 10 per cent state) launched in 1956. Some of it, however, was financed before 1956, under other programs, but in many cases with federal aid.

Each state receives a yearly apportionment of federal funds for work on approved Interstate system routes. The apportionment of $4.044 billion for fiscal year 1972 was announced Dec. 31, 1970. The preliminary scheduling and actual construction of Interstate routes are the responsibility of the states, subject to review by the federal highway administration.

Some $45.39 billion has been put to work on the Federal-aid Interstate program since the accelerated program began in 1956. Work completed since July 1, 1956, has cost $33.34 billion, of which $27.52 billion was for construction and $5.82 billion for engineering and right-of-way acquisition. As of Sept. 30, 1971, work estimated to cost $12.05 billion was underway or authorized, including $8.28 billion of construction, and $3.77 billion of engineering and right-of-way acquisition.

On Minnesota's federal-aid primary and secondary highway systems the total cost since July 1, 1956, is 638.8 million out of which $321.1 million is federal. Primary and secondary projects underway or authorized total $140.5 million out of which the federal share is $66.6 million.

The federal share of the federal-aid-highway-program is wholly financed by highway users on a pay-as-you-build basis. The highway revenue act of 1956 earmarked their revenue specifically to a highway trust fund, which is the source of money for federal highway aid to the states for bth the Interstate and the primary-secondary-urban programs. The taxes earmarked to the trust fund and their rates (until October 1, 1977) are:

Motor Fuel: Four cents per gallon;

New trucks, buses and trailers: 10 per cent on the manufacturer's wholesale price;

Highway vehicle tires and tubes: 10 cents per pound.

Other tires and tread rubber: five cents per pound.

Heavy vehicle use: $3 per 1,000 pounds annually on the total gross weight of vehicles rated at more than 26,000 pounds gross weight.

Parts and accessories: eight per cent on the manufacturer's wholesale price of truck and bus parts and accessories.

Lubricating oil: six cents per gallon, if used for highway purposes.

Chances are there's a lot of cash laying around your house. The only trouble is you can't spend it because it's tied up in no longer used furniture, appliances, tools, sports equipment. Turn those frozen assets into cash by selling them with a Times' Classified Ad.

City Sets Records In Power, Water Use

New records in use of electric power and water in Thief River Falls were set again in 1971, according to figures prepared for publication by Morris Owen, superintendent of utilities.

Kilowatt hours used by Thief River Falls consumers totaled 48,888,018 during 1971, surpassing by 4,835,910 the previous record consumption of 44,052,108 in 1970. The increase amounted to 10.9 per cent.

Total gallons of water pumped in 1971 were 400,419,000 for an increase of 19,974,900 over the 380,516,100 gallons pumped in 1970. Percentage of increase for 1971 over 1970 was 5.2 per cent.

Owen also reported that the sewerage flow for 1971 was metered at 431,602,250 gallons. Sewerage flow exceeds water pumped due to private wells used by several local processing firms.

Peak load during the record year of electrical use came at 4:30 p.m. on December 16 when the load was 11,040 kilowatts. This compared with peak load of 9,641 kilowatts in 1970 for an increase of 1,399 kilowatts or 14.5 per cent.

Of the total 48,888,018 kilowatts used, the city generated 3,634,200 kilowatts with its turbines and occasional use of its diesel engines. The remaining 45,263,818 kilowatts were purchased from the U.S. bureau of reclamation.

August was by far the peak month for water use when 51,511,000 gallons were pumped. Greatest use on any one day was on August 19 when 2,178,000 gallons of water were pumped. Next closest month in water use was September when the pumping record showed 41,767,000 gallons.

Monthly pumping record for the city's water treatment plant includes the following:

Month	Gallons
January	27,179,000
February	23,942,000
March	27,785,000
April	28,908,000
May	29,260,000
June	29,661,000
July	37,042,000
August	51,511,000
September	41,767,000
October	39,854,000
November	35,782,000
December	27,800,000
Total	400,491,000

Power use for the year on a monthly basis included the following:

Month	Kilowatts
January	4,890,216
February	4,101,840
March	4,102,674
April	3,625,872
May	3,484,248
June	3,472,908
July	3,697,060

November	4,362,280
December	4,921,068

AFTER ADJOURNMENT of the formal meeting called by Education Commissioner Howard Casmey at the Goodridge school gymnasium Wednesday evening, many of the people attending remained to visit, discuss what was said or unsaid, or just wait and see if anything else would happen. Attendance at the meeting was approximately 350 people, with one observer estimating that "at least 80 per cent" were from the Grygla district. Shortly after this photo was taken, Commissioner Casmey went into session with the Goodridge school board. Arrangements were made for a combined meeting with the Grygla board of education, Goodridge board of education and Commissioner Casmey in February. The commissioner is shown with his back to the camera in the photo above (circle at right), visiting with State Representative Andrew Skaar of Thief River Falls and Harry Solberg of Goodridge.

CONGRESSMAN Bob Bergland listens to one of a number of farmer complaints about Farmers Home administration (FHA) loaning practices in the area during a meeting held Friday afternoon at the Rex cafe in Thief River Falls. Seated at right is Robert Kinsman of Thief River Falls, the congressman's liaison representative for this area. While in the city Congressman Bergland visited several of the schools, including the vocational school and junior college.

Rep. Bergland Hears Local FHA Problems

Problems relating to adequate financing through the Farmers Home administration (FHA) in this area were presented to Congressman Robert Bergland during his visit in Thief River Falls on Friday. A meeting to discuss the situation had been called for 4 p.m. at the Rex cafe and a number of farmers attended to ask questions or express opinions.

Congressman Bergland made several appearances in the city during his visit here. He was at the area vocational-technical school and at the Northland state junior college in the morning, at the high school in the afternoon, and took part in news media interviews before the meeting at the Rex cafe.

In opening remarks, the congressman said he had introduced legislation to change the FHA county administration to a farmer-elected committee, whereby every application for a loan would be approved or rejected by the committee rather than a supervisor. The farmer committee would also serve as an appeal board to which the farmer could present his case. Bergland said he believed that chances of the bill being passed are "pretty good." FHA boards are presently politically appointed.

"I'm not satisfied with the national result of the FHA in that there have been practically no losses," the congressman said. A program designed to give aid to farmers who are unable to obtain commercial credit should be expected to have a larger loss factor than has been experienced.

"I do not blame the local supervisors," Bergland added. "The problem is in the FHA authority under the law and a general tightening up of funds available." He said that people who are not "bankable"—those hit by repeated crop losses or young people who need a large amount of capital to get started—face an impossible task of obtaining money for farming.

PROBLEMS relating to agricultural financing through the Farmers Home administration (FHA) were discussed by Congressman Bob Bergland (center) during his visit to Thief River Falls Friday. He is shown following the meeting, talking with Dean Nelsen (right) who farms northeast of Thief River Falls and helped arrange the meeting with the congressman.

Bergland also said he would like to see the appraisal procedures changed. Presently the county supervisors conduct the appraisal, determining the value of land on which loans are

Remind Farmers Of Workshop On Farm Business

Area farmers are reminded of the farm business planning workshops currently being held by the University of Minnesota extension service. Second meeting in the series will be held on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in the courthouse meeting room.

"Bring along your farm records for this meeting. Examples of profit potentials from alternate farm enterprise combinations will be discussed," states Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension agent.

SS Recipients Earning $1,680 To File Report

Every beneficiary who stopped his social security benefits in 1971 because he earned over $1,680 ~~will receive~~ an annual report form by mail to complete. He should wait for this form and make his report on it, Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security, advised today.

The blank, which should come by January 15, has identifying information on it so that the completed form can be processed by computers. These are processed ahead of reports that do not contain pre-printed identifying information.

Everyone who was under 72 in January of 1971 and who earned over $1,680 last year is required to file this annual report of earnings.

A beneficiary who earned over $1,680 last year and who did not stop his benefits will not get a pre-printed form by mail.

License Deadline Today; Office Open Tonight

With today (Monday) being the last day to purchase motor vehicle licenses without penalty, the office of deputy registrar will be open until 9 p.m. Licenses are available at the clerk of court's office in the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

Miss Ardith Johnson, clerk of court and deputy registrar, noted that a penalty of $1 will be added to the cost of each license beginning tomorrow. The penalty will be added to the cost of each license beginning tomorrow. The penalty will be increased to $2 on January 21 and to a maximum of $2.50 on February 1.

Change Dates In Grain Program Sign-up Dates

Signup dates for the 1972 wheat and feed grain program have been changed, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee.

The new sign up dates will begin Thursday, February 3 and end Friday, March 10. Possible changes could be forthcoming prior to the beginning of signup on February 3.

Producers who will be out of the area and unable to sign up during this time may do so earlier providing they agree to any changes that may occur. Anyone who has questions in regard to these changes should contact the ASCS county office.

350 Hear Commissioner Of Education At Goodridge

"We must find a way to get together, stop the fighting and go on with the business of educating children....Parents become so involved with adult issues that we forget about children....My job is to educate children in Minnesota."

These were the comments of Howard B. Casmey, Minnesota commissioner of education, in addressing a crowd of approximately 350 people Wednesday evening in the Goodridge school gymnasium. The commissioner had called the meeting for residents and boards of the Grygla and Goodridge districts after being presented with a petition from Goodridge district residents.

That petition was reportedly signed by 360 residents of the Goodridge district (although the commissioner said he has not checked to determine the validity of the signatures) and asked that all litigation stop and effort be directed toward solving the problems of the district.

The commissioner said that he had previously been invited by the Grygla board and area citizens to meet with school officials in the district. In an interview on Thursday with the Times he also noted that an invitation had been extended by Supt. David Brown of Goodridge during the legislative session and by the Goodridge district's attorney in casual conversation.

Commissioner Casmey was requested by the Goodridge board to arrange a meeting with the Grygla board during a meeting held with the commissioner following Wednesday night's meeting. The commissioner hopes to arrange the meeting for February with the likely meeting place to be in Thief River Falls. Casmey said the meeting will be open to the press but not open to the public.

In the interim, he said, his department will develop data for both the Goodridge and Grygla districts. He proposes to set up a hypothetical situation for Grygla, taking the assessed valuation and present costs of the district. Costs of building, maintaining and operating a high school would then be projected to provide a financial picture for consideration. These could be compared with tuition costs and other factors.

"I feel that some headway has been made," Commissioner Casmey said in a Times interview. "There are a number of problems, but none can be solved until there is an agreement to stop litigation which has cost untold sums of education dollars. Then there must be a willingness to put past differences aside and to work for the common goal of the best education possible for the children in those districts."

Commissioner Casmey received applause from the audience when he said he was opposed to taking money dedicated to children and using it to fight court cases. He said he was not interested in debating whether a high school school be built in Grygla, and he urged Grygla residents to study their situation with a view toward years ahead. He also noted that the state department of education had advised the Goodridge district not to build the addition to the school which was built several years ago.

Goodridge presently offers a limited program, the commissioner said, which is basically a college preparatory program. Yet only 20 per cent of students state-wide graduate from college. "Education today will not suffice in the '70s and '80s," he said. "There are many possibilities if you work together, but a good program is not possible if you go your separate ways and fight." He cited potential for exchange teachers and specialists and adapting to the vocational center concept for job training.

"We talk about children being educationally deprived," the Regular meetings were scheduled for the first Wednesday of each month with workshops and [illegible] groups in the fine arts [illegible]ment to meet the third [illegible]day of the month.

Members and guestss of the Zehlians who have expressed an interest in either oil painting or book discussion will be contacted before January 19 by Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen, chairman of the book discussion group, or Mrs. William Moeglein, chairman of the oil painting group.

Members attending the meeting were Mmes. Rudolph Sagmoen, Harold Elofson, Stanley Mortenson, Holland McIlam and William Moeglein.

The next regular meeting will be February 2 at the home of Mrs. Harold Elofson.

Deer Park Garden Club Met Tuesday

The Deer Park garden club held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Ernest Swanson home with president, Mrs. Ernest Swanson presiding.

Roll call was to name a house plant that was growing well at this time of year.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Swanson presented the program on annual flowers such as petunias, marigolds and zinnias which give a lot of color to the yard. Slides were shown on how and where the gardener could make the most use of the plants and the various kinds available.

A dessert luncheon was served following the program.

Members present were Mmes. Orlando Chervestad, Jack Radniecki, Alice Skreland, Bert Coan, C. R. Appelman, Lynn Hanson, Bennie Svanjord, Fred Lundeen and Selma Sanders.

Baptismal Services For Jeremy Anderson

Jeremy Myron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Anderson, was baptized at Our Savior's Lutheran church service on December 26 with Rev. Moistre officiating at the services.

Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Skadsen of Buffalo, Wyo., and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kezar of East Grand Forks.

Following the services the sponsors and other members of the family were entertained to dinner at the Anderson home.

Guests in addition to the sponsors were the baby's great-grandmother, Mrs. Bessie Magner, paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Anderson and his great aunt, Mamie McLaughlin, all of this city.

GORDON SKJERVEN ON DEAN'S LIST

Gordon E. Skjerven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Skjerven of Viking, is on the dean's list at the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston, for the fall quarter. To be eligible for the honor, a student must earn a grade point average of 3.5 to 3.9 for 12 or more credits.

November 25th is when we all get together to give thanks—unless you happen to be a turkey.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Joppru, Anderson

Renee Joppru and Bruce Anderson, both of this city, were united in marriage on November 28 at St. Bernard's church with Rev. Bernauer officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Wysoski and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson of this city.

Sue Wysoski, sister of the bride, was organist and accompanied the groom's father as he sang, "The Lord's Prayer". The traditional music was played and included, "We've Only Just Begun." George Martin was vocalist and sang the "Wedding Song" as he accompanied himself on the guitar.

Baskets of gladioli and daisies graced the altar and blue bows were fastened at the entrance to each pew.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a pale blue full length satin gown with long sleeves. It was trimmed with white lace around the ruffled bottom of the gown which extended into the train. The gown was accented with a yoke in front and trimmed with matching blue satin ruffle and white lace. She wore matching shoes and her veil was held in place with a cap matching the gown. Her circular bouquet was made of deep pink roses, yellow and white daisies and baby's breath.

Maid of honor, Peggy Joppru, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a full length multi blue colored print gown with short sleeves and edged with a ruffle matching the gown. She carried a circular bouquet similar to the bride's. The bride's personal attendant was Beverly Hamre.

David Cameron, friend of the couple, was best man. Ushers were Terry Quiram and Mark Larson. The men of the bridal party wore black tuxedoes and their boutonnieres were pink carnations while the groom wore a red rose.

The bride's mother wore an A-line gray knit dress with matching accessories and her corsage was red roses and white carnations.

The groom's mother wore an A-line styled lavender, long-sleeved dress with black accessories. Her corsage was identical to that of the bride's mother.

A supper was served by the bride's parents at their home with Cathy and Brian Grott as hostesses.

The three-tiered wedding cake was cut and served by Kyle Joppru, sister-in-law of the bride, and Palma Anderson, sister-in-law of the groom, poured. Kathy Anderson, sister-in-law of the groom, was waitress.

Jane Anderson, sister-in-law of the groom, served the punch and Rae Ann Pittman was in charge of the guest book.

The groom is employed by the Times and the bride is an employee of L. B. Hartz Wholesale.

The bride chose a plum colored pantsuit for her travel costume. Following their honeymoon the couple is at home in this city.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

Are you "raisin" a question about sour cream raisin pie?

Last week we gave a recipe for using sour cream in scrambled eggs. Today we are giving you some tips in using sour cream in a recipe for sour cream raisin pie.

Dairy sour cream is a modern dairy product and is a light cream of custard-like consistency with a characteristic tangy flavor produced by the addition of a culture or lactic acid starter. It is made from fresh sweet cream (18-20 per cent milk fat content) which is both pasteurized and homogenized.

When using sour cream in baked products, use baking soda as all or part of the leavening agent. Combine the soda with other dry ingredients, not with the sour cream. To protect its smooth texture, handle sour cream with care. Heat gently, do not boil. Another tip in using sour cream is to add it to other ingredients just before serving. Always fold sour cream into other ingredients carefully, as overstirring may thin it. When dairy sour cream is mixed in dressings or sauces along with vinegar, lemon juice or comparable acid foods, the cream may become thin, but storing the product in the refrigerator will return it to its original consistency.

Serve this pie to your dessert-loving family. We are including both the crust and filling recipe for you.

CRUST
1 cup sifted regular all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. salt
3 tbls. butter
2 tbls. lard
3 tbls. milk

FILLING
3 eggs
¾ cup honey
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 tbls. lemon juice
1 cup pitted chopped prunes (cooked)
1 cup raisins
½ cup chopped walnuts

Method: Crust: Into bowl sift together flour and salt. Cut in butter and lard until mixture resembles small peas. Sprinkle milk over flour mixture, 1 tsp. at a time, mixing lightly with fork after each addition. Shape dough into ball and roll out to 9 inch pie plate.

Filling: Beat eggs slightly. Blend in honey, sour cream and lemon juice. Fold in prunes and raisins. Pour into pie shell. Sprinkle nuts over top. Bake 50-60 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean.

Iverson And Radniecki Exchange Nuptial Vows

St. Fancis Xavier Catholic church at Oklee was the scene of a double ring ceremony which recently united in marriage Sandra Iverson and Timothy Radniecki with Rev. Keough Patnode officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Iverson of Goodridge and groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Radniecki of Oklee.

"Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell was played by the organist, Beth Bronken of Oklee. She accompanied Marcia Radniecki, sister of the groom, as she sang, "The Wedding Song."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of ivory voile with an empire waist accented with covered buttons, stand-up collar and bishop sleeves. The bodice, cuffs and skirt were of embossed lace while the hemline and mantilla veil were trimmed with inter-woven velvet ribbon. Her bouquet was of Mary DeVore baby red roses and ivory carnations with green foliage background.

Matron of honor was Mrs. John Lerohl of Oklee, friend of the couple. She wore a floor-length ruby red velvet dress with empire waist, stand-up collar, long fitted sleeves with semi-fitted skirt. She carried a jumbo ivory mum centered with a baby red rose. The bride's attendant was Mrs. John Larson of Crookston.

John Anderson of Sarasota, Fla., friend of the groom, served as best man.

Ushering the guests were Harlan Iverson, brother of the bride, and Greg Radniecki, cousin of the groom.

The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos with ruffled shirts and flare leg pants. The groom's boutonniere was a red rose and the others wore white carnations.

The mother of the bride wore a blue crepe A-line dress with sheer sleeves, accented with silver trim around the cuffs and neckline. The groom's mother wore a navy blue long-sleeved wool dress with multi-colored skirt gathered at the waist. They wore matching corsages of red roses and carnations.

Serving as hostesses for the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Radniecki of Oklee, aunt and uncle of the groom.

The wedding cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. George Lerohl of Oklee. The three-tiered cake was trimmed with red roses and white doves and topped by the traditional bride and groom with a crucifix for the background. It was cut and served by Mrs. Kenneth Kriel, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Roy Jorgenson, aunt of the groom.

Serving the groom's cake were Mrs. Roman Radniecki and Mrs. Casimer Radniecki, aunts of the groom.

Janet Sparby, cousin of the bride, and Geraldine Radniecki, cousin of the groom, served the punch while Mrs. Milen Ellason, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Virgil Radniecki, aunt of the groom, poured.

Marcia Radniecki, sister of the groom, registered the guests and Becky Melby and Kim Prigge arranged the gifts.

Waitresses were Pat Johnson, Lynae Johnsrud, Diane Mosbeck and Karen Haugen.

The bride is a graduate of the Goodridge high school and the groom is a graduate of the Oklee high school.

The groom is employed by the Radniecki-Jensen construction company and the bride is employed by Bemidji state college. The couple is at home at route 2, Bagley.

Wis. Feeder Pig Co-op To Hold District Meeting

Annual district meeting for Lake of the Woods, Roseau, Kittson, Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake and Beltrami county members of Wisconsin Feeder Pig marketing cooperative will be at the Legion hall, Greenbush, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, January 18.

Co-op advisory board member Robert Fillipi of Warren will be chairman.

District seven director Arthur Laine of route 1, Osage, will present the district report and general manager Dr. Norbert A. Dahlke will review the co-op's annual financial statement. According to the report the cooperative handled 509,760 pigs and net proceeds from operations during the year were $50,000.

Co-op production director Paul Schink will discuss feeder pig grades and "sow classification". "Sow classification" will be a new venture for Wisconsin Feeder Pig marketing co-op...a "first" in the state of Wisconsin.

Members will elect advisory board members and delegates to the co-op's annual meeting March 4 at Stevens Point, Wis. Members will also submit their nominations for a director to be elected at the annual meeting. Lunch will be served and prizes awarded.

The meeting is open to the public, and all feeder pig producers are especially urged to attend. All co-op members must attend in order to be eligible to win the full-grown boar to be awarded at the annual meeting.

Wisconsin Feeder Pig marketing cooperative operates in a four-state area, from eastern Wisconsin to the Dakotas, with main headquarters at Francis Creek, Wisc., and estern division headquarters at Sauk Centre.

Engineers Have No Work Slated For Watersheds

At the December meeting of the state soil and water conservation commission in St. Paul, a report from the corps of engineers was read indicating that they have no work going on in the area of the Middle River and Snake River watershed districts that would influence any watershed work.

On the basis of this and an earlier report by the official inspection team, the commission voted to approve four watershed applications for assistance in the Middle River and Melgard-Swift coulee watershed in Marshall county, and the Snake River and Angus-Oslo watershed in Marshall, Polk and Pennington counties.

Approval by the state soil and water conservation commission means that these watersheds are placed on the "waiting list", awaiting being placed on the "priority for planning" list by the commission at the request of the soil conservation service when they are ready to plan another water shed. There are currently 17 watersheds already on the waiting list.

Drug Stores Must Post Base Prices

Drug stores and pharmacies must post the base prices of prescription drugs and pharmaceuticals according to George O. Lethert, internal revenue service district director for Minnesota. "The sale of these items is the same as any other retail transaction and therefore falls under the economic stabilization act price control regulations," he said.

Lethert emphasized that even though most states have laws which prohibit the advertising of prescription drug prices, the posting requirements still apply. The price control regulations were established under federal law and pre-empt state law where there is a conflict.

In general, the price control regulations require all retailers to post base price lists of all food products other than raw agricultural commodities and unprocessed sea food. In addition, retailers must post in each store department the base prices of the 40 items with the highest sales volume, or those items which account for 50 per cent or more of the department's sales, whichever is less.

Retailers with under $100,000 annual sales volume can meet the base price posting requirements as a single department.

Explain Use Of Tax Tables

If you do not intend to itemize deductions, and your gross income is less than $10,000, you can compute your tax by referring to the optional tax tables printed in your instruction booklet, says George O. Lethert, district director of internal revenue.

There are 15 tax tables, each keyed to the number of exemptions you are entitled to claim. Select the tax table that covers your total exemptions. Read down the columns until you find the line that covers your adjusted gross income. Then, read across to the column heading describing your filing status - single, head of household, married, filing jointly or separate returns; to determine the tax due.

Rep. Bergland Hears Of Local FHA Problems

made. There was general agreement among farmers and others at the meeting that such appraisals were far too low, particularly east of highway 32.

And while Congressman Bergland said he did not blame the county supervisors for the problems in the program, farmers at the meeting were not as benevolent. They were extremely critical of the attitude and practices of the Marshall county supervisor based at Warren and the regional supervisor currently based at Roseau.

Several of the farmers revealed their personal experiences in attempts to obtain loans and expressed dissatisfaction with the way in which they were received and the applications were mishandled. One farmer noted that apparently unnecessary delays on processing his loan resulted in his inability to obtain money to plant his crop last spring.

Another farmer, restating the complaint that land appraisals were too low, said he had real estate men offer to list his farm for sale at twice the FHA appraisal rate. When he advised the supervisor of this offer, the suggestion was made that he sell. "I don't want to sell, I want to farm," the man explained.

Several farmers said it was impossible to receive an FHA appraisal of more than $35 per acre for land value east of highway 32. Farmers who had moved here from Nebraska noted that land values were appreciably higher where they came from, but that land here was considerably more productive for livestock operations. They also said they had been referred to as "foreigners" by FHA administrators.

Congressman Bergland listened attentively to the testimony given, asked questions when he felt clarification was needed, and said he would meet with area FHA personnel on Saturday. The congressman affirmed to the Times this morning that he had met with FHA officials on Saturday in an attempt to further resolve the problem.

Ben Bjerken At LO'L Schools

Thirty two persons are enrolled for the 1972 Land O'Lakes, Inc. (Felco-Land O'Lakes) management development school which opens in Frot Dodge, Iowa, today. The class is the largest in the history of the school.

Benedict Bjerken of Land O'Lakes, Inc., Thief River Falls, is enrolled in the school.

Purpose of the training sessions is two-fold: To help local cooperatives develop employee understanding of management responsibilities and to improve the employee's performance in his present position.

The school is held over a period of eight months with the students returning to their local cooperatives between the sessions. The sessions each month vary from two to five days.

Subjects covered include public relations, personnel management, business law, supply and distribution, cooperative accounting, credit and finance, principles of marketing, planning the sales function, advertising, managing products and personal goal planning.

Many key Land O'Lakes personnel serve as program leaders.

COMMISSIONER of education for Minnesota, Howard Casmey, addressed a crowd of about 350 residents of Goodridge and Grygla school districts Wednesday evening at the Goodridge school gymnasium. He said that problems between the two districts dated back to 1948 and urged the boards and residents of both districts to work together for the benefit of the children of the area. Commissioner Casmey also answered several questions from people in the audience.

Commissioner Of Education Talks At Goodridge

commissioner said. "When a child must get up in the early hours and ride a bus for 50 or 60 miles and then ride for 50 or 60 miles to get home again, that is educational deprivation. You must look at your area tax base and get together and form a base that can support the education your children need in order to compete."

Litigation Must Stop

Noting that litigation must stop before Goodridge and Grygla can sit down and talk, the commissioner said, "I guess I am talking to the Goodridge Board." He referred to the pending appeal of his ruling that Grygla now has a bonafide district which has the right to sell bonds and build a high school if it chooses to do so. The Goodridge school district and several individuals have brought suit against the commissioner of education and others as a result of that decision.

Casmey said that the move by Grygla to remove students from the Goodridge school after classes started this fall and to send them to high school at Newfolden was legally right but morally questionable. In later questioning he said he did not believe that the Grygla district was financially obligated to the Goodridge district because no contract existed between the two. "If there is a contract, I will personally see that it is honored," he said.

Agreement Necessary

Discussing "negotiation and arbitration", the commissioner said that there must be give and take on both sides. There must be agreement, he said, and both sides must live by what is agreed upon. "It means swallowing pride, stopping litigation and sitting down to meet and agree," he said.

Since 1948 when the controversy first began, the Grygla forces have never lost in court, Commissioner Casmey said. The minority has a right to be protected in a democracy, he noted, and there should be recourse through the courts. "If individuals want to go to court with their own money fine," the commissioner said. "But I don't believe that money dedicated to education of children should be used to fight court cases. And there is no guarantee that Grygla students will come to Goodridge even if Goodridge wins the court appeal."

Commissioner Casmey said that his decision and order reaffirms a moral commitment made many years ago. The commitment, a ruling made through a school survey committee, should be allowed to stand until the courts prove otherwise, he said.

The commissioner also noted that the Middle River and Grygla boards have drawn lines and settled the disagreement between those two districts. He considers that matter closed.

Yule Presents At Fergus Falls Are Appreciated

Christmas season at the Fergus Falls state hospital was brightened again this past year through the generosity of many organizations and individuals from throughout the area that the hospital serves in northwestern and west central Minnesota, hospital officials said.

Through the enthusiastic response that was received to the appeal for Christmas gifts by the Fergus Falls state hospital volunteer council, 458 Christmas gift boxes were filled for patients of the hospital community.

During the rush of Christmas gift wrapping at the hospital, the volunteer council is not always able to personally thank all of the donors who have participated in this project because the mailing addresses of some donors are lost or are found to be incomplete.

The patients, staff, and volunteers of the Fergus Falls state hospital community would like to publicly express their gratitude to everyone who participated in Operation Merry Christmas - 1971. Interest in the welfare of the patients at the state hospital and support of its treatment programs which serve the mentally ill, the mentally retarded, and the alcohol or drug addicted patient is greatly appreciated.

New Regulations Are Revealed On 'Baggie' Test

Regulations have now been published establishing standards and minimum specifications for preliminary screening breath test devices (baggies), Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund announced today.

Under a new law passed by the 1971 legislature, enforcement officers are now authorized to administer a preliminary screening test to those drivers suspected of driving while under the influence. If the "baggie" test is positive (.10 per cent alcohol concentration), the driver will be arrested and brought in for an additional test which can be used as evidence in court.

In order to meet the specifications, the device must:

remain consistent during a storage life of one year,

be easily read under reduced levels of illumination,

be simple to operate—after four hours or less of instruction,

be packaged with complete operating instructions with each device, and meet the following levels of accuracy:

Shall not indicate a positive result on persons with .05 per cent alcohol or less in the blood,

Shall not indicate a negative result on persons with .13 per cent alcohol or more in the blood,

Shall not have a deviation greater than +0.02 when properly taken from persons with blood-alcohol concentrations of .06 to .12 per cent by weight, and

Be disposable after a single use.

In addition, each application submitted to the commissioner for approval must show the minimum and maximum temperatures at which the device can be used accurately, and certification from a nationally recognized independent testing laboratory that the device meets minimum specifications and standards.

After the device has been tested in an independent laboratory, 50 samples must be submitted to the commissioner of public safety for approval and rechecking in the criminal apprehension division laboratory.

REV. KENNETH MILHOUS, missionary to Japan, will be the guest speaker at the First Baptist church in Thief River Falls at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. He and his wife recently returned from their first term of service. He received a B.A. degree from Lafayette college in Easton, Penn., and a B.A. from Bethel college in St. Paul. He and his wife assumed an evangelistic ministry in Japan following two years of language study and cite the organization of a church in the town of Kudoyama as the highlight of their term. The public is invited to hear him speak.

Hearing On Area Health Needs Set In EG Forks

Public hearing will be held by the Agassiz health planning council at 1 p.m. January 20 in the East Grand Forks Federal Savings and Loan building community service room, 123 DeMers avenue, to determine whether or not a certificate of need will be recommended to authorize construction of the following described projects:

(1) A proposed addition of 41 nursing care beds and hospital renovation to the Fosston municipal hospital at an estimated cost of $772,000. The plan calls for construction of 41 new nursing home beds (certified as 16 skilled and 34 intermediate) using nine existing beds in the hospital.

(2) A proposed addition of 52 nursing home beds at Karlstad certified as 34 ICF-I and 18 ICF-II at an estimated cost of $750,000.

(3) A proposed addition of 20 skilled nursing home beds and hospital renovation to the Roseau area hospital at an estimated cost of $884,000.

These projects may affect the provision of or need for health services in area communities. Those individuals or institutions or municipalities having strong feelings for or against any of these projects can present at his public hearing any facts or opinions that may have a bearing on the issuance or denial of a certificate of need for these projects.

The scene is the first Thanksgiving. The table is heaped high with roast turkey, stuffing, roast potatoes, turnips, corn bread, pumpkin pie, apple pie and mince pie. Two Indians come up and say, "How!" The Pilgrims answer, "How!" The Indians say, "That's what we want to know. We're on Weight Watchers!"

Paul Senstad Is Buried At Fort Snelling

Paul Donald Senstad, 48, of Golden Valley died December 29 after a year's illness. Burial was at Fort Snelling national cemetery last Monday.

Paul Donald Senstad was born December 4, 1923, to Arthur and Louise Senstad of Thief River Falls. He graduated from high school here in 1941 and joined the U. S. Navy in 1943.

He received a bachelor's degree from the University of Minnesota and became a commissioned officer after attending Notre Dame university. He served as a radar instructor and remained in the Naval reserve, reaching the rank of commander and retiring after 20 years of service.

He was married to Doris Hegrenes September 8, 1946, and had four children, Mrs. Craig (Louise) Ruschoff, Cumberland, Wisc.; and Karen, Donald and David at home. He is also survived by two sisters: Mrs. C. A. (Jean) Dickinson, Stillwater, Minn.; Mrs. Robert (Ruth Anne) St. John, St. Petersburg, Fla.; and one step-sister, Mrs. Robert (Bernice) Looker, Thief River Falls.

After receiving his master's degree in 1949, he was employed in the engineering department of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester where he helped to develop the heart-lung machine and an automatic camera for surgical use. He received a number of patents for these projects.

Life in Rochester was interrupted for two years during the Korean conflict while he was stationed at Moffett Field, Calif., training pilots on radar procedures and recognition.

In 1955 he started working for Honeywell in the research department, advancing to the position of research manager of systems and research division. Over the years his research produced inventions which qualified him for six more patents.

He was interested in church activities, teaching Sunday school, serving on the church council and working on committees. He was also active in Boy Scouts. He also enjoyed civic affairs, serving on the Golden Valley planning committee, the board of zoning appeals, and he was on the building review board at the time of his death.

He was a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers, president of the Twin Cities section of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, Honeywell Engineers club and the Sons of Norway.

Alcohol Most Used Drug At University

Use of illegal drugs by University of Minnesota students has increased over the past four years, but the "drug of preference" overwhelmingly continues to be alcohol.

A student health service (SHS) study, initiated with entering freshman students in 1967, indicated that experience with marijuana, LSD, amphetamines and barbiturates increased from eight per cent to 46 per cent, but that use of alcohol increased from 58 to 88 per cent.

About half of the freshmen entering the university in 1967 were surveyed and questionnaires were distributed to the class in succeeding years. About 80 per cent of the survey sample returned the questionnaires each year.

(A random sampling of 1,200 of the freshman class of 1970 by the SHS indicated one-third were using at least one drug illegally while 74 per cent of the students said they had had experience with alcohol.)

In 1970 more than 90 per cent of the senior students who said they were using marijuana and its more potent derivative, hashish, used them alone or in combination with other drugs. One-third indicated they used those drugs at least once a week.

Use of LSD and amphetamines showed a decrease among current users in the 1970 senior class, while use of peyote had increased. Use of hard drugs (heroin, morphine, codeine) also increased although the numbers involved are very small.

The 1970 seniors were also asked their reasons for drug use. Those who were currently using drugs indicated "pleasure, kicks, enjoyment" (88 per cent) and "Curiosity" (83 per cent) were their main reasons. Ex-users also cited "curiosity" (83 per cent) and "pleasure, kicks, enjoyment" (less than 50 per cent).

Most frequently given reason for non-use among the seniors (more than 85 per cent) was "no need or desire." The 1967 study indicated a strong association between the use of cigarettes and liquor with the non-medical use of drugs.

In 1968, the study attempted to get more precise data on the number of cigarettes smoked per day and the amount of alcohol consumed each week. The results supported the 1967 hypothesis. Only five per cent of the students who did not smoke or drink had used illegal drugs, while 55 per cent who were heavy smokers and daily drinkers had used drugs.

Looking at cigarette smoking alone, the survey indicated 34 per cent of the 1967 freshmen smoked, but only 24 per cent as seniors smoked in 1970. In comparison 24 per cent of the freshmen entering in 1970 smoked.

Religious participation reported by the students declined each year from 70 per cent in 1967 to 36 per cent in 1970. The highest percentage of users (70 per cent) claimed to have no religion. The study also indicated the incidence of nonmedical drug use among religiously inactive students is about twice as high as that of religiously active students.

No significant statistical difference in grade-point averages emerged between drug users and non-users, but the average grades did increase each year.

As might be expected, more current users of drugs favored legalizing marijuana (around 85 per cent) than did ex-users or non-users. But more than half the ex-users and one-third of the non-users did think marijuana should be legalized.

More than half of all the ex-users also indicated they intended to use drugs again in the future, although only 40 per cent of the entering freshmen in 1970 indicated they would use drugs again.

The survey was directed by Professor Edward J. Dvorak, assistant director, and Professor Paul Rupprecht, associate director, of the University of Minnesota student health service.

Zeller To Appear At Minn. Tech

Bob Zeller, musician, lecturer and exponent of the youth culture, will make a three-day appearance on the campus of the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston, January 13-15.

Zeller's presentations are sponsored by the college campus ministry and the concerts and lectures committee, with Sister Judith Kramer, in charge. The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

"Youth and the Value Revolution" is the topic to be discussed on Thursday at 8 p.m. in Kiehle auditorium. A rap session with Zeller will follow.

Friday will be spent in informal sessions in the Inn and in classrooms. Scheduled also are two open meetings, at 2:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Saturday afternoon, January 15, Zeller will discuss the role of the church in the revolution of the 1970's. Besides his lecture the program will include films and a discussion. The session will begin at 2 p.m.

"This is an era which is characterized by rapid and profound change," says Zeller. "All institutions, value systems and individual life styles have been transformed in recent years by the evolution of mass society, technology and bureaucracy. It is the purpose of this speech to present the view that the Christian church should play a very active role to shape the future of man.

"How should the church relate to the problems of civil rights, drug abuse, the decay of the family, war, poverty, police-community relations, penal institutions, the rising crime rate, and as well, the decline of Christian influence?" he asks. "What are the implications of the church assuming a more active position?"

Army Tells Of New Provisions

Qualified non-prior-service men can enlist for non-combat arms assignments with the 197th Infantry Brigad, Ft. Benning, Ga., or the 3d Armored Cavalry Regiment, Ft. Lewis, Wash., according to Staff Sgt. Jim Long, local U. S. Army recruiter.

Under the provisions of the United States Army special unit enlistment option, men can be guaranteed a minimum 16-month assignment with either of the units mentioned.

Individuals must complete basic combat training and advanced individual training in a military occupational specialty for which a requirement exists in the unit for which enlisted. Applicants may also select a service school or Army career group of their choice if they so elect.

Revive Argument For Safeguards On All Trucks

Campaign for safeguards on the rear ends of trucks to prevent "underride" accidents is being revived in Washington through the efforts of the national transportation safety board, Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said today.

The board, the government's transportation safety watchdog, has advised the national highway traffic safety administration that it should renew its demand upon manufacturers, recently abandoned, for designs that will provide protection in rear end collissions. Hoaglund pointed out that Minnesota now requires such safeguards.

"Apparently the board is concerned about the deadly consequences when a car collides with a truck that has no such protection. In its recommendation, the board called attention to one sensational accident near Washington in which the rear of the truck penetrated 20 inches into the passenger compartment, killing two occupants, while the truck sustained only minor damage.

"Similar concerns are already reflected in Minnesota law, which requires that, with a few exceptions, all trucks and trailers manufactured and sold after July 1, 1955, with rear platforms more than 20 inches above the ground be equipped with rigid rear safeguards to prevent any part of another vehicle from penetrating under the truck or trailer platform."

Hoaglund said that the federal safety administration withdrew a proposal to make a similar requirement nation-wide after the trucking industry obejected to the expense involved. However, the safety board pointed out that such a consideration "does not relate this cost to the lives lost and injuries sustained by the drivers and passengers in such accidents."

Three Speakers Announced For 1972 Farm Forum

Three organization leaders to speak at the 1972 Ninth Federal Reserve district farm forum and president, Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis. The forum will be held Thursday, March 2, at Radisson hotel, downtown Minneapolis.

The three leaders are Tim J. Burke, national president of Future Farmers of America; Bruce K. MacLaury, president of the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis; and George W. Mitchell, a member of the board of governors of the federal reserve system in Washington, D. C.

The forum is sponsored annually by the Greater Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce to develop a thorough, objective and open discussion of broad problems related to agriculture, labor and industry in the Ninth Federal Reserve district.

Burke, 19, is from New Hampton, Iowa. He is currently a senior at Iowa state university, majoring in agricultural education and serving as a senator representing the college of agriculture in student government. He was recently apointed to the Iowa beef industry council youth advisory committee. In FFA, he served as chapter president, state vice president and state president.

MacLaury, a native of Chappaqua, New York, did his undergraduate work at Princeton, receiving a B.A. degree in 1953. He received his Ph. D. degree in economics from Harvard university in 1961. In 1957 he joined the federal reserve system in New York. In 1962, he was granted a leave of absence to spend a year in Paris with the organization for economic cooperation, where he served as a consultant on international finance. In 1968, MacLaury became vice president in the foreign department at the New York federal reserve.

In 1969, MacLaury left New York to become deputy under-secretary of the treasury for monetary affairs. At the treasury, he had responsibilities in the areas of federal debt management and international financial markets. He also worked on the development of the securities investor protection act, proposals for consolidating government agency financing, and emergency loan authority for major companies in financial difficulties—thus earning him the treasury's exceptional service award recently presented to him by Secretary Connally. He is currently president of the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis.

George W. Mitchell is presently a member of the board of governors of the federal reserve system and since 1961 has been a member of the federal open market committee. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, he began work with the federal reserve bank of Chicago in 1944 and was vice president from 1951-61. He was a member of the Illinois tax commission from 1939-40, and served as a tax consultant for the civil aeronautics board in 1944-45. He was a member of the advisory group appointed by the joint committee on internal revenue taxation to investigate the bureau of internal revenue.

Problems In Highway Design For Color Blind

In designing highway signs and signals, the importance of color in commanding the attention of the driver is well recognized by traffic engineers. Visual impact depends on the color brightness of the sign, the contrast between colors used in the sign, and the contrast between the sign and its background.

Among these considerations is the awareness that eight per cent of United Sates men are red-green color blind. This doesn't mean that they are literally "blind", but rather, means that their ability to distinguish between these colors under certain conditions and when in combination with other colors, is impaired.

These are many degrees of red-green color-blindness, more correctly defined as color perception, with some individuals literally distinguishing between these colors on the basis of brightness.

Although the science of color perception is complex, attempts to compensate for this difficulty was made by tinting the lenses in traffic signals. To make this accommodation, the "green" light contains a blue tint and the "red" light contains a tinge of yellow.

One additional feature is the positioning of the lights. When placed vertically, the red is always on top, next amber and then green on the bottom. If placed horizontally, the red is always on the left, then amber and next, green on the right.

Navy Opens More Schools To Recruits

According to COP Bill Bashaw, Navy recruiter in Thief River Falls, the Navy can now offer every qualified applicant the opportunity to be guaranteed training in an occupational specialty or the choice of coast where he will serve his active duty.

Under the new Regular Navy enlisted occupational specialty school guarantee program, a qualified applicant can be guaranteed prior to enlistment a class "A" Navy school in one of 14 occupational specialties. These occupational specialty areas cover some 67 class "A" Navy schools, with each specialty area having a maximum of six different schools.

An applicant interested in a specialty area can be guaranteed one of the schools in his particular area of interest. For example, an applicant wishing to become an electrician would be placed in the electrical specialty area and be guaranteed one of four schools: interior communication's electrician school, electrician's mate school, aviation electrician's mate school or construction electrician school.

In addition to this program, the Navy also offers each qualified applicant who is not interested in formal training the opportunity to serve on the coast of his choice.

Highway Dept. Snow Removal Cost Is $9.1 Mil.

Forecast: Snow followed by maintenance crews and equipment. That's one certainty for winter. How severe this season will be isn't known, but the Minnesota highway department is into its annual program of snow removal operations throughout the state. It has stockpiled materials and all equipment is in working condition.

The job of providing safe roads and bridges for the motorist isn't likely to be any easier this season than last, when snow removal on all trunk highways and interstate routes cost the department $9,176,000.

Even if this winter sould prove milder, the snow removal task could remain as costly because of the additional miles of divided highways to be serviced. Assistant Commissioner James Murchie says that although the department will endeavor as always to keep all raods passable, priority again will be given to the approximately 750 miles of high traffic volume highways that are designated as bare-pavement roads—those whose traffic volumes make it vital that they be safe for travel at all times.

The department has a complete assortment of equipment available for snow removal on its 12,000 miles of highways—motor graders, loaders, snow blowers, trucks, snowplows and sanders. It has about 1,550 operators who are on call to fight the snows. In addition, a few contract routes using road contractors' equipment and personnel are under evaluation this winter.

The department can also rely on hired equipment in an emergency. Agreements with contractors provide that this equipment, fully operated, will be available for hire if their assistance is required for a particularly bad storm.

Despite best efforts, a severe winter can bring times when, with travel virtually impossible, it's wise to stay off the roads. The department recommends limiting travel during snow and ice storms to no more than is absolutely necessary. If travel is essential, vehicles should be equpped with snow tires, chains, blankets, mittens, warm clothing and warm footwear.

Explain Noise From Car Tires

One of the problems faced by motorists is noise. Some of this noise is caused by the engine and resonance through the exhaust system. A great deal of noise, however, some not fully recognized by the public, is from the tires.

Not all the tire noise is conveyed directly to the car but some is transmitted throughout the automobile via the suspension and steering systems.

Tires are noisier on rough roads and at higher speeds with little difference in the noise levels generated due to the differences in construction, according to tests made by Francis M. Weiner of Bolt Beranek and Newman, Inc. in measuring tie noise under differing conditions.

The source of the noise according to acoustician Christopher G. Rice of Southampton is the tread of the tire. It is the regular pattern represented by the tread which can be likened to the regular pattern blades of a siren.

Thus, according to Rice, the tire treads act as a sort of siren with every tire tread having a speed at which it begins to produce noise—a function of the effect of speed of rotation on the tread pattern. As with any other siren, with the increase of tire speed, the noise level increases as does the power of the higher frequencies, producing the whine of high speed.

Case For No-Fault

An informational booklet prepared by a major life and casualty insurance company sets forth some facts to back up its support of no-fault insurance. There are undoubtedly counter arguments to some of the points, but most of them seem to make good sense.

The booklet points out that the present system is based on the assumption that only a person who can prove another at fault for an accident is entitled to compensation. Those found at fault, or victims who cannot prove fault, are entitled to nothing from the system, no matter how grievous their injuries.

Every time a driver gets behind the wheel, he is gambling that if he has an accident, it will not be his fault. He is gambling that he can prove the other driver was at fault and that the other driver has insurance or can otherwise be made responsible for the accident.

In 1970 there were 55,000 Americans killed and five million injured in auto accidents and the economic loss was $16 billion—equivalent to almost $300 for every family in the nation. Under the lawsuit system, many of these accident victims receive little or nothing for their medical expenses, lost wages and property damage. Others will wait years for the courts (already clogged by auto accident litigation) to determine the facts of their case.

Only 45 per cent of those seriously injured or the families of those killed in auto accidents receive benefits. Only half of the economic losses of seriously or fatally injured victims are compensated. Victims with economic losses of more than $25,000 recover only about a third of their medical expenses and lost income, but victims with economic losses of less than $500 recover four and one-half times their losses. Legal fees add to costs and amounted to $1.1 billion for all parties to auto accident litigation in 1969.

No-fault insurance is a complete system whereby your own insurance company pays your medical expenses, lost income, and economic losses and, where appropriate, the cost of rehabilitation, regardless of whether you, or someone else, caused the accident. It covers any other occupants in your car and pedestrians, too.

No-fault insurance provides prompt and fair benefits to all auto accident victims for their injuries and property damage regardless of who was to blame, just like health and life insurance, insurance on your home and collision and comprehensive coverage on your car. It costs less, legal expenses are reduced and duplicate payments are eliminated.

Many states are watching Massachusetts where a limited form of no-fault insurance is now in effect. The plan covers bodily injury claims up to $2,000 in medical, hospital and actual wage-loss benefits, and the driver retains the right to make claims against the other party for any loss exceeding $2,000. This plan has made it possible to reduce premiums for bodily injury coverage by 15 per cent in Massachusetts, rather than increasing them 22 per cent.

The no-fault plan has merit and is deserving of consideration.

Working Together

Two young brothers, in dispute over a plaything which both wanted to use, squared off for a slugfest after a heated argument. Their father intervened about that time and negotiated a truce, arranged for equal use of the toy, and finally convinced the somewhat sheepish brothers to shake hands. They were able to understand when their father reasoned with them, but it took some extra urging before they would unclench their fists and extend open palms for the handshake.

Perhaps the most difficult part of any dispute—among members of a family or members of a community—is to set aside deep-seated personal wants and hurts, real or imagined, in order to accept reason leading to an amiable settlement. Human nature seems to make it easier to clench a fist or point a finger than to extend the hand of friendship and cooperation.

Maybe Commissioner of Education Casmey will not appreciate being cast in the role of the intervening father, but he seemed to fill that role in his appearance at the combined meeting of residents of the Goodridge and Grygla school districts Wednesday night. Some may not have liked what he had to say, but we feel he presented his convictions honestly and clearly and that his points made abundant good sense.

Rural America has enough of a battle with outside forces; it doesn't need a struggle within a community or area. It is essential for survival of rural America that rural Americans work together as neighbors and friends for the best common goals. There is no room for bickering, for obstinacy, for petty fault-finding, for revenge; the costs to all concerned are too high.

Intervention by a third party—the commissioner—makes it possible for both sides of the Grygla-Goodridge school dispute to come together without loss of face or wounded pride on either side. It enables the boards to explore together and to reach mutual conclusions on absolute facts of population, costs, facilities and related factors.

We realize that animosities have developed over the years that will be difficult to overcome, but the ability to set aside these feelings will be a measure of the stature of the individuals who hold them.

It is undoubtedly easier to be objective when on the outside looking in, and not personally involved in the question. But it is sometimes necessary to back away from a close position to obtain a better perspective; the close view may be somewhat distorted.

What appears to be needed in the Grygla-Goodridge school issue is mutual respect for other people. . . .people who have ideas and problems and interests and reasons, wherever they live and whatever they do. With respect will come understanding and the best results that an area can afford, not the worst that two sides can throw at each other. Nobody enjoys living under the stress of a constant quarrel.

Commissioner Casmey's visit on Wednesday, and his anticipated return in February to meet with the Grygla and Goodridge school boards, may be the action needed to clear up misconceptions and dissolve basic differences in the Grygla and Goodridge areas. We certainly hope so. Too many people have been emotionally, socially and financially hurt already. They are certain to find working together to be much more enjoyable and beneficial to all.

There's A Difference

Facts brought out in a recent nationally televised debate on a program called "The Advocates" point to a warping of the American way of life. For instance, did you know that:

Strikers have collected as much money from public relief agencies as they were making while at work?

Almost $15 million worth of federal food stamps alone were distributed to strikers in one major walkout in 1970 and union leaders themselves boast that strikers in another major dispute collected over $5 million a week in public relief?

One state legislature had to pass a supplemental welfare budget of $50 million after a major walkout in which large numbers of strikers tapped its welfare program for aid?

Aside from the cost to the public for this abuse of welfare funds is the fact that giving financial aid to strikers denies aid to the truly needy for whom the welfare programs are intended.

Dr. Thomas G. S. Christiansen, executive director of the New York institute of labor relations, noted that there is a difference between a poor person who can not find employment and workers who choose to strike voluntarily. That difference should be readily apparent to everyone.

About Bureaucrats

Following editorial is from the Indianapolis Star:

The Star has received thousands of letters, telegrams and calls, regarding its Oct. 24 editorial on the Federal bureaucracy.

The Star appreciates the tremendous response, but it has been utterly impossible to answer all of the letters and telegrams which have come from 47 states and several foreign countries.

Most of those who have responded have asked "What can I do?"

There is one and only one way to check the power of the Federal bureaucracy and that is to repeal the tenure privileges of civil service employees. It is impossible to discharge them regardless of whether they are good or bad.

Congress alone can stop the bureaucrats if it hears from the people. So this is what you can do.

When the primaries and elections of 1972 come around make sure the men you vote for in the House and Senate have pledged themselves to vote to abolish civil service tenure. There is no reason in the world why a bad employee of the United States government should not be discharged, just as he would be if employed in private industry.

Give the President and the Cabinet officials the right to discharge disloyal and disruptive employees and you will restore government of the people to Washington. As it is, we have government by a Federal bureaucracy which gets stronger and more arrogant every day.

We will remind you of this again next summer. But in the meantime, tell your friends that the only way to save America from bureaucratic control is to abolish civil service tenure. And only the Congress, not the President can stop the bureaucrats.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Virginia Sportsmen club voted against 1972 deer season. Things can't go on this way with both wolves and hunters taking the deer, inflicting serious problems for the farmers' livestock.

Interested citizens strongly felt that it should be up to Mr. Bob Herbst, commissioner of the natural resources. Bob, if you are a man of action, you will take one hundred thousand dollars out of the habitat fund and put it into predator control fund. Put the controllers to work to save the state of Minnesota ten million dollars or more by doing this.

Have Voyageurs National Park and Boundary Waters Canoe area as a game refuge or sanctuary. You will have the wolf lovers, the hunters and also the farmer happy. Open the controllers program from Jan. 1, 1972 to Nov. 1, 1972 and pay for all predators taken under bill H.F. No. 933 Chapter No. 786.

Minnesota owes its topography largely to four great glaciers which moved across its face many thousands of years ago. Their advance and retreat shaped the state's present landscape of natural beauty.

The first of the glaciers, known as the Nebraskan, covered almost the entire state and left a gray layer of soil, or "drift." The Nebraskan was followed by another glacier which was less extensive and which added another layer of gray soil.

Then came the Illinois tongue, entering from the east. Its remnant is a bright red layer of soil covered only by its own weathered topsoil in some places, and by subsequent drift in others.

The next glacial invasion came in three stages. First, the Patrician glacier, from the north of Lake Superior, brought a gray or lavender film, but picked up a mixture of iron rust which was scattered as far as the Twin City area. Then the Keewatin tongue came from the northwest along the Red River and Minnesota Valley to Iowa, thrusting broad lobes eastward. Finally, the Labrador pushed through the Lake Superior basin westward, depositing a load of pink drift.

As the ice melted in retreat, it left huge Lake Agassiz, but when the ice barring the Red River to the north melted, this huge lake (larger than all the Great Lakes combined) drained southward creating the Minnesota River valley. Then the Red River resumed its northward flow, draining the remainder of Lake Agassiz into Hudson's Bay.

Lake Superior is a remnant of the larger Lake Duluth, which was barred by a glacier from draining through the present Great Lakes channel. When it finally forced an outlet to the south, however, it cut what is now the beautiful St. Croix river valley.

But Minnesota is still changing. Geologists point to forces still at work—the widening or drying up of a creek bed; the crumbling of a lakeshore cliff; the appearance of gullies on a hillside.

Like land surfaces everywhere, the face of Minnesota will always be changing, like a roaming river continually rearranging the bed in which it never sleeps.

Since when is a bridge a tourist attraction? Since they built the aerial lift bridge in Duluth, that's when.

Every year, in any season, thousands of visitors flock to Duluth harbor to await arrival or departure of an oceangoing vessel or lake freighter. When this happens, they get a chance to see the unique bridge go into action.

Three deep, throaty blasts from the ship's horn signal the bridge engineer, asking for passage beneath the bridge. The engineer responds with the bridge horn and proceeds to manipulate the controls which raise the entire span of the bridge straight up.

Followed by herring gulls darting and gliding in its wake, the ship passes and then, as magically as it ascended, the bridge lowers to its normal position.

Even after the superstructure for the bridge was erected in 1905, the only passage between Minnesota Point and the mainland was via a basket platform suspended from a trolley. It wasn't until 1930 that the modern refinements and mechanical innovations, which make the bridge unique, were added.

The bridge has an overall length of 510 feet and a vertical clearance of 138 feet. The portion which is raised weighs 900 tons, and is counterbalanced with two 450-ton concrete blocks. It can be raised 120 feet in 55 seconds—even faster if necessary.

This engineering wonder is the focal point for ship-watchers at Duluth harbor, although the entire port offers great sightseeing. Ships from all parts of the world can be seen, and, in sullen weather, the fog horns and the dark waters add an extra flare of harbor romance. The great ore ships contrast with the small commercial vessels, and the cries of seagulls surround the impassive stare of Neptune's statue which guards the harbor.

STATEMENT
NONDISCRIMINATION

"Roseau Electric Cooperative, Inc. has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules and Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization."

"Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250, or the Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D. C. 20250, or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 90 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations."

The harsh economic burdens of unemployment, certainly one of the most critical problems facing our state today, will be eased somewhat by a new federal-state extended unemployment program that became effective this week.

Under terms of this law, about 31,000 jobless Minnesotans will collect an estimated $12 million in additional unemployment compensation benefits in the first few months of the New Year.

Average duration of the extended benefits will be eight weeks. Payments will be made on the same weekly rate as regular benefits.

Over the past several months, more than 500 unemployed persons have exhausted their regular benefits every week. Many of these people are now eligible for additional payments to help tide them over until they can find a job.

I urge anyone who is now without a job to examine his situation carefully to determine whether he qualifies for these benefits.

Those eligible include persons who have exhausted their regular benefits and cannot establish rights to other employment insurance, and those whose benefit years did not expire prior to last Sunday.

All claimants who feel they are eligible should contact the same office through which your original claim was filed.

Persons who have moved should contact the nearest state employment service office or unemployment insurance claims center of the Minnesota department of manpower services. This applies to persons living in Minnesota whose claims for unemployment insurance were filed against other states.

Last year, more than $7.5 million in extended unemployment benefits was paid to 19,100 Minnesotans under provisions of a law enacted by the 1971 legislature. The new extended unemployment compensation program can be of even greater value if it is properly utilized.

IS A QUARTER TOO MUCH TO ASK?

Leslie Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quinten Hanson, Mpls., had heart surgery on March 18, 1971. The operation was a success and now she is a healthy five-year-old who looks forward each day to nursery school.

Leslie's operation and others like it are the result of heart research. Your contribution to the Minnesota Heart Fund makes such research possible.

This year the Heart Fund goal is $860,000 or in Leslie's terms — 86 million pennies.

There are nearly 4 million people in Minnesota. If each one gives 25 cents to the Heart Fund this month, we will raise $860,000.

Isn't a healthy smile worth 25 cents to you?

STATE FARM INSURANCE

Congratulations. You just saved $5 by doing your own income tax. And all it cost you was three long, sleepless nights.
And a slight case of heartburn.

If you had gone to H & R Block, on the other hand, you could have relaxed while someone else figured out your return. Quickly and confidentially. Probably unlike any way you've ever done it before.

And, when you figure your own, you may be entitled to deductions you're not taking and taking deductions you're not entitled to. For instance, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? Or, that if your income increased over the last few years, you may save tax dollars by "income averaging?" And even if you did, would you know how to go about "income averaging" to begin with? Probably not. And there's no reason why you should. After all, you're an amateur when it comes to doing income tax.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H & R Block. We have over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel. They're warm and friendly people who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed.

Furthermore, if your return is audited we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

This means that H&R Block is ready to offer you year 'round tax service for just one low fee a year, with no extra charge for audits and estimates.

H & R Block's charges start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for the 7 million families we served last year.

Which is somewhat less than what you paid.

Not to mention the fact that aggravation isn't tax deductible.

And we are.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.
H&R Block.
The income tax people.

JC Cagers Gain Split With Overtime Win 95-93

Northland state junior college basketball team posted a 95-93 overtime win over Mesabi Saturday afternoon to gain a split in its weekend Iron Range series as the Northmen lost an 83-71 decision to Vermilion Friday night.

Chet Engelman's Northland cagers held a 79-72 lead over Mesabi Saturday afternoon, but saw that seven-point advantage disappear as Mesabi freshman guard Neil McKenzie's 15-foot jump shot with 15 seconds left in regulation time tied the game 82-82, sending the Northmen into their first overtime game of the season.

Freshman guard Willie Bayne scored Northland's first five points in the overtime period, sandwiched around two Mesabi field goals, to give the Northmen an 89-86 lead with 2:14 remaining.

McKenzie's long range jumper cut the margin to 89-88 with 1:55 remaining but Northland guard Mike Rasch connected on two key free throws with 1:35 left to put the Northmen back in front by three, 91-88.

Three straight points by Mesabi tied the contest 91-91 with just 42 seconds remaining before sophomore center Tony Burke's driving lay-up gave Northland a 93-91 lead with 28 seconds remaining in the five minute overtime period.

Mesabi's Don LaLond put up a rebound with 20 seconds left to tie the score once again before freshman guard Dale Hanson's 15-foot jump shot with five seconds remaining gave the Northmen the 95-93 decision.

Northland started the game slowly as Mesabi took a 4-0 lead and then maintained margins of three to seven points throughout the first twenty minutes as the Northmen trailed 49-45 at the half.

Mesabi opened its biggest lead of the game at 53-45 to start the second half, but Northland came back to take the lead 56-55 on Burke's field goal with 14:34 remaining in regulation time. Northland never trailed again, opening up a 70-64 margin with 9:36 remaining and the 79-72 lead with 5:30 left.

Burke led the game's scorers with 31 points while Bayne dumped in 21, Hanson 19 and Rasch 11. McKenzie led Mesabi with 22 points while LaLond added 17, Mike Mihelich 13 and Rick Toreson scored 12. Burke also led the rebounders with 16. Burke combined with Hanson who had 13 caroms to dominate the boards as Northland held a 56-33 rebound advantage. Northland shot 45 per cent from the field, hitting on 39 of 86, while Mesabi connected on 35 of 70 for a 50 per cent mark. The Northmen sank 17 of 29 free throw attempts while Mesabi connected on 23 of 37 from the gift line.

The Northland quint jumped out to an 8-2 lead over the highly regarded Vermilion Ironmen Friday night by using a full court press, but Vermilion turned the tables on the Northmen as they burned the local quint on long passes resulting in easy buckets enroute to a 52-39 halftime lead.

The Ironmen could never quite shake free of the Northmen however, as Northland stayed within a three to five point margin until the waning moments of the game.

Burke again led the Northland offense with 22 points while Bayne scored 15 and Leach had 13. The Ironmen received balanced scoring from Dick Weber with 19, Larry Potter 18, Tom Marinaro 14 and Larry Axtell 12. The Northmen held a rebound advantage in the game, 47-36. Burke led the way with 13 caroms while Leach pulled down nine and Rasch added seven.

"When you win on the road you can't be too disappointed, and against the caliber of competition we played, we can be satisified with our performance," said coach Engelman. "We're getting stronger now and we think we still have a chance of going to the state tournament if we could finish with at least a 9-3 record in our division. On the whole, we were pretty satisfied to win an overtime game on the road against a team ranked among the top ten in the region."

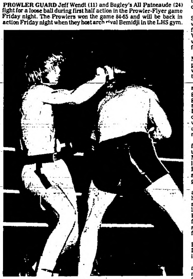
PROWLER GUARD Jeff Wendt (11) and Bagley's All Patneaude (24) fight for a loose ball during first half action in the Prowler-Flyer game Friday night. The Prowlers won the game 84-65 and will be back in action Friday night when they host arch rival Bemidji in the LHS gym.



GOLDEN GLOVE boxing action in the Thief River Falls city auditorium Wednesday night found Charlie Anderson (white trunks) landing a right to the top of the head of Dale Schneider during the first round of their 135 pound battle. Schneider won a split decision to hand Anderson his first loss of the season. Next boxing action in TRF will be January 19 when promoter Wally Hyde will stage the district championships in the auditorium.

Langlie & Comstock Record Boxing Wins

Thief River Falls fighters Jeff Langlie and Bud Comstock posted decisive wins while Brian Waale, Pat Tuseth and Charlie Anderson suffered losses in Wednesday's Golden Glove boxing card in the TRF city auditorium.

Langlie recorded a first period knock-out of Crookston's Joe Veages in the third bout of the night to fire up the appreciative crowd. Both fighters connected early in the spirited bout before Langlie knocked Veages to the mat midway through the round. The Crookston fighter regained his composure at the count of five, but Langlie kept the pressure on and belted Veages with a hard right to the head for the K.O. with ten seconds remaining in the two-minute round.

Comstock, making his second ring appearance, dazed Roseau's Gordon Haugen with an early flury of punches and kept the pressure on the bewildered Haugen, before recording a technical knock-out with 1:20 gone in the first period.

Brian Waale, a third member of the TRF squad, had a little rougher time against Ray Espinosa of Crookston, as the substitute Espinosa recorded a decision over the local boxer. Waale connected on a couple of hard punches in the third round, but Espinosa had the TRF fighter backed into the ropes twice in each of the first two rounds to win by points.

Charlie Anderson, a native of East Grand Forks but working out with the TRF squad while going to school, suffered his first loss of the year at the hands of experienced Dale Schneider of Langdon, N. D. In a match-up of the card's two most skilled boxers, Schneider caught Anderson with hard right punches in the third round to pull out a split decision. Anderson started with a flurry and won the first round before Schneider regained his confidence in the second and controlled the third period, stunning Anderson with a solid right to the head in the final minute of the match.

Another out-of-town boxer working with the Thief River Falls squad, Pat Tuseth, really brought the crowd to life right before intermission with a free-swinging affair against veteran Tyler Robinson of Cass Lake. Robinson used spurts of wild punches to slow down Tuseth who connected on well-placed jabs to score points. Tuseth gained control of the fight and was carrying the action in the final round, but Robinson had scored early in the bout to pick up a split decision in the battle of 195 pounders.

Other fights on the card saw Donny Morgan of Crookston defeat Wayne Cole of Warroad in a 98 pound match-up; Dennis Tuseth (cousin of Pat) of Beltrami recorded a first round T.K.P. over Bob Snook of Crooston at 153; Steve Kallenz, Grand Forks, won on a split decision over Warroad's Fred Ertle in a 139 pound contest; and Harry Lightfeather, Cass Lake, defeated Roseau's Mike Kane at 130 pounds.

Also, Gene Metzger, Langdon, over Vince Lowrey, Cass Lake, in a 150 pound match; Lee Corneliuson, Warroad, over Martin Robinson, Cass Lake at 147; and Mike Grahn, Roseau posted a second round knock-out of Allen Cloud, Cass Lake, at 175 pounds.

The University of Minnesota boasts the largest college owned seating areas for basketball (18,025) and hockey (7,654), and both are housed under the same roof in Williams Arena.

Voyageurs Sweep NSJC In Weekend Puck Series

Defending state champion Rainy River posted two come from behind wins to sweep a key MJCAA weekend hockey series over previously undefeated Northland junior college at International Falls Friday and Saturday.

The Voyageurs overcame a 2-0 second period deficit Friday night to register a 7-4 triumph ending Northland's win streak at six games and Saturday evening Rainy River fell behind 3-0 before coming back to gain a 5-3 victory.

"We had one bad period of hockey in both games," said Northland coach Swede Lund, "we were pretty evenly matched, but our one period in each game killed us."

Northland stormed to a 3-0 first period lead Saturday night behind two goals by sophomore center Bob Lundbohm and a single score by sophomore defenseman Rick Lindegard. Lundohm's first goal, assisted by John Barger and Mark Hughes, came with 14:20 remaining in the period to open the game's scoring. Barger made it 2-0 on an assist from Lundbohm with 11:13 left and Lundbohm gave Northland an impressive 3-0 advantage on an unassisted goal with 8:00 remaining.

Rainy River fought back to make it 3-1 at the end of the fist period on sophomore defenseman Rick Sandstrom's goal with 4:00 remaining. The Voyageurs scored twice in the second period to send the game into the final canto deadlocked at 3-3.

Former Warroad standout Bob Storey scored an unassisted goal with 17:27 remaining in the game for the Rainy River win. The Voyageurs added another goal with 19 seconds remaining for the final 5-3 count.

Freshman goalie Tom Matanich turned in a 27 save performance for the Northmen while Rainy River's Moore turned back 25 Northland shots.

Northland opened up a 2-0 second period lead in Friday's game at International Falls on goals by Lundbohm and sophomore defenseman Jeff Baumgartner. Lundbohm scored on an assist from Baumgartner with 18:25 remaining and Lindegard assisted on Baumgartner's score with 13:06 left.

Rainy River came right back for two goals and a 2-2 contest until sophomore center Leo Marshall gave Northland a 3-2 lead on an assist from Baumgartner with just 55 seconds remaining in the second period.

Rainy River took over the action in the third period however, as the Voyageurs scored five straight goals for a 7-2 lead. Northland's Gary Halvorson scored on an assist from Rich Ellerbusch with 41 seconds remaining in the game for the 7-3 final.

Matanich was bombarded by 36 Rainy River shots while Dave Doris was credited with 28 saves in the Voyageurs' nets.

Northland will skate back into action Wednesday night with a non-conference game at Crookston Tech before facing the Concordia junior varsity at Fargo Saturday afternoon. Next conference action for the Northmen will be January 16 at home against Mesabi.

LHS Matmen Will Have Early Start

Tuesday night's Lincoln high school wrestling matches against Park Rapids in the LHS gym will have an earlier starting time then usual. B squad matches will begin at 6 p.m. and the varsity action will begin at 7 o'clock.

98 per cent of the high schools in Minnesota participate in football which represents the highest percentage of participation of any state in the nation.

Winter Fishing Off To Good Start

Crappies and bluegills are leading the 'hit parade' as the 1972 fishing season gets under way. This is especially true in Lake Minnetonka where wax worms are being used as the most effective bait for the bluegills. Crappie minnows (or a combination of jigs and minnows) are being used for crappies. Marilyn Ristow of the Manitou Bait Shop on County Road 19 in Excelsior has had several limits of crappies registered; some going a pound and a half. These were caught in Gideons Bay.

Paul Fahlin of Paul's Landing at Crystal Bay has the same report with limits of crappies coming in from Smith's Bay, Crystal Bay and at Arcola Bridge. The crappies are hitting in 15 feet of water on minnows and jig and minnow combination. Sunfish are hitting on wax worms.

Jim Dongoske of Jim's Tonka Sports on County road 15 at Spring Park reports that sunnies are hitting on wax worms in Black Lake and some six pound northerns have been speared here.

Leech Lake Perch

The most sought after winter fish in Leech Lake is making fishermen happy off Pine Point in Walker. Ken and Fritzie Becker of Pine Point Resort tell us that the yellow perch are hitting in about eight or ten feet of water. Many fishermen prefer a winter caught yellow perch to the walleye.

Sled Dog Races

More than 20,000 spectators are expected to attend the All American Championship Sled Dog Races at Ely on January 14, 15 and 16th. Over 100 teams and hundreds of dogs will be participating in the races.

Here is the outline of the three day program:

Firday—Torchlight Parade—5:30 p.m. Sleds, dogs, snowmobiles, floats, visiting royalty including Miss Minnesota, Sheila Bernhagen, also former Miss Scandinavia, Britt Inger Johannsen, and many others—Special events program 6:30 p.m. The Annual Mutt Races will be held in the new Ely Sports arena immediately following the Torchlight Parade in conjunction with the Special events program—entertainment 9:00 p.m. Well known entertainers for the Jet-Set.

Saturday—First heats of All American Championships Sled Dog Race. Saturday evening—Rotary sponsored banquet for racers and guests. Special honored guest—Representative John A. Blatnik.

Sunday—Second heats and awarding of prizes at completion of races. $5,000.00 prize money plus $450.00 worth of trophies.

Racing teams include the best known Huskies from Alaska, Canada and the United States such as George Attla, Dr. Roland Lombard, Dick Moulton, Jean Bryer and many other racers. The race will be over a 17 mile course starting and finishing at the Ely Depot. The Class A teams will run the full 17 miles.

Story of the Week

It seems that two Solbovians who lived in the northern part of Minnesota were on their way to the Twin Cities via automobile. On the way they stopped to get gas at a service station. They saw a sign "Clean Restrooms". . . and they cleaned ten of them before they got to St. Paul.

Herbst Reviews Indian Decision At Leech Lake

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources announced today that it will seek clarification of a "memorandum and order" handed down by the U. S. District Court in Minneapolis concerning Indian hunting and fishing rights on the Leech Lake reservation.

Indians claimed that under treaty provisions they were entitled to hunt, fish and gather wild rice without being subject to state game and fish laws, and that they had the exclusive right to control the exercise of these activities on the reservation.

If upheld in its entirety, this claim would have excluded non-Indians from hunting, fishing and ricing without permission from the Indians.

Robert Herbst, commissioner of natural resources, said the court declared that Chippewa Indians "have the right to hunt and fish and gather wild rice on public lands and public waters of the Leech Lake reservation free of Minnesota game and fish laws".

Apparently, the Indians would not have such rights on private lands within the reservation, nor would they have the right to exclude others from hunting, fishing and gathering rice.

"But", Herbst said, "if the ruling means that Indians can take game and fish for commercial sale without any restriction, the department will have to explore the possibility of appealing the decision to a higher court."

The state has also contended that the federal court is not empowered to grant special game and fish privileges on state lands and other non-federal lands and waters.

Herbst pointed out that the words "public lands and public waters" in the decision would seem to mean, in addition to federal lands, all state, county, township and municipal lands within the reservation.

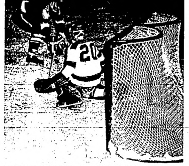
He said that the impact of the decision has been stayed for 30 days and that during that time the established game and fish laws still apply on the reservation.

The reservation covers 588,684 acres of land in north-central Minnesota, and is located in portions of Itasca, Cass and Beltrami counties. About 80 per cent of the land is now owned by county, state and federal governments.

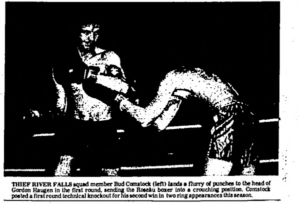
Included within the reservation are the important fishing lakes of Cass, Leech, Winnibigoshish, Cut Foot Sioux and Bow String, in addition to many other smaller but popular recreational lakes.

The chuckwalla is, next to the Gilamonster, our largest lizard. They sun themselves on rocks but when disturbed, dart into crevices where they inflate their bodies and are difficult to remove.

PROWLER TEAMMATES congratulate Tom Goddard after the junior wing's second goal of the night in the third period, while Bemidji goalie Jeff Wizner looks dejectedly at the puck inside the Lumberjack net. Next action for the Prowlers will be Saturday night when the team travels to Roseau.



BEMIDJI GOALIE Jeff Wizner was able to block this breakaway shot by the Prowlers' Jeff Bottem Saturday night in the TRF city arena. The Prowlers managed to beat Wizner four other times, however, as they posted a 4-2 region eight win over the Lumberjacks.



THIEF RIVER FALLS squad member Bud Comstock (left) lands a flurry of punches to the head of Gordon Haugen in the first round, sending the Roseau boxer into a crouching position. Comstock posted a first round technical knockout for his second win in two ring appearances this season.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

January 10, 1972
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA

December 7, 1971

Pursuant to adjournment the Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 10:00 a.m., Dec. 7, 1971.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa. All present.

Members of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce appeared with a Resolution regarding the need for County redistricting. The group had appeared before the City Council previously. The Resolution reads, as follows:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce upon recommendation of its Total Community Development Committee, believes that the redistricting of the County is advisable and necessary to comply with the law, and

BE IT ALSO RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners, and the City Council of Thief River Falls, should give this matter their immediate attention and consideration. There is an obvious advantage of the two governing bodies concerned reaching a conclusion and decision. It is our understanding that a person, or group of persons, being residents of the County, can petition the District Court for action in this matter, and BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that since redistricting must be done to comply with the law, it should be done without resorting to action of the Court. This action should be taken by February 1st, 1972, to be timely for the next general election.

THEREFORE, WE DO...hereby request and urge that the County Board and the City Council take immediate action to accomplish this task.

By Authority of the Board of Directors:

Marvin Lundin, President
Attest: L. M. Smith Secretary

Bob Carlson, President of the City Council of Thief River Falls spoke to the Board and indicated the desire of the City Council was to cooperate in every way possible with the County Board in the matter placed before both bodies by the resolution.

A delegation of residents from the area adjacent to the Smiley bridge appeared with a request that the road that had been worked on either side of the bridge be covered with gravel now to provide for some sort of gravel surface for spring. The Engineer was instructed to proceed with gravelling approximately 1 mile of road with 500 tons more or less to the mile.

The delegation then petitioned the Board for a "rebuilding" of approx. 3 miles of road from the Smiley Bridge West to Highway 59 and the Board instructed the Engineer to include the rebuilding in his road program. Contract for the work may be ready to be called in the Fall of 1972.

Bob Kloubec representing the Soil Conservation Committee and Wallace Sparby of the ASC appeared with a plan for a program to include individual erosion control structures in all ditch cleaning programs in the future. Estimates indicate a desire for a need for a special program and a special practice allotment for Pennington County to implement the erosion project. It appeared that such a project would protect the drainage ditches and provide for their proper function over a longer period of time. It appeared that a 10 per cent levy could be justified as a benefit to the ditch system with the landowner responsible for the balance in conjunction with the ASC Special Practice payment as proposed. The structure to remain the property of the landowner. The Board unanimously approved the development of such a program and urged the SCS and ASC to jointly work together to implement the practice as quickly as possible.

Mr. Kloubec presented a budget request for the SCS District for 1972 in the amount of $2,588.00. Moved by Tasa seconded by Stenberg that the budget request of the Pennington County Soil Conservation District for $2,588.00 for 1972 be approved and said amount be appropriated from the Revenue Fund in 1972. Motion carried.

The minutes of meetings of Nov. 9th and 11th were read and approved as read.

Moved by Olson seconded by Tasa that the Auditor be instructed to bill the Welfare Department for all costs for Maintenance of the Office in the Courthouse including heat, light, janitorial services and other costs incidental to operation of the Courthouse. Motion carried.

The following abatements were approved:

A. M. Magnuson—Magnuson's addition one lot assessed as improved when in reality it does not have sewer and water service. Reduction amounting to $68.00 valuation.

Jon Metusalem—Valuation adjusted for taxes payable in 1972 because of an apparent error in measurement of a portion of building as well as a depreciation factor. Reduction amounting to $592.00 valuation.

A resignation was received from Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zavoral after serving as janitors for several years. The Board accepted the resignation effective December 31st, 1971 and the Auditor was instructed to extend the appreciation for the dedicated work performed over the years.

The need for continued discussion of the budget was reviewed and the Chairman announced a meeting would be held at 1:30 P.M., Dec. 16th to finalize the budget.

Moved by Stenberg seconded by Hanson that the recommendation of the Register of Deeds to purchase a microfilm machine for recording in the Register of Deeds Office be denied and as an alternative be authorized to enter into a contract for the use of a Zerox machine for recording. Motion carried.

Moved by Hanson seconded by Tasa that meeting recess to reconvene at 1:30 P.M., Dec. 16, 1971. Motion carried.

On December 16, 1971 the Board reconvened after recess. All members were present.

Individual budgets for the various Offices were presented to the Board for consideration and various Officers were interviewed concerning the budgets. There appeared to be no clear cut guide lines to follow because of conflicting and changing rulings coming from the various regulatory bodies in St. Paul.

Moved by Hanson seconded by Olson that the sum of $1,990.00 be appropriated from the Revenue Fund to the Oakland Park Nursing Home for the County share of insurance and other specific charges for maintenance of the Oakland Park complex. Motion carried.

The Budget of the County Extension Services were presented for consideration and study and Commissioner Tasa introduced the following Resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED: That the sum of $13,850.00 be set apart from the General Revenue Fund and appropriated subject to the order of the Dean of the Institute of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota for the support of County Extension work in agriculture and home economics in Pennington County, for the year beginning January 1, 1972, in accordance with Chapter 202, Laws 1953 and acts supplementary thereto.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Olson and declared carried.

The following bills were read audited and allowed:

Moved by Olson seconded by Hanson the meeting recess to 1:30 P.M. Dec. 30, 1971 to continue with consideration of Budgets and determination of the County levy for the tax payable in 1972. Motion carried.

The Board reconvened at 1:30 P.M., Dec. 30, 1971 after recess. All present.

The Board continued with discussion of budgets of individual offices in an attempt to clarify and establish budgets for 1972.

The Welfare Budget was then reviewed as presented by the County Welfare Board: Commissioner Olson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, The County Welfare Budget has submitted a budget for Welfare purposes for the year 1972 and has requested a tax levy to provide funds to enable it to meet its responsibilities under section 393.08, MSA, and

WHEREAS, such budget and requested tax levies have been duly considered.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of County Commissioners approve such budget, including the following tax levy, with the provision that when taxes are collected and apportioned, the apportionment to each of the listed Welfare funds shall be in the ratio that the levy for each bears to the total levy for Welfare purposes.

		Per cent
Old Age Assistance	$ 51,624.51	15.53
Aid to Families with Dependent Children	65,386.62	19.67
Aid to the Disabled	57,741.01	17.37
Aid to the Blind	498.63	.15
Poor (General Relief)	46,472.04	13.98
Medical Assistance	110,695.19	33.30
	$332,418.00	100.00

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the County Auditor be authorized and directed to spread a levy for Welfare purposes in the amount of $332,418.00 on the tax rolls of the County. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Tasa and declared carried.

The County Auditor then submitted the Budget and proposed tax levy due and payable in the year 1972. The Budget included a certified amount ordered by the State to cover the re-assessment costs chargeable to that part of Pennington County that lies outside the City of Thief River Falls in the amount of $22,904.83 and a deficit levy chargeable against the value of former School District No. 562 for Tuition purposes (County School Tax) in the amount of $3,825.00 and further indicates the distribution of the Per Capita Aid that comes from the Sales Tax Fund in lieu of Personal Property taxes, as follows:

Fund	Certified Levy for 1972	Less Per Capita Aid	Net Levy for 1972
REVENUE FUND	$220,361.00	33,559.20	186,801.80
ROAD & BRIDGE FUND	214,822.00	32,715.65	182,106.35
WELFARE FUND	332,418.00	50,624.57	281,793.43
COUNTY FAIR FUND	7,000.00	1,066.04	5,933.96
	$774,611.00	$117,965.46	$656,635.54
REVENUE FUND (For added re-assessment outside the City of TRFalls)	22,904.83	3,488.23	19,416.60
COUNTY SCHOOL TAX FUND (Deficit levy against former school Dist. 562)	3,825.00	582.52	3,242.48
TOTAL FOR ALL PURPOSES	$801,330.83	$122,036.21	$679,294.62

Moved by Olson seconded by Hanson that the Board accept the levy and budget as indicated by the County Auditor and authorized and instructed the Auditor to spread said levy on the tax books of the County for the year 1972, payable in 1972, with the provision that as part of the Road & Bridge levy there is hereby appropriated from the Road & Bridge Fund the sum of $25,500.00 to the City of Thief River Falls to be paid to the City from the tax monies collected in 1972 for use on State Aid streets and the further provision that an additional $4,500.00 be appropriated as the 3rd and last payment to the City to repay the City for construction of bridge on CSAH No. 62 west of T.H. 32 at south edge of the City. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Tasa that meeting adjourn. Motion carried.

HOW DO WE STOP LITTER?

WE MUST STOP LITTER, but we won't do it simply by banning non-returnable cans or bottles. Or by forcing you to pay deposits on them.

THE TRUTH IS — cans and bottles of all kinds make up only a fraction of the litter problem.

TAKE A FAIR LOOK at litter. That's what the HIGHWAY RESEARCH BOARD did in a survey for KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL, INC. Here's what this impartial study proved about litter along 200 highway-sections in 29 states:

PAPER AND PAPER PRODUCTS 59%
MISCELLANEOUS WOOD, CLOTH RUBBER, ETC. 13%
CANS of all Kinds 16%
PLASTICS 6%
BOTTLES 6%

As your neighbors and fellow citizens, BREWERS and their employees strongly support sound litter-control programs. But even if every can and bottle of EVERY TYPE were eliminated, 78% of litter would remain! Isn't it obvious that the first step to stop litter—all kinds—is to STOP THE LITTERERS?

DESPITE BEING closely checked by Bemidji's Gary Sargent, Prowler wing Tom Goddard (8) beat Lumberjack goalie Jeff Wizner with this third period shot in the TRF city arena Saturday night. Goddard's goal, assisted by linemate Jeff Bottem, gave the Prowlers a two-goal lead with 3:03 remaining in the game at Thief River Falls dumped the high-ranking Jacks 4-2.

LHS Icemen Beat Lumberjacks 4-2

Thief River Falls overwhelmed fifth ranked Bemidji with a hard-hitting first peroid Saturday night as the Prowlers jumped out to a 2-0 lead enroute to a 4-2 region eight win over the Lumberjacks.

The Prowlers started slowly in the opening minutes of the game until senior Don Brown scored with 11:46 remaining to wake up the large crowd in the TRF sports arena. The Prowlers completely dominated the Jacks the remainder of the opening peroid as they physically intimidated Bemidji with a hard checking style of play usually a Lumberjack trademark.

Brown gave the Prowlers a 1-0 lead when his 20-foot slap bounced over the shoulder of tiny sophomore goalie Jeff Wizner. Mike Fitzgerald was credited with an assist on the play.

The Prowlers carried the play against the Jacks following the score and appeared to take a 2-0 lead when senior center Mike Hamilton beat Wizner with 10:23 remaining, but the referees had called the Prowlers for being offside and the goal was disallowed.

The Prowlers did go in front 2-0 five minutes later when John Wangberg, Tom Goddard and Bottem getting assists.

Bemidji started the second period with a bang as the Jacks cut the score to 2-1 on a questionable goal by senior Dave Howe with 14:01 remaining. Howe's close range shot crawled over the shoulder of Prowler goalie Pete Sullivan after referee Wendy Fiest had apparently blown the play dead with his whistle. Protests from the prowler players went to no avail, however, as Fiest allowed the unassisted goal.

The Prowlers responded with a goal of their own as Goddard flipped in a perfect centering pass by Bottem with 7:40 remaining in the second period for a 3-1 lead.

Bemidji cut the difference to 3-2 on Ray Fowler's tip-in after the Prowler defense had trouble clearing the puck with 5:47 remaining. Assists went to Greg Hensrud and Earl Sargent on the play.

The Jacks put the pressure on the Prowlers in the wanning moments of the second and the opening minutes of the third period as the Prowlers penalty skated. Rory Anderson was whistled off for hooking with 10:20 remaining in the game and Bemidji scoring attempts were stopped by several fine saves by Sullivan.

Junior wing Tom Goddard notched his second goal of the night for an insurance score for the Prowlers with 3:03 remaining. Linemate Jeff Bottem broke out of the Prowler zone and left the puck behind as he skated the defenseman away from the front of the Bemidji net. Goddard flipped the picture-perfect pass into the high right corner of the Lumberjack net for the final 4-2 count.

Sullivan was credited with 19 saves for the Prowlers while Wizner turned in a 21 save performance for the Jacks.

THE PROWLER junior varsity skated to a 2-2 tie against the young Lumberjacks in the preliminary contest as Bemidji scored the tieing goal with just 2:59 remaining in the game. Mike Drury scored both goals for the Prowler Bees with Jeff Tunberg, Scott Reed and Dick Penning getting assists. Joel Folger worked the nets for the Prowlers.

Prowlers Down Flyers 84-55 Fri.

Led by Ordean Peterson's 30-point scoring effort, Thief River Falls thumped Bagley 84-55 before a near capacity crowd in the Lincoln high school gym Friday night to up the Prowler season record to a glittering 7-2.

Thief River Falls easily handled the Flyers as the Prowlers' smooth working offensive machine moved the ball exceptionally well; finding the open man inside the Bagley zone defense time and time again for easy shots. The Prowlers worked just as hard at the other end of the court, as they played a heads-up aggresive defensive game that limited Bagley to just 18 points in the first half.

Substitutes played a major role for the Prowlers in the second half, but led by Peterson's 13 field goals, Thief River Falls went over the 80-point barrier for the third straight game and the fourth time in their last five outings.

Bagley held its only lead of the game on Curt Backer's 15 foot jump shot five seconds into the first quarter as the Prowlers methodically pulled out to a 24-12 first quarter bulge. The Thief River Falls press worked even more effectively in the second quarter as the Prowlers held Bagley to a mere six points while rolling to a 42-18 halftime lead.

Leading 26-14 with 6:56 left in the first half, the Prowlers reeled off 14 straight points while holding Bagley scoreless for a 5:31 span to post a 40-14 advantage with 1:25 left to play in the second quarter.

The Prowlers continued to click on offense while containing the Flyers defensively in the third quarter as the local quint held onto two 30-point leads—biggest of the game—in the quarter. Taking a 60-32 lead into the final eight minutes, Prowler reserves backed up Peterson's performance as the 6-2 junior guard netted 15 points in the final canto.

Also reaching double figures for the Prowlers in the game were Rande Smith with 18, Jeff Rhoden 13 and Tom Kays 11. Smith scored 18 points and pulled down an amazing 20 rebounds, despite seeing only spot duty as he slowly gets back into shape after missing the team's first five games because of illness.

The Prowlers connected on 33 of 69 shots from the field for a 48 per cent shooting mark, compared to Bagley's 34 per cent performance on 19 of 55 attempts. From the gift line the Prowlers hit on 18 of 33 for a 53 per cent mark while the Flyers shot 52 per cent, hitting on 17 of 31 free throws. The Prowlers held a commanding 59-19 rebound advantage over the Flyers with Smith getting 20, Jeff Rhoden 12 and Tom Kays 11 to lead the way. Kays was also credited with six assists in the game to lead the Prowlers in that department.

"We're naturally pleased with the win," said Prowler head coach Lee Swanson. "We felt it was a real team effort. Ordean scored real well, but it wasn't just an individual effort—all the boys hit the open man with good passes. Anyone on the team is capable of leading the squad in scoring, in fact, all five starters have led the team in scoring in at least one game this year," stated Swanson. "Rhoden, Smith and Kays all had good games for us, and Lee Sorensen put in a real good defensive effort for us. We were hurting a little bit for depth with Kent Smith and Randy Carlson out of the line-up, but the boys really put forth a good solid team effort." Carlson is out for about two weeks with an injured ankle while Smith was confined to bed because of illness.

THE PROWLER junior varsity was also a winner for the night as they posted a 63-42 triumph in the preliminary contest. The JV's led just 9-8 at the first quarter break, but moved to a 24-19 halftime lead and increased that margin to 48-33 going into the final quarter.

Kent Christiansen led the Prowler Bees with 17 points while Dave Forney netted 16. The win upped the junior varsity record to 5-2 for the year.

Northland Five Hosts Fergus Falls Tues.

Playing on their home court for the first time in seven games, Northland state junior college will host Fergus Falls in an MJCAA Northern Division basketball game Tuesday night, beginning at 7:30 in the NSJC gym.

Chet Engelman's Northland quint stands 6-6 for the season, but has played just one conference game to date. That was an 84-76 loss at the hands of Brainerd December 18.

Fergus Falls is 5-6 on the year after dropping a 78-72 decsion at Wapheton last weekend. The Spartans started the year with a bang, but have lost four of their last five games.

All-MJCAA selection Jerry Schwantz leads the Fergus Falls club on offense and is one of the top scorers in the nation. The 6-2 sophomore forward has been averaging near 30 points per game this season. Joining Schwantz in the Spartan line-up will probably be 6-0 sophomore guard Bruce Smith who scored over 400 points at Ferguas Falls last season. Rod Olson is the Spartan's top rebounder this season and he is joined in the front line by returning lettermen Gary Clauson and Gary Greenquist.

"If we play well we can dump them," said Engelman. "They have a tough ball club, but I think we're coming around now and with nine of our next 11 games at home, we should be in pretty good shape to make a run at our division."

Engelman will probably counter Fergus Falls with a line-up finding sophomore Tony Burke (Bemidji) at center; freshmen Dale Hanson (TRF) and Stan Leach (EGF) at forwards; and freshmen Darrell Stromlund (Greenbush) and Willie Bayne (Oslo) at guards. Also expected to see extensive duty for the Northmen are Jay Forney (TRF), Mike Rasch (Hoffman) and Jamie Tronnes (Climax). Freshman Kent Hanson (Karlstad), a starting forward before being injured in the Brainerd contest, is expected to be ready to play against Fergus Falls, but will see limited action.

Burke is the club's leading scorer and rebounder through the first 12 games with a 21.5 scoring average and a 16.3 rebound average per game.

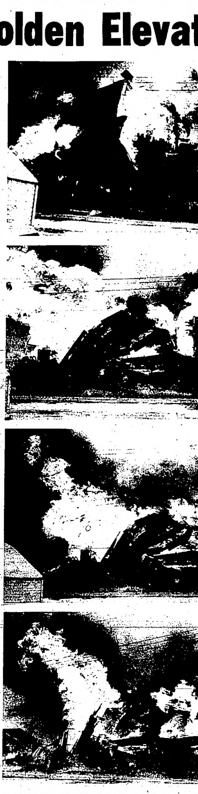
Spectacular Fire Razes Newfolden Elevator Today



COLLAPSE of the south building of three destroyed at the Newfolden Cooperative Elevator is captured in this Times camera sequence. The structure starts to collapse in the top photo, topples in the next two pictures and is reduced to a flaming heap in the bottom photo. Loss was not estimated by elevator officials, but speculation is that it will total a quarter of a million dollars.

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Newfolden Cooperative Elevator this morning (Wednesday), causing a loss which likely will exceed a quarter of a million dollars. It was impossible for officials of the cooperative or the manager to make an accurate loss estimate when they talked to the Times this morning.

Raymond Tunheim, manager of the elevator, said that the fire was first discovered by Ray Chapman, an employee, when he arrived at the elevator about 8 a.m. At that time the office was filled with smoke and he was unable to enter the building.

The elevator is equipped with an automatic fire alarm which sounds a small siren on the outside of the building, Tunheim said, and that siren sounded several times about 7 a.m. Persons who heard it were not alarmed, however, and no fire was reported until Chapman arrived at the scene. scene.

As late as 8:30 a.m., Vernon Bengston, another employee of the elevator, walked through the entire top of the three elevator buildings which were eventually destroyed. He was unable to locate the source of the fire, and that inability made it impossible for firemen to get a head start on containing the blaze. Tunheim's personal opinion was that the fire started in the office area east of the main storage elevators, and that is also where the furnace is located.

Flames finally broke out about 8:45 a.m. and the fire soon raged out of control. Firemen from Newfolden and Middle River did keep the fire from spreading to a low storage building located to the south of the main storage buildings. A strong wind out of the northeast fanned the flames and spread cinders and ashes across highway 59 and several blocks into the Newfolden residential area.

Destroyed in the fire were the central storage building having a capacity of 30,000 bushels and built in 1949 at a cost of $50,000; the north annex built in 1955 for $23,000 and having a capacity of 40,000 bushels; and the south elevator with a capacity of 40,000 bushels and built in 1964 for $104,000. Also leveled was the office area of the elevator. A large amount of grain handling and seed cleaning equipment, office equipment and furniture were lost in the fire.

Tunheim told the Times that the grain stored in the elevator at the time of the fire included 36,700 bushels of wheat, 4,000 bushels of barley, 50,000 bushels of oats, 7,400 bushels of flax, 270 bushels of rye, 700 bushels of durum and 550 bushels of winter wheat, as well as about 400 bushels of seed wheat valued at about $1,700 and grass seed valued at $500.

Milford Rokke, chairman of the board of directors, said that the elevator had a safe which was "guaranteed fireproof" and it is hoped that records of the elevator can be recovered. The south elevator collapsed on the office area where the safe was located, however, and it was not known at noon whether or not this caused any additional damage to the safe.

Adding to the intensity of the fire in the office area was a fuel oil tank in the basement which had just been filled last week.

Rokke said that the elevator had six full-time employees at the present time with up to 22 people employed during the summer months. He also said that the Newfolden Cooperative Elevator owns a branch operation in Strandquist and that the office area there may have to be used until the board decides how to proceed at Newfolden. The Strandquist elevator can be used

Two Local Firms Are Incorporated

Two family businesses in Thief River Falls have been incorporated under Minnesota law, according to notices of incorporation published in today's issue of the Times.

Wold's Holiday Motel, Inc., is incorporated with directors including Benhard M. Wold, Evelyn M. Wold and Paul B. Wold. Fisher Electric of Thief River Falls, Inc., is incorporated with directors including James E. Fisher and Beverly A. Fisher.

Long Fall Harvest Follows Dry Season

Wet harvest years in the Thief River Falls area continued into 1971, when the harvest season began with hot and dry weather for early grains and gradually deteriorated into cold and wet weather, when from the air an observer could see acres of wheat, in windrows, submerged by several inches of rain. In general, however, crops were excellent in the area and by far the best in many years.

What may have been a record rainfall was set in October when the weather observation station at the city water plant recorded 9.18 inches of rain during the month's 31 days. (The five-year average rainfall during October is 1.9 inches.) Total rainfall for the year was 33.01 inches.

January of 1971 produced an average high of 1.8 degrees and an average low of -15. Total precipitation for the month was .75 inches, produced by a 10-inch snowfall on January 13 (which was a Wednesday and not a Friday). Low temperature for the first month of the year was -36 on January 15.

February showed the typical weather for the month, with only a little more than three inches of snow. The thermometer managed to climb to a welcome 41 degrees on February 17, after recovering from hitting the low and chilling mark of -20 on both February 7 and 8.

March took turns being both lion and lamb, with an inch of snow falling on March 4 and intermittently being temperamental until March 27, when four inches of snow was dumped on the area. The average high in March was 31.7 degrees and the average low was 14.9 degrees. The mean temperature for the month was 23.1 degrees, almost three degrees below the five-year average. March snowfall was unprecedented, according to records available to the Times.

April was a fairly warm but extremely dry month in the Thief River Falls area, with only one day of measurable precipitation. Farm work in the area moved at a record pace during the latter part of the month. The precipitation fell April 25, but only totaled one-tenth of an inch.

The average monthly high temperature was 50.7 degrees, and the monthly low averaged 31 degrees. The warmest day was April 15, when the temperature soared to 69 degrees. A low temperature of six degrees was recorded April 3.

Precipitation in May was in marked contrast to rainfall in the previous month. Total rainfall in

2 Immunization Clinics Slated For This Area

There will be two public general immunization clinics in this area during January, according to Mrs. Margaret Race, Thief River Falls public school nurse.

Thief River Falls will hold a Pennington county clinic on Sunday, January 23, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Red Lake Falls will have its clinic on Sunday, January 16, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the community hall. Any adult or child over one year of age in this area may attend either clinic.

A charge of 25 cents per person will be asked to cover costs.

Sponsoring agencies will be the local medical profession, the state health department, the inter-county nursing service and Thief River Falls schools.

Immunizations will be given diphtheria - tenanus - whooping cough, diphtheria-tetanus, polio and rubeola-rubella.

Premium Book Given OK For RRV Horse Show

Red River Valley horse breeders association met in Fargo last Wednesday to approve the final premium book for the February 25, 26, and 27 Winter horse shows at Crookston.

Show manager Everett Solheim, Crookston, explained the arrangements which include a complete 4-H horse show and clinic, a Class A quarter horse show, a major Appaloosa show, and numerous open and pony events.

The valley horsemens association represents all major horse breeds and interest and will coordinate this final feature of the 1972 Red River Valley Winter shows in the Cookston location. John Dean, Hatton, N.D., president of the assocation, heads the board consisting of 16 persons.

The horsemen representing their respective horse breed interest have been chosen in a unique manner. Half of the members live on the west side of the Red River of the North, and the other half of the board of directors are from the areas east of the river. This feature was very effective this year in enabling formation of a complete 4-H horse show which would meet the requirements of both North Dakota and Minnesota 4-H rules.

Board members serving from Minnesota include Everett Solheim and Gene Miller, Crookston; Charles Malarkey, Crookston; Marilyn Hagen and Margaret Donahue, East Grand Forks; Herb Mauritson, Shelly; Verner Fredericks and Shirley Schraeder, Crookston and Ken Trauger, Moorhead.

REP. ROBERT BERGLAND spoke to a group of students at Franklin junior high school while visiting Thief River Falls last Friday. Bergland spent more than an hour talking with the students and answering their question which convered the space program, wage-price freeze, future outlook for agriculture and for the military, the President's trip to China, and the United Nations. At the end of the session Bergland told Dr. Milton Hoff, Franklin principal, that he thought the students had asked excellent questions and showed mature insight. He said he was pleased at the response, conduct and attitude of the students.

City Council Takes Action On Numerous Items

Thief River Falls city council met Tuesday night to discuss a number of matters, taking action on numerous personnel questions and making various appointments, as well as accepting a number of bids.

In the absence of council chairman Robert Carlson, Ambrose Wysoski, vice president, chaired the meeting. Payment of bills totaling $13,090.43 was approved. The Times was reappointed the official publication for city notices, and Northern and Union state banks were appointed co-depositories for city funds. A bid of $17,289 for new transformers was accepted from Westinghouse corporation. Bid of 13.5 cents per gallon for gasoline by Gulf Oil corporation was accepted by the city.

First reading of an ordinance regulating dogs and cats in Thief River Falls took place, and it was again pointed out that the amendments to the city's snowmobile ordinance had to be adopted to make the ordinance conform with state law.

Ruth Dupree was hired as a full-time secretary in the park and recreation department, and Neil McEwen and Mrs. J. J. Womack were reappointed to three-year terms on the library board. Mrs. Bill Kotke received her first appointment to the board. William LaFave was reappointed to the police civil service commission board.

The council also passed a resolution certifying to the state commissioner of taxation that it intended to continue to employ a city assessor and would pay for the schooling needed to keep him certified as a qualified assessor.

Salary adjustments were approved for the secretary in the city assessor's office, and progression pay raises were approved for three patrolmen in the city police department. The city engineer was instructed to revise the engineering contract for the sewage disposal plant to bring the specifications for the plant into conformity with federal requirements.

Aliens Required To Submit 1972 Address Report

John W. Bowser, district director of the immigration and naturalization service, St. Paul, advised today that the annual alien address report program is again under way.

Aliens have until the end of January to submit their address reports to the government. Forms for this purpose may be obtained at any post office or any office of the immigration and naturalization service.

All non-citizens, with few exceptions, are required to report. Those excused from this requirement include diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations. Aliens who are minors must also report, but the parent or legal guardian should submit the report for an alien child under 14 years of age.

Social security number should be shown on the registraton card. Aliens and employers are advised that the possession of a social security card does not entitle aliens to work in the United States. Only aliens admitted for permanent residence or certain classes of non-resident aliens authorized to do so by the immigration and naturalization service may take employment. Violators of this restriction are subject to certain penalties.

Honor Gunstad For FFA Work

James Gunstad, vice president of the Thief River Falls chapter of the Future Farmers of America, was selected as Future Farmer of the Week on the FFA program carried on a Grand Forks radio station. He was interviewed by telephone on the program heard this morning.

Wedding Vows Spoken By Laurel Onken, Jerry Marks

Wedding vows were exchanged by Laurel Jean Onken and Jerry Gordon Marks at a double ring ceremony held recently at St. John Lutheran church in this city with Rev. Paul Biegner officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Onken of this city and Mrs. Myrtle Marks of this city and the late John Marks.

Mrs. Sherman Idso was the organist and played the prenuptial selection, "Arioso" by Handel and the recessional music was "Aria in F Major" by Handel. Soloist was Roxanne Langlie, friend of the bride, who sang "We've Only Just Begun" as she was accompanied by Mrs. Idso.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a floor-length gown of skinner taffeta and chantilly lace. It was styled with an empire waist, bishop sleeves and stand-up collar and Demi Bell skirt. Chantilly lace edged the chapel-length mantilla. Her bridal bouquet was of yellow baby mums and stephanotis and streamers on a white Bible that was also used by the bride's mother.

Serving as maid of honor was Barbara Nordvall, friend of the bride. She wore a floor-length gown of blue velvet with white velvet sash and her headpiece was a white velvet ribbon. She carried, arm-style, a large yellow mum. Bridesmaid was Julie Onken, sister of the bride, and was dressed identical to the maid of honor.

DeVere Chapman was best man and is the brother-in-law of the groom from Middle River. The other attendant was Bradley Onken, brother of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos, light blue ruffled shirts and their boutonnieres were blue tinted mums.

The bride's personal attendant was Barbara Vaudrin.

Acolytes were David Onken, brother of the bride, and Andrew Biegner, friend of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sorensen, friends of the couple, were hostesses at the reception held in the church parlors.

The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in yellow and blue icing, was cut and served by Mrs. Dave Hoglin, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Gordon Peterson, aunt of the groom.

Mrs. Arlie Peterson, grandmother of the groom, and Mrs. June Pickle, grandmother of the groom, were in charge of the coffee servers.

John Miller and Shirley Seaverson served the punch while Jewel Ann Marks, sister of the groom, registered the guests.

Waitresses were Norma Beiswenger, Mrs. DeVere Chapman, Gail Fuller and Jackie Nelson.

The newlyweds are both graduates of Lincoln high school and attended Northland junior college. Mrs. Marks is employed by Oakland Park nursing home and Mr. Marks is employed by Hartz Wholesale.

They are at home at route 1, Box T81, Northwest trailer court.

Regular meeting of the Thief River Falls Eagles auxiliary will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at the Eagles hall. Officers of the organization will meet at 7:30 p.m.

Karen Burslie, A. Johnson Married At McIntosh

Miss Karen Burslie of McIntosh became the bride of Arlen Johnson of Goodridge in a double ring ceremony on Saturday, December 11, at Our Savior's church in McIntosh with Rev. Norman E. Benson officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Birdean Burslie of McIntosh and the groom is the son of Mrs. Orvin Anderson of Goodridge and Roy Johnson of Seattle, Wash.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace over taffeta. Tiny beads encircled the empire waist. Her shoulder length veil fell from a crown of lace flowers. She wore an engraved bracelet, a gift from the groom, and carried a bouquet of red roses and carnations.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Sandra Bjella and Renee Helegaas was bridesmaid. Both were roommates of the bride. They wore floor-length gowns of royal blue velvet, trimmed with sequins around the empire waist. Their colonial bouquets were of pink roses and white carnations. Each wore a cameo necklace, a gift from the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was Dale Johnson, brother of the groom from Seattle and John Lovely, friend of the groom of Goodridge.

Organist was Candace Frisk and soloist was Barbara Rustad, both friends of the bride. "Faith, Hope and Love" and "The Lord's Prayer" was sung as the couple knelt at the altar.

Ushering the guests were Craig Burslie, brother of the bride, and Roger Blaine, friend of the groom. Candles were lit by James Burslie, brother of the bride.

A reception was held with Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Burslie as hostesses. Serving the punch were Nancy Burslie and Mary Burslie, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Don Simonson, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Michael Johaneson, Paynesville, sister of the groom, cut and served the wedding cake. It was topped with the same ornament that was used on the cake of the bride's parents on their wedding day.

Mrs. Joseph Hedman, grandmother of the bride, poured and was assisted by Mrs. Jaynes Hedman of Climax.

Gift carriers were Sharon and Marilyn Simonson of Fosston and Mrs. Craig Burslie registered the guests.

The bride is a graduate of McIntosh high school and the groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school; both graduated in 1969. Following the groom's graduation, he served two years in the United States army.

After the couple returned from a wedding trip to Duluth they are at home in this city at 522 Dewey ave.

Wangsnes Will Open Decorating Service Tuesday

Marvin's Decorating, a new business operated by Marvin Wangsnes, will open Tuesday at 312 East Third street, in the building formerly housing Falls Decorators. Wangsnes has leased the building from Alvin Aaseby.

In preparation for opening, Wangsnes has put a new floor in the building, installed some carpeting and made other changes. He will handle a full line of Cook paints, wall paper, carpeting and supplies incidental to home decorating. He also plans to continue his painting contracting business which he has operated for several years.

Grand opening of the store will be held early in February, although it will be open for retail business beginning Tuesday.

Navy recruiting office in Thief River Falls.

Dancing Class Will Be Formed Here Thursday

Registration for a class in ballet, tap, jazz and acrobatic dancing will be held Thursday from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Instructor for the program will be Mrs. Judy Smith of Judy Rae School of Dancing in Grand Forks, N.D.

Mrs. Smith said the class will be held weekly for 12 weeks and is for girls four to 18 years of age. Enrollment of 30 is needed for the class to be held and further information will be available at the registration session.

The instructor has been teaching in Grand Forks for 15 years and majored in dance education at the College Conservatory of Music in Cincinnatti, Ohio. She is state director of dance for the North Dakota Music Clubs of America.

Gillie Opens Booking Office

Jerry Gillie of Hallock has opened the Gillie Artist Management office in Thief River Falls at 109 E. Second street. Al Shirley will serve as booking agent and office manager. Gillie is manager of the Candi-Shoppe all-girl band and agent for several other area music groups. His office here is to expand that operation.

Rent Regulation Gives Limits For Increases

Rent increases are tightly controlled under the Phase II economic stabilization program, and George O. Lethert, district director for Minnesota, said today that the rent regulations recently issued by the price commission establish clear-cut limits on rent increases.

The new rent regulations allow landlords to raise base rents up to 2.5 per cent to cover increased operating costs such as gas, electricity, maintenance, etc. In addition to the 2.5 per cent, any increases in real estate taxes and fees or charges for municipal services (other than gas and electricity) may be prorated to individual rental units.

The regulations also require landlords to notify their tenants of any proposed rent increase, at least thirty days prior to the date the increase goes into effect. Notification must be in writing and include:

The amount of the rent before and after the proposed increase, the date the proposed increase is to take effect, the amount of the increase attributable to increased taxes and municipal service charges. The base rent and an explanation of how it was determined, an explanation of how the rent increase was computed, a statement by the landlord that the tenant may examine the documentation which supports the increase.

In all cases, residential housing landlords must maintain records showing the base rent charged for each unit, the difference between the base rent and rents allowable after November 13, 1971, and the reason for any difference. This information must be made available to any tenant or prospective tenant upon request.

Lethert emphasized that rent increases put into effect since the freeze, which are in excess of the amount allowable under the new rent regulations, must be rolled back.

Anyone needing information or assistance on the new rent regulations should contact the internal revenue service.

Senior Citizen Day Revealed At Winter Show

Friday, February 18, will be senior citizen day at the Winter shows. The Red River Falley Winter shows board of managers suggests that any "golden age" or senior citizen groups from the communities up and down the Red River basin organize car caravans or a bus and come to see the Red River Valley Winter shows.

For all of those arriving in groups of four or more on Friday the 18th, the admission will be cut to 50 cents per person. Any senior citizen arriving in a wheelchair with a nurse or other responsible attendant will be admitted free of charge (along with the attendant) anytime during the week or at the Winter horse show.

Show has wished to try something like this for some time, according to B. E. Youngquist, president. After a year's experience, other plans may be appropriate as the new armory will then be available for special activities such as a craft show, senior talent show, etc.

Missionary Will Talk On Mexico

Rev. Cory Grotheim will speak Thursday night at 7:30 at the First Baptist church in Thief River Falls. He has served for the past 18 years with the Baptist general conference in Mexico, where he has been involved in direct evangelism and church planning.

Prior to his return he had been assisting in the building of new churches in Veracruz in eastern Mexico. He will speak on the role of the Christian missionary in Mexico today. The public is invited to attend his talk.

SENIOR CITIZENS
MEET FRIDAY

Senior citizens in Thief River Falls will meet at 2 p.m. Friday at the senior citizens center. There will be a knitting demonstration, followed by a social hour and lunch.

MEA Says Minn. Teachers Tired Of Delay In Pay

Minnesota Education association officials warn that the patience of Minnesota teachers has run out with respect to the retroactive pay issue.

The MEA says that teachers are tired of having their personal and economic lives subject to the political whims of governmental bureaucracy.

James J. Rosasco, president, points to the recent delay in the payment of teacher's retroactive pay due to a ruling by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) as "ridiculous".

He referred to the ruling handed down by the IRS which states that no retroactive payments can be made until the go ahead is received from President Nixon.

"More delay," says Rosasco, "is unconscionable. For the payboard to further delay action because of such matters as aerospace contracts and other issues dealing with increases in pay seem to indicate that the nations teachers are again expected to stand back and wait while other matters of seemingly higher priority are considered.

"This most assuredly," he emphasizes, "is having an affect on the educational process of our children."

Rosasco condemns the state department of education for "taking their usual neutral position" until more facts are known and the Minnesota School Boards Association (MSBA) for, after having advised member boards to pay retroactive raises, now suggesting that the raises be recovered under threat of prosecution by the department of justice.

"This latest confusion," he concludes, "must be heart warming to those Minnesota educational agencies who have talked of saving the taxpayer's money by not paying teachers the amount due them rather than fighting to honor contracts that have been entered into in good faith."

Rosasco lauds the efforts of MEA seeking the right to retroactive pay for teachers that culminated in favorable action by the Congress authorizing the President to make possible retroactive pay.

for receiving and shipping grain for Newfolden elevator patrons.

Other members of the board of directors are Roy Gast, vice chairman; Harold Hanson, secretary; Emil Dyrud, Orville Harstad, Ervin Broten and Bill Haugen. Most of them were at the scene of the fire this morning.

Rokke added that the cooperative was in excellent financial condition and was planning to purchase equipment which had been deferred in the last several years while the elevator improved its financial position.

Mary Larson, Once Plummer Resident, Dies

Mrs. Mary Larson, formerly a resident of rural Plummer, died at the age of 76 in Moorhead Tuesday. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wright Funeral home in Moorhead at 2 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Mary Larson was born in St. Paul June 15, 1896 to Mr. and Mrs. Hans C. Jespersen and in 1911 moved with her family to a farm north of Plummer. She married John L. Larson in 1914, and he preceded her in death in 1944. In 1946 she moved to Moorhead where she was employed at Moorhead state teachers college for one and a half years. She was employed at St. Luke's hospital in 1948 and worked there until her retirement in 1961. She continued to live in Moorhead after her retirement.

She is survived by two sons, Elmer and Wilmer of Moorhead, and one daughter, Mrs. Darell (Eleanor) Anderson of Fargo. Two grandchildren also survive. Other survivors are a brother, George, of Big Fork, Mont., and one sister, Mabel Wyzoff of Salt Lake City, Utah. She was preceded in death by two sons, four brothers, and one sister.

Social Security Man Here Tues.

Ted Hoversten, field representative of the social security district office in Grand Forks, will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday, January 18, from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Every self-employed person applying for social security benefits should bring with him a copy of his 1971 federal income tax return and his birth or baptismal certificate.

Many of the appliances and power tools found in today's modern home can be labor-saving devices, but they also may be producing a noise level that is dangerous to the human hearing mechanism.

School Patrol Program Begins At Newfolden

Children at Newfolden elementary school assembled in the elementary gym last Thursday for an information meeting to acquaint them with the newly formed school safety patrol program.

Cliff Mattson of the Minnesota state highway patrol talked to the assembly of the importance and the need for each student to cooperate with the school patrols. Mattson also showed a movie entitled, "Rock 'n' Roll With the Safety Patrol", which also showed the need for the school safety patrol.

After the meeting Mattson instructed the patrols in their duties and how to perform them properly. The following fifth and sixth graders were installed as school patrols: Debra Windahl, Janet Bjornrud, Jolene Engen, Sheila Erickson, Greg Carlson, DelRay Rokke, James Sethre, Todd Swenson, Gregory Bengtson, Robert Tunheim, Dean Johnson and Dawn Weber.

The need for the school patrol system in Newfolden has been discussed by town and school officials for the past few weeks. With school children crossing the highway for noon lunch and for noon play activities, they foresee many dangers that could be remedied by having school patrols on duty.

Newfolden's Mayor Ben Nelson, village policeman Robert Mord, and commander of the American Legion Chester Gast were in attendance at the installation meeting and have given their support to the program.

The driving public of Newfolden and vicinity should be aware of the school crossings where patrols will be posted at crucial times throughout the school day. When the patrols have the stop flags extended out over the highway, the motoring traffic must stop. When the flags are upright at the patrols side, motoring traffic can pass with caution.

Long Harvest Season Follows Heat Of Summer

Thief River Falls was measured at 3.02 inches for the month and brought much-needed rain to the area's newly-planted farm crops.

Measurable precipitation was recorded on eight days in May, and a trace of rain was listed for four days. Most of the rain fell in a six-day period from May 17-22. The average high temperature for the area in May was 64.4 degrees, and the average low was 39.7 degrees. Mean temperature for the month was 52 degrees, higher than the five-year average temperature of 50.9. Precipitation was also above the five-year average, which is 2.29 inches.

June was much hotter in 1971 than the five-year average temperature of 62.1 degrees. The average high in June was 77.5 and the average low was 55.7. The mean temperature for the month was recorded at 66.6 degrees, and a total of 2.94 inches of rain fell, proportionately much below the five-year average of 3.99 inches for June.

The month of July in the Thief River Falls area was below average in temperature readings and above average in precipitation, with a total of 4.93 inches of rain during the month, as compared with a five-year average rate of precipitation for July of 3.77 inches.

A cold snap during the last days of July dropped the mean temperature for the month to 64 degrees, compared to a five-year mean temperature of 68.2 degrees. Average high for the month was 75.7 degrees, and the average low was 52.4. degrees.

August performed according to its usual late summer manner and produced a high temperature of 92 degrees, the high for the year, on August 17. The lowest temperature of the month was 38 degrees on August 28. Average high for the month was 77.5 degrees and the average low was 50.3 degrees. Mean temperature for the month was 60.5 degrees.

First autumn frost hit the Thief River Falls area on September 18, when the mercury dropped to 29 degrees, followed September 22 by the month's low temperature of 26 degrees, which was also the coldest day of the month, with a high of only 53 degrees.

Measurable precipitation was recorded on 12 of September's 30 days, and a trace was recorded on two other days. Heaviest recorded rainfall was 1.2 inches September 3. A total of 3.34 inches of rain fall throughout the month.

Average high temperature for Thief River Falls in September was 68.2, and the average low temperature was 41.2. Mean temperature for the month was 54.7, lower than the five-year mean average of 57.2. Total precipitation of 3.34 inches was well above the five-year average of 2.06 inches.

October's above average rainfall of 9.18 inches occurred mostly on the first day of the month, when 3.15 inches of rain were recorded. The last three days of the month saw winter move into the area, with snow containing 1.46 inches of water falling on the city. The temperature dropped to 18 degrees on both October 29 and 31.

Highest temperature for the month was recorded at 68 degrees October 3. Average high temperature for the month was 54.9 degrees, while the average low was 35 degrees. The mean temperature was 44.9 degrees, exactly in line with the five-year average temperature of 44.9. Most of the 10 days when temperatures were below freezing occurred in the last two weeks of October.

November saw the first below zero reading in the Thief River Falls area for the winter season when a reading of -2 degrees was recorded November 30, and in marked contrast to the rainfall of 9.18 inches in October, the area received only .75 of an inch of precipitation during the month.

Highest temperature for November was recorded at 60 degrees on November 15. The highest low for the month was recorded on the same day, when the mercury dipped only to 32 degrees.

The lowest high temperature was the 15 degrees recorded November 21. The average high temperature for November was 32.8 degrees, and the average low was 18.5 degrees. Mean temperature for the month was 25.7 degrees. Lack of precipitation of only .75 inch was in line with the five-year average of only .67 of an inch of precipitation for each November since 1966.

of 16.5 degrees and an average low of 2.6 degrees. Mean temperature for the month was 9.6 degrees. Highest temperature for December was 40 degrees recorded on the fifth day of the month and the lowest imeperature was -18 recorded December 17. Lowest high temperature was -14 recorded December 26, and the highest low temperature was 26 on December 6.

Total of 2.97 inches of snow fell in December, giving the area approximately .3 of an inch of moisture. Five-year average snowfall in Thief River Falls is 13.5 inches. The five year average temperature is 10.3 degrees and the five-year average precipitation is 1.6 inches.

Following is a summary of the temperatures and precipitation during December as supplied to the Times courtesy of the weather observation station at the municipal water plant:

Rites Thursday For Mrs. Emma Ward, Pioneer

Mrs. Emma Ward, formerly of Thief River Falls, who died last Friday in Omaha, Neb., at age 87 years, will be buried in Greenwood cemetery after services at 2 p.m. Thursday (tomorrow) at Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Louis Hermansen will officiate.

Emma Ward was born November 23, 1884, on a farm near Thief River Falls to the late Lars and Kjerste Backe. While she was still a child, the family moved to Thief River Falls, where her father became the first city clerk and first mayor, and also served as president of the school board and judge of probate.

She was one of the first students to graduate from Lincoln high school. She also graduated from Moorhead state teachers college. She taught elementary school here and then was city librarian for many years.

She was united in marriage to [illegible] Ward on May 15, 1918. Her husband preceded her in death on Dec. 4, 1960. Because of ill health, she left her home in Thief River Falls in 1967 and moved to Omaha to make her home with her daughter. Mrs. Ward was a charter member of Trinity Lutheran church and served as the church organist, helping to develop the music ministry of the church. She also assumed civic responsibility and was continually active and concerned in civic matters.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Lindahl (Vivian) Johnson of Omaha, Neb.; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents, her husband, one brother and one sister.

Honorary pallbearers will be A. F. Berge, A. L. Williamson, Frank Tunberg, Dr. A. E. Jacobson, Ole Granum and Robert Lund. Active pallbearers will be Norman Peterson, Wallace Tunberg, Reuben Lockrem, Roger Tunberg, Robert Bredeson and Philip Prichard. The organist will be Mrs. Walter Larson, and the soloist, Mrs. William Penning, will sing "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee".

Rites Today For Mrs. S. Underdahl At Middle River

Funeral services for Mrs. Sigward Underdahl, 68, of Middle River were held this (Wednesday) afternoon at First Lutheran church in Middle River with the Rev. Donald Fredine officiating. Interment was in the Huntly cemetery near Middle River.

Cynthia May Underdahl, who died at her home in Spruce Valley township near Middle River Sunday evening, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Kneeskern and was born October 21, 1903, at Castalia, Iowa. She attended school and grew to womanhood at Decorah, Iowa.

She married Sigward Underdahl at Waukon, Iowa, on September 19, 1924. Since their marriage the couple lived and farmed in Spruce Valley township. She is survived by her husband, six sons: Curt and Laverne, both of Middle River; Elton of Viking, Harvey of Newfolden, Clifford of Hawkeye, Iowa, and Glenn of Bismarck, N.D.; one daughter, Mrs. William (Shirley) Nero of North Branch, 20 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents, three brothers and two grandsons.

Pallbearers were Noel McKeever, Glendon McKeever, William Wagner, Larry Peterson, Norman Roppe, and Arthur Kolden. Mrs. Floyd Peterson was organist, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Blom, accompanied by Naomi Blom, sang "God's Way" and "God's Tomorrow". The Collins Funeral home of Middle River was in charge of arrangements.

Herbert Hanson Funeral Rites Are Thursday

Funeral services for Herbert B. Hanson, 61, will be held tomorrow (Thursday) at 2 p.m. at First Lutheran church in Middle River, with the Rev. Donald Fredine officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery. He died last Sunday at the Veterans administration hospital in Fargo.

Herbert B. Hanson, son of the late O. Henry and Caroline Hanson, was born January 31, 1910, at Northwood, N.D. As a child he moved with his family to Middle River, where he attended school and grew to manhood.

He married Stella Anderson at Thief River Falls on August 24, 1931, and was preceded in death by her in 1933. After serving with the U.S. Army during World War II, he married the former Isabelle Traynor in Thief River Falls in November, 1946.

After their marriage they made their home in Spruce Valley township near Middle River, where he was engaged in road and highway construction work.

He is survived by his wife, Isabelle; three daughters, Mrs. Joseph (Carol) Baton of Neenah, Wis.; Linda of Thif River Falls and Margaret at home; one son, Orville of Ontario, Calif., his mother, Mrs. Caroline Hanson of Middle River; one sister, Mrs. Helmer (Evelyn) Benson of North Branch; two brothers, Orvel of Bend, Ore., and Glendon of Chisago City, and two grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his first wife, one daughter, one brother, one sister and his father.

Pallbearers will be Lawrence Schenkey, Marion Cater, Carl M. Anderson, Lloyd Anderson, Rodney Hallquist and Howard Young. Organist will be Mrs. Floyd Peterson. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Blom and Naomi Blom will sing. Collins funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Ole Klopp, 75, Funeral Held On Tuesday

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Green Funeral chapel for Ole Klopp, 75, who died Tuesday, January 4, at his home in Thief River Falls. Rev. Alexander Stoffel officiated, and interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Ole Klopp was born October 14, 1896, at Valders, Norway, to the late Even and Carrie Klopp. At the age of 10, he moved with his family to the United States, with the family first settling in Wisconsin. They lived there four years before the family moved to the Thief River Falls area, where Mr. Klopp grew to manhood.

He began working for the Great Northern railroad in 1918. In 1922 he was employed by the Soo Line railroad and continued with that company until he retired in 1961 as a locomotive engineer. He was a long-time member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He never married.

He is survived by one brother, Christian Klopp of this city, and one sister, Mrs. Omer Lee of Santa Ana, Calif. He is also survived by several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents and two brothers.

Pallbearers were David, Loren and Floyd Klopp; Dennis and Robert Lee, and Lyle Groslie. Mrs. Sherman Idso was organist, and she also sang "In the Garden" and "No Night There". The Green Funeral home was in charge of the arrangemetnts.

L. Westberg Is Buried At Renton, Wash.

Leonard Manfred Westberg, 61, a former Gatzke - Randen resident, died December 27 after several months of illness following a heart attack. He was living in Renton, Wash., at the time of his death.

Born November 12, 1910, in Linsell township of Marshall county to Pete and Anna Westberg, he attended school here and grew to manhood.

He moved to Renton in the fall of 1951 and was employed by Boeing aircraft.

Survivors include one son, Leonard Jr.; two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Morrissey of Minneapolis and Mrs. Walter (Linnea) Czech of this city; two brothers, Evert of Hibbing and Robert of Edmonds, Wash.; eight nieces and six nephews, several aunts, uncles and cousins.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one brother.

Funeral services were held in Renton on January 3, with interment also in that city.

Final Rites Held Monday For Mrs. Tina Scholin

Funeral services were held Monday for Mrs. Tina Scholin at the Black River Lutheran church at 2 p.m. with Rev. Phillip Lathrop officiating. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery with Sinding's Funeral chapel in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Scholin, 74, widow of Victor Scholin, died Friday morning at Northwestern hospital.

She was born Nov. 21, 1897, in Bray township in Pennington county where she attended school and grew to womanhood. She attended the University of Minnesota technical school at Crookston.

On April 7, 1920, she was married to Victor Scholin at St. Hilaire and lived on a farm until 1956 when they moved to Thief River Falls.

She is survived by one son, Vernon of this city; one daughter, Mrs. Harold (Vivian) Bailey of Toronto, S. D.; one sister, Mrs. Anna Lindblom of St. Hilaire.

She was preceded in death by four brothers, four sisters, husband and her parents.

Samuel Hodne Rites Held At Karlstad Sunday

Funeral services for Samuel William Hodne, 75, Karlstad, who died at the Fargo veterans hospital Thursday, were held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the First Lutheran church in Karlstad with Rev. Russell Wierschke officiating. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery, with military honors conducted by the Karlstad American Legion post.

Samuel William Hodne, son of the late Knute and Martha Hodne, was born June 12, 1896, at Fir, Minn. He attended school and grew to manhood in the Karlstad community and was baptized and confirmed into the Lutheran faith there. He attended high school in Thief River Falls and attended the Minneapolis business school, as well as graduating from the Fargo school of business. He served overseas with the U.S. Army during World War I.

On September 12, 1920, he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Ann Wood in Thief River Falls. Following their marriage, the couple made their home at Karlstad where they operated a hardware store until retiring in 1958.

He was an active member of the First Lutheran church of Karlstad, serving on the church council and as financial secretary for many years. He was a charter member of the church and of the Karlstad American Legion post. He was Karlstad village clerk for many years and was active in civic affairs.

He is survived by his wife; one daughter, Sharon Ann Leverson in Okinawa; one brother, Hardin of Karlstad; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Noble and Mrs. Bertha Hennessey, both of Orlando, Fla.; two grandchildren and several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents, three brothers and one daughter.

Honorary pallbearers were Selmer Anderson, Ernest Carlson, Ludvig Trane, N. O. Folland, Walter Johnson, Chris Pederson, Joseph Anderson and David Skarp. Casketbearers were Bert Trane, Loren Germundson, Belmer Thompson, Milton Underberg, Norman Krantz and Einar Englund.

Mrs. N. O. Folland was at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Clarice Nordin as she sang "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say", and "How Great Thou Art". The Collins Funeral home of Karlstad was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Henry Paulsen, 78, Of Karlstad Buried Monday

Henry Paulsen, 78, of Karlstad died at the Karlstad Memorial hospital last Thursday afternoon, and funeral services were held Monday at the Salem Lutheran church near Stephen with Rev. George H. Johnson officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery, with the Stephen American Legion post providing military honors.

Henry Paulsen, son of the late Christ and Mathilde Paulsen, was born September 15, 1893, in Sinnott township in Marshall county, near Stephen. He was baptized and confirmed there. He served with the U.S. Army during World War I, and was discharged in 1919.

He was united in marriage at Stephen on June 16, 1920, to Freda Anderson. Following their marriage the couple farmed in the Stephen community until 1948, when they moved to Baudette. In 1953 they moved to Great Falls, Mont., where they resided until 1961. They then returned to Stephen and, later, to the Karlstad community, where they had since made their home.

He was an active member of the Salem Lutheran church and served on the church board. He served on the former Englund school board, and was township assessor for many years. He was a member of Stephen American Legion Post 390 for over 50 years.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Rudy, of Grand Forks; three daughters, Mrs. Ruben (Edith) Krenz, Hancock, Minn.; Mrs. Randall (Ethel) Zimprich, Davenport, N.D.; and Mrs. John (Shirlee) Kregnes, San Diego, Calif.; three brothers, Christian of Stephen; Marius of Lindstrom, Minn.; and Axel of St. Paul; 12 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren and several nieces, nephews and other relatives. He was preceded in death by his parents, one daughter, one brother, one half-brother and three half-sisters.

Pallbearers were Richard Anderson, Carl Troska, Arnold Benson, Myron Anderson, David Jensen and Wayne Halfman. The Rev. Harvey Jackson was soloist and was accompanied by Mrs. Vernon Frei at the organ. The Collins Funeral home of Karlstad had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Raymond Brown Funeral Rites Are Thursday

Raymond Brown, 55, of Thief River Falls died Tuesday at Northwestern hospital here. Funeral services for Raymond Brown will be held at the Green Funeral chapel tomorrow (Thursday) at 11 a.m. The Rev. Louis Hermansen will officiate, and interment will be in the Greenwood cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home beginning this (Wednesday) evening until time of services Thursday. A complete obituary will be published in the Monday edition of the Times.

The most common cause of hearing losses today is prolonged and-or continuous exposure to excessive noise levels. Officials point to this fact as the primary reason why every community should have meaningful noise control and hearing conservation programs.

Payments To Unemployed Rise In State

Regular benefits paid to jobless workers from the Minnesota unemployment compensation fund exceeded contributions by 26.8 million in 1971, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the state department of manpower services said today.

Unemployment compensation benefit payments were up 30 per cent. Payments increased from $53.1 million in 1970 to $89.1 million in 1971, he said.

This increase resulted primarily from a rise in the number of weeks for which unemployment compensation benefits were paid. The number of weeks compensated increased from 1,085,000 in 1070 to 1,410,000 weeks in 1971. Average weekly benefits increased from $48.93 in 1970 to $49.95 in 1971 as a result of a $7-increase in the maximum weekly benefit amount in July 1971.

Besides regular state unemployment compensation payments, $7.5 million were paid in extended benefits to 21,000 persons in 1971, Cushing said. Payments were authorized by state legislation and signed into law by the governor in March. Payments were financed on a 50-50 basis from the Minnesota unemployment compensation fund and federal funds.

The department also paid unemployment compensation benefits to federal employees and ex-servicemen. Benefits paid under these programs increased from $4.9 million in 1970 to $9.1 million in 1971, he said. In addition, the department paid $600,000 in extended benefits to persons who had exhausted benefits under these programs, financed from federal funds.

The Minnesota unemployment compensation fund decreased from $117.7 million on December 31, 1970, to $92.5 million on December 31, 1971. Under the Minnesota manpower services law, the minimum contribution rate paid by employers will increase from 0.5 per cent to 0.7 per cent in 1972. Contributions are paid by employers on the first $4,800 earned during the calendar year by each employee, Cushing said.

Five From TRF Attend Seventh Dist. DFL Meet

Five persons from Thief River Falls attended the Seventh District DFL meeting held Sunday afternoon at the Holiday Inn at Fergus Falls. Site for the district convention April 29-30 was set at the Fergus Falls state junior college with LeRoy Peterson, Otter Tail county DFL chairman, as head of the arrangements committee.

Attending from Thief River Falls were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kinsman, Mrs. Agnes Israelson and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Berg.

Henry Tweten of East Grand Forks, district chairman, gave a report on district activities and listed a number of events for members to keep in mind. They included the DFL state central committee meeting in St. Paul January 22, precinct caucuses February 22, county conventions March 18-25, Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Minneapolis April 22, district convention in Fergus Falls April 29-30, state convention in June and national convention in Miami, Fla., in July.

Congressman Robert Bergland was speaker at the meeting and welcomed the five new counties into the 28-county congressional district. He introduced his staff, which includes Kinsman. Reports were also given at the meeting by Ann Richter, Wadena, district chairwoman, and Beatrice Wisted, Detroit Lakes, treasurer.

Safety Is YOUR Business

REV. DUANE J. ESPESETH, Fergus Falls, has accepted a call to serve Faith Lutheran Brethren church in Thief River Falls and will preach his first sermon next Sunday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Espeseth of Gully and a 1956 graduate of Fosston high school. He attended the University of North Dakota before entering the National Guard. He lived in Crookston after his marriage to the former Hope Snobeck in 1962, and worked on a number of government projects for several years. He entered the Lutheran Brethren seminary in 1969, and will receive his diploma Saturday. The Espeseths are the parents of two daughters.

Bergland Scores Ag Secretary On Legislation

In remarks prepared for a DFL dinner in Breckenridge last Wednesday night U. S. Rep. Bob Bergland blasted Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz for his "adamant opposition to legislation designed to increase family farm income."

Bergland specifically attacked Butz for his statements against the grain reserves act and its provision to increase the price support loan rate by 25 per cent on the 1971-72 crops of wheat and feed grains. Bergland, an agriculture committee manager of the reserves bill and co-sponsor of the loan rate provision, has estimated that family farm income would be increased by $1.5 billion in 1971 and by $2 billion in 1972 by the legislation.

In his speech Bergland said: "For the first time in history the House of Representatives managed to gain the broadly based support necessary—from both parties and from all parts of the nation—to amend legislation which would significantly increase family farm income." And now, he continued, "the secretary is telling the U. S. Senate to reject it. To top it all," Bergland added, "he is asking farmers to fight against the bill."

"During his confirmation hearings, Secretary Butz admitted that farm prices are too low—now he opposes legislation to bring those prices above the disastrous levels of the market," Bergland said. "I am becoming convinced the secretary is cut from the same shop-worn cloth which cloaked the Ezra Taft Benson philosophy," Bergland concluded.

USDA Says DES Certification Began Jan. 8th

U. S. Department of Agriculture reminds livestock producers that the mandatory certification program for diethylstilbestrol (DES) began January 8.

Cattle and sheep producers and feeders are warned that animals must be taken off feed containing DES at least seven days prior to marketing.

USDA explained that no official certification form is required, but the party presenting the livestock for slaughter must certify in writing the following:

That he has had custody of the animals for at least seven days, or has in his possession a certification from someone else who had custody for the required period.

That if the livestock was fed DES it was fed in accordance with requirements of the federal food and drug administration; or that the animals were not fed DES-containing feeds.

On December 22 USDA announced the new mandatory certification program. Details of the program were published in the December 24 issue of the federal register.

The new program provides three alternatives for handling cattle and sheep at slaughter: the animals may be slaughtered if certification requirements have been met; or the animals will be held alive for the required 7 days; or the animals may be slaughtered, with samples sent to a USDA-approved laboratory for testing. Meat from the animals cannot be marketed until the tests prove they are free of DES residues.

Details of the new program are available from the Meat and Poultry Inspection Administrative Group, C&MS, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Police Report Many Thefts

Thief River Falls police reported a number of thefts in Thief River Falls during the last week, with a wide variety of personal property being stolen. There were also several traffic accidents during the week.

Kenneth Muzzy, Thief River Falls, reported the theft of the seat and a set of tools from his snowmobile. Value of the items was estimated at $65. On Tuesday Joe Rinowski, Thief River Falls, reported that shop tools valued at $25 had been taken from his garage. On the same day Mark Haugen, Thief River Falls, reported that the skis had been taken from his Yamaha snowmobile while it was parked in his back yard. Value of the missing skis was set at $50.

On Wednesday Larry Inman of Middle River reported that a check for $196 had been taken from his car, and on the same day, Vernon Nelson, Thief River Falls, reported that a spare tire and wheel had been taken from his pick-up truck while it was parked downtown during the noon hour. Nelson estimated the loss at $25.

On Thursday Mrs. Jon Metusalem reported that the alternator had been taken from her 1968 Mustang. Friday Stanley Erickson of Thief River Falls reported that his son's jacket, valued at $45, had been stolen during the basketball game at Lincoln high school.

It was reported Saturday that the Eighth street grocery store had been forcibly entered when the air conditioner was removed from a back window. No loss was reported aside from the damage to the air conditioner and the window. Also Saturday the custodian at Mark Twain school reported seven windows had been broken by vandals. Damage was set at $140.

Also Saturday Roger Tunberg reported vandalism to a number of cars in his lot and also reported that two batteries had been stolen from cars parked on the lot. No loss estimate was available. It was also reported that the floodlights had been stolen from the Lon's restaurant sign. The bulbs were valued at $9, and it was the third time that a set of bulbs had been taken.

At 11:45 a.m. Wednesday a cab driven by Roger Borgen, Thief River Falls, was headed south on Markley and a car driven by Warren Buck of Minneapolis was headed west on Muzzy when the two cars collided in the intersection. There was $650 damage to the cab and $400 damage to the Buck vehicle.

At 5 p.m. Thursday a car driven by Robert A. Forsberg, Thief River Falls, was attempting to cross highway 59 at first street when it was struck by a car driven by Roland Sande, route 1, who was headed north on highway 59. There was $300 damage to the Forsberg car and $150 damage to the Sande machine.

Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Harry Omdahl of route 5 was headed east on Third street and attempting to make a left turn when he was struck by a car driven by Lois Benson of Thief River Falls who was traveling west on Third street. There was $200 damage to the Omdahl machine and $250 damage to the Benson auto.

On Friday a car driven by Mrs. Dewey Liden of Thief River Falls hit a slippery spot on the Third street bridge and struck a tree, causing $500 damage to the car. Mrs. Liden was taken to the hospital and released.

Mondale Reports Congress Action On Cancer Plan

The launching of a massive attack on cancer represents a very significant accomplishment by the first session of the 92nd Congress, reports Sen. Walter F. Mondale.

In authorizing a $1.6 billion program during the next three years for the early detection, prevention and treatment of cancer, Congress took a step that hopefully will lead to man's control of this dread disease, he said. The remainder of his report follows:

I was proud to vote for this program, and was pleased to have co-sponsored two bills that helped lay the groundwork for it. One was a Senate resolution initiating a study of our cancer programs in 1970, the other a bill to carry out the recommendations of the study commission.

These recommendations lead to the landmark legislation that the President signed.

This legislation was the subject of an extended national debate, revolving principally around the question of how independent the cancer research program should be within the executive branch. The final version keeps the program within the national institutes of health, which should preserve the necessary relationship between cancer research and research directed a other diseases.

At the same time, the bill gives the national cancer institute substantially increased status and provides that its annual budget request may not be reduced by officials of the department of health, education and welfare. Thus, the Congress has charged the President with personal responsibility to see to it that an expanded cancer program is effectively carried out.

We have also provided for a three-man watchdog committee to oversee the program and report to the President on its progress. The man who chaired the Senate study commission has been appointed as chairman of this new committee.

The bill also authorizes the establishment of 15 new centers for clinical research, training, and demonstration of advanced diagnostic treatment methods. These will be located throughout the nation and should help substantially in making widely available the fruits of advances in research.

Only a year ago, we were spending about $200 million a year to fight cancer. Under the bill, we will have tripled our cancer programs by 1974. Surely this is a reasonable investment in attempting to control a disease which takes the lives of 325,000 Americans each year.

Smut Infection In Barley Seed

Warning was issued to Minnesota farmers today by Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald that initial laboratory tests indicate a serious loose smut infection on potential planting stocks for the 1972 barley crop.

Approximately 45 per cent of the first 225 barley seed samples tested in the plant industry laboratory of the Minnesota department of agriculture exceeded the five per cent infection level recommended as a maximum allowable limit by the state agency.

About 12 per cent of the tests showed over 10 per cent infection and the highest rate found was 16 per cent.

K. L. Blanchard, staff agronomist, said that crop loss is directly proportional to the percentage of infection in the seed planted, and that current test results indicate that acceptable barley seed stocks for the 1972 crop may be in short supply.

While the Minnesota department's five per cent infection limit is a recommended maximum, the Minnesota crop improvement association will certify only seed with four per cent or less infection.

Barley was one of Minnesota's 1971 record crops, totaling an estimated 43,050,000 bushels. At the December 15 price average of 86 cents per bushel—nine cents below a year earlier—that represents a farm income potential of $37,023,000.

Commissioner Wefald suggested that farmers planning to use barley seed from their own stocks may be time and money ahead by submitting samples to the department laboratory for infection analysis. All seed offered for sale should be tested and the analysis certified to the buyer.

Barley smut testing is a special program and not included in the regular seed test service of the Minnesota department of agriculture offering farmers up to six free tests for purity and germination. Barley smut tests require a $5 fee submitted with each sample.

20 YEARS ON TELEVISION!

Jaycee Week Is Observed Here Starting Sunday

Jaycee week will be observed by Jaycees in Thief River Falls January 16 (sunday) through January 22 to focus attention on young businessmen and the work they are doing in the fields of civic projects and community activities.

Major feature of Jaycee Week in the city will be the "Jaycee Radio Day" when members of the Thief River Falls Jaycees chapter will appear on the local radio station to discuss their projects for the year and explain the goals and purposes of the organization. Radio days here are scheduled for January 21 and 22.

Prior to the Jaycee Week observance here, the U.S. Jaycees will recognize America's ten outstanding young men of 1971 at ceremonies in Indianapolis, Ind.

Jaycees Week celebrates the founding of the Jaycees in 1915, when Henry Giessenbier saw a need for a young men's civic group and organized the first chapter at St. Louis, Mo. The movement spread so fast that in 1920 the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce was formed, representing 24 cities.

The Thief River Falls Jaycees were formed during the 1930's. The name of the national organization was changed from U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce to the U.S. Jaycees in 1965 at the national convention of the civic group.

Built on a foundation of creating opportunities for leadership training through community betterment projects, the more than 300,000 Jaycees are active in 6,400 communities in the United States. The organization's headquarters is located in Tulsa, Okla.

Farm Prices Slightly Higher During December

Reporting prices received by Minnesota farmers in the month ended December 15, 1971, showed modest gains over the previous month and one year ago, but Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald insisted today that "prices not only still have a long way to go to bring the farmer up to parity with the rest of the economy, but they have taken a whopping crops loss of 26 points compared to the 1947-49 scale."

He released a new report from the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture indicating December 15 prices to farmers were up four points from mid-November and up nine points from a year earlier.

"But the real glaring inequity of farm income still shows up in comparing price index averages. It is up only 12 points from the 1967 farm products average and is actually the same average farmers received way back in 1947-49," Commissioner Wefald stated.

"This is actually terrible from the farmers' point of view. Inflation has cut the purchasing power of the dollar drastically since since 1947-49, and farm production costs are much higher because of changes in farming methods as well as inflation," he added.

Dairy and livesotck farmers appear to be gainers in the new price averages. But even the statisticians agree with Commissioner Wefald that inflation and higher costs have really wiped out the indicated purchasing power gains of milk prices 20 per cent over the 1967 index and 36 per cent higher than the 1947-49 price index. Livestock prices are up 18 per cent for both index periods.

Commissioner Wefald said that "poultry and egg farmers appear to be getting a modest return on index comparisons to 1967, showing a six per cent gain, but they are the biggest losers when measured on the traditional 1947-49 base. This shows December prices were only 55 per cent of the unit income of 22 to 24 years ago."

Wool is another big loser for Minnesota farmers for the second straight year, down 10 cents a pound from December 15, 1970.

Soybeans and flaxseed are the only grain crops bringing higher prices in mid-December than a year earlier, by 28 and nine cents, oats down three cents, all per bushel, and potatoes are down 35 cents per hundredweight, hay down $1 a ton.

Senator Moe Is Named To Vets Committee

State Senator Roger D. Moe, Ada, has announced that he has been selected to serve on a subcommittee of the general legislation committee of which he is a member.

The sub-committee will deal with veteran affairs. The committee will study the possible amounts to be paid, methods of financing, and other matters connected with the Vietnam veterans bonus amendment which will appear on the ballot next November.

This sub-committee will also consider any other matters relative to veteran's affairs that should be given any interim consideration.

Senator Moe will attend the first committee meeting on Thursday in St. Paul. This meeting will be a joint meeting with both House and Senate members attending.

Ruud Completes BS Requirements

Wayne C. Ruud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cheslie Ruud of Gatzke, has completed study requirements for a B.S. degree from Bemidji state college and will receive his degree at the June 4 commencement exercises. He spent the fall quarter as a student teacher in Thief River Falls and is currently teaching in Greenbush as a substitute for a teacher on a leave of absence. He is married to the former Elaine Aune who teaches kindergarten in Karlstad.

Approve Grant For Training And Development

Approval of a $75,000 grant to help continue the training of professionals in economic planning and development in 12 states was announced today by Robert A. Podesta, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

"The grant was approved in support of the Nixon administration's program to help local communities plan and carry out activities to create new jobs," Podesta said.

The grant from the economic development administration, U. S. department of commerce, will go to the council of state governments, with headquarters in Lexington, Kentucky.

The funds will be used by the council's midwestern advisory committee on higher education to continue an intern program for college students. The program is conducted by a project staff headquartered at Indiana University in Bloomington.

States participating in the intern program are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The purpose is to train specialists to work with local organizations in planning and carrying out projects to stimulate industrial and commercial growth.

Students participating in the intern program will work with local and regional economic development officials. The interns will conduct surveys and observe and assist local development activities.

The intern project is being conducted in connection with EDA's economic research and training program. Each intern will prepare a report on his project for use by local groups and EDA's office of economic research.

Activities of interns will be concentrated in areas where there are problems of persistent high unemployment and low family income.

In 1971, 50 students participated in the program. It is anticipated that a similar number will take part during 1972.

EDA was established under the public works and economic development act to encourage industrial and commercial growth in areas of the nation with critical unemployment problems.

MIXING EQUIPMENT for quantity baking is located in one area of the new Falls Bake Shop in Thief River Falls. It will be on display during open house at the bakery on Knight av. N. from noon to 9 p.m. on Monday.

Roseau Artist Has Exhibit

Rainy River state junior college at International Falls announces an art exhibit at the college by Roseau artist Frances Karlsson. The exhibit is scheduled for display at the college from January 11 through 31, and may be viewed from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Friday.

The artist, Mrs. Karlsson, and art director Ray Berg, will be on hand to greet viewers on the exhibit's opening night, Tuesday, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Approximately 20 pieces of art will be included in the Karlsson exhibition. Some of the collection will be oil paintings done with a palette knife—a recent art expression for Mrs. Karlsson. She had a similar exhibit at Northland state junior college here in September.

The Unique Construction Of Lampinen Skis

Special polywood ski base is easy to maintain, seal the ski against moisture penetration and prolongs the life of the ski. Wax adheres well and messy tarring is eliminated forever.

Multi-laminated construction of hand selected finish woods for increased strength and durability.

Built-in air channels in the fore and aft part of the ski provide for a lighter and more flexible ski and decrease the effect of any moisture inside the sky.

Lampinen skis are individually paired. The curve of each ski matches the curve of its mate.

TOP PRODUCTION line for the Northland junior college hockey team has freshmen wings Mark Hughes (left) and John Barger (right) with sophomore Bob Lundbohm doing the centering. The line has produced 28 goals and 57 points in Northland's first eight regular season games. Lundbohm has collected a team-leading 33 points with 18 goals and 15 assists while Hughes has 6 goals and 8 assists for 14 points and Barger has 4 goals and 6 assists for 10 total points. Northland will play at Crookston tonight before taking on the Concordia junior varsity at Fargo on Saturday and then hosting Mesabi in the TRF sports arena Sunday afternoon.

NSJC Skaters Have Busy Week Scheduled

Northland state junior college, knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Rainy River last week, will try to regain its winning form when the Northmen take on Crookston Tech in an intercollegiate hockey game at Crookston tonight (Wednesday) beginning at 7:30.

The Northmen suffered 7-4 and 5-3 losses at the hands of Rainy River at International Falls over the weekend to drop their season record to 6-2.

Northland has already handed Crookston two set-backs this season, with a 9-3 triumph at Crookston and a 25-2 shellacking administered in the TRF arena.

NSJC has a busy week on tap with a pair of weekend contests scheduled as well. The Northmen will travel to Fargo Saturday to meet the Concordia junior varsity and then will come home to host conference foe Mesabi in the Thief River Falls sports arena Sunday afternoon.

Saturday's game will have a 2:30 starting time and will be televised on KXJB-TV, channel 4, beginning at 1:30. Sunday's game in the TRF arena has been moved back to a 4 o'clock starting time to avoid conflict with the Super Bowl telecast.

Sophomore center Bob Lundbohm continues to lead the Northmen in scoring with 18 goals and 15 assists for 33 points in the team's first eight regular season games. Another sophomore center, Leo Marshall, is second on the scoring parade with six goals and 14 assists for 20 points while sophomore defenseman Jeff Baumgartner has collected eight goals and 10 assists for 18 points. Sophomore wing Rich Ellerbusch has 11 goals and three assists for 14 points, as does freshman wing Mark Hughes who has six goals and eight assists. Sophomore wing Rodney Bolduc has scored siven goals and five assists for 12 points while freshman wing John Barger has four goals and six assists for 10 points.

Brainerd & Itasca JC's Take On Northland

Chet Engelman's Northland state junior college basketball team, standing 6-7 for the year, will see double duty this weekend with two home games scheduled in the Northland gym.

The Northmen will take on Brainerd Friday night, beginning at 7:30, and will face Itasca Saturday afternoon in a 2 o'clock contest. Both games are Northwest Division contests.

Brainerd defeated Northland 84-76 in an early-season contest at Brainerd. The Red Raiders are led by the play of 6-6 John Falenschek and 6-5 Phil Aune. Brainerd, 6-5 the year, was one of the pre-season favorites for the Northwest Division title.

The Northmen will be facing Itasca for the first time this season and the Vikings will be looking for their first win of the season after losing their first five games. Top scoring threats for the Vikings will be returning lettermen Sam Gebbart (6-1) and Brad Pollard (5-11), a couple of sharp-shooting guards.

The Northmen will be trying to bounce back from a discouraging 101-93 loss at the hands of Fergus Falls last night. "It certainly wasn't one of our better games," coach Engelman said of the Fergus Falls contest, "we didn't break well and we dindn't adjust to their style of play when he should have. Fergus Falls does have some of the best personel in the league, but I feel that we are capable of beating them. We'll have to go out this weekend and try to get two; we want the Brainerd game pretty bad."

Sky Is Falling On Subnivean Animals

by Claude Chmiel
University News Service

Not too many children have heard the tale of "Subnivea," the winter kingdom beneath the snow that is inhabited by all manner of small mammals. There the animals live in peace burrowing through the soft snow and living in the small spaces between the earth and first layer of winter.

Not too many children hear of "Subnivea," and they may never get the chance, for the sky is falling on the kingdom and many of the small mammals are dying.

The villain in this fairy tale isn't a dragon—rather, a snowmobile.

Subnivea does exist, in a very real sense. The subnivean layer is the small space between the ground and the snow supported by grass and other growth. According to a study by Dr. William D. Schmid, associate professor of zoology at the University of Minnesota, many inhabitants of that land are being killed indirectly as snowmobiles pack down the snow.

The study, financed by Arctic Enterprises, Thief River Falls, a manufacturer of snowmobiles, took place at the Katherine Ordway natural history study area in Dakota county. Starting in October, 1970, Schmid and his assistant, Julie A. Jarvinen, a graduate student, measured off a large grid and proceeded to capture and tag two types of field rodents, the meadow vole and short-tailed shrew, that made up the bulk of the test animals. A unique trapping device, made from a plastic wastebasket, was used, enabling the researchers to continue trapping after snow had fallen, as the wastebasket served as a trap shelter.

Snowmobiling on the study area didn't begin until January 17, after 12 weeks of trapping and a considerable amount of snow had already fallen. "This contrasts with most of the snowmobiling areas in the state," said Schmid, "since snowmobilers are usually out on their machines immediately after the first snowfall."

Half the study area was snowmobiled in a pattern that covered the entire half after each snowfall. "Still," said Schmid, "the experimental area wasn't worked over nearly as much as most snowmobile areas near the Twin Cities." The effect on the number of new and previously marked animals caught in the snowmobiled half was startling.

In the 12 weeks of trapping before snowmobiling began, the researchers captured a total of 72 animals on what would be the experimental, or snowmobiled, study plot, and 71 on the plot that was used as a "control"—that wasn't snowmobiled.

There was a dramatic change in the figures during the 12 weeks of trapping after snowmobiling has taken place. On the snowmobiled plot, only one previously marked small mammal and one unmarked mammal were captured. On the control plot, there was a total of 101 captures, including animals that had been caught and marked in the first trapping period.

"It's worth noting," said Schmid, "that none of the animals from the experimental plot were captured in the control half of the study area. The assumption can be made," Schmid continues, "that if the small mammals were migrating from the snowmobiled area, they would migrate in all directions, and that some of them would show up in the adjacent control plot."

They didn't, and Schmid feels it is a fair assumption that the animals died.

"Small animals are under a great deal of stress during the winter," explained Schmid. "There is the temperature factor, and the fact that food is scarce.

"Now in the subnivean layer between the ground and the snow, the temperature doesn't usually get below freezing because the loosely packed snow acts like an insulator. But if the snow is all packed down, as it is by snowmobiles, the crystal quality of the snow is changed, it is packed closer to the earth, and the insulating qualities are reduced."

Schmid easily admits the study was preliminary and is assisting a colleague, Dr. Ben Brown, in a study that will cover a much larger area. Brown, who received his PH. D. last year, is a small mammal ecologist.

He makes no claims to being an "expert"—in fact, dislikes the term. "All I'm doing is presenting the data I collect," he said. "It's the people that have to make the decisions about snowmobile regulation."

Schmid himself likes snowmobiles—"because they get people outside and doing things. Much better than watching TV." But he still feels "snowmobiles should have some kinds of controls. We just don't know enough about their effects on the environment."

The actions being taken by various city and county boards regulating snowmobile use are viewed as a healthy sign by Schmid and his colleagues. It may be healthy for the kingdom of Subnivea as well, for perhaps the sky won't fall after all.

Strandquist . . .

Gerry Stenner, Strandquist 897-3445

The Strandquist Senior Citizens met January 6th for their first meeting of the new year. There were only 18 present as it was a stormy day. Mrs. Thomas Pietruszewski of Stephen and Mrs. Donald Lefrooth, Greg and Melanie were visitors. Work consisted of fluffing up Arctic scrap and getting ticking ready for pillows, feather stitching on crazy quilt blocks and pinning up ends to sew around a finished quilt. Gifts that have come to the Center during the recent holidays are a $1.00 donation from Mrs. Rachel Lofquist; a large 1972 calendar from Yngve Berggren of Newfolden; and Mrs. Pietruszewski gave the Center $1.00 on Thursday. Herbert furnished music on the piano and some records were played also. Some of the men played whist. Mildred served lunch.

Mrs. Clarence Borsvold and Mrs. Herbert Janson were visitors at the Elsie and Ivan Kimbrough home the past week.

Mrs. Blanche Folland visited at the Ella Thun home on Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson were visitors at the George Wikstrom Sr. home in Karlstad on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Herman Nelson and Mrs. Eugene Chwialkowski were visitors at the Ella Thun home on Saturday afternoon.

Elsie and Ivan Kimbrough returned home on Tuesday, after spending Christmas at the Roger Koland home in Minneapolis. Christmas eve supper guests at the Koland home were Mr. and Mrs. Orlene Boen and Linda, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wysoski, Denise, Mark and Lynn and Mrs. Elsie Kimbrough and Ivan. On Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Roger Koland and Ted and Elsie and Ivan Kimbrough were dinner guests at the Warren Thompson home in Minneapolis. Sunday, December 26th, Elsie and Ivan Kimbrough left on the Northwest Orient 747 for Miami, Fla., to spend a week visiting with relatives, the Luttrells and the Kesler families. They also attended the New Year's parade and the Orange Bowl game. The weather was grand and they wished they could have brought back some of that warm Florida sunshine.

Mr. and Mrs. George Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thun, Debbi and Dawn were visitors at the Ella Thun home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kori Myhre and Mrs. Anne Hansen of Newfolden, Leonard Torkelson and Ella Thun were supper guests at the Douglas Thun home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kleinyachter and family, Chester Berg and Verne Lefrooth enjoyed a turkey dinner at the Frank Kleinvachter home on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lindstrom and girls were visitors in the afternoon.

Henry Schramn was admitted into the Greenbush hospital on Friday.

Mrs. Henry Schramn visited with her sister, Mrs. Algot Erickson at Karlstad on Monday.

Mrs. Henry Schramn visited with Henry at the Greenbush hospital on Sunday.

IN DISTRICT COURT
NINTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT
Carl H. Belswenger and Virginia B. Belswenger, Plaintiffs,
vs
Oluf Tessum, Augusta Tessum, A. B. Tessum, the unknown heirs of Oluf Tessum, Augusta Tessum, and A. B. Tessum and all other persons unknown claiming the right, title, estate, interest, or lien in the real estate described in the Complaint herein, Defendants.
SUMMONS
THE STATE OF MINNESOTA TO THE ABOVE-NAMED DEFENDANTS:

You, and each of you, are hereby summoned and required to answer the Complaint of the Plaintiffs in the above entitled action, which Complaint has been filed in the office of the Clerk of said District Court, at the city of Thief River Falls, County of Pennington, and State of Minnesota, and to serve a copy of your answer to said Complaint upon the subscriber at his office in the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, within twenty (20) days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to answer the said Complaint within the time aforesaid, the Plaintiffs will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in said Complaint and take judgment therefore against you.

You are further notified that the title to that certain real property lying and being in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to wit:

Lots eighteen (18), nineteen (19), twenty (20), and twenty-one (21) of block five (5), in the re-plat of Tessum's Addition to Thief River Falls, also known as Tessum's Addition to the City of Thief River Falls, is affected, involved, or brought in question thereby, and that the object of said action is to determine that Plaintiffs are the owners, in fee simple, of said premises, and that you, and each of you, have no interest or estate therein or lien thereon and that no personal claim is made against you, or any of you.

Dated January 10, 1972.

Fergus Falls Hands NSJC 101-93 Loss

Fergus Falls turned the tables on Northland last night as the visiting Spartans used an agressive full court defense and a fast break offense to run past the Northmen 101-93 in a Northwest Division junior college basketball game in the Northland gym.

The Northmen, who like to use the press and fast break themselves, were caught on numerous occasions in the first half by the Fergus Falls techniques as the Spartans raced to leads as much as 15 points.

Fergus Falls held onto a narrow four-point, 11-7 lead with 15:49 remaining in the first half before the Spartans scored two successive three-point plays, sandwiched around a Dale Hanson free throw, for a 17-8 lead with 15:09 left.

The Spartans moved to a 34-19 lead with 7:52 remaining in the first half as the Northland defensive press resulted in a barrage of free throws by Fergus Falls. Northland fought back to trim the difference to just six points, 51-45, after successive Fergus Falls turnovers as the Spartans held onto a 55-48 halftime advantage.

Switching to a patterened offense and a zone defense in the second half almost proved to be fatal to youthful Spartan coach Dave Retzlaff as the Northmen, behind the blistering outside shooting of freshman guard Willie Bayne, narrowed the gap to 79-74 with 10:59 remaining in the game.

Fergus Falls had built its biggest lead of the game with 15:34 left as the Spartans pulled out to a 17-point, 69-52 margin. Fergus Falls continued to send a steady stream of shooters to the free throw line, but Northland countered with deadly shooting from the field to cut the margin to 79-74.

Bayne connected on a long jump shot and a free throw with 8:30 remaining before Fergus Falls sped to a 92-77 lead over a 2:30 span in which the Spartans outscored Northland 9-0.

Fergus Falls held onto a 15-point advantage, 96-81, with 4:22 remaining until Northland trimmed it to 100-93 with just 12 seconds left.

Four Northmen reached double figures in the scoring column with Tony Burke netting 24, Bayne 22, Hanson 19 and Mike Rasch had 13. Fergus Falls was paced by sophomore guard Bruce Smith with 27, All-Conference Jerry Schwantz with 24, Gary Greenquist 14 and Gary Klason, along with Rod Olson, had 13.

The Spartans, getting free underneath for easy lay-ups, shot a startling 64 per cent from the field on 36 of 56 shots, while Northland recorded a 44 per cent mark on 36 of 82 attempts. From the free throw line Fergus Falls hit on 29 of 45 for a 64 per cent performance while Northland shot 61 per cent on 21 of 34. Each team was credited with 44 rebounds, with Burke leading Northland with 14. Dale Hanson pulled down 10 and Rasch 8 rebounds.

There were 55 fouls called in the game with Northland losing Hanson, Rasch and Jamie Tronnes on fouls. Smith fouled out of the game for Fergus Falls.

NORTHLAND CENTER Tony Burke gets off a short hook shot over the outstretched arm of a Fergus Falls defender during last night's junior college basketball game in the Northland gym. Fergus Falls won the Northwest Division contest 101-93 to drop Northland's record to 6-7 for the year. The Northmen will be back in action this weekend when they host Brainerd Friday night, and then take on Itasca in the Northland gym Saturday afternoon.

TRF Golden Glovers Will Stage Tourney

Promoter Wally Hyde will stage the first annual Thief River Falls Golden Glove district tournament in the TRF city auditorium Wednesday, January 26.

Any boy who would like to enter the tournament may do so by writing to Wally Hyde, P.O. Box 194, Thief River Falls, for an application blank. Boys are urged to apply as soon as possible because of limitations on the number of boys in each weight class.

None of the boys in the Thief River Falls district have had more than four fights, and several boxers have had no fighting experience at all, so newcomers are welcome.

The winners of the TRF district tourney will advance to the regional tournament at Wadena on January 29 and February 5. Winners at Wadena will advance to the Upper Midwest finals to be held in Minneapolis the last week in February.

Weight divisions in Golden Glove competition are as follows: Junior paperweight, 85-94, not over 12 years old; paperweight, 94-100; junior flyweight, 100-106; flyweight, 106-112; bantamweight, 112-118; featherweight, 118-126; lightweight, 126-132; junior welterweight, 132-139; senior welterweight, 139-147; junior middleweight, 147-155; middleweight, 155-165; light heavyweight, 165-178; and heavyweight, over 178.

The fighters will also be grouped in either class A or B, with boys over 17 years of age boxing in the class A division. The weight classes will be the same in each division.

Boys in the Thief River Falls area interested in the Golden Glove program are invited to attend one of the squad's practice sessions, conducted Monday through Friday from 6:30-8:30. The team works out in a gym, complete with practice ring, located two doors south of the Sheltered Workshop building on Davis avenue.

The Thief River Falls district squad is under the direction of Hyde and is funded through contributions from the TRF Elks, Eagles and the V.F.W. clubs.

Shetlers Race In USSA Ski Events

Tom and Dave Shetler, both of Thief River Falls, finished second and third in the Class B races of the USSA men's senior alpine slalom ski events at Welch Village Sunday, January 2.

Tom finished with a time of 54:58.8 with Dave right behind at 57.500.

Tom also raced at Mt. Frontenac, Red Wing, Saturday and Sunday, January 8 and 9. He captured first place in the slalom and second in the giant slalom events in Class B competition.

Panthers Record 4 Pins In 35-14 Wrestling Win

Despite winning just three more matches than Prowler wrestlers, Park Rapids scored 21 more points as the Panthers recorded four pins enroute to a 35-14 meet wrestling win last night in the Lincoln high school gym.

The wrestling-minded Park Rapids school recorded pins at 105, 112, 125 and heavyweight to hand the Prowlers their sixth loss in eight matches this season.

Kurt Muzzy posted a 5-0 shutout over the Panthers' Dale Salmen in the opening 98 pound match with a first period takedown and a second period escape and takedown.

Wayne Jensen gave Park Rapids a 6-3 lead with a third period pin over the Prowlers' Lonnie Olson in the 105 pound match. Jensen led 6-0 before recording the pin with 1:04 remaining in the match.

Defending state champion Mark Costello upped the Panther lead to 12-3 with a first period pin over sophomore Lyle Swanson at 112. Costello led 2-0 before stretching Swanson with 1:22 remaining in the first period.

Sophomore Troy Becker gained two third period predicaments to squeeze past Ron Kalinoski 6-4 for a 15-3 Park Rapids lead. Kalinoski led 4-2 with a pair of takedowns going into the last period.

Steve Pachel recorded Park Rapids' third pin of the night in a battle of sophomores at 126 with a second period pin of the Prowlers' Lyle Olson. Pachel led 11-0 before pinning Olson with 51 seconds left in the second period.

Junior Dave Aaker finally broke through for the Prowlers at 132, winning a 5-4 decision over Phil Pike, for a 21-6 match score. The wrestlers went into the final two minutes with Pike holding a 4-3 lead, before Aaker scored on a predicament for the win.

Seniors Rick Nordhagen of Thief River Falls and Niles Jokela of Park Rapids traded second and third period reversals for a 2-2 draw in the 138 pound match.

Pete Henry scored a two-point first period takedown and added a third period reversal for a 4-0 win over the Prowlers' Perry Omdahl at 145.

In a wild scoring affair, Park Rapids' Steve Schauer posted a 10-8 decision over Mark Kaushagen in the 155 pound match to give the Panthers a 29-8 advantage.

Rich Leon, making his first varsity appearance for the Prowlers, scored a third period escape for a 7-6 win over Park Rapids' Ross Zirkle in the 167 pound match.

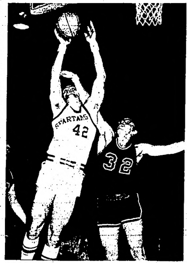
Prowler senior Steve Thorstad earned a first period takedown and a second period reversal for a 4-0 win over Paul Henry in the 180 pound match for a 29-14 count, before Brad Engleson recorded a second period pin over the Prowlers' Larry Paneck in the heavyweight finale.

Ken Johnson's B squaders went down to the final wire before losing in the preliminary matches 26-23. Tied 23-23 going into the heavyweight match, Park Rapids came out a 2-0 winner for the three-point triumph.

Next wrestling action for the Prowlers will be January 20 when the matmen travel to East Grand Forks.

Franklin Cagers

Coach Bill Blankenfeld's Franklin junior high school basketball team will be back in action Saturday, January 15, when the Spartans host Newfolden in the Lincoln high school gym. Game time will be 10 a.m.



FERGUS FALLS forward Gary Greenquist made a three point play out of this bit of action in the Northland gym last night. Greenquist made the lay-up and connected on the ensuing free throw after Northland's Mike Rasch was called for a foul on the attempted block.

Prowler Cagers Host Jacks Fri.

Thief River Falls, currently riding a five-game winning streak, will play host to the arch rival Bemidji Lumberjacks Friday night in the Lincoln high school gym. Game time will be 8 o'clock.

The Lumberjacks, under the coaching of Jack Louma, are struggling with a 2-6 record at this stage of the season, but Bemidji's losses have come at the hands of such teams as state powers Brainerd, Hibbing and Crosby-Ironton. The Lumberjacks were scheduled to play underfeated and state ranked Grand Rapids last night.

Bemidji lacks a great deal of height, but the Jacks compensate that dilemma with a good outside attack, revolved around sharp shooting junior guards Mike Malmquist (5-10) and Bruce Daniels (6-0). Seniors Scott Freborg (6-0) and Greg Caspers (6-1) are the forwards with sophomore Steve Vogel (6-6) at center. Also expected to see extensive duty for the Jacks will be senior captain Bob Colie.

The Lumberjacks, like the Prowlers, will go almost entirely with a full court press on defense. On occasions the Jacks will switch to a 1-2-2 zone.

The Prowlers will be starting their toughest three weeks of the season against the Jacks, with games against defending district champions East Grand Forks and Littlefork-Big Falls coming up.

For the first time this season the Prowler starting line-up should be intact for the Bemidji game. Junior guard Kent Smith, out last week because of illness, is practicing this week and he is expected to be ready for Friday's game. He'll team up in the backcourt with junior Ordean Peterson. At the forwards the Prowlers will use junior Jeff Rhoden and senior Tom Kays while senior captain Rande Smith will be at center.

With the first five intact, the Prowlers present a line-up in which all five starters average in double figures. Playing in all nine of the team's games, Ordean Peterson averages 14 points, Tom Kays 13.7 and Jeff Rhoden 13.2 points per game. Kent Smith has scored an average of 15.0 in eight games and Rande Smith has had spot duty in three contests and holds a 15.2 average.

Junior varsity action will begin at 6:15.

HS Tackle Rams Sat.

Following a rewarding 4-2 triumph over Bemidji Saturday night, John Schmitz' Lincoln high school hockey team will travel to Roseau Saturday night for a region eight clash against the arch rival Rams. Game time will be 8 o'clock in the Roseau Memorial Arena.

The Rams are playing near .500 hockey this season, with their brightest moment coming in their holiday tournament when they recorded a 3-2 win over potent Anoka.

The Rams lost ten blue-chip players due to graduation from last year's runner-up squad in the state tournament. Six lettermen return, including forwards Rick Vatnsdal, Merline Nelson and Mike Hallie; defensemen Arlan Tveit and Dana Byfuglien; and goalie Willard Comstock. All of the returning lettermen are seniors.

Schmitz indicated his squad should be at full strength for the Roseau game, although a couple of players have been hit by the flu bug this week.

The Prowlers will see their next home action Tuesday, January 18, against Warroad.

High-Lysine Corn Has Feed Potential

"Wait and see" seems to be the attitude of Minnesota farmers when it comes to planting high-lysine corns.

Farmer interest here in high-lysine corn is low at this time and scientists disagree on the potential for this corn in the state. One opinion is that the state lacks the large-volume hog producers to create a demand for it, thus making it impractical to grow high-lysine corn. Other experts disagree with this assessment, saying there is potential here for high-lysine corn.

High-lysine corns provide promise for undernourished people and for producers of hogs and poultry, who need feed with high quality protein. But high-lysine corns, like regular corns, are not without problems that challenge the resources of corn breeders and plant scientists.

Since two Purdue university scientists in 1963 found that a mutant gene could substantially improve the quality of corn protein, scientists have been trying to overcome the weaknesses of the early high-lysine hybrids to spur a revolution in animal nutrition and provide millions of additional tons of high-quality protein for a hungry world.

University of Minnesota tests confirmed that a recently developed high-lysine corn variety contained more of the sulfur amino acids which limited the protein value in earlier high-lysine varieties for poultry feeding. The new variety combined two recessive genes—Opaque-2 and Floury-2—which gave it a better balanced protein than is found in older lines of high-lysine corn. Seeds supplies of the new variety are expected to be available to farmers by the spring of 1973.

One of the problems occupying plant scientists' attention is the susceptibility of some high-lysine varieties to ear rots. Heavy invasion and decay of some lines of high-lysine corn from ear rot caused by fusarium moniliforme fungus was particularly prevalent this past fall in Illinois where there were some large plantings of high-lysine corns.

One grower in Illinois estimated that ear rots cut his yield of high-lysine corn by one-quarter to one-half. University of Minnesota scientists said in some large plantings of certain high-lysine lines in Illinois in 1971 as much as 75 to 95 per cent of the ears were severely decayed by the fusarium moniliforme fungus. The fungus is present in very small amounts, but in a moderate to high percentage, in many varieties of normal yellow dent corn. But ordinarily it causes little decay of the kernels in normal corn, scientists said.

Recent University of Minnesota research showed that no ill effects resulted when animals, including pigs, were fed a ration containing high-lysine corn invaded by the fungus. All of the pigs appeared healthy, sleek, well-fed and sound, the scientists reported. In fact, the pigs fed the ration containing the high-lysine corn invaded by the fungus gained in the last two of the tests an average of 32 pounds as compared to an average weight gain of 29.7 pounds for the pigs on the ration containing normal corn.

It has been suggested that other fungi, some of them capable of producing potent toxins, might follow fusarium moniliforme as secondary invaders, making the corn unwholesome. But the university scientists report that so far this is only a theoretical possibility. "There is no evidence of this having occurred in the field," they added.

A shortage of lysine, an amino acid that animals and humans need in large amounts, limits the protein value of regular corn. Swine and poultry rations are supplemented with protein mostly to supply the lysine that is missing in corn.

W. D. Pardee, a plant breeding specialist at Cornell university, Ithaca, N.Y., says "high-lysine corn is a milestone in agricultural research that may shake the word. No man is content when protein deficiency warps and kills his children and he is easy prey for anyone who promises relief. With high-lysine corn, Latin American farmers can grow corn as they do today, have healthy children and be healthy themselves."

Pillsbury Honored By Ag. Institute

Philip W. Pillsbury was honored today for outstanding service to the advisory council of the University of Minnesota's institute of agriculture.

Pillsbury, a prominent executive of Pillsbury Co., was a member of the institute's advisory council from 1950 through 1961 and its chairman in 1960-61.

The Council advises the University's institute of agriculture on policies and plans and serves as a means of communications with groups working with the institute. It includes 19 members—12 representatives from important interest groups in the state and seven members at-large.

Pillsbury's "generous donation of time and leadership was very important to the program of the institute's advisory council," said Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the institute.

The award was presented at the council's annual meeting on the St. Paul champus by Lloyd Bachman, Minneapolis florist, who is chairman of the advisory council.

Pillsbury began with Pillsbury Co. in 1924 after graduation from Yale College, and became a director in 1928. He subsequently served as treasurer, president, chairman of the board and finance chairman. He is listed in "Who's Who in America."

This is only the fourth time the council's outstanding service award has been presented. Past recipients include Stanley Folsom, a seed industry leader and government adviser; the late Clem Thurnbeck, past president of the Minnesota turkey growers association; and Dr. Fredrick Gehrman, prominent Wayzata veterinarian.

Quality Water Often Available Under Ground

Worried about water? If you are, you're not alone. Water—quality, availability and cost—is high on our list of national priorities. We are concerned about shortages, drought and pollution.

What many Americans don't realize is that there is a vast quantity of clean, fresh water available, right beneath our feet. This is our underground water supply, the water in the pore space of underground soil and rock formations. This water is commonly referred to as "ground water" or the nation's "hidden reservoir."

Did you know that 97 per cent of the total fresh water supply in the world is underground? Less than three per cent of the world's supply is surface water—in lakes, rivers and streams. Over 10 million families rely on private wells and water systems for homes, farms, ranches and vacation homes.

Yet ground water is our most under-used resource. Of the 350 billion gallons of water used daily in the U.S., only about 17 per cent comes from underground. At this rate, it would take almost 8,000 years to deplete our underground reservoirs.

And ground water is certainly under-valued, mostly because we can't see it. Yet ground water has several major advantages. It is available in vast quantities. It is generally pure and uncontaminated (being cleaned as it filters through the earth). It stores itself, with no loss through evaporation. And it costs less than half as much as surface water, primarily because it is right where you need it and because little treatment is needed.

The Ground Water Resources Institute has a film—"Ground Water: The Hidden Reservoir"—which can be shown to local clubs and groups. For rental information, write Department Q, Ground Water Resources Institute, 221 North LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

Urges Gifts To March Of Dimes For Research

U. S. mail this month will give the businessmen of Thief River Falls and vicinity an opportunity to benefit children afflicted with birth defects and help research overcome these tragedies in the years ahead, predicts Mrs. Richard Mabey, March of Dimes chairman in Pennington county.

"That check you enclose in your annual appeal goes toward support of more than 100 medical service programs across the country, including the March of Dimes birth defects centers at the University of Minnesota, Duluth and Rochester," he says. "Throughout this network of centers are dedicated physicians, scientists and health professionals whose talents bring new directions to a health menace as old as mankind...birth defects."

Mrs. Mabey urges everyone in the Thief River Falls area to take five minutes out to write a check for the March of Dimes and mail it to her at Box 237, Thief River Falls, Minn. 56701. She will be most grateful for your help, she adds.

Minn. Farmers Union Creates Watchdog Groups

Minnesota Farmers Union Monday in St. Paul created statewide and county-level "watchdog committees" to see that property tax ceilings established by the 1971 legislature corporate farming registration requirements are observed.

Meeting at the state Farmers Union headquarters, the board of directors said the "next constructive move" in the legislative reapportionment squabble is up to the legislature itself.

Attending the state board meeting was Carl R. Anderson of Red Lake Falls, chairman of Pennington county Farmers Union.

Turning to the national level, the Farmers Union county presidents who makeup the state board of directors called for Congressional approval of H.R. 1163, the Bergland bill, early in the new session of Congress, which begins January 18.

The Bergland bill, already approved in the U.S. House, creates a national strategic reserve of storable farm commodities and also increases feed grains and wheat loan levels by 25 per cent for the 1971 and 1972 crop years. H. R. 1163 has already been approved by a Senate agriculture subcommittee and is expected to come-up soon in the full committee.

"It is vital that this bill become law early in the 1972 sign-up period, so that producers know the terms of the programs in which they are to participate," said the board statement. The 1972 farm program sign-up has been announced for January 17 through February 25.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has announced his opposition to the price support increase contained in the House bill and has raised speculation that there might be a presidential veto.

The announcement of the creation of watchdog committees on tax limit evasion and corporate farming was made by acting Farmers Union President Cy Carpenter, who said that there was considerable confusion around the state because of rumors that the amount of net tax reduction for property taxpayers would turn out to be less than intended by the legislature.

Minnesota Tax Commissioner Art Roemer addressed the Farmers Union board meeting and answered questions on how his department interprets the tax ceilings and how it will enforce them.

"Each of our county Farmers Union organizations will set up a committee to be on the alert against violations of the property tax limitations," Carpenter said.

Under a law passed by the 1971 legislature, all corporations engaged in farming operations within the state are required to register with the secretary of state on or before March 15, 1972.

"Since the results of this corporate farm registration will be significant in our continuing effort to obtain restrictive legislation on corporate farm land ownership and operation, it will be the duty of the county watchdog committees, named by our county organizations, to see that no farming corporation evades the registration law," Carpenter said.

"We intend to make strong corporate farming restrictions a major legislative priority in the 1973 session," he said.

At the meeting, a discussion also took place on the problem of legislative reapportionment. The board of directors said that the "next constructive step" is up to the legislature itself.

"The action of the three-judge federal court panel in cutting the size of the Minnesota house and senate will probably turn out to be meaningless since it violates the directive of the Minnesota constitution and must eventually be thrown out by the U.S. Supreme Court," Carpenter reported.

If the court's remap orders are thrown out, then all 202 Minnesota legislators will have to run for re-election on an at-large basis, he explained.

"The legislature can still remedy this situation created by the federal court panel. The legislature can take back the initiative and do the job of redistricting itself. If it refuses to reassume the responsibility, the blame for the forthcoming mess will belong to the legislature itself," he declared.

One stormy night our lights went out. The blackness was total.

Little Mary screamed and grabbed me. The boys, trying to be brave, banged across the room.

I comforted them, trying to hold all against the terrors of the dark.

Then the back door banged, and there was Bob standing in the door holding a lighted candle.

"Daddy, Daddy," cried the children, their fears forgotten, as the room resumed its safe proportions in the light. Gaily they helped to light the candles and build a roaring fire.

How like that candle is my church. The spiritual resources it offers light my life with a sense of proportion and confidence, no matter how dark things seem.

Your church can brighten your life, if you give it a chance.

HERE ARE SOME morning exercises for the tired businessman: Rise 7 a.m. Stand in the middle of room, raise arms slowly overhead, take deep breath and say, "darn the government," lowering arms in attitude of despair. Ten times. Extend body, flat downward on floor, cover eyes with hands, kick heels, think of the high cost of living, the price and wage freeze, and weep, till dry. Kneel, wring hands, meditate upon the labor unions and groan 150 times. Assume sitting position, hands on hips, sway gently to and fro and concentrate on the Viet Nam War until exhausted. Collapse on the floor. Think of the income tax, gnash teeth. Note: Observe this simple exercise each morning before breakfast and you will reach the office with most of the cares and troubles of the day already out of your system.

Lesson In Socialism

The American ethic of profiting according to ability as an individual is sometimes forgotten in the mass society of today. One little lesson which is a good one to remember on occasion was taught by a New York school teacher, Thomas Shelly, 21 years ago. He wrote about it in the Foundation for Economic Education magazine as follows:

As a teacher in the public schools, I find that the socialist-communist idea of taking "from each according to his ability," and giving "to each according to his need" is now generally accepted without question by most of our pupils. In an effort to explain the fallacy in this theory, I sometimes try this approach with my pupils:

When one of the brighter or harder-working pupils makes a grade of 95 on a test, I suggest that I take away 20 points and give them to a student who has made only 55 points on his test. Thus each would contribute according to his ability and—since both would have a passing mark—each would receive according to his need. After I have juggled the grades of all the other pupils in this fashion, the result is usually a "common ownership" grade of between 75 and 80—the minimum needed for passing, or for survival. Then I speculate with the pupils as to the probable results if I actually used the socialistic theory for grading papers.

First, the highly productive pupils—and they are always a minority in school as well as in life—would soon lose all incentive for producing. Why strive to make a high grade if part of it is taken from you by "authority" and given to someone else?

Second, the less productive pupils—a majority in school as elsewhere—would, for a time, be relieved of the necessity to study or to produce. This socialist-communist system would continue until the high producers had sunk—or had been driven down—to the level of the low producers. At that point, in order for anyone to survive, the "authority" would have no alternative but to begin a system of compulsory labor and punishment against even the low producers. They, of course, would then complain bitterly, but without understanding.

Finally, I return the discussion to the ideas of freedom and enterprise—the market economy—where each person has freedom of choice and is responsible for his own decisions and welfare.

Gratifyingly enough, most of my pupils then understand what I mean when I explain that socialism—even in a democracy—will eventually result in a living-death for all except the "authorities" and a few of their favorite lackeys.

"Boob Blight"

A recent article in the "Minnesota Motorist" magazine by Frank L. Remington tells of the stupid, senseless, shameful and irreparable damage being done to our national parks. Remington refers to the spread of such vacant-minded activity as "boob blight", and the trend is growing across the land.

If Minnesota does not know such activity now, it perhaps will be made aware of it soon. Voyageurs National Park has been created by law, and if sufficiently financed will become a reality before too long. Then watch for the park area—meant to be preserved in its primitive beauty—to be turned into a dump grounds and an open sewer. The great American tourist can do in a year what private interests couldn't do in a dozen generations.

"Close to 100 million vacationers will visit the 200 United States national parks and monuments this year," Remington writes. "Unfortunately, between one and 10 per cent of them will also bring either an unthinking or willful propensity for defacing and destroying America's nature preserves.

". . .Tourists who act like pigs are deluging cherished beauty spots with a steady flow of discarded pop bottles, beer cans, fruit skins, dirty paper dishes, sandwich wrappings, newspapers, napkins and cleansing tissues. One ranger observed, 'The national parks are fast becoming outdoors slums.' "

The list of damage and destruction—the cost of which in tax dollars is only a minor part of the loss—is enough to make a person sick. Picnic tables defaced, used for firewood, stolen or smashed. Broken glass left for barefoot toddlers or wildlife to tread upon. Directional and warning signs switched, defaced, destroyed or stolen. Obscenities scrawled in paint or lipstick on natural formations or historic paintings and carvings. Trees dying from bark being peeled or words being carved. Rocks dropped in toilets and blocking the sewers at park buildings. Blasting powder used to collect specimens of Indian heiroglyphics. Chocolate-covered laxatives being fed to bear cubs. Park plantings being trampled or stolen. Natural formations formed by thousands of years of time defaced, destroyed, carried away. Trap doors to water wells pried open and the wells used as garbage dumps. Geysers at Yellowstone park clogged with debris. All this and more.

"At Box Canyon in Mount Rainer National Park there's a smooth expanse of soft rock polished by the glacier," Remington writes. "Along its entire 300-foot sweep, the rock is inscribed with personal and pornographic data. Boy Scout leaders have struck Box Canyon off their list of educational outings."

What a waste! What a colossal, idiotic, downright shameful waste!

People do not deserve to know beauty if their only thought is to destroy it. One is forced to wonder at the upbringing, if any, of the vacuum-heads who perform these acts of destruction. They should smother in their own garbage and be buried in their own filth, and their graves should be marked by piles of cans and bottles.

Yes, these varieties of scum will come to Minnesota. Some of them already live here, but not many. They will come to a place of beauty and leave it a blighted dump. The boob blight is spreading, and Minnesota is squarely in the path. Don't bet against an epidemic here.

Nothing To Do But . . .

Administrators are a fortunate lot, for, as everybody knows, an administrator has nothing to do.

That is, except. . .
To decide what is to be done;
To tell somebody to do it;
To listen to reasons why it should not be done;
Why it should be done by somebody else or why it should be done in a different way;
And to prepare arguments in rebuttal that are convincing and conclusive;
To follow up to see if the thing has been done;
To discover that it has not been done;
To inquire why it has not been done;
To listen to excuses from the person who should have done it and did not do it;
And to think up arguments to overcome the excuses;
To follow up a second time to see if the thing has been done;
To discover that it was done but done incorrectly;
To point out how it should have been done;
To conclude that as long as it has been done, it might as well be left the way it is;
To wonder if it isn't time to get rid of a person who never does anything correctly;
To reflect that the person at fault has a wife and seven children;
And that certainly no other administrator in the world would put up with him for a moment;
And that in all probability any successor would be just as bad—or worse;
To consider how much simpler and better the thing would have been had he done it himself in the first place;
To reflect sadly that if he had done it himself, he would have been able to do it right in twenty minutes;
Whereas, as it turned out, it took someone else three weeks to do it incorrectly;
But, to realize that had he done it himself,
It would have been a very demoralizing effect on the whole organization,
Because it would strike at the very fundamental belief of all employees—
That an administrator has nothing to do!

Borrowed Nonsense

THE DOCTOR, driving up to a homestead to deliver the family's 11th baby, said to the father when he opened the door. "I almost ran over a duck in the yard." "That's no duck," sighed the man. "It's the stork with its legs worn down."

Hearings On Pesticides To Be Held

Public hearings on proposed revisions that will significantly toughen Minnesota department of agriculture rules and regulations for pesticides will be held January 25 in Crookston and January 26 in St. Paul, Commissioner Jon Wefald announced today.

Proposals relate to the custom application, use, handling, storage and disposal of pesticides, the designation of and uses of restricted use pesticides, and the licensing and reporting requirements for pesticide applicators and dealers.

Inorganic arsenicals and mercury would be added to the list of restricted use pesticides, that currently includes DDT, DDD, aldrin, dieldrin, lindane, heptachlor, compound 1080 and thallium sulphate.

The department also proposes to delete certain uses presently approved for restricted use pesticides.

Commissioner Wefald said adoption of the proposed virtually complete revision of existing regulations will materially strengthen existing controls over the sale and use of all pesticides, consistent with mutual agricultural and consumer concerns for safeguarding the environment.

The Crookston hearing will be held in the First National bank conference room, the St. Paul hearing in the auditorium of the state office building. Both hearing sessions will open at 9:30 a.m. The hearing record will be held open until February 15 for receipt and consideration of supplemental testimony that may be submitted to the commissioner of agriculture in writing.

Commissioner Wefald also emphasized that the hearing will not be limited to the specific proposals of the department, but will be open to consideration of all matters relating to the general subject of regulation of the restricted use pesticides considered hazardous to the environment.

Ready, Set, Quit Is Anti-Smoking Theme For Week

Ready...set...quit! Millions of Americans will be seriously considering kicking the cirgarette habit this week as voluntary and official health agencies and related groups combine to observe the second annual national education week on smoking sponsored by the national interagency council on smoking and health.

The January 9-15 observance will be aimed at both smokers and non-smokers. Although people have different reasons for wanting to stop smoking, and find different methods successful, all share one common experience: making the decision to quit. "Ready...set (a date)...quit!", the theme of the nationwide effort, is designed to focus attention on that decision making process.

Local organizations cooperating in national education week on smoking are planning a series of special events calling attention to the health hazards of smoking. Non-smokers and ex-smokers will be asked to help. The idea is to start people thinking seriously about quitting, help them make the decision to stop, and then help them to decide upon the method that wil be most effective for them.

Twenty-nine million Americans have given up cigarettes since the U. S. surgeon general issued 'Smoking and Health,' the first official report of the connection between smoking and disease, in 1964. National education week on smoking commemorates the eighth anniversary of the publication of that report.

The BCWU reported that Eugene Fuss, a Honeywell Engineer, called hospitals "security sieves" that lose more than $100 million annually through internal thefts.

When It's -39, People....

....Meet Frosty The Mailman

....Know They Can Count On The Cat

....Cover Up Their Ears

....Zip Up Tight

PEOPLE in the photos above are Paul Tangquist, mailman; Dale Thomsen giving his wife a ride to work; Linda Daley, senior at Lincoln; and Carl Bjorkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Bjorkman. Temperatures plunged to 39 below zero here Saturday after 32 below on Friday, with high temperatures reaching only -8 on Friday and -9 on Saturday. Our hardy people took it in stride, however, and today the temperatures are expected to reach into the upper 20's ABOVE zero!

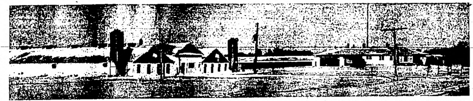
Forberg Named Teacher Of Year

Joe Forberg of Thief River Falls has been selected by the Thief River Falls Teachers association as the local chapter's candidate for Minnesota teacher of the year. Forberg is a mathematics instructor at Lincoln senior high school and has been a member of the local faculty for years. A more complete story will be published in a later issue of the Times.



IMPRESSIVE buildings mark the farm yard of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Mandt's River Valley Enterprises, Inc., northeast of Oklee. The buildings at left were built in the early 1960's to house a flock of laying hens. That flock grew from 6,500 birds to 13,000 in the three houses; and to 21,500 before the egg operation was discontinued in 1967. Since that time the Mandt's have been concentrating on production of pullets and contracting with farmers on a percentage basis. They have farm contracts ranging from 5,000 to 126,000 birds and raise half a million pullets a year.

Goodridge And Grygla Boards To Meet Feb. 2

Combined meeting of the Goodridge and Grygla school boards with Howard B. Casmey, Minnesota commissioner of education, has been set for Wednesday, February 2, in Thief River Falls. No definite time nor place have been arranged at this time. Commissioner Casmey stated previously that this meeting will be open to the press but closed to the public. A public meeting was held at Goodridge about two weeks ago.

Senior Citizens Asked To Hold Credit Claims

Senior citizens who have received their 1971 Minnesota forms and instructions for claiming the senior citizens income tax credit are advised to keep them until current tax figures are available. That is the advice of Ellsworth Jorgenson, Pennington county treasurer.

Tax figures necessary for completing the senior citizens income tax credit forms will not be available for a week or 10 days, Jorgenson said. The delay this year is caused by county revaluation and the new tax law adopted by the state legislature.

Persons who claimed the credit a year ago received the forms in the mail recently. Those who have not claimed the credit previously may obtain the forms at the county treasurer's office after current tax figures are available.

Jorgenson said that persons claiming the credit should not attempt to use last year's tax figures since there are changes in the amount and in the program this year. Announcement will be made in the Times when figures are available. The credit claims can be filed up to June 30.

Estate Planning Seminar Set Wed.

The second in a series of a legal affairs seminar on "Estate Planning" will be presented on January 19 at the Pennington county courthouse meeting room.

The 7:30 to 10 p.m. program will begin with a short review of the previous program and a preview of that will be included in the remainder of the seminar. Bill Penning, University of Minnesota cooperative extension service, will present this short "Review and Preview". Other topics presented will be: "Estate Sales, Trusts and Gifts", by Robert Wurst 14th district bar association, from Thief River Falls; "Insurance and Annuities", by Paul Furuseth from Thief River Falls; and "Social Security and Estate Planning", by Ted Hoversten, district office, social security administration. A short discussion period will follow each presentation.

This "Estate Planning" seminar is open to all interested persons. For more information contact Linda Amundson, Pennington county cooperative extension service.

Mandt Pullet Operation Handles 500,000 Birds

"WHICH CAME FIRST, the chicken or the egg?" is still an unanswered question for Lyle Mandt of Oklee (left), shown discussing some of the work to be done at River Valley Enterprises, Inc., with Glen Hofstad, employee since 1960. Mandt turned from grain farming to raising laying hens in 1960 and now concentrates on raising pullets for cash sale and contract to farmers.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

What Lyle Mandt of Oklee really needs is another half-dozen business enterprises to keep him occupied. He told this writer that his pullet raising operation has become rather routine. We're convinced there are quite a few people who would find that "routine" operation challenge enough and then some.

In about 11 years in the chicken business, Lyle has changed his entire operation, become involved in several different businesses, taken an active part in organizations related to chickens and eggs and come to believe that an integrated operation is essential for a better market picture.

"Right now it costs a farmer 27 cents to produce a dozen eggs," Mandt said. "That figure might vary a little according to feed costs and a couple of other things, but it's a fairly constant figure. In the last year and a half the market has varied from 56 cents a dozen to 18 cents a dozen. They tell us that a three per cent increase in production last year caused the biggest part of the drop."

Lyle thinks that some legislation would help the market situation. He favors a proposal which would provide for a five per cent reduction in laying hens to keep egg production in line with demand. This, he says, would give stability to the market and allow producers to regulate their own industry.

Operating a business which produces about half a million pullets a year—nearly half for cash sale and about 280,000 for contract flocks—Mandt has a special interest in making egg production profitable. As consumers who appreciate high quality eggs in ready supply and who value the people making their living providing them, everyone has an interest in this farm enterprise.

Began In 1960

Mr. and Mrs. Mandt first went into the chicken business in 1960 with a flock of 6,500 laying hens, shortly increasing that number to 13,000 in three buildings near the farm home. In 1963 a pullet house was built and the Mandts began raising their own replacements as well as pullets for sale. In 1967, when the laying flock had been built up to 21,500 hens, the Mandts went out of the egg business on the farm.

In place of picking eggs at home, the Mandts expanded their contracting operation. They placed pullets with farmers on a percentage contract, in many cases also serving as dealers to supply the feed. Laying hens need a specialized ration to do their best and average production is pegged at 20 dozen eggs per bird during its 14-month laying span.

One of Mandt's first contractors was Allan Baer of Lake Park who left the Forest River, N.D., Hutterite colony in 1961 with his wife, 14 children and $2.50 in his pocket. He was able to obtain a 280-acre farm at Lake

Lincoln Sno-Fest Is Set January 28-29

Lincoln senior high school will conduct its annual Sno-Fest on January 28 and 29 with king and queen coronation, athletic activities and a dance being highlights of the event. Class activities are underway as fund raising is being conducted through various projects. Proceeds from the event, sponsored by the student council, will go to the Falls Day Activity center for the retarded.

Candidates for king and queen include seniors John Barry and Patty Waldera, juniors Kent Smith and Rayne Brandt and sophomores Scott Olson and Myrna Schroeder. Elections were held in the various classes to determine king and queen candidates. Sno-Fest royalty will be crowned from the class earning the largest amount of money through its projects.

The coronation will take place at a special assembly program for Lincoln students on January 28. Sno-Fest dance will be held January 29 in the school cafeteria and will follow the basketball game here against the Climax Vikings. The basketball team will play at Ada on January 28 while the hockey Prowlers travel to Hallock for a 1 p.m. game on January 29.

Sophomores have scheduled a number of fund-raising activities, according to information supplied to the Times. They will sponsor a comedy show for the public at 7:30 p.m. January 23 (Sunday) with skits, jokes and songs by class members. This will be followed by a carnival from 8:30 to 10 p.m. in the cafeteria, featuring such things as pie throwing, candy shop and refreshments. John Foster is in charge of the comedy show with Karen Lindquist and Kathy Wald arranging the carnival.

Lori Bottem and Deb Johnson were in charge of the class slave sale with Mike Onkka and Arlene Wold handling contributions. Mary Grundhaus, Jeanne Givens, Myrna Schroeder and Jane Amundgaard are arranging for food and refreshments with Diane Stoltman and Nancy Battleson handling publicity.

Tom Hanson, junior class president, reports that his class had held one bake sale and plans another on Saturday at the Hartz

Hanson And Rantanen Vows Are Exchanged

Given in marriage by her father, Diane Hanson became the bride of Arne Rantanen at a double ring ceremony November 26 at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls with Rev. Alex Stoffel officiating. The bride is the daughter of Norman Hanson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Melford Gunderson of Browerville and the groom is the son of Mrs. Betty Rantanen and the late Arne Rantanen of Middle River.

Jerry Joringdal at the organ played the traditional wedding march and the altar was decorated by white gladiolas and yellow mums in a fan arrangement. The congregation sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and "Love Divine".

Miss Hanson was attired in a floor-length white gown of polyester knit, featuring an empire waistline, leg o'mutton sleeves with lace at the long six-button cuffs, waist, bodice and stand-up collar. A cameo brooch belonging to the bride's grandmother was worn on the collar, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, yellow mums and statis. Headpiece was a simple white bow with a waist-length veil of tulle and edged in lace. The bridal outfit was made by the bride and sister-in-law.

Mrs. Carol Hanson of Thief River Falls, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow floor-length dress of chiffon over nylon in the same style as that of the bride's dress. She carried a large yellow mum with yellow and white streamers and wore a yellow bow headpiece with elbow-length veil.

Jane Rantanen, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore a dress and headpiece similar to those of the matron of honor. The bride's attendant was her cousin, Miss Beverly Hanson.

Attending the groom were Roger Hanson, brother of the bride, as best man, and Jerry Kruger, uncle of the groom, as groomsman. They wore dark business suits and yellow carnation boutonnieres.

Ushers were Barry Hanson, brother of the bride, and Danny Rantanen, cousin of the groom. Honor guests were the groom's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rantanen, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Kruger.

The groom's mother was attiered in a navy blue street-length dress and wore a crescent corsage of yellow roses and white mums.

Mrs. Goodwin Hanson cut the three-tier cake, decorated with yellow roses and topped with miniature bride and groom, at the reception held at Valhall. Mrs. Herman Hanson poured coffee and punch was served by Jan Swanson and Julie Hanson, cousins of the bride. Mrs. Roger Ness registered the guests, Mrs. Jerry Kruger and Mrs. Roger Ness arranged the gifts, and Mrs. Cliff Swanson and Mrs. Roger Kolden were waitresses.

Out-of-town guests came from Oklee, Plummer, Middle River, Strathcona and Warren.

For going away the bride chose a blue velour pantsuit. The couple is now at home at Middle River. The bride is a graduate of Glenwood high school and the groom is a graduate of Middle River High school. Both are employees of Arctic Enterprises in Thief River Falls.

Deborah Kay Steen To Wed David Hall

Rev. and Mrs. Leland Steen, formerly of this city and now residing at Proctor announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Deborah Kay to David Arthur Hall, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall of Minneapolis.

Miss Steen is attending the Duluth area vocational school and is enrolled in the medical secretary program.

Her fiance is a pre-seminary student at Augsburg college. An August wedding is planned.

Lovaell Kraemer To Speak At BPW Meet

Thief River Falls Business and Professional Womens club will meet Tuesday evening with the regular dinner meeting at 6 p.m. and business meeting to follow.

Lovaell Kraemer will speak on her topic, "Extending a Hand." The subject matter deals with friendship, justice and peace in working with women.

The finance committee will present its proposed budget to the club members and a discussion will be held on a fund raiser for the year.

Delegates will be elected to attend the BPW winter board meeting in Minneapolis

Allison And Hagglund Vows Are Exchanged

Mrs. Flora Allison and Ben C. Hagglund were married in a single-ring private ceremony in the rectory of St. Bernard's Catholic church by the Rev. James Bernauer at 2 p.m. January 5.

The bride was attired in an A-line styled polyester street-length dress in winter white, featuring mandarin collar, long sleeves and delicate, small tucks with small gold buttons detailing the bodice. The bride's accessories and jewelry were in dark red.

The bride's corsage was of dark red roses and was accented with white, feathered carnations. The corsage was also decorated with a golden bow.

Mrs. Dean (Diane) Shafer of Greenbush, the bride's daughter, served as matron of honor. She wore a street length dress of off-white trimmed with silver braid. Her corsage was of dark red roses, with pink feather carnations and was decorated with a gold bow similar to that of the bride.

The groom was aided by Dean Shafer of Greenbush as best man, son - in - law of the bride. The men in the bridal party wore dark business suits. Their boutonnieres were of white carnations.

A wedding supper was served at the home of the bridal couple immediately following the ceremony with members of the bridal party as guests. The wedding cake was of three tiers, with the decorative top composed of three lace bells, frosted lace and lillies - of - the - valley. Red roses and rosebuds trimmed the cake.

A reception was held at the home of the couple for relatives and friends on January 9. Mrs. Dean Shafer, daughter of the bride, was hostess for the event. Mrs. John Reed of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom, cut the wedding cake. Mrs. Gloria Bugge, of Thief River Falls, friend of the bride, poured. Waitresses were Mrs. Leopold Foldesi, Greenbush, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Marie Sherack of Thief River Falls, friend of the bride. Out of town guests attending the reception were from Greenbush, Crookston, Holt and Red Lake Falls.

For traveling on the wedding trip the bride chose a navy, three-piece suit with white accents and red accessories. The couple is currently on a two-month wedding trip to the Rio Grand Valley of Texas, where they will visit relatives of the bride and her son, Bill, and family of Dallas.

The bride is a graduate of Lafayette high school at Red Lake Falls and also graduated from the normal training school in that city. She was a former rural school teacher in Red Lake county. For the past six years she has been an assistant librarian at Northwestern Regional library in this city.

The groom is a retired editor, having published the Holt Weekly News for a period of time. He also publishes a small local magazine. After completion of their wedding trip the couple will be at home at 315 South Kneale, Thief River Falls.

Newcomers Club Greets Residents

Regular meeting of the Newcomers club of Thief River Falls took place last Tuesday in the Aurelia room at the Elks club. Eric Allen and Mrs. Scarlett Horning were guest speakers.

Allen, who is inter-district director of special education, and Mrs. Horning, who is a teacher of pre-school children with hearing impairment for the Becker-Clay county cooperative, discusses their work in special education, including the importance of proper facilities for the handicapped, the importance of the role of parents in helping and understanding and in getting help for their children, and the importance of special education in general.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Conrad Gonsorowski, Mrs. Hubert Gonsorowski and Mrs. Skip Foster. The door prize for the meeting was awarded to Mrs. Bev. Swanson.

Several newcomers were welcomed to the club. They included Mrs. Douglas (Margaret) Noyes, whose family currently lives at 510½ N. Arnold. The family is originally from Fergus Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Noyes have one daughter, Elizabeth, 3.

Also welcomed was Mrs. Neil (Kathy) Lofberg. The Lofbergs are living at 711 State Ave. N. and have two children, Desiree, 7, and John, 3. They are originally from Park Rapids. Living in Countryside Park are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil (Reanay) Decker, formerly of Fondu Lac, Wisc. The Deckers have three children: Allen, 6; Lisa, 5; and David, 4. Mr. and Mrs. Joel (Bev) Swanson recently moved to this city from Strathcona and are living at Greendale Manor.

Next meeting of the Newcomers club will be January 25 at 8 p.m. in the Aurelia room. All newcomers are welcome to attend.

Mother's Circle Will See Film

Mothers' circle meeting at Trinity Lutheran church on Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. will feature a filmstrip and an informal panel discussion on the relationship between forgiveness and discipline.

After Mrs. Robert Penne narrates the filmstrip, panelists Mrs. Jay Borchert, Mrs. Frank Hammerlinck, Mrs. Dennis Wojahn and Mrs. Louis Hermansen will present views from various books on family life. The audience will be invited to share opinions and experiences in buzz groups.

This program, entitled "Homecoming", is based on the "Parable of the Forgiving Father". It begins a series of original programs based on the parables of Jesus and related to interests of present-day mothers. The series was planned by the 1972 co-secretaries of education, Mrs. Lynn Tele and Mrs. Richard Jorde, assisted by Mrs. Douglas Betlach.

Co-secretaries of stewardship, Mrs. Penne and Mrs. Dale Wennberg, urge members to bring canceled postage stamps to the meeting. Stamps will be sent to provide occupational therapy for patients in a German hospital-town.

Following the one-hour program, Mrs. Don Fugleberg, newly installed president, will preside at the first business meeting of the year while hostesses Mrs. Borchert, Mrs. Robert Bergan and Mrs. Wojahn serve refreshments.

The hospitality committee extends an invitation to any mothers interested in the program topic although only mothers of pre-schoolers are eligible for membership.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Have you ever heard the expression," just like grandma use to make?" With all the modern conveniences, prepacked, precooked and all the others, todays modern housewife has it rather easy when it comes to preparing the family meal.

Directions today for making numerous dishes and baked items is "pop it in the overn until light brown", "heat and serve", "bring to boil, drain and serve", "remove from wrapper and serve"—all kinds of simple directions to follow.

Maybe you have read that, "the family meal use to be thought out, now it is thawed out."

Many of the grandmas of today may cook like their daughters do today. Meals can be made very simple and little time is spent preparing the family meanl.

It's fun to ramble through some of the cookbooks that Grandma used in her day. Here is a recipe and some comments made along with it that was taken from a cookbook dated in the early 1920's.

"I prefer to make cake without baking powder and soda because I think it is better not to have in food that chemicals that are left by the use of baking powder and the soda.

Making light cake without the use of chemical leavening agents requires some care and practice and skill, but not so much that success cannot be attained with a little painstaking effort.

Recipes specially adapted to use without baking powder and soda must be used, of which the following is an example:

Honey and Graham Cake

2 eggs
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup hot water
½ cup sugar
¼ cup strained honey
¼ cup cooking oil
½ tsp. vanilla
1 cup pastry flour, measured after sifting
½ cup entire—wheat flour, unsifted

Metho: Beat eggs with an egg beater 'til, thick. Add the hot water gradually, beating and continue beating 'til the batter becomes thick again. Add the sugar, a little at a time, continuing to beat. Beat in the honey, pouring it in a small stream. Beat the oil in, beating only enough to mix the oil with the batter. Add the vanilla. Then carefully fold in the floor, sifting a little of the flour at a time on top of the batter and folding it in with a flat wire folder. Do not use any more strokes than are necessary to blend the flour with the batter, because any unnecessary working of the batter will work out the air that has been beaten into the batter with so much pains and effort. And it is the air beaten into the batter that is depended upon to make the cake light.

Pour into cake pan, into the bottom of which a piece of oiled paper has been fitted. Bake in a moderately heated oven 'til it feels firm to the touch when gently pressed on top.

Students Receive Information On ID Bracelets

Students in Thief River Falls elementary schools received information last week on identification bracelets and are being asked to bring the material home to their parents. The material is provided by the Thief River Falls Mrs. Jaycees chapter as a community service.

"A lost child? An injured adult? Diabetic or allergic? These are just a few of the many reasons for visible identification", states the information sent home with children. The stainless steel bracelets sell for 75 cents each plus postage and have needed information permanently stamped on them.

Parents are asked to return the completed forms and the price of the bracelets ordered to school with their children by next Monday, January 24, according to Mrs. Ross Taylor, chairman of the project. All information needed by the parents is provided on the forms which the children have already received.

Give Shower For Anderson Daughter

A baby shower will be given for Elizabeth Aimee, infant daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Anderson of Goodridge, at the Faith Lutheran church on Thursday at 8 p.m.

The Deborah Circle will host the shower and all members and friends are invited.

Lib Movements Allow Greater Social Freedom

Men and women's lib movements now allow the individual greater freedom to choose a wider range of roles in society than ever before, according to a University of Minnesota sociologist.

The new roles, such as women in jobs formerly considered appropriate only for men or people in the gay liberation movement, are an expression of greater freedom. The new roles are not necessarily good or bad in and of themselves, said the sociologist, George Donohue.

"Homosexuals are not currently accepted by the larger part of society but there is a growing movement to accept people who behave in this fashion," he explained.

"The male and female liberation movements in a sense offer a diversity of ways in which people are permitted to behave and still be accepted by other people in society."

Nevertheless, once the individual chooses the role—whether it be the traditional role of breadwinner or homemaker, or the not so traditional role of bachelor or homosexual—he or she is locked into that role as much as ever, Donohue stated.

There is a social value in the new roles, he said. "A woman is able to take a man's job today and not be put down for it.

"And now if you are a male, it's possible to go unwed until 28 or 30 and not be considered some kind of weirdo."

The roles of male and female are continually changing due to a growing acceptance of the idea that sex is not necessarily occupational related and particular types of behavior are not necessarily male or female, he said.

"People can act in a wide range of roles and behaviors as persons, not as male or females. Some may choose traditional roles and behaviors because they feel more comfortable and secure in these roles but some may not," Donohue said.

NARC To Enter Contract For Aid To Retarded

National Association for Retarded Children (NARC), under its fourth national contract with the department of labor, will promote and develop 1,160 job opportunities for mentally retarded persons in 19 states, manpower administrator Paul J. Fasser Jr., has announced. The one-year contract is supported by $395,927 in manpower development and training act funds.

The NARC will promote and develop job opportunities with employers in Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Texas, Virginia, Washington, and Washington, D.C.

The mentally retarded will get eight weeks of on - the - job training in more than 25 job classifications. Trainees will be paid at least an entry wage of $1.60 an hour by employers. Average reimbursement to employers for training costs is $341.

Fasser said the program provides the mentally retarded a chance to learn a skill and become work-ready. He said the success NARC has experienced in previous contracts has been a factor in increasing the number of occupations for which retarded persons are being trained.

Trainees will be recruited through state and local divisions of vocational rehabilitation and other qualified agencies, and processed for placement in jobs and training by the state employment services.

Under its previous national contracts administered by the manpower administration, NARC developed training opportunities and placed more than 2,100 mentally retarded persons in jobs. The labor department provided more than $1 million to support this program which authorized 1,800 training slots.

Hibbing Resident Is School Board's Outstanding Man

Steve A. Becchetti, Hibbing, is the 1972 recipient of the Minnesota School Boards association "Outstanding School Board Member Award."

Glenn Engebretson, past president of MSBA, announced Becchetti's selection at the association's 51st convention banquet Tuesday night in Minneapolis.

Each year the award recognizes a school board member for his outstanding contributions to the betterment of public education in Minnesota. Becchetti was selected from over 2,800 school board members throughout the state.

Steve Becchetti has been a member of the Hibbing board of education for the past 11 years, including four terms as chairman. He was cited for his inspirational leadership in the improvement of the educational processes of his community.

A life long resident of Hibbing, Mr. Becchetti has been an accountant for the Erickson Lumber and Fuel Company for thirty-five years.

During his tenure on the school board, the Hibbing schools have expanded several departments and Mr. Becchetti was instrumental in obtaining an area vocational - technical school for his district. He was also active in the Minnesota state junior college action committee in establishing a statewide system for junior colleges in the state-including Hibbing.

He has served as scout master for seven years, directed his church choir for 26 years, served as March of Dimes chairman and been a member of the Hibbing municipal athletic association for over twenty years promoting playground facilities and sports programs for the children of the community.

Mr. Becchetti is a graduate of St. Thomas and he and his wife have three sons and two daughters.

Commerce Dept. Will Lower Interest Rates

Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans has announced a one-eighth per cent reduction in interest rates on federal loans to stimulate economic growth in areas of the nation with high unemployment and low family income.

The rate reduction is for loans made by the economic development administration, the U. S. Department of Commerce agency established to encourage industrial and commercial growth in economically lagging areas.

For the first quarter of 1972 the EDA public works loans rate is 5-¼ per cent, compared to 5-⅜ per cent for the October-December, 1971, quarter. The agency's business loan rate is 5-¾ per cent, reduced from 5-⅞ per cent.

Stans said the economic development loan rates are based on the costs of borrowing to the federal government.

EDA conducts a quarterly review of its interest rates in order to make them as low as possible for communities and businesses seeking to create new jobs and revitalize economies of areas with critical unemployment problems, Stans said.

EDA makes public works loans to help communities build facilities essential to economic growth. These include industrial parks, water and sewer systems, access roads and vocational-technical schools. The loans can be made for periods of up to 40 years.

Business development loans are made to individuals, partnerships and corporations as well as to public or non-profit organizations to help build or expand industrial or commercial facilities and create jobs. EDA business loans can run for up to 25 years.

EDA also can provide public works grants, planning grants and technical assistance to communities with critical unemployment problems.

Slow down and live.

North Mission Meeting Sat.

Annual business meeting of Northern Lutheran Missions will be held next Saturday at 1 p.m. at Mt. Carmel Lutheran church at McIntosh. Reports will be given by Indian missionaries Alvin Larson and Verle Dean.

At the evening service at 7 p.m. the Rev. Forrest Swenson, Winger, will be the guest speaker. There will be special singing by an Indian group.

Horse Drawing Contest Open In Grade Schools

All grade schools in the Red River Valley area recently received invitations to the annual Winter shows horse drawing contest, according to Gene Miller, Cookston, Chairman of this event.

Each grade category, one through six, will have an overall winner. The winner will receive a cash prize, a blue ribbon from the horse show committee, and a ride in the arena during the Winter horse show to be held February 25-26-27 as the final feature of the 1972 Red River Valley winter shows, Crookston.

The winning drawings will be on display at the horsemen's booth during the regular February 16-27 run of this winer event. Horse drawing enthusiasts will be judged on originality and art form by a panel of area art instructors.

If planners and politicians can get together, it is hoped that the governors of both Minnesota and North Dakota will autograph the winning drawings prior to the show.

Any school that has been inadvertantly missed can still get the rules and meet the deadline by writing to the horse drawing contest chairman, Red River Valley Winter shows, Crookston.

Revise Rules For Operators Of Farm Vehicles

U.S. Representative Bob Bergland has relayed news from the department of transportation (DOT) on the revision of driver qualification rules applicable to operators of farm vehicles.

Bergland introduced a bill earlier this year in response to "unreasonable" attempts by DOT to make 21 the minimum age for drivers of farm vehicles. This legislation would have exempted them from DOT regulations. Fortunately, the DOT—in response to the interest in more reasonable regulations expressed by farmers and their representatives in Congress—has reversed its previous ruling.

Bergland indicated that the new revisions state that drivers of farm trucks will permanently exempt from portions of the revised driver qualification regulations which became effective Jan. 1, 1972.

The provision provides that:

Farm vehicle drivers operating trucks weighing 10,000 pounds or less are totally exempt from the driver qualification rules.

Farm vehicle drivers operating straight trucks weighing in excess of 10,000 pounds, within 150 miles of their farms are totally exempt from the driver qualification rules.

Farm vehicle drivers 18 years or older, operating a tractor-trailer unit within 150 miles of the farm, are exempt, except they must be physically qualified but need not be physically examined and certified until January 1, 1973.

Drivers employed by custom operators are granted total exemption while transporting custom harvesting machinery to or from a farm, and while transporting the custom harvest crops to storage or market.

In addition to the farmer exemption, the bureau of motor carrier safety has reduced the minimum age limit from 21 to 18 for drivers operating any commercial vehicles weighing 10,000 pounds or less and who are otherwise qualified, without geographic location.

Health Company Produces Drug Information Book

One of the reasons for the communication gap between users of illegal drugs and non-drug users is the fact that the drug users have evolved their own language.

For example, take the words "Amp", "Brick", "Cooker", "Grass", "Gun", "Joint", "Roach", "Tracks", and "Wired". Each of these terms is used within the drug community to indicate a particular aspect of drug use. A person unfamiliar with the terms would have little chance of guessing what they might be.

A list of definitions to the words above, plus definitions for over 150 other drug terms, are included in "Information About Drugs", a new drug booklet produced by Minnesota Blue Cross, Blue Shield and MII.

The 38-page booklet also includes information about effects and composition of the 20 most commonly used drugs, Minnesota and national drug laws, and a listing of drugs treatment and education programs in the state of Minnesota.

The booklet is available at no charge in small quantities from Minnesota Blue Cross, Blue Shield, and MII, 3535 Blue Cross Road, St. Paul, Minnesota 55165.

Incidentally, the definitions of the words above are:

Amp—Large quantity of LSD, usually 100 doses.

Brick—Approximately a kilo of marijuana.

Cooker—Bottle cap used for heating heroin and water.

Grass—Marijuana.

Gun—Eye dropper or hypodermic syringe.

Joint—A marijuana cigarette.

Roach—Unsmoked remains of a marijuana cigarette. "Butt" of "joint".

Wired—Habituated or addicted.

School Bus Designs Under New Scrutiny

Poor school bus construction is the target of three bills now in Congress with the backing of more than 50 members, according to Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund.

Although the national highway traffic safety administration has had school bus standards under consideration for some time, no action has been taken on the matter, Hoaglund said, and this is posing a problem for the states.

"For example, Minnesota has for many years set minimum standards for school buses operating in our state, and has carried on a process of continuous upgrading of these standards. However, the last revision was issued in 1967, since it has been understood that federal standards would be forthcoming."

The proposed federal legislation would establish standards for emergency exits, interior protection for occupants, floor strength, seat anchorages, crash-worthiness of body and frame, exhaust system, flame resistance of interior materials, and other sensitive points. It would also establish a research, testing, and experiment program, set up procedures for investigating each fatal school bus accident, and require pre-sale inspections of each bus.

Hoaglund said there has been widespread dissatisfaction with delays in establishing federal standards, and that one state, Maryland, has decided to go ahead on its own by adopting a model standard suggested by the vehicle equipment safety commission.

The most serious criticism of present school bus construction, he said, deals with structural weaknesses. He pointed to a national transportation safety board study which concluded that most school buses are incapable of resisting much more than wind and rain, and that the bodies are not strong enough to be regarded as "more than covering material."

The same study, he pointed out, concluded that failure of the builders to use adequate rivets caused the sheet metal panels to snap out in a crash, exposing the children to the sharp edges.

KFME Broadcast Depicts Passage Of Legislation

"There Ought To Be A Law", a film produced for the Minnesota legislature to give all citizens an insight into the daily life of their government, will be shown on educational television station, KFME, Fargo-Moorhead, channel 13 on Thursday, January 20, at 7 p.m.

The film was produced by the legislature in response to the frequent query, "how does a bill become law?" It examines the legislative process through the events and actions of two legislators, a senator and a representative. The day to day thoughts, problems and solutions that these elected officials must cope with to make a new law are vividly brought out. "There Ought To Be A Law" shows in an interesting way our democratic system at work.

Advisory Council Officers Elected At University

Ivan Stone, a farmer and hatcheryman from New Ulm, was elected chairman of the advisory council of the University of Minnesota's institute of agriculture at its annual meeting on the St. Paul campus last Wednesday. Stone is a former member of the Minnesota legislature and a graduate of the University's college of agriculture.

George Rossman, Grand Rapids, was elected vice chairman. He is publisher of the Grand Rapids Herald-Review. Both Stone and Rossman serve on the council's executive committee. William Provance of Roseau is a council member at large.

Lloyd Bachman, Richfield Florist, also was elected to the executive committee. Other executive committee members are Edwin Christianson, president of the Minnesota Farmer's Union; Norris Carnes, So. St. Paul livestock leader; and James App, executive secretary, St. Paul.

Two new members were elected to the council. They are Orrin Hanson, manager of the agricultural and world trade department of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce; and William Provance, agricultural representative of the Citizens State bank, Roseau.

They replace Marvin Campbell, a Crookston banker who resigned from the council, and the late Charles Pierson, former chairman of the board of Farmhand, Inc., Hopkins.

Re-elected to the council was Mercedes Bates, vice president and director of the Betty Crocker kitchens for General Mills. Paul Pierson, Lake Elmo dairy leader, and Bert Lund, publisher of The Farmer magazine, St. Paul, were also re-elected.

The council advises the university's institute of agriculture and serves as a means of communications with various publics. The council includes 19 members, including 12 representatives from important interest groups in the state and seven members at-large.

Delegates representing organizations are as follows: Minnesota associaton of soil and water conservation districts, Mrs. Del Krenik, Madison Lake; Minnesota crop improvement association, Richard Wigley, Lake Crystal; American Dairy Industry committee (Minnesota), R. H. Bonde, St. Paul; Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, Carroll G. Wilson; Minnesota Farmers' Union, Edwin Christianson, St. Paul; Minnesota home economics association, Mrs. Edward Devoy, Minneapolis; Minnesota livestock breeders association, Alden M. Booren, Marine-on-St. Croix; Minnesota poultry industry council, Ivan Stone, Madelia;

Also Minnesota State Grange, Arnold Engstrom, Elk River; Minnesota state horticultural society, Lloyd Bachman, Minneapolis; Minnesota state veterinary medical society, Dr. F. W. Gehrman, Minnetonka; Minnesota timber producers association, M. R. Allen, Duluth.

Members at-large include: Mercedes Bates, General Mill, Inc.; Bert Lund, The Farmer magazine, St. Paul; Norris Carnes, Central Livestock Association, So. St. Paul; Orrin Hanson, Minneapolis; George Rossman, Grand Rapids; Paul Pierson, Lake Elmo, and William Provance, Roseau.

Chairman Named For Minnesota ASC Committee

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has announced the appointment of Elton R. Redalen of Fountain as chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee. He has served on the committee since April of 1969.

The ASC state committee has the responsibility to administer the bulk of the U.S. department of agriculture's farm programs in the state. They include such programs as price supports, acreage allotments, rural environmental assistance program, grain storage and the feed grain and wheat set-aside programs.

Redalen owns and operates a dairy farm in Fillmore county. He is a director on the board of the Tri-County electric cooperative. He has served as an official of the Preston creamery association.

Current AMA predictions show there will be an average increase of 10,000 physicians annually through the 70's.

Lombardi Named As Chairman For Cancer Crusade

Vince Lombardi, Minneapolis [illegible], has been named 1972 Minnesota crusade chairman, according to Harold I. Grossman, president of the American Cancer society's Minnesota division.

Lombardi will head the state's second million dollar cancer crusade. The goal for this year is $1,250,000. Minnesota joined the million dollar ACS divisions for the first time in 1971 when $1,114,016 was raised.

"The pressing need for funds to fight cancer is demonstrated by the fact that Minnesota will record approximately 12,290 new cases this year and some 18,350 patients will be under medical care for the disease," Grossman said. "Our society is endeavoring to meet this challenge through its programs of research, education and service to patients."

Cancer deaths in the state totaled 6,128 in 1970, the latest year for which figures are available from the vital statistics section of the Minnesota department of health.

The drive, set for April, national cancer control month, will be conducted by a force of about 55,000 volunteers. More than a million peices of life-saving literature will be distributed.

Lombardi served as education chairman of the 1971 Minnesota crusade, traveling throughout the state in company with Rudy Boschwitz, state chairman of the drive that year, to speak at rallies of ACS volunteers and to make news media appearances on behalf of the campaign.

He contacted the cancer society early in 1971 and volunteered to help as a way "to overcome the frustrations of my father's death." Vince Lombardi Sr., coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers, died of cancer of the colon on September 3, 1970.

A resident of the Twin Cities for the past 11 years, Lombardi played fullback with the Tommies for four years, graduating from St. Thomas college, St. Paul, in 1964. He currently is associated with the trust department of Northwestern National bank, Minneapolis.

He and his wife, Jill, are parents of three sons and a daughter. The Lombardis reside in Lino Lakes.

Mandt Pullet Operation Has 500,000 Birds

Park and now has 126,000 hens in his laying flock.

Family Corporation

As the business changed and enterprises became more varied, the Mandts incorporated as River Valley Enterprises, Inc., a family corporation. Mrs. Mandt has been active in the business since its beginning, and is the chief bookkeeper, receptionist, order clerk and secretary as well as a handyman and housewife. A new house was built on the farm in 1963 and includes an office for the farm business.

Seeking to diversify his own operation while moving toward integration of the chicken business, Lyle became involved in other interests. With Stan Ridgeway he formed a corporation which purchased a DeKalb hatchery at Dassel and a breeder hen facility at nearby Darwin. With Weldon Nelson he formed a corporation which operates Thunderbird Ranch at Fosston, an egg production operation. He was recently offered an opportunity to buy into a fresh egg processing and distribution firm.

When Lyle contracts with farmers for egg production, he also helps to find markets for the eggs. Several buyers purchase eggs from the contract flocks, mostly Minnesota firms. A buyer in Ft. Atkinson, Wis., is also supplied with eggs from the Thunderbird ranch and the flock owned by Larry and Richard Bruggeman at Brooks. Olson Truck Lines at Oklee hauls the eggs to Wisconsin, carrying 810 30-dozen cases at least once a week and frequently twice a week.

Raise Hybrid Birds

Midwest Hatchery at Dassel, owned by Mandt and Ridgeway, receives its supply of breeding stock from DeKalb. The DeKalb hybrid birds are purchased on the basis of chicks hatched. They are brought to the Mandt farm as day-old birds and raised to 20 weeks of age before being sold or put out on contract.

The birds are de-beaked at seven to eight weeks of age with an electric instrument which cuts and cauterizes at the same time. Three people working on the debeaking can handle 20,000 birds in two days. These workers are usually area farm women who work on a part-time basis. The Mandts employ three full-time men, Glenn Hofstad—who has been on the farm since 1960—and Dennis Moen and Duane Nelson.

Chickens sold or contracted at 20 weeks of age are shipped 20 to a 2x3 crate in truckloads containing up to 350 crates. Laying is controlled by light. The pullets are kept in nine hours of light from 12 to 22 weeks of age and changed to 12 hours at 22 weeks. The birds are soon producing full-size eggs with very few small "pullet eggs" noted.

Long Chicken House

One of the unique features of the Mandt operation is the pullet house built in 1969. It is 664 feet long and 36 feet wide, housing 81,000 birds. It is considered to be the longetst pullet house in the United States.

Laying hens are kept in production for 14 months. After that time they are replaced by 20-week-old pullets and the cycle starts again. The hens which have completed their laying cycle are sometimes sold to canning companies, with the going price being seven cents a pound or about 25 cents per bird. The companies will pick them up at the farm if the farmer has at least 1,000 birds to sell. The price received doesn't cover replacement with younger birds.

Lyle serves as one of two Minnesota chairmen for the midwest office of the United Egg Producers, headquartered in Lafayette, Ind. He is also a member of the National Egg council and the American Poultry and Hatchery federation. He flies his own airplane and uses it quite often for trips to Dassel for hatchery meetings.

You won't often find him at home, although he tries to be there as much as he can. He is usually out calling on contractors, looking for new business, watching after affairs of his several corporations or perhaps seeking new worlds to conquer.

After all, the chicken business does get to be a little routine.

NEW SATURDAY HOURS AT POST OFFICE

Postmaster R. J. Dryden announced today that effective January 22, the Saturday schedule of the stamp and general delivery window at the Thief River Falls post office will be from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. This will provide a call window for lockbox customers and also provide an opportunity for other customers to transact business on Saturday.

President Moos Will Dedicate UMC Buildings

University of Minnesota President Malcolm Moos will keynote the February 6 public dedication ceremonies for three buildings and a 10,000 square-foot annex at the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston.

The day's events begin at 2 p.m. in Kiehle hall auditorium. The opening ceremonies will be followed by a reception in Bede hall and open houses in the new buildings and annex.

President Moos is to dedicate the near $1.5 million building to Dr. Austin A. Dowell, Nevada, Iowa, in recognition of his efforts in expanding building facilities during his 10 years (1927-37) as superintendent of the Northwest school of agriculture, forerunner of UMC.

Three-story Dowell hall has fully-equipped quarters for the school's business division and motel, restaurant, and institutional management majors in addition to lecture rooms and facilities for biology, physics, chemistry, and other general education classes.

The residence hall to be dedicated honors the late Herman Skyberg, for many years a university regent from this area. Skyberg hall is a three-story, 216-bed dormitory, also costing about $1.5 million.

A third structure is dedicated to Orville M. Kiser of Crookston for his 32 years of service to the Northwest school and experiment station as instructor and animal husbandman. Built for about $100,000, Kiser building will become the new home of plant services, UMC's general repair and maintenance department.

The fourth building, Owen hall annex, houses labs and classroom space for the agriculture division—aviation, engineering, and natural resources.

Goodridge Hosts Beef Cattle Meet

A beef cattle meeting will be held at the Goodridge high school starting at 10 a.m. on Thursday, according to Charles Peterson, Marshall county extension agent. Bob Jacobs, extension animal husbandman, and Ray Solac, extension veterinarian, both from the University of Minnesota, will be on hand to discuss all aspects of beef cow and feed lot management, nutrition and health.

A similar meeting will be held in Middle River on January 18 at the American Legion club beginning at 10 a.m.

Ernest Duquette Of Plummer, 74, Dies January 15

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, Jan. 19, at 10:30 a.m. for Ernest Duquette, 74, of Plummer at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Brooks with Rev. Henry Carriere officiating. Interment will be made in the St. Vincent de Paul Catholic cemetery in Plummer. The Petterson funeral home in Red Lake Falls is in charge of arrangements.

Ernest Duquette died Saturday evening at the Hillcrest nursing home where he had been a patient for the past two years. He was born on July 14, 1897, at Drayton and was married to Dellina Chavenard on October 30, 1916, in that city.

He lived in the Drayton area until 1947 when he moved to Grand Forks and was employed at the Northern hotel as a night clerk for 16 years. He moved to Plummer in 1963.

Survivors include his wife, three sons: Edward of Bagley, Paul of Park Rapids and George of Plummer; five daughters: Mrs. Cecil (Helen) Bessette of Oakwood, N.D.; Louise DuChamp, Plummer, Mrs. James (Marion) Mantas, Grand Forks, Mrs. Norbert (Cecelia) Vanyo of Dorothy and Mrs. Lawrence (Delphine) Theis of Bagley; 22 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; two brothers and five sisters.

Raymond Olson, Hockey Official, Services Held

Funeral services for Raymond LeRoy Olson, 36, of Salol, Minn., a high school and Western Collegiate Hockey Association official, were held at First Lutheran church at Roseau Saturday with the Rev. R. B. Torgerson officiating. Interment was in Spruce cemetery in rural Roseau.

Raymond Olson died Wednesday in an accident near Sprague, Man. Canadian officials said he was driving a propane gas truck which left the road and crashed.

Born at Salol April 15, 1935, Raymond Olson grew to manhood there and on July 16, 1955, married Sheilla Brandt. He was a member of the Roseau Jaycees and for six years a member of the First Lutheran church council.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Bruce; two daughters, Jodi and Deanne; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Olson of Salol; five sisters, Mrs. Art Sorenson of Roseau, Mrs. Ed Kristofferson of Salol, Mrs. Dean Atkinson of Hugo, Mrs. Newell Broten, Roseau, and Mrs. William Hill, Grand Forks Air Force base, and two brothers, Stanley of Warroad and Duane of Salol.

The Helgeson funeral home of Roseau was in charge of the arrangements.

Rites Held For Henry Moonen, 75, Of Plummer

Henry Moonen, 75, of Plummer died Thursday evening at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls, where he had been a patient for several months. Liturgy of the funeral for Henry Moonen was offered this (Monday) morning at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Brooks with the Rev. Henry Carriere officiating. Interment was in St. Vincent de Paul's Catholic cemetery at Plummer.

Henry Moonen was born May 23, 1896, at Chaska, Minn., the son of the late Henry and Mary Moonen. He came to Plummer as a young man and was a Veteran of World War I. He was a member of the Plummer American Legion post and had served as post commander. He was also a member of the local school board.

He married the former Mary Thoma on May 20, 1919, at Plummer. Mrs. Moonen died in 1965. He farmed northeast of Plummer in Emardville township until 1968, when he moved into the village of Plummer.

He is survived by two sons: Henry, Jr., of Milwaukee, Wis., and Matthew of Minneapolis; one daughter, Mrs. Jerome (Catherine) Bernier of Plummer; one brother, Theodore of Cologne; and two sisters, Mrs. Dena Straus of Clara City and Mrs. Theresa Corcoran of Cologne. He is also survived by seven grandchildren. He was preceded in death by one grandson, three brothers, and five sisters.

Pallbearers were Joseph Fallon, Jerome Gerardy, Cornelius VanLith, Lowell and Gerald Toulouse and Clarence and Henry Kush.

Gunder Olson, 92, Dies Wednesday; Funeral Today

Gunder Olson, 95, a resident of Kratka township in Pennington county since 1904, died Wednesday at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services for Gunder Olson will be held today (Monday) at 2 p.m. at the Green Funeral chapel with the Rev. Bruce Anderson officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

A complete obituary will be published in the Wednesday edition of the Times.

Funeral For Pearl Moberg Held Sunday

Mrs. Pearl Moberg, 84, a resident of the Holt community for many years, died Tuesday at Northwestern hospital. Funeral services were held Saturday at the Nazareth Lutheran church at Holt with Rev. Richard Sorenson officiating. Interment was in the Holt cemetery.

Mrs. Pearl Moberg was born April 7, 1887, at Menomonie, Wis. At the age of three she moved with her parents, the late Eugene and Bertha Simmons, to Donaldson with the rest of her family. She grew to womanhood there.

She was united in marriage to Hilmer Moberg Dec. 12, 1905, at Donaldson. After their marriage the couple moved to Canada, where they lived for three years. In 1909 they moved to the Gatzke community and lived there and in the Middle River community until 1916. In 1916 they moved to Holt community where they farmed until 1936, moving into the village of Holt where they had resided since. Her husband died in 1953.

She was a member of the Nazareth Lutheran church and Ladies aid and had served as the president of that organization for many years.

She is survived by four daughters: Mrs. Lloyd (Lydia) Babcock of Aurora, Mrs. Harris (Deloros) Reese of Hallock, Mrs. Oscar (Olive) Lunke of Plummer, and Mrs. Clarence (Joyce) Ness of Thief River Falls; three sons: George, Gerald and Walter, all of the Holt community; 19 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

She is also survived by three brothers: Eugene Simmons of Pine Creek, Lawrence of Karlstad, and Claude of Donaldson. Several nieces and nephews also survive. She was preceded in death by her parents, her husband, two daughters and one son.

Pallbearers were Ingvald Fosholm, Ben Garthus, Reuben Benitt, Henry Fosholm, Edgar Horien and Peter Gerszewski. Organist was Mrs. Orville Larson and soloist Marvin Sandberg sang "Heaven Is My Home" and "Good Night and Good Morning". The Green Funeral home was in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Ray Waite Dies, At Age 36, In Florida

Mrs. Ray Waite, 36, the former Phyllis A. LaFriniere, died January 8 at Fort Walton Beach, Fla. A prayer service was held at the Mattson Funeral chapel at Mahnomen Saturday with Rev. Adrian, O.S.B., officiating. Interment was in St. Michael's Catholic cemetery at Mahnomen.

Phyllis A. Waite was born January 9, 1935, at Mahnomen to Theodore and Lillian LaFriniere. She was educated and grew to womanhood there, and in 1962 married Ray Waite. Because of his occupation in the U.S. military service, they had lived in various places during the last 20 years.

Mrs. Ray Waite is survived by her husband, one son, Michael, at home, and three daughters, Joanie, Vickie and Debbie, all at home; her mother, Mrs. Lillian LaFriniere of Thief River Falls; two brothers, James of Crookston and Michael of Thief River Falls; and five sisters, Mrs. Virgil (Muriel) Mercil, Mrs. Ronnie (Joanne) Holmstrom, Mrs. Bernard (Sharon) Buckholz, all of Thief River Falls; Mrs. Melvin Larson, Beaver Bay, and Mrs. Richard (Audrey) LaVoy of Mahnomen.

She was preceded in death by her father in 1951 and by two brothers.

Raymond Brown Services Here Last Thursday

Funeral services for Raymond Brown, 55, of Thief River Falls, who died last Tuesday at Northwestern hospital here, were held Thursday at the Green Funeral chapel with Rev. Louis Hermansen officiating. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Raymond Brown was born April 1, 1916, at Wyndmere, N. D., to Robert and Ida Brown. He received his schooling and grew to manhood there. He was a World Warr II veteran and had served overseas. After his discharge he returned to Thief River Falls and also lived in Moorhead for a time.

In 1947 he was united in marriage to the former Arlene Zadow at Marietta. They made their home in Moorhead. He was a finishing carpenter by trade and served as a business agent for the carpenters union in Fargo for six years. The couple lived in Thief River Falls for the past four years.

He is survived by his wife; his mother, Mrs. Ida Brown of Thief River Falls; four sons: Ronald, Stuart and Miles, all of Moorhead; and Cletus of Fort Lewis, Wash. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Gina Herman of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Willard (Pearl) Burt of Fargo. He was preceded in death by his father.

Mrs. Sherman Idso served as organist and soloist at the services, singing "In the Garden" and "How Great Thou Art". The Green Funeral home was in charge of the arrangements.

Much Damage Is Done To Warroad School Last Week

School was in session as usual in Warroad last Monday morning after school custodians, faculty members, electricians, plumbers and other repair crews worked for hours to clear away the results of an act of vandalism early last Sunday morning.

Arrested and charged with aggravated criminal destruction of property and aggravated arson was 20-year-old John KaKay Geesick, who is being held at the Roseau county law enforcement center after bond was set at $10,000 following his appearance in municipal court in Roseau.

Although no official estimates of damage were available, some officials said that it might cost several thousand dollars for repair of broken windows and replacement of school supplies. Superintendent Stuart Blackorby said it would be some time before estimates could be made.

School custodian Bill Lewis discovered the vandalism as he entered the school building about 9 a.m. Sunday. He called the superintendent and head custodian Erwin Parker and law enforcement officials were also called.

Broken glass was found in many rooms, and lockers had been entered, with papers and books strewn everywhere or piled in heaps. A cold wind blew in through the many broken windows. Toilets were broken and leaked through two stories of the school with water damage on both floors. Mirrows and sinks in the girls restroom were also smashed.

Fires were started in two different areas. One of them in a small room at the front of the study hall was still smoldering when discovered, and custodians used a fire extinguisher to put it out. The room housed custodial supplies and equipment.

Superintendent Blackorby said; "We were lucky—it was probably about the most fireproof room in the school." Walls and the floor of the room were blackened but the fire was contained in the room.

The other attempt to start a fire was in a small room between the biology and science rooms where numerous books, papers and an American flag were used to ignite a fire in a large refuse container. The lid was put back on the container and the fire became a smudge pot and went out without causing damage to other than the contents of the can.

A second American flag, taken from the wall in the science room, was torn into pieces and left by the intruder.

It was reported that approximately 40 windows in the school were broken, and it appeared entry and exit had been made over a portion of the roof of the tunnel and through the large window on the stair landing at the east end of the two-story portion of the building.

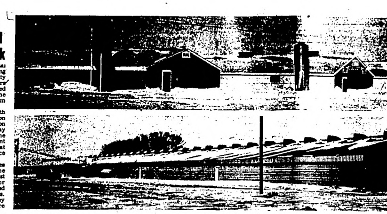
A large portion of the window had been broken out and there appeared to be blood on the floor at this point and on pieces of the broken glass.

There was evidence of blood at nearly every point of destruction in the building, indicating that the person inflicting the damage had injured himself in the process.

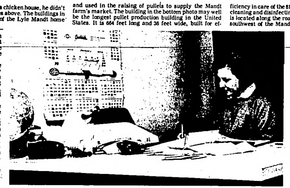
There was heavy damage in the custodian's office and supply rooms, with these areas being a mass of spilled paint, cleaning and maintenance supplies, broken windows, shelves and jars.

Another area of heavy damage was the storage area for the science and biology rooms. Shelves full of chemicals had been stripped and shelves overturned with their contents spilled and thrown everywhere. One large metal cabinet containing more dangerous chemicals considered to be explosive was left standing, possibly because another large cabinet had been tipped against it.

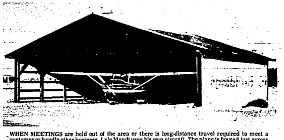
Law enforcement officials were able to move quickly in making an arrest, and clean-up crews were called in for the massive clean-up operation.



WHEN GRANDPA talked about a chicken house, he didn't think about buildings like the ones above. The buildings in the top photo are located north of the Lyle Mandt home and used in the raising of pullets to supply the Mandt farm's market. The building in the bottom photo may well be the longest pullet production building in the United States. It is 664 feet long and 36 feet wide, built for efficiency in care of the 81,000 birds it houses and for ease in cleaning and disinfecting. This house was built in 1969 and is located along the road north of Oklee, about five miles southwest of the Mandt farm.



BOOKKEEPER, order clerk, handyman and housewife are all terms which could be applied to Mrs. Lyle Mandt of Oklee. She does the posting, keeps track of orders and takes care of accounts in the River Valley Enterprises office which is an integral part of the Mandt farm home. The house was built in 1963 and the office was planned into that construction. Computer accounting has proved to be a time-saver and provides information of value in planning the pullet operations.



WHEN MEETINGS are held out of the area or there is long-distance travel required to meet a customer or handle other business, Lyle Mandt uses his own aircraft. The plane is housed just across the road from the Mandt farm yard where a landing strip has been prepared in the field. Business in the pullet operation requires frequent travel.

Tax Forms Must Be Sent To Utah Center

You should mail your return to the IRS center in Ogden, Utah, according to the district director. The pre-addressed envelope with the forms package will have the new address. The same good service for processing will be avilable at the Ogden service center as was offered when returns were mailed to Kansas City.

Purpose of the change was to equalize the processing workload among the ten IRS centers which will be in operation this year.

Veterans administration says special treatment and diagnostic care units in its hospitals increased by 63 to 789 during the fiscal year which ended June 30.

TV Reporter To Speak At Bemidji State

Best of two worlds will be presented by Bemidji state college cultural arts committee on Tuesday, January 25, when television journalist Robert Evans presents a lecture at 8 p.m. in the BSC classroom building auditorium.

Evans is an internationally recognized newsman on affairs within the Soviet Union, and his lectures—have been called enlightening and engrossing presentations.

Evans has covered major events in the south and behind the Iron Curtain and has done considerable work in production of film and video tape news and documentary features.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of North Carolina, Evans has a master's degree in jurisprudence from Oxford university and an LLB from Yale law school.

He has traveled throughout Russia to cover such events as the death of Soviet cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov; the 50th anniversary of Russian revolution; the Arab-Israeli war of 1967; Kosygin's trip to the U.N. and Glasgow; the rise of Dubcek in Czechoslovakia; and the trial of Russian intellectual dissidents in 1968.

Other major stories he covered as a television journalist include Lurleen Wallace's election, the rise and election of Lester Maddox, the shooting of James Meredith and subsequent march through Mississippi, and racial episodes of bombing and murder in Bogalusa, La.; Philadelphia, Miss.; Selma, Alabama; and Americus, Georgia. He also covered the trial of Clay Shaw in New Orleans and the James Earl Ray affair in Memphis.

He has served as a news correspondent, bureau chief and producer of documentary films for CBS and other networks, and was special assistant to Edward R. Murrow in the U.S. Information Agency under President Kennedy, participating in the coordination of the first "Telstar" exchange of live television with Europe with Murrow.

Awards include the 1969 American Film Institute grant for film makers and film writers. He is recognized as an outstanding lecturer in the area of film making and has lectured at numerous colleges throughout the nation on this topic. He has produced, directed, or written at least one major film documentary each year since 1964.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. lecture in BSC classroom building auditorium will be available at the door on a first-come, first-serve basis. Further information is available from the BSC Beaver Union.

Motor Vehicle And Traffic Laws Published

The 1971-72 edition of the Minnesota laws regulating traffic, motor vehicle registration and motor carriers is now being printed and will be ready for distribution in mid-January, Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund announced today.

Copies of the updated laws will be distributed to all law enforcement agencies, courts (including justice of the preace courts), and city and county attorneys. This initial distribution will be without request by local officials.

Copies of the new regulations may be purchased by individuals and other non-official organizations from the documents section, Centennial Building, St. Paul, 55155 at a cost of $1.56 (tax included).

The motor vehicle and traffic laws include the highway traffic regulation act, the drivers license law, and the safety responsibility act. This updated edition contains all amendments and new laws enacted by the 1971 legislature in regular and extra sessions.

Minnesota Sells $44 Million In Goods To Japan

Minnesota's farmers and manufacturers sold an estimated $44,324,100 worth of their products to Japan in 1969, it was revealed by U.S.-Japan trade council. These sales created an estimated 3,600 jobs for the state's residents.

Minnesota's manufacturers alone sold $24.4 million to Japan, the United States' largest overseas customer, in 1969. Nonelectrical machinery accounted for $13.5 million of this total, transport equipment for another $3.3 million, and chemicals for $2.5 million. In addition, Japan bought $19.9 million of Minnesota's farm output, including $13.4 million of its soybeans and $2.9 million of its hides and skins. These sales ranked Minnesota twenty-second in the Nation in terms of total U.S. exports to Japan.

Nationally more than 300,000 Americans in 1969 owed their jobs directly or indirectly to Japanese purchases from the United States. About 112,475 of these were in manufacturing, 57,475 in agriculture, 15,500 in mining, and 119,500 in services. Final figures for last year are not yet available, but it is estimated that employment in 1970 dependent on Japanese purchases was substantially above the 1969 level, since U.S. export sales to Japan rose from $3.5 billion in 1969 to a record $4.6 billion in 1970.

Rising Japanese demand for U.S. manufactured and farm products is expected during the 1970s, as the Japanese economy becomes increasingly oriented toward services rather than the production of goods. Recent liberalization of imports will accelerate this trend and, says the trade council, "afford American exporters unexcelled market opportunities". The trade council also notes that "the United States must be prepared to accept an increase in the level of Japanese imports if Japan is to expand substantially its purchases of American goods."

"On this basis," says the trade council, "trade between the United States and Japan can be expected to surpass the $20-billion level by 1975 and, at the same time, become more balanced."

Roseau Has New County Agent

Roseau county extension committee has announced the hiring of Hilbert Pfeifer of Fargo as county extension agent in Roseau county. Pfeifer will begin his duties about February 1.

Pfeifer has served as assistant and as county agent for eight years in North Dakota and for the past three years has worked as assistant trust officer at the First National bank in Fargo.

He is a graduate of North Dakota state university of Fargo and has attended extension summer school in Fort Collins, Colo. He has also attended several special classes at the University of North Dakota and special courses relating to banking operations.

A native of Bowbells, N. D., Pfeifer is married and he and his wife, Joyce, have two sons, ages two and five. He has been active in community and church work, and is a member of several community and civic organizations.

Local IRS Office Ready To Serve Area Taxpayers

It's a new tax filing year again, but Minnesota taxpayers should mail their returns to the Ogden, Utah service center instead of Kansas City. The forms booklet will have a preaddressed envelope with the correct address for use.

If you need information or help with Federal tax problems, contact your local Revenue Service office. Telephone and walk-in assistance will be available from 8 a.m. to noon on Mondays, according to George Lethert, IRS district director.

Orion A. Thoen has been appointed to handle taxpayer assistance for our area. The local IRS office is located in Room 202, Post Office Building, Crookston. The telephone number is 281-2169. Taxpayers were urged by Thoen to telephone for information and service.

The revenue service suggests that taxpayers file their 1971 tax returns early, particularly if they have a refund due. Faster processing is available for early filers.

Mr. Lethert pointed out also that form 1040 has been clarified, making the form easier to use and understand. Other IRS advice: file early! file a complete return! attach forms W-2, and sign you return! and, mail it to the IRS Ogden, Utah service center.

Oil Company In Ohio Operates Courtesy Cars

Run out of gasoline on a highway in Ohio and you may be in for a pleasant surprise—a "courtesy car" which will provide you with three gallons of gasoline, free.

According to the magazine "Petroleum Today", the courtesy car—one of a fleet operated by an Ohio oil company—is also equipped with emergency supplies of oil, water and compressed air, and carries tire jacks, fire extinguishers and first aid kits. The drivers also perform basic repair work. Everything is free.

In 1970, during nearly six months of operations, an eight-car fleet made 3,770 stops to help motorists. The three most common car problems were: Tire failure—810 stops; overheating—615 stops; empty fuel tank—219 stops. This year the fleet was doubled to 16 cars.

Strict Rules On Window Stickers Are Announced

New and stricter rules on motor vehicle windshield and window stickers were announced today by Minnesota Commissioner of Public Safety W. R. Hoaglund.

All permits for stickers on windshields have been revoked. Only those authorized by statute are permitted on the windshield. These are state park stickers, which are permitted only on the lower right-hand corner of the windshield; new-vehicle registration stickers (red-border permit) issued to buyers (for use until they get their license plates, lower right-hand corner; and motor vehicle inspection stickers, lower left-hand corner.

Stickers not specifically authorized, and other stickers previously authorized, are now illegal on the windshield, side wings and side and rear windows of all motor vehicles.

Identification stickers issued by private and public agencies as parking permits will continue to be authorized provided they are affixed only to the lowest portion of the rearmost window on the left side of the vehicle, do not exceed three inches in any dimension including the diagonal, and are removed upon expiration. No other sticker is permitted.

Violators will be issued warning tickets during the immediate future, and later will be subject to regular traffic tickets, Hoaglund said. He pointed out that a number of organizations have issued stickers for use on windshields and side windows without obtaining authorization from the department of public safety as required by law. These, as well as those for which authorization has been revoked, are not legal, he pointed out.

"If you are melancholy for the first time, you will find upon a little inquiry that others have been melancholy many times, and yet are cheerful now. If you have been melancholy many times, recollect that you have got over all those times; and try if you cannot find means of getting over them better." —Leigh Hunt

Better Sportsmanship

School spirit and support of athletic teams are virtues of an active student body and should certainly be encouraged. It is good to see large cheering sections at the games in Thief River Falls and to hear the response to activity by the cheerleaders.

But we have wondered at a couple of home basketball games if the cheering section hasn't been a little too exuberant, with sustained cheering and stamping of feet upsetting the cheers of the opponents' fans and cheerleaders. As Prowler supporters, we have been embarrassed by this activity which is too concerted to be spontaneous or coincidental.

Athletics have been long touted as vehicles for teaching competition with emphasis on fair play and sportsmanship. There is no reason why the lessons should not extend beyond the sidelines into the bleachers.

Cheer, of course, and let your team know you are with them. Recite the school yells at the top of your voice, scream with enthusiasm when your team members do well and agonize with them when they do not. Participate in your pep club and share the thrill of victory and the disappointment of defeat.

But recognize that you are hosts and hostesses to the teams that come to play, and that your team is nothing without another team to play against. In fairness, consider the size of the cheering sections that such teams as Fisher (population 383), Mentor (population 236), Kennedy (population 424) and Climax (population 255) can likely bring with them. Should it be necessary to intimidate those relatively few supporters?

We enjoy high school athletics and enthusiasm, and look forward to seeing the Prowlers in action on the hardwood many more times this year. We hope that the competition can be kept on a high plane of sportsmanship on the floor and in the seats, and that the rights and privileges of others are respected just as we would expect our rights and privileges to be respected in return. Bad manners don't add anything to the game, and certainly don't do anything to help Thief River Falls' reputation as a friendly city.

A Son's Battle To Halt Pollution

Written by an experienced mother, this articles appeared recently in the Wheaton Gazette:

On the subject of kids, the Wheaton Gazette printed the following little item, written by a tried and true mother. It all had to do with her son's battle to halt pollution:

I peeked into my son's bedroom a few weeks ago and found him sprawled on the floor with a pencil and notebook. "How are you going to observe Earth Week?" he asked.

"Gee, I don't know," I said. "Maybe the same way I observed Jackie and Ari's wedding day—by shaving my legs."

"I'm serious," he charged. "Do you know what is the greatest threat to man's environment?"

"This bedroom," I said, looking around in disbelief.

"People," he amended. "They're careless. I am writing a paper on ways we can help."

"Where do you keep your bed?" I asked, bustling around.

"In the middle of the floor," he said. "It isn't made because I'm airing it."

"You've been airing it for three years," I said. "Why have you been sleeping with 48 copies of Sports Illustrated, a Dixie cup, a hubcap and 18 mismatched socks?"

"Ecology is a personal thing," he mused. "It has to start with one person at a time. Every candy wrapper is important. Every bottle cap."

"Why are my eyes watering?" I gasped.

"It's the aquarium," he said "The catfish isn't doing his job."

I looked at the polluted bowl of water with the pump that gasped and gurgled. Other than the Cuyahoga River in Cleveland, it was possibly the only body of water that caught fire.

"Carelessness," he continued. "I think that's what it is all about. If you could just make people aware of how they are cluttering up our countryside."

"Are you saving these soft drink bottles for anything?" I asked.

"There's a garter snake in one of them," he said. "Now, where was I? Oh yes, clutter. How about 'We must all band together and form groups to bring pressure against the earth molesters.' How's that?"

"Wonderful," I said, "Did you know you have gym shoes under your bed that have rusted? A three years' supply of crumpled nose tissue in your sock drawer? A piece of green bread under your pillow? A preschooler under your clothes on your chair? A nest in your toothbrush and a towel on the floor of your closet that just spoke to me?"

"Mon," he sighed, "If you aren't going to help me with this paper on ecology, then quit mumbling."

I stood at the door and watched a garter snake slither over a mound of dirty underwear and wondered what you'd get if you recycled kids.

Another Double Standard

Folloling editorial appeared recently in the Morris Sun:

The U.S. Postal Service has just announced that rates for third class mail will go up about 25 per cent in a couple of weeks. The new minimum charge will be five cents per piece.

One may question the justification for such a large increase, if only on the basis that third class mail is a lot easier to handle than postcards which get priority handling and cost just one cent more. After all, the person who mails bulk third class does all the sorting and zip coding. As a usual rule, one piece goes to each boxholder on a route. It is rather simple mail to process compared to the individual handling which must be accorded to letters and postcards.

However, the thing that really grates right now is the complete disregard by a government agency for the wage-price guidelines which other people are expected to follow. Any industry which announced a 25 per cent price increase would be rapidly hailed into court and it should be. But when big government gets into the picture, what's sauce for the goose isn't sauce for the gander.

Just to put the frosting on the cake, so to speak, the Cost of Living Council in announcing Saturday that the U. S. Postal Service is exempt from price controls also announced that postal workers were not exempt from wage controls.

Big business and big labor certainly have their shortcomings, but it takes big government to come up with the real disruptions of the effort to control inflation.

Time For Innovations

Following editorial appeared recently in the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Educators are continually referring to freedom of thought and expression on the campus. They've got it. Now we feel they should use it in an attempt to update and modernize their own private castles.

It is time that the educators take a long look at the antiquated system of prerequisites needed in some areas of endeavor. We know of one youth, for example, who has finished all of the science courses required to get into medical school—yet the system insists that he spend the next couple of years taking a bunch of garbage courses completely unrelated to medicine before he can be admitted to medical school. The same applies to law. Why should law students be required to get a bachelor's degree, and in so doing take a bunch of courses that have no bearing on the law, before entering law school?

We see no reason why a young man should be unnecessarily required to spend time and money obtaining a bachelor's degree in order to go into specialized fields of endeavor. How a course in astronomy, for example, is going to be of much assistance to a young man in the practice of law or medicine is a mystery to us. Yet it carries "credits"—and "credits" you must have before goint into graduate school.

A general overhaul is in order for our entire educational structure. Who says ALL students must attend school for a full twelve years in order to get a high school diploma? Who says, for that matter, that a high school diploma should be necessary for acceptance into a college when the student may be eminently qualified through experience and self-education?

Yes it is time some of these "free thinkers" start applying a little free thinking to the structure of their own little ivory towers.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

It irks me to no end to get no reports on snowmobile races in your paper. We should be the snowmobile capital of the world, and if we want any results on local, state, or national races, we have to get it from other sources than your paper.

No one can deny that Arctic has made Thief River Falls a name recognized nationwide. In my travels whenever I mention that I am from Thief River Falls, they say, "Oh, the home of Arctic Cat." This has happened to me in Las Vegas; Salt Lake City; West Yellowstone; Almond, New York; Groton, Connecticut; and many statewide places. If we want any reports on snowmobile races, we get next to nothing.

I subscribe to the Little Falls Transcript, today, Jan. 11, has three articles on racing. Headlines on the front page—Snowmobile Race lures two city men, an article about a local physician, Dr. George Fortier and Darv Koenig who have entered the Winnipeg 500. Do any of the readers of the Times know who the local racers are that are entered?

On the sport page is an article about Peterborough Canadian race won by three Minnesotans, Larry Coltom, Thief River Falls, Vern Ricard, Fertile, and Don Drews of Roseau. Also, all of the results of a race held at Merrifield, near Brainerd.

Most of the readers of your paper are interested in how Arctic racers are doing. Also, we are certainly interested in our friends to the North, Polaris. Both are vital cogs in the economy of Northwest Minnesota. Most people are aware that the improvements in both autos and snowmobiles are developed in racing machines. The snowmobile industry has come a long ways in the few years they have been in operation, and for the old fogies like myself, they have built a wonderful machine for trail riding, fishing, etc., due to finding the weak spots through racing.

I'm not interested in going 85 M.P.H. on a snowmobile, but when I hit for 12-Mile Reef, I'd like to know I'll get there and with the snowmobiles we have available we can do this with confidence.

Why not let your readers know that Thief River Falls is the snowmobile capital of the world, and that we have some of the world's best snowmobile racers by giving the results of the races, etc. I was ashamed of myself last weekend to be with a group from Southwestern Minnesota to be asked how is Arctic doing on the racing circuit, and I have to say, we just don't get the results.

I'm positive a call to Arctic, Polaris, Sno Jet, Rupp dealers or manufacturers will be glad to give you the results.

Let's get on the ball and give our No. 1 industry the publicity it so justly deserves.

Vernon E. Nelson

Dear Editor:

We first would like to say to the people and city that this year after all the Christmas decorations were up, I went through a lot of towns the same size to larger and smaller but did not see a city or town that had as good decorations all around as that of Thief River Falls. It is certainly nice for one to be able to say that is my home town.

Christmas was not the same; no snow, no cold winds from around the corner and none of that good cheery Merry Christmas that really snaps as in Thief River Falls.

Grace and I certainly missed it although we used up all our decorations in and around the mobile home we live in here. But it still didn't seem like Christmas. No family and good friends to be with. Grace made all her Norwegian cookies and cakes and other goodies. People in the court here said, "My do you do all of that down here?" (But it was good.)

It is nice though to be able to go out with out my cold weather mask and it is too warm. For health reasons it is good, but I'll assure you our thoughts were of all our friends and family at home.

We certainly see a lot of people from in and around that part of the state and although they call us snowdiggers we don't mind a bit. We are not alone as people we know from Warren, Middle River, Newfolden, Roseau, Hallock, McIntosh, Kennedy, Karlstad and a lot of other towns around are here.

Our Minnesota picnic is the largest in the Valley. This is quite an affair and we sure go. We try to see all. I even met people I worked with in Fargo and ones I graduated with, too, so this is a small world after all.

But our hearts are in Thief River Falls, the best city in the Northwest.

In closing we wish all a Happy New Year and we will be seeing you in the spring.

Jim and Grace Parkins

P.S. We certainly see a lot of stands selling fireworks. One can't hear himself think on Christmas and New Years eve for the cracks and bangs of the fireworks.

On the radio we don't hear the Christmas songs, so we play our own on our hi-fi to hear the Christmas carols.

notes from the governor

In 1967, when the State of Minnesota first began registering snowmobiles, the total was 18,737.

That figure may well top 250,000 by the end of the current season, or nearly one snowmobile for every 15 Minnesotans. The dramatic rise in popularity of this machine has given birth to a $50 million industry employing more than 8,000 people.

But with the vast increase in snowmobiling has come significant problems. Destruction of wildlife habitat is one. Excessive noise is another.

Most serious, particularly as larger and more powerful machines reach the market, is the hazard posed to life and limb by the sport.

By last week the death toll from snowmobile accidents in Minnesota had climbed to 16—one more than the total for the entire 1970-71 season. By the estimate of Natural Resources Commissioner Robert Herbst, snowmobile-related fatalities could reach 50 by the end of the current season.

The commissioner also says that if the present trend continues, there will be more than 10,000 less serious snowmobile accidents in Minnesota this year, 70 per cent of which will involve personal injuries.

It was for these reasons that I directed Herbst last week to take the necessary steps to expand the DNR youth snowmobile safety training program.

The commissioner and the Minnesota highway patrol were also asked to place increased emphasis on the enforcement of laws regulating the use of snowmobiles.

The DNR's safety training program is regarded as the finest of its kind in the nation. In its two-year history, more than 50,000 Minnesota youngsters have received valuable instruction in basic snowmobile safety procedures under its auspices.

None of this would have been possible without the cooperation of 3,000 volunteer instructors, and the enthusiastic support of the Minnesota Association of Snowmobilers and many, many individual snowmobile clubs.

We have enjoyed strong backing from the industry and the snowmobiling public in our attempts to curb the tragic increase in snowmobile accidents and fatalities. But as the sport continues to increase in popularity, even more vigorous efforts will be required by all of us.

Minnesota 4-H'ers Earn State Honors

A coed from St. Louis County and a youth from Todd County have been selected by the Cooperative Extension Service for outstanding 4-H achievement.

Sally Takala, 18, Iron, received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond for her fine record in the public speaking program and Raymond Strassburg, 17, Burtrum, was awarded an expense-paid trip to the 50th National 4-H Congress held in Chicago, Nov. 28-Dec. 2.

Raymond Strassburg

Sally Takala

Miss Takala, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Takala, is in her first year at Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minn. She has been a 4-H member nine years and has been enrolled in the public speaking program for five. Her savings bond was donated by Union Oil Company of California.

Earlier this year, she was the reserve champion in the Minnesota 4-H Speaking Contest and last year she was County Federation president.

Strassburg won his trip as the state's outstanding 4-H member in the safety program. He traveled to Chicago as the guest of General Motors.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Strassburg, he is a high school senior.

A ten-year 4-H'er, Strassburg has participated in a number of 4-H projects, including shop, electricity and gun training. He says the thing he likes about the safety program is the fact that it can be beneficially applied to all other projects.

The 4-H awards programs are arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Legis Lative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

What effect will reapportionment have on rural Minnesota? Just what is redistricting or reapportionment anyway? What are the pro's and con's of a smaller legislature? What do you think of a federal court drawing district lines and setting the size of the legislature?

These questions and many others have been asked of me countless times in the past weeks. They reflect the concern of people—aware that something of importance is taking place, but not certain of just how reapportionment will affect them. Few people are aware of what is really at stake.

Why must the present lines be changed? A decision of the United States supreme court in the mid-60's said all people in the nation must be equally represented. The legislative districts in our state are no longer as equal in population as they must be. Thus after each 10 year census reapportionment must occur from now on if the populations of the districts are out of balance.

The stakes in the size of the legislature are simple but very important to everyone. Essentially, it boils down to whether your elected officials live close enough to their constitutents to maintain contact and provide the service they should or whether they represent a district of such a size that they can no longer truly provide the representative type of government in which we all believe.

Some public officials support a smaller legislature—they say this will save money; but that's a joke. It sounds reasonable until you begin to realize that the next step is full-time legislators, annual sessions and greatly increased staff. Full-time legislators will have to be paid three to four times their present salary and you still have the additional staff members to pay. I personally believe fewer members can only provide less service, but at a greater cost to every citizen of the state.

Consider this possibility—if the Minnesota senate is reduced to 35 members there will of necessity have to be committees no larger than five or seven members. Subcommittees will probably be three members. In this size subcommittee one man holds the power of life or death over any bill. It is extremely important if that bill is essential to you or your community.

In our form of government we have historically attempted to safeguard our people from this type of concentration of power. We have always felt that the more people were involved in decision making the better the chance of those decisions reflecting the will of all the people. Hitler and Stalin are extreme examples of power concentration.

Another possibility—if the Governor refuses to call a special session there could be an "at large" election next fall. If the appeals which are pending before the courts materialize there may well be no legislative districts in Minnesota. All of the voters will vote on every legislator, and the Twin Cities could probably elect just about every member of the Legislature. Your closest senator or representative could very well live in Moorhead.

During the past session the legislature passed a reapportionment bill. It had bipartisan support and over 64 per cent of the members voted for the bill. Members of the news media at the Capitol called it an "eminently fair" plan— a true compromise. It was vetoed by the governor.

Rural minority legislators are now able to see how this veto works against the interests of rural Minnesota. The determined efforts of the majority throughout the entire session to pass a fair reapportionment bill was nullified by the veto.

If it's wise to reduce the size of the legislature, then why not reduce the size of the county boards of commissioners and the members of the city councils? I beleive this is a question the people should decide, not the courts.

A doctor who operates on himself has a fool for a patient.

It's an old saying, but it's never made more sense. There are some jobs in life that you just don't tackle by yourself. The preparation of your income tax should be one of them.

And that's where H & R Block, The Income Tax People, come in. H & R Block is America's largest tax service with more than 6,000 conveniently located offices to serve you. Your H & R Block representative is specially trained and can provide information on legitimate income tax benefits and opportunities that the average man on the street doesn't even know exists.

For instance, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? Or, that if your income increased over the last few years, you may save tax dollars by "income averaging?" And even if you did, would you know how to go about "income averaging" to begin with? Probably not. And there's no reason why you should. After all, you're an amateur when it comes to doing income tax.

H & R Block's charges start at $5 and last year averaged under $12.50 for over 7 million returns we prepared.

And, if we make any error in the preparation of your tax return that costs you any interest or penalty on additional taxes due, while we do not assume the liability for the additional taxes, we will pay that interest and penalty.

Our one time fee entitles you to year 'round tax service and assistance.

Come to the company that more than 7 million Americans placed their confidence in last year. Come to the people who will fill out your next income tax return efficiently, quickly, confidentially. Come to H & R Block.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

H&R Block.
The income tax people.

Adoption Practices Change In Nation

If you are thinking of adopting a child, you will find that adoption practices have changed markedly from those of just a few years ago.

There has been a sharp decrease in the number of healthy babies—particularly white infants—available for adoption.

At the same time, there has been an increase in the number of couples wishing to adopt children—not just infants but children needing homes and parents.

To meet the demand, adoption agencies are turning to minority group, older and handicapped children who previously were not even considered for adoption. And, according to a recent study by the family economics bureau of a major life insurance company, there are great numbers of these formerly "hard - to - place" children available.

Five to 10 years ago there were more than enough babies to adopt. Now although the number of illegitimate births has nearly tripled in the last 10 years, there is a shortage of healthy, white infants—still the preference of a majority of prospective adoptive parents.

Many unwed mothers are no longer giving their babies up for adoption, electing to raise them alone. Social values have changed; a child out - of - wedlock is no longer the social stigma it once was. Some agencies report that only 40 per cent of unwed mothers kept their babies a few years ago—now the figure is closer to 80 per cent.

Five years ago homes for unwed mothers had waiting lists; now they are half-occupied. The Florence Crittendon homes, which previously aided only unwed mothers, now also help disturbed girls.

The "pill" and new abortion laws in several states are important factors in reducing the number of babies available.

The shortage of infants for adoption has allowed agencies to place greater emphasis on finding homes for "hard - to - place" children. These children may be Negro, from other minority groups or of mixed-race heritage. They may be older school-age youngsters—or brother and sister groups of two, three, four or even five children. Or they may be children with physical, mental or emotional problems.

The U.S. children's bureau estimates between 40,000 and 60,000 black and mixed-race children need adoptive parents. Another 60,000 older or handicapped youngsters are waiting for families. And there are at least 250,000 children in foster homes who should be released for adoption but haven't been because of insufficient social, legal, medical and psychological services.

More couples now want to adopt a child because of the child's need for parents, not just to satisfy their own need for offspring. They are finding that the handicapped child, or one from a minority group, has a great capacity for providing satisfactions to adoptive parents. This has opened the door for adoption to thousands of children who only a few years ago were never even considered.

No child comes with a guarantee that he will be free from medical or psychological problems. Adoptive parents are now more willing to take the same risks that biological parents do.

Adoption agencies are changing their evaluation of adoptive parents, according to the insurance company. They have been moving away from unrealistic eligibility requirements such as age, length of marriage, residence, nationality, children of their own and maternal employment. But they are still careful to evaluate the potential for creating a good home—a happy marriage, job stability and freedom from handicapping, emotional problems.

Agencies are no longer concerned about matching similarities in physical characteristics and backgrounds. Now there is a focus on satisfying needs of the individual child and finding a family with the capacity to respond to those needs.

Hard - to - place children may suffer from insecurity and lack of identity. They often have been frequently moved—from one foster home to another—or have spent long periods in institutions. Many older children thought to be mentally retarded were only emotionally retarded because of their feelings of rejection due to changing foster homes.

Money is the biggest problem faced by people willing to adopt children with serious handicaps. If a handicapped child is in a foster home, all his needs are met and paid for by taxpayers. But when he is adopted and given love and a good home, all his expenses are borne by the adoptive parents. When your own child develops a serious physical problem, he is covered by your health insurance. But when you adopt a child with an existing problem, health insurance may cover a part or none of the expenses involved.

As a result, more states are looking into subsidizing adoptions. Ten states have already enacted laws to permit public agencies to make subsidy payments to adoptive parents. This is usually in the form of lumpsum or on-going payments for medical and dental expenses.

Adoption agencies usually work with children and homes available in local areas. For a child with a special problem, local resources may be limited. But if, instead of a population of 200,000 from which to find a home for a child, the population of the entire country were available, chances of finding a suitable family would be excellent.

Often a child who is not wanted locally will be cherished in another environment. Regional prejudices still prevent some homeless children from being adopted. It's difficult to find a home for American Indians in the West, Mexican - Americans in the Southwest, Puerto Ricans in New York City or Eskimos in Alaska.

For these reasons, the Adoption Resource Exchange of North America (ARENA) was founded in 1967—to use the combined resources of all agencies to find a family for a child or a child for a family. ARENA doesn't accept applications from individual families. Everything is done through member agencies. ARENA merely acts as a clearinghouse.

It is estimated that an adoption represents a saving of $40,000—the average amount required to raise a child in a foster home or institution. Placing a child for adoption usually costs an agency less than $500.

As more children are placed in adoptive homes, funds presently used for foster care may be available to meet other pressing needs of children.

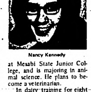
Minnesotans Return from 4-H Congress

Three young people from northeast and central Minnesota have earned state awards in their 4-H projects and attended the 50th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 28-Dec. 2.

Selected by the Cooperative Extension Service which supervises 4-H activities, the winners are Nancy Kennedy, Pequot Lakes, Crow Wing County; James Takala, Iron, North St. Louis County, and Michael J. Dotzler, Aitkin, Aitkin County.

Michael Dotzler



Nancy Kennedy

James Takala

Miss Kennedy, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kennedy, earned her award in the bread project. She attended the congress as the guest of Standard Brands Incorporated, program sponsor.

A seven-year 4-H'er and high school junior, Miss Kennedy plans to make teaching her career.

She exhibited her baking products for four years and has received blue ribbons at county and state fairs and conducted demonstrations in bread-making.

"My knowledge and skills learned in the breads project will benefit me greatly in my future career," Miss Kennedy said.

Young Takala, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Takala, earned his award in agriculture, and went to Chicago as the guest of International Harvester Company, program sponsor.

A member of 4-H for nine years, Takala is a sophomore at Mesabi State Junior College, and is majoring in animal science. He plans to become a veterinarian.

In dairy training for eight years, he exhibited his Hereford herd, sheep and his horse at county fairs and won many ribbons.

In 1969, he was named outstanding livestock member and attended the 4-H Citizenship Short Course in Washington, D.C.

Dotzler, 16, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dotzler, earned his award in petroleum power and attended the congress in Chicago as the guest of American Oil Foundation

A 4-H member for seven years, Dotzler is a high school junior and plans a future in the agricultural field.

With his tractor, he cultivated his fields and gave demonstrations in tractor safety. He also gave demonstrations in tractor driving and safety, winning ribbons and a medal for these exhibits.

Dotzler became interested in the snowmobile and gave demonstrations on snowmobile safety, and was grand champion in 1970, receiving snowmobile and petroleum power medals.

The three were among about 30 Minnesota 4-H'ers who attended the Chicago event.

The 4-H awards programs are arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Concordia C-400 Club To Complete Fourth Project

Successful conclusion of Project Four of Concordia college's C-400 club will be commemorated today at a 7 p.m. banquet.

Five-part project, started in July 1968, was finished slightly ahead of schedule and involves money for the completed addition to the Carl B. Ylvisaker library, for campus improvement and beautification, for student aid and scholarships, for refurbishing of Old Main, and for the Concordia language village near Bemidji.

Nearly 900 of the 850 memberships for the project were received within the last 18 months, bringing the C-400 club's total membership to 2,619 by the first of this year.

Charles E. Bailly of Fargo served as national chairman for the project and described the successful completion of the effort as "another indication of strong support for the principles represented by Concordia.

"This project was spearheaded by the intense effort of many individuals," said Bailly. "The result could not have been accomplished without the contribution of every individual involved."

Speaking at the club's Monday banquet in Concordia's East Complex will be Dr. Kent S. Knutson, national bishop of the American Lutheran church.

A new project for the club will be announced at that banquet. Also slated for introduction at that time is the national chairman for the new endeavor.

John Pierce is the executive secretary of C-400. Since assuming his duties with the club a year and a half ago, the organization has gained about one-fifth of its membership.

C-400 was founded in 1955 seeking 400 members to pledge money for the first phase of Concordia's library. The club is open to any person wishing to contribute $1,000 or more to the college over a four-year period.

BSC Announces Administrative Staff Changes

Three major administrative changes were announced at Bemidji state college this week by Dr. R. D. Decker, president.

Named head of the division of science and mathematics is Dr. Gordon Lindgren, who was formerly chairman of the physics department. He relieves Dr. Thomas Boates, professor of chemistry, who served as temporary head of the division since July.

Named director of teacher education is Dr. John Yourd formerly head of the division of education and named temporary head of the division of education is Dr. Willard Bornschlegl, associate professor of secondary education.

The appointments of Dr. Yourd and Dr. Lindgren are dependent on approval of the Minnesota state college board.

Dr. Yourd served as head of the Division of Education since 1967 and came to Bemidji from Fargo. He holds a Ph. D. in education from the University of Iowa. Dr. Lindgren served as chairman of the physics department for the past two years and holds a Ph. D. from the University of Iowa. Dr. Bornschlegl holds a Ed. D. from the University of Nebraska.

DA Recommends Amending Federal Order On Milk

U. S. Department of Agriculture today recommended amending all federal milk marketing orders, except the south Texas order, to provide for earlier announcements of the monthly minimum class I (bottling milk) prices to be paid by handlers, and to base the Class I prices on earlier manufacturing milk data (basic formula price) than at present.

USDA's consumer and marketing service said the recommendations are based on evidence from a public hearing held in Washington Dec. 13. It was reqested by the Milk Industry Foundation representing handlers doing business under all of the orders.

Specifically, the recommendations would:

1—Require that the Class I prices for each month be announced by the fifth day of the preceding month.

2—Use the basic Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price series for the second preceding month, instead of for the immediately preceding month, in computing the Class I prices.

C&MS officials said the south Texas order was not included in the recommendations because of proceedings pending in a U. S. District Court, and a further hearing to be held by the court, involving an earlier action to terminate the order.

The complete recommended amendments to the orders are scheduled to be published in the Federal Register on Jan. 11, and exceptions or comments may be filed up to Jan. 17. They should be sent to the Hearing Clerk, 112-A, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, where they may be publicly inspected.

Copies of the recommended decision may be obtained from the market administrators of the orders, or from the Dairy Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Persons using powered snowblowers are urged to wear protective ear plugs while operating the machines.

Additional Funds Authorized For REAP Practices

Minnesota farmers should be able to accomplish more soil and water conservation and carry out additional pollution prevention and abatement practices in 1972 than they did in 1971, according to Elton Redalen, chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The ASCS official said recent action by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz in announcing an additional $55.5 million for the 1972 Rural Environmental Assistance program will result in an additional $1,741,000 for Minnesota. This will make a total 1972 REAP allocation for the state of $6,061,000. This compares with an allocation of $4,550,000 for the 1971 REAP.

"This additional allocation will enable us to help farmers do more to prevent or abate agriculture-related pollution of water, land and air, and to conserve agricultural soil, water, woodland and wildlife resources," Redalen said.

He said Secretary Butz had cited response of farmers to the re-directed emphasis of REAP in 1971, and their willingness to match, or exceed, additional federal investments in pollution prevention and abatement, as a major factor in providing the additional funds for REAP in 1972. An October report from selected states showed a 400 per cent increase in 1971 over 1970 in funds to be expended for pollution abatement practices, according to the secretary of agriculture.

Redalen invited farmers to stop in to their local county ASCS offices to discuss their conservation problems.

"Each REAP practice approved by an ASC county committee must have related soil and water benefits," the state chairman said, "so the program can't help with every problem on the farm. But it will be able to help many farmers solve their agriculture-related pollution problems."

In 1970 about 22,000 Minnesota farmers participated in the REAP, generally on a 50-50 cost-share basis. About 100 farmers installed major pollution abatement practices last year in Minnesota, which is double the number installed in 1970.

Outstate Towns To Woo Health Science Students

Outstate communities in Minnesota are being invited to "sell" their communities to senior health sciences students at the University of Minnesota.

During a program planned for early February, community representatives will have the opportunity to meet individually with graduating students and their spouses from dentistry, hospital administration, medicine, nursing, pharmacy, public health and veterinary medicine, as well as medical interns and residents from university hospitals.

Minnesota opportunities day for the health sciences will start at 1 p.m. Feburary 4 in Coffman union main ballroom on the Minneapolis campus.

Introductory talks will be given by Dr. Lyle French, vice president for health sciences, and Rep. Vernon Long, chairman of the legislative house subcommittee on medical education.

Further information is available from Professor David O. Born, 136 Owre hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455.

LHS Skaters End Ram Win Streak With 4-2 Triumph

ROSEAU GOALIE Willard Comstock uses his body to block this shot by the Prowlers' Jon Jensen on a breakaway rush during the second period in the Roseau arena. Jensen was thwarted on this attempt, however the junior wing scored the game's first goal to propel the Prowlers to a 4-2 win over the rival Rams. The Prowlers will face another arch rival tomorrow night (Tuesday) when they host the Warroad Warriors in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

Thief River Falls successfully skated off four third period penalties Saturday night to post a hard-earned 4-2 region eight hockey victory over the Roseau Rams, raising the Prowler season record to 6-4.

The win ended a six game Ram win streak over the Prowlers, dating back to the 1968-69 season. The triumph also marked the first Prowler victory on Roseau home ice since the 1965-66 season.

The Prowlers scored once in the slow moving first period when junior wing Jon Jensen beat Roseau goalie Willard Comstock from 10 feet on the right side. Mike Hamilton was credited with an assist on the score.

Roseau threatened in the first period with a volley of shots during a Prowler penalty with about three minutes remaining.

An abrut change took place in the second period as both teams opened up with a wild, fast-moving style of hockey that found both goalies turning aside several breakaway rushes.

Junior wing John Wangberg gave the Prowlers a 2-0 lead on a breakaway with 13:47 remaining as he flipped the puck into the high left corner of the net from close range on an assist from linemate Tom Goddard.

Roseau came right back to cut the margin to 2-1 on Norrell Nelson's goal 30 seconds later. Nelson's close range shot from the right side was assisted by Bruce Olson with 13:17 left in the second period.

Defenseman Tom Wurst's hard slapshot from the left point made it 3-1 for the Prowlers with 12:18 remaining with Rory Anderson getting an assist on the play.

The Rams once again climbed to within one, 3-2, on Olson's power play goal with 7:05 remaining. Prowler center Don Brown was whistled off the ice for tripping at 8:18 and Roseau took advantage of the extra attacker as Olson beat Prowler goalie Pete Sullivan from the right side with an assist from Bill Cristianson.

Sullivan turned in a fine performance in the final period of action as the Prowlers skated off penalty after penalty in the whistled-slowed third canto.

The Prowler penalties came with 14:00, 8:59, 6:20 and 4:05 remaining as Thief River Falls almost continously skated a man short.

Roseau was also called twice for two infractions in the final period and the Prowlers took advantage of the second opportunity on Hamilton's pointblank backhand with an assist from Rob Swenson, giving Thief River Falls an insurance talley.

Sullivan turned in a 21 save performance in the Prowler nets while Comstock turned back 29 Prowler shots.

THE PROWLER junior varsity was also a winner for the night with a 4-1 triumph in the preliminary contest.

The Prowler Bees pulled out to a 2-0 first period lead on goals by Dick Penning and Jeff Tunberg. Mike Drury and Scott Reed were credited with assists on the scores. Drury made it 3-1 in the second period on a goal assisted by Tunberg. Pete Hess, on assists from Reed and Ross Gutterud, scored the fourth Prowler goal in the third period.

Lumberjacks Hold On For 68-65 Win

Trailing Bemidji by 16 points with 5:07 remaining in the fourth quarter, Lee Swanson's Prowler basketball team scored 14 straight points to pull within two points with 1:46 remaining, before the Lumberjacks pulled out a 68-65 victory in the Lincoln high school gym friday night.

The Prowlers trailed by 16, 60-44, going into the final quarter and the Jacks appreared to be adding to their already substantial lead as they matched their biggest lead of the game at 67-51 with 5:07 left. However, the Lumberjacks were able to score just one point the last five minutes of the game as the Prowlers came roaring back with 14 straight points over a 3:21 span for a 67-65 contest with 1:46 remaining.

Lumberjack team captain Bob Colie, a substitute who saw only about two minutes of playing time during the whole game, steadied the shaken Bemidji team with a key rebound and then sank a crucial free throw with 13 seconds remaining for the 68-65 triumph.

Bemidji had pulled out to a 15-9 lead at the end of a lackluster first quarter with both squad's fast break offenses slowed by each other's full court press defense.

Thief River Falls trailed just 21-16 with about four minutes remaining in the second quarter before Bemidji pulled out to a 33-21 margin enroute to an eight-point, 35-27, halftime lead.

Bemidji displayed an unbelievable out side shooting attack to start the second half as the Lumberjacks connected on six straight 10 to 15 foot jump shots without a miss in the first 3:01 of the third quarter. While the Jacks were cleaning the nets from the outside, the Prowlers missed several close range shots, as Bemidji pulled out to a 60-44 lead at the third stop

Rande Smith's three point play at the outset of the fourth quarter made it 60-47 before Bemidji went in front 67-51 with 5:07 remaining. Field goals by Tom Kays, Jeff Rhoden, Rande Smith, Ordean Peterson and Kays again brought the Prowlers to within 67-61 with 2:52 left to play.

Rande Smith turned in one of the best plays of the night when he perfectly timed a blocked shot on Bemidji's Bruce Daniels with about 2:30 remaining.

Peterson then took over for the Prowlers as he scored four straight points for a 67-65 contest. The junior guard tallied on an easy lay-up with 2:18 left and then sank two key free throws to trim the Lumberjack lead to two points. Peterson also stepped to the free throw line to shoot a gift toss awarded when Bemidji was called for a technical foul, but with the large throngs chanting "Beat Bemidji" the free throw was off target and after several scrambles for the ball, Colie stepped to the line for his free throw.

The loss dropped the Prowler record to 7-3, while Bemidji improved its mark to 3-7 on the year.

The biggest telling factor in the contest was the surprising rebound advantage held by the Lumberjacks. Bemidji outboarded the Prowlers 36-18, with Thief River Falls only able to pull down five offensive caroms all night. The Lumberjacks finished the contest with a remarkable 57 per cent shooting mark from the field and an 83 per cent mark from the free throw line. The Prowlers finished the game shooting of 41 per cent from the field and 75 per cent from the gift line.

Next action for the Prowlers will be Friday night when they host East Grand Forks in the Lincoln high school gym.

The Prowler junior varsity set the stage for the evening when Glenn Peters' Bees fought back from an 11 point deficit going into the final quarter before falling 53-52 in the preliminary contest.

Thief River Falls took a 13-11 first quarter lead, but fell behind 34-28 at the half and 50-39 going into the fourth canto.

Randy Dallman led the junior varsity in scoring with 12 while Tom Hanson and Dave Forney each collected 9 points. Three Bemidji players hit double figures with Hanson getting 16.

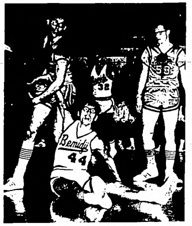
PETE SULLIVAN made one of his 21 saves on this shot by Roseau's Mike Burggraf during Saturday's game in the Roseau arena. The prowler junior goalie led his team to a 4-2 triumph over the Rams. The Prowler junior varsity was also a winner for the night with a 4-1 triumph in the preliminary contest.



SITTING DOWN ON THE JOB during Friday's Thief River Falls-Bemidji game in the Lincoln high school gym was Lumberjack forward Steve Boe as he wrestled the Prowlers' Rande Smith for a rebound. The referee called for a jump ball on the play while Bemidji's Brad Vaughn and the Prowlers' Tom Kays watch the action. Bemidji held off a frantic Prowler fourth quarter rally to post a 68-65 win.

State Tourney Tickets Available

State high school basketball tournament season tickets, long a precious commodity, are available for the 1972 tournament. The availability of openings on the priority list has come about largely because of the split of the basketball tournaments into the "A" and "AA" sessions.

Anyone interested should request an application card from the Minnesota State High School League office at 557 Southdale Office Centre, 6800 France Ave. So., Minneapolis, Minn. 55435.

Reserved season tickets may be ordered for the "A" (small school) or "AA" (large school) tournament or both. Season ticket holders do not have to order tickets for both tournaments. The deadline for basketball ticket orders is January 20, 1972.

Ban Hunting From Aircraft

Game officials at the Minnesota department of natural resources noted today that hunting from aircraft is now prohibited everywhere in the U.S.

Aircraft hunting has been banned by state law in Minnesota for several years. The new federal act, signed by the President on November 18, makes violators subject to a $5,000 penalty or one year imprisonment, or both.

Violation of the state regulations calls for a possible maximum fine of $300 and 90 days in jail, or both.

The federal act resulted partly from public indignation at the killing of hundreds of golden eagles and bald eagles by Wyoming ranchers using helicopters.

The female burrowing owl lays its eggs in the shape of a horseshoe, the clutch numbering from six to seven eggs.

The young of copperheads are born equipped with fangs and venom.

Prowler Icemen Host Warroad Warriors

Lincoln high school will host perennially strong Warroad in the Thief River Falls sports arena tomorrow night (Tuesday) when the Warriors invade for an 8 o'clock contest. Junior varsity action will get underway at 6:15.

The Prowlers will be seeking their seventh win, and fourth straight triumph of the season, when they host the rival Warriors. Warroad currently leads Thief River Falls by two points in the north region eight hockey standings.

The Prowlers will be seeking their first victory over Warroad since a 2-1 decision registered during the 1967-68 season. The Warriors have won seven and tied one over that span. The Prowlers hold a 33-31-3 advantage in the long-time rivalry.

The current region eight hockey standings are as follows:

North	w	l
Warroad	6	6
TRF	4	1
Baudette	4	4
Indus	4	7
Roseau	1	4
Hallock	1	6
RLF	0	4
South
Detroit Lakes	9	2
Bemidji	5	1
Crookston	4	5
Moorhead	4	5
EGF	3	1
Fergus Falls	3	4
Alexandria	0	3
Brainerd	0	3

The Standings are based on a won-lost point system, not on record. A team is awarded one point in the standings for a win against a team it plays twice during the year, and two points for a win against a team it plays just once. Standings are determined by percentage of points won compared with points played for.

TRF Cage League Changes Sites

Due to a PTA meeting at the Washington grade school tonight (Monday) the regular scheduled games in the men's city basketball league will be played at the Northrop grade school gym. Game time will be the same, with the first contest starting at 7 p.m.

Snowcat Safety Course Offered

Thief River Sno-Drifters will hold a second snowmobile safety class on Wednesday, January 19, and Wednesday, January 26, at the Lincoln high school cafeteria, with a driving test to be given on Sunday, January 30.

This will be the last course given this season to qualify 12-17 year olds to drive snowmobiles on public lands and cross state and county highways.

Minnesota law states that 12 and 13 year olds shall have snowmobile safety certificate in order to drive a snowmobile on public lands and waterways, and 14-17 year olds must have this certificate to drive a snowmobile across state and county highways.

The course will be from 7 to 9 p.m. on January 19 and 26, with the driving test to be given on Sunday, January 30 at 1 p.m. There is a $2 registration fee which should be turned in on January 19 at the time of registration. It is requested that all applicants bring a pen or pencil.

It is required that all three sessions be attended by all applicants in order to complete the course.

Those students that registered in the course held in December need not take the course again. Their certificates should be received within the next two weeks.

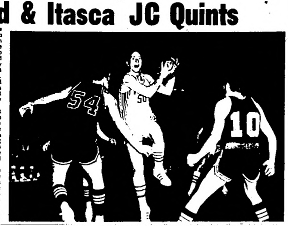
Northland Gains Split Against Brainerd & Itasca JC Quints



ITASCA'S Jack Olwell drives past Northland's Tony Burke (54) and Willie Bayne (10) for a lay-up in Saturday's Vikings-Northmen junior college game in the Northland gym. Chet Engelman's NSJC squad won the MJCCA conference contest 82-70. Northland will be back in action tomorrow night (Tuesday) when the Northmen travel to Crookston Tech for a 7:30 game.

Northland junior college basketball team continued to bounce along on its up and down season over the weekend as the Northmen gained a split in two home encounters. Northland stoped Itasca 82-70 Saturday afternoon after dropping an 83-74 verdict to Brainerd Friday night. The two decisions left Northland with a 7-8 season log with a conference game scheduled at Crookston Tech tomorrow (Tuesday) night.

The lead in Saturday's contest changed hands several times in the early stages before Itasca's Sam Gebhart broke a 15-15 tie with a fast break lay-up with 12:09 remaining. The visiting Vikings maintained narrow leads until Ron Gauthier's two free throws built a 28-23 Itasca lead with 7:01 left in the first half.

Northland's zone defense stopped Itasca's offense momentarily as the Northmen climbed to within 30-28 on a Mike Rasch field goal with 5:36 remaining knotted the game 30-all.

Itasca held onto its last lead of the contest on Gebhart's short jump shot for a 34-32 advantage with 3:34 left in the opening twenty minutes, although Itasca tied the game two more times before the half.

California import Jack Olwell's long range jumper knoted the game 38-all with 1:40 remaining before Northland center Tony Burke gave the Northmen the lead for keeps, 40-38, with 1:17 left. Fast break lay-ups by Jay Forney and Dale Hanson, a pair of Lincoln graduates, pushed Northland to a 44-38 halftime lead.

Switching back and forth from a full court press to a zone defense didn't help the Itasca cause in the second half as Northland quietly pulled away to a 15 point, 66-51, lead with 7:45 left in the game.

The Vikings fought back to trim the margin to just seven points at three different times in the last two minutes of the game, until Burke and Willie Bayne finished the scoring for the 82-70 win.

Four Northmen reached double figures, led by Burke's 25; Dale Hanson had 15 and Bayne, along with Mike Rasch collected 11. Burke also led Northland's 58-42 rebound advantage with 18 while Hanson grabbed 9. Northland turned in a 54 per cent shooting mark from the field, but shot only 46 per cent from the free throw line.

Brainerd recorded its second win over Northland this season in Friday's game with an 83-74 triumph. The Red Raiders opened a 2-0 lead on Phil Aune's bucket and maintained a four to six point advantage until Northland freshman forward Jamie Tronnes connected on a field goal for a 16-15 Northland lead with 12:49 remaining in the first half.

The Northmen held onto a slim lead the rest of the first half, building a 40-34 margin with about two minutes remaining enroute to a 44-40 lead at intermission.

Freshman Kent Hanson's field goal with 17:10 remaining in the second half gave the Northmen a 50-44 lead, but Brainerd stormed back with 10 unanswered points behind six points by Aune to take a 54-44 lead. The Raiders maintained short leads the remaining 15 minutes of the contest behind a slowed-down deliberate style of play.

Brainerd was led by the one-two scoring punch of Roger Wolters and Aune who collected 55 points between them. Wolters, a sophomore center from Little Falls poured in 32 and Aune, a freshman from Willmar collected 23. Kent Hanson, coming off a knee injury, led a trio of Northland scorers in double figures with 20 while Tronnes had 15 and Dayne scored 10.

Each team shot near 49 per cent from the field, but Northland's eratic free throw shooting (56 per cent) hurt the Northmen cause as the Raiders turned in a 79 per cent mark from the gift lane. Brainerd held just a 33-31 rebound advantage, but Northland was guilty of 14 turnovers in the second half.

Northland Hoopsters Travel To Crookston

Northland state junior college basketball team will be back in action tomorrow night (Tuesday) when the Northmen travel to Crookston for a conference clash with the Trojans, beginning at 7:30 in the UMTC gym.

Crookston, always tough to beat on their home court, will be led by the play of 6-2 sophomore forward Pablo Ronderos who is currently averaging 29.4 points per game, ranking among the nation's top junior college scorers. Also in the Crookston line-up will be 5-10 Bob Johnson of Mentor, and 5-10 Terry Swanson of Hallock at the guards. 6-4 Terry Hoppe will be the Trojan center while 6-2 Mike Hoemberg mans the other forward spot.

Northland will probably counter with a line-up that finds 6-6 Tony Burke at center, 6-5 Dale Hanson and 5-9 Willie Bayne at the guards, and 6-0 Mike Rasch along with 6-2 Stan Leach will be the forwards for coach Chet Engleman's Northland quint.

"Crookston is pretty tough, we ought to be able to put up a good fight, but it's always hard to win on their court," says Engelman.

Four Northmen currently average in double figures with Burke leading the way on a 20.9 average. Dale Hanson carries a 16.0 mark while Rasch scores at a 10.4 clip and Bayne 10.3. Burke leads the club in rebounding with 229 in 13 games. Hanson with 106 and Rasch with 10 rank second and third in team rebounds. Freshman guard Darrell Stromlund leads the club in assists with 38.

The Northland will be back home, Saturday for a 2 o'clock contest in the Northland gym against Hibbing.

THE ULCER PERSONALITY

Most people assume corporation presidents, advertising copywriters and ambitious executives are the only ulcer sufferers. But the gastro-intestinal experts at Smith Kline & French Laboratories report more than 5,000,000 Americans have ulcers — and they vary in age and occupation. What they have in common is a need to control the stomach's acidity. Many doctors recommend 'Ducon', a new, pleasant tasting antacid . . . and they urge the ulcer victim to try to relax.

NORTHLAND GOALIE Tom Matanich balances the puck on his glove during this bit of action in Sunday's conference game against Mesabi in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Northland's Mark Hughes (left) and Rick Lindegard watch the juggling act by the Northland freshman. Mesabi won the contest 6-5 to drop Northland's season record to 7-4. The Northmen will see their next action Tuesday and Wednesday when they travel to White Bear Lake for a two-game series against Lakewood junior college.

Northmen Skaters End Week With 6-5 Loss

Conference foe Mesabi overcame a 3-0 first period deficit Sunday afternoon to record a come from behind 6-5 junior college hockey win over Northland in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

The loose at the hands of the Norsemen ended a frustrating week for Swede Lund's pucksters who suffered a 7-1 drubbing at the hands of the Concordia junior varsity Saturday afternoon. Northland was forced to skate into a sudden death overtime period Wednesday night before beating Crookston Tech 5-4.

The Northmen will take their 7-3 record to White Bear Lake Tuesday and Wednesday night for a two-game series against Lakewood junior college.

Northland opened up a quick 3-0 lead over the Norsemen Sunday on first period goals by Bob Lundbohm, John Barger and Leonard Kotta before Mesabi countered with two goals within a 30 second span.

Lundbohm opened the game's scoring with just 46 seconds gone in the game as he fired the puck past Mesabi goalie Mike Conaway from close range for an unassisted goal.

Freshman wing John Barger made it 2-0 when Conaway completely misplayed an easy 15-foot shot that slid under his stick. Kotta was given an assist on the score coming with 15:45 remaining.

Kotta gave the Northmen a 3-0 lead with 7:33 left when he skated behind the defense and flipped the puck into the high right hand corner of the net. Lundbohm and Barger were given assists on the score.

Northland continued to control the play until Andy Korpela blasted in a rebound from close range on an assist from Rudy VanKuyk with 3:54 remaining for a 3-1 contest. Just 30 seconds later Korpela scored again, this time linemates Gary Kochevar and VanKuyk set up the smooth skating center with a perfect centering pass for a 3-2 contest with 3:24 remaining in the first period.

Mesabi scored three straight goals in the second period of action for a 5-3 lead as Korpela added two more scores. Korpela's third goal came with just five seconds gone in the second twenty minutes to tie the contest, 3-3. Korpela gave Mesabi a 4-3 advantage with a power play goal with 18:07 remaining before Tom Bloomfield made it 5-3 with 2:18 remaining.

Northland skated back to tie the game 5-all on goals by Rodney Bolduc and Mark Hughes before Korpela scored his fifth goal of the game with 12:46 remaining.

Bolduc's backhand shot off a Leo Marshall rebound with 16:10 remaining cut the Mesabi lead to 5-4, and after maintaining pressure on the Mesabi defense, Northland tied the game 5-5 with freshman Mark Hughes scoring on an assist from Doug Palm with 13:42 left.

Korpela gave the Norsemen the win when he skated in all alone and beat Northland goalie Tom Matanich from close range with 13:42 remaining.

Matanich came up with 17 saves in the game while Conaway turned in a 33 save performance in the Mesabi nets.

The Concordia junior varsity opened up a scoreless game with four second period goals and then added three more markers in the final twenty minutes for a 7-1 triumph Saturday afternoon in the Fargo coliseum.

The lone goal for Northland came in the second period when Lundbohm scored on assists from Hughes and Jeff Baumgartner with 2:33 remaining.

Freshman wing Mark Wangberg, a 1971 Lincoln high school graduate, assisted on Concordia's first goal of the second period.

Each goalie was kept busy throughout the contest as Matanich came up with 34 saves for Northland and sophomore Mark Turk turned in a 30 save performance in the Concordia nets.

Sophomore defenseman Jeff Baumgartner's unassisted goal with 14:10 remaining in the first period gave Northland a 1-1 tie against UMTC in the Crookston arena Wednesday night. Rich Ellerbusch, an assists from Leo Marshall and Baumgartner, put Northland on top 2-1 with 8:36 remaining before Crookston came back with two goals and a 3-2 with 8:36 remaining before Crookston came back with two goals and a 3-2 lead that held up until the third period.

Marshall gave the Northmen a 4-3 third period lead with two goals before Crookston sent the game into overtime with a goal coming with 4:57 remaining.

Marshall's first goal came with 19:09 remaining on an assist from Baumgartner. The go-ahead talley came on an assist from Ellerbusch with 13:04 left.

Ellerbusch, a sophomore from Warroad, scored the winning goal on an assist from Bloduc and Marshall with 8:36 remaining in the sudden death period.

Freshman goalie Dave Steen turned back 24 Crookston shots while Northland got off 34 shots at the Crookston nets.

'U' Educates Nursing Home Administrators

by Bob Lee
University News Service

Public and governmental scrutiny has recently been focused on the quality of care in this country's nursing homes.

U.S. government now requires states to license administrators of nursing homes participating in programs using federal funds.

In October some 550 nursing home administrators in Minnesota took a licensing test and did better than any other state's applicants.

According to Phillip C. Newberg, executive director of the Minnesota state board of examiners for nursing home administrators, they "out-performed" the national average in scoring and had a failure rate of less than 2.5 per cent compared to a national failure rate of 10 to 15 per cent.

Uniformity, Reciprocity

In addition to the licensing requirement itself, there are two other important aspects of the new requirements for nursing home administrators: continuing-education classes to maintain licensure must be set up, and pre-licensing entry requirements for the profession remain to be defined—not only for Minnesota, but for the country as a whole.

Uniformity in license standards and reciprocity between states are two additional needs in the overall plan to make nursing homes a major component in this country's health-care system. To meet these needs the University of Minnesota, with a three-year grant from the W. K. Kellogg foundation of Battle Creek, Mich., has established a center for long-term care administration education.

There are almost 2,000 nursing homes in the six-state area served by the center, which is one of six around the country.

Dr. George K. Gordon, previously assistant professor of adult education at Indiana university, has been appointed coordinator for the center and will be developing educational programs for nursing home administrators in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Chronic Care Too Costly
In Hospitals

According to the 1967 social security act, states must establish a licensing test as well as entrance requirements to the nursing-home administration field. Dr. Gordon and the university center, in cooperation with the states' licensing boards and nursing home associations, will be developing curriculum to prepare for the test as well as meet the yet-to-be-specified entrance criteria.

Hopefully, according to Dr. Gordon, the six regional centers will eventually be able to assist the states to work out similar licensing standards so a national standard of quality can be established and reciprocity assured.

In Dr. Gordon's opinion, care for the chronically ill has become too expensive in acute-care facilities like hospitals, and by making nursing homes an integral part of the health-care system costs should be lowered.

Propose Changes In Minnesota's Drink-Drive Law

Proposed improvements in the national uniform vehicle code incorporate many features that are already in effect in Minnesota and others that have been under serious consideration by the Minnesota state legislature, Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoglund reported today.

The changes were considered during a November meeting of the national committee on uniform traffic laws and ordinances which recommended their adoption by the states. The uniform code was initiated in 1928, and has served as the basis for most local ordinances and state laws in this field ever since.

Laws and practices recommended to the states which are already in effect in Minnesota include making it illegal for a person to drive who has more than a specified level of alcohol in his blood (0.10 per cent in Minnesota); interstate action against the license of any driver convicted of driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs; allowing for impoundment of the motor vehicle license plates of a vehicle owned by a person convicted of driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs; and providing for suspended sentences in DWI and drug convictions where treatment rather than traditional penalties are found to be feasible.

Other recommendations include a ban on walking along highways by pedestrians who are intoxicated or under the influence of drugs; measures for identifying drivers who suffer impairing mental or physical disabilities and for determining whether they should continue to drive; and abolition of the defense of "contributory negligence" in liability cases, in favor of a rule of "comparative negligence."

American Food Brightens Japan Holiday Fare

A letter from a retired U.S. Navy captain residing in Japan reveals that the good will generated there last April by the Mid-America food festival spearheaded by Minnesota's food industry has had a beneficial chain reaction lasting into the current holidays.

Hundreds of "forgotten Japanese"—orphans and senior citizens—have been and are enjoying American delicacies and supplements to their meager ration, as a gift from Mid-America food producers and processors that participated in the trade mission.

"I pass on to you and the donors of all these foods the very grateful thanks of all who partook of them and I wish you the very best for the holidays and the New Year," W. J. Young, Virginia port authority director for the Far East wrote M. C. Combs, director of the marketing services division of the Minnesota deaprtment of agriculture.

Young's letter reported that two huge hams donated by a Minnesota firm provided a special taste and dietary treat on the Japanese Thanksgiving, November 23, for 200 residents of an old folks home in Yokosuka. He noted, "they'd never tasted roast pork before in their lives."

Director Combs was chairman of the 12-state Mid-America committee of state officials for the April trade mission. The committee won ready acceptance from festival exhibitors at the close of the show to donate the more than 1-million yen worth of frozen, canned and processed foods displayed to worthy Japanese charities.

Food donated to the senior citizens home in Yokosuka, Boys Town at Kobe and to the Stella Marie Catholic Sisters at Hayama included turkeys, pork, ham, bacon, cake mixes, wieners, sausages, canned vegetables and fruits and popcorn. Minnesota donors included Metro meat packing, Norbest turkey growers, the Pillsbury company, King foods and Butter Kernel products.

This gesture also triggered additional donations by the U.S. officers wives club at the Yokoska naval base to the senior citizens home in Yokosuka during the Christmas season, including foods and traditional refreshments for a gala New Year's party.

Ask Farmers To Comply With Safety Standards

Advisory committee on safety in agriculture, at its initial meeting in Washington heard an appeal for farmers' voluntary compliance with standards of the labor department's new occupational safety and health administration (OSHA).

Chain Robbins, OSHA deputy assistant secretary-administrator, told the panel at a meeting in the department of agriculture that "the mere presence of our standards cannot do the job alone in providing farm employees a safe and healthful workplace."

"It is most important that farm employers fully understand the standards, and work voluntarily to help implement them," Robbins said. "The task of protecting workers is so vast that only this sort of voluntary compliance can help us get the job done."

Robbins cited the latest estimates from the National Safety Council that agriculture, with only five per cent of the nation's work force, had the third highest fatality rate of all industries—67 per 100,000 employees.

He also reported reasearch on the effect of pesticides on farm workers' health is under study at the national institute for occupational safety and health, OSHA's sister agency in the department of health, education and welfare.

Robbins also noted that the department of labor had placed a high priority on agricultural safety and is forming a safety advisory committee for agriculture to assist in this effort and on farm safety standards developments.

Robbins reemphasized the department of labor's intent to coordinate with the department of agriculture in any standards-setting activity.

Gerald Scannell, acting director of the OSHA office of standards, told the advisory committee that "we are very concerned about occupational injuries and illness on farms, and we intend with new and improved standards to ultimately reduce their toll."

Scannell said that last year, according to National Safety Council figures, 2,400 farm workers died in job accidents and 160,000 suffered disabling injuries.

The advisory committee was established recently by Secretary of Agriculture Earl J. Butz. The initial meeting was opened by J. Phil Campbell, under-secretary of agriculture. Dr. Lloyd Davis, director of agriculture's science and engineering staff, presided.

Forest Industry Concerned About Supply Of Wood

American Forest institute, in a report on the state of the nation's forests, says that with government projections of a doubling of our forest product needs in less than 30 years hence, it is time to take a close look at our "wood box."

With one-third of our forest lands already set aside for special uses such as wilderness, parks or other classifications restricting productive timber management, the remaining 510 million acres of "commercial" forests must be scientifically managed in order to meet the future needs of our people for wood and wood products.

The report indicates that we are still growing about as much wood each year as we consume and points out that that is good enough for now, but not good enough for the future.

Even without further losses of commercial forest land base, the per capita figure will drop from 2.5 acres to 1.9 by the year 2000 because of population growth. It is obvious that if we want to avoid an expensive shortage of paper and 2 x 4's, we will have to grow more wood on at least the same land base.

The forest products industry, which owns only 13 per cent of the commercial forests (governements own 142 million acres or 28 per cent) provides the raw material for more than one-third of the products we use. They claim they are able to do this through the practice of intensive forest management. Like the expert gardener they obtain superior crops and grow more timber than is harvested.

Industry has proved that the tree yield can be increased and sees no reason why its improved practices should not be applied to all lands growing trees for harvest. Foresters estimate we could triple our rate of tree growth and at the same time improve the health of the forest. This includes a reduction in annual losses due to insects and disease estimated at 2.4 billion cubic feet of wood a year. Better management also includes putting idle acres to work through planting on a broad scale.

The report indicates that the U. S. forest service is fully capable of increasing the growth rate of national forests, but that Congress has not provided the necessary funds to practice the high level of management achieved on industrial lands. It is reported that in the beginning of this decade some 18 million acres of federally owned land needed planting or were in need of improvement work.

A continuing threat to the proper management of federal lands is the loss of productive forests to the wilderness program. There are 10.4 million acres of land now classified as wilderness. More than 56 million additional acres are being sought by preservationists. Wilderness management, or lack of it, is a major concern to those who abhor waste, as millions of acres of timberlands are left vulnerable to insects, disease and fire.

Altogether the report by the American Forest institute appears to deserve special attention by the American people. A reexamination of land use priorities and more careful attention to improved husbandry of this vital resource grows more essential every day.

Unemployment Benefits Will Be Extended

Qualified unemployed Minnesotans who have exhausted their unemployment compensation benefits may be eligible for additional benefits when the extended benefits law becomes effective on a national basis beginning the week of January 2. Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of manpower services announced today.

Commissioner Cushing said he had received word from Secretary of Labor Hodgson that emergency benefits will be triggered on a national basis because the seasonally adjusted insured unemployment rate nationally has exceeded 4.5 per cent for three consecutive months. The rates were: September, 4.8; October, 4.8; and November, 4.6 per cent.

Approximately 40,000 Minnesotans exhausted their unemployment benefits during 1971, Commissioner Cushing said. Many of these will be eligible for additional benefits under the federal-state program which was authorized by Congress in August, 1970, to become effective after January 1, 1972, and authorized for the state of Minnesota by the 1971 legislative session.

Those eligible for additional benefits under the federal extended unemployment insurance program are those who have exhausted their regular benefits and cannot establish rights to other unemployment insurance, and whose benefit year will not expire prior to January 2, 1972.

Claimants who feel they are eligible should contact the same office with which their original claim was filed, Cushing said. Persons who have moved should contact the nearest state employment service office or unemployment insurance claims center of the Minnesota department of manpower services. This also applies to persons living in Minnesota whose claims for unemployment insurance were filed against other states.

"When you come to claim extended benefits, you should bring your identification booklet and you must have your Social Security card," Cushing said. "Eligibility for payment begins the week in which filing is made so it will be to your advantage to file your claim as soon as possible after January 2."

Federal-state extended benefits will be paid at the same weekly rate as the regular claim and will continue until a qualified claimant has found a job or received additional payments equal to 50 per cent of the total amount of his previous claim or the program is ended.

Minnesota paid extended benefits March 21 through August 3, 1971, under the state law which was signed March 18 by Governor Wendell R. Anderson. Under that program, 10,100 Minnesotans received $7,545,000 in extended benefits with the payments being made on a 50-50 basis from state and federal funds maintained solely by employers' contributions.

Both the state and federal programs are "triggered" when unemployment among persons eligible for unemployment insurance benefits reaches a critical level and remains at that level for a specified period of time. In Minnesota, the program remained in effect until the state insured unemployment rate averaged less than four per cent over a 13-week period. Similarly, it became effective after the state rate had exceeded four per cent over a 13-week period.

The federal-state program, which also is funded 50-50 by state and federal funds maintained by employers' contributions, will remain in effect until the national insured unemployment rate falls below 4.5 per cent for three consecutive months.

Minnesota's highest point total during the 1970-71 basketball season was in its 104-98 win against Wisconsin.

FINALISTS for the title of Sno-Fest queen at Red Lake Falls were selected at an audition and interview session Wednesday evening at Washington elementary school in Red Lake Falls. The girls will compete in talent division during the annual Sno-Fest with the winner to be selected on the basis of popular vote. Left to right are Debbie Reopelle, Bonnie Schmitz, Patricia Miller, Michelle Thibert, Linda Stephens and alternate Mary Moran. There were 10 candidates in the preliminary event judged by four judges from Thief River Falls.

EDMONDS AND CURLEY, a comedy team that has appeared on late-night-television variety shows and in numerous nightclubs, will be featured at one of two convocations to be held at Northland state junior college this week. Edmonds and Curley will appear tomorrow (Tuesday) at 10 a.m. On Wednesday at 10 a.m. the Walthens family acrobatic team will perform. The team is from Belgium and has appeared throughout the United States and Europe. Both programs are sponsored by the University of Minnesota program service. The public is invited to attend both convocations.

Hospital Journal Recommends Diet Changes

Fat-modified diets for all hospital patients will be encouraged in the selective cycle menus published in "Hospitals, Journal of the American Hospital Association", starting this month.

The change in the hospital journal's policy is based in part on a report of the inter-society commission for heart disease resources (ICHD) which made three recommendations aimed at preventing heart disease: changes in the American diet, elimination of cigarette smoking, and pharmacological control of elevated blood pressure. The dietary changes include adjustment of caloric intake, reduction of dietary cholesterol, and substantial reduction of saturated fat.

The selective cycle menus have been a regular feature of "Hospitals, J.A.H.A.", since 1957. Recognizing that there is a difference of opinion concerning the importance of diet in connection with heart disease, the ICHD suggests that at times public health decisions must be made on the basis of incomplete evidence, and recommends that these "reasonable and safe changes" be implemented promptly.

The ICHD represents 29 leading medical, nursing and allied health organizations, including the AHA, and includes more than 100 physicians, experts in the area of cardiovascular disease.

The ICHD report calls on all sectors of the public health and medical community to develop a comprehensive and sustained public and professional nutrition education program around these recommendations.

Pork Producers Reduce Hogs To Raise Price

Minnesota pork producers are continuing to reduce their hog inventories to bolster prices that sagged during the past year to the lowest levels in seven years due mainly to national over-production, Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald reported today.

The December 1, 1971, hog inventory compiled by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture revealed the state's pork industry had reduced its inventory by 148,000 hogs, comparing to December 1, 1970.

Minnesota's hog population December 1, 1971, was estimated at 3,544,000 and represented a reduction of 474,000 animals during the previous three months by marketing.

Commissioner Wefald said the reduction program has had an encouraging effect on hog prices. The average received by Minnesota hog farmers last December 15 was $19.60 per 100 pounds, up 80 cents from a month earlier and $4.90 higher than a year earlier. He pointed out that the December price is still well below the averages for 1965, 1966 and 1969.

Minnesota's 1971 pig crop is estimated at 5,945,000, a decrease of 157,000 from the prior year. This state ranks fifth in total pigs and hogs behind Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri, respectively.

Also fifth in breeding hog inventory, with 514,000 or 29,000 less than a year earlier, Minnesota producers have indicated intentions to farrow pigs from 153,000 sows during the current December-February quarter and will step up that pig production to 255,000 sows in the March-May, 1972 quarter. Farrowing intentions represent a five per cent reduction from a year ago, compared with national average cutback of 10 per cent.

Next week, Jan. 18-25, is Pork Week in Minnesota, officially proclaimed by Governor Wendell R. Anderson to help promote increased purchase and use of the wide variety of nutritional pork products by Minnesota consumers.

House Endorses Hibbing Project

Minnesota House of Representative Natural Resources, sub-committee on Wildlife Management has endorsed a pilot project in Hibbing for developing total resource forest management.

The technique, created by Department of Natural Resource foresters and game specialists allows the identification of key resources through a series of transparent overlays. This in turn enables Department officials to visualize distribution of critical resources and prepare a complete and coordinated management plan.

The area studied consists of 51,500 acres of state land within the Side Lake Ranger District; 35,000 of these acres are found within the Sturgeon Lake and Washington State Forests. Officials from the U.S. Forest Service and St. Louis County, who also manage land in the study area, were consulted on the project.

Department forestry and game officials say that the pilot project is designed to coordinate the efforts of the divisions within the Department toward a more unified management approach.

This method of planning will insure that timber sales are planned with consideration of game habitat needs and will be designed to protect critical wildlife areas. Both long and short range projects will be specifically designed to improve wildlife habitat as well as to continue production of other forest products.

The procedures developed in the pilot project will soon be applied to other areas of the state.

Tell Dangers Of Bald Tires

Those "thrills of a lifetime" experienced by skiers swishing down the ski slope will also be felt by motorists driving on bald ties in winter weather.

"Safety experts estimate even in good weather nearly one third of the cars on the highway have one or more bald tiers," says Ross R. Ormsby, chairman of the tire industry safety council. "If this figure holds true for winter weather and its related increase in driving hazards, a lot of motorists are asking for trouble."

Council advises drivers that the coming season is no time to economize by continuing on bald or worn tires until next spring. Any tire worn to 1-16 inch or less in two or more adjacent tread grooves should be immediately discarded and replaced, and when feasible with a regular snow tire.

Bald tires in snow or ice conditions at the critical temperature of 32 degrees offer no tracion, and thus starting and stopping ability are practically nil. Even if the motorist can get his car out of the driveway, he won't be driving down the road, he'll be skiing.

The dangers of driving on ice and snow should be obvious to all motorists. Bearing this in mind, consider some of the findings of automotive experts at the General Motors proving grounds in Milford, Mich. Cars and new tires, traveling at 45 miles per hour on wet "good" pavement, had a stopping distance of 100 feet. When tires worn to 1-16 of an inch were placed on the same car and driven under identical conditions the stopping distance increased to 140 feet.

Under conditions described as wet and "slippery" pavement, cars with new tires traveling at 45 miles per hour had a stopping distance of 225 feet. Under the same slippery conditions, cars with worn tires (1-16 inch or less) achieved a stopping distance of 450 feet—twice the distance. Imagine what the distance might be if temperature had been 32 degrees, and the road was covered with ice instead of water.

"The advantages of winter-type tires with sufficient tread depth are obvious," says Ormsby. "Motorists everywhere must realize that to improve highway safety during perilous winter driving months they must give as much care and maintenance to their tires as they do to the rest of the car."

USDA Reveals Food Costs For Children

If you have two elementary school children in your family and your spending for food falls in line with the U.S. department of agriculture's moderate-cost plan, you are probably spending about $2,100 a year for food. Slightly less than half of this is for the children. At current food prices, you will spend about $8,900 for a boy and $8,300 for a girl from infancy to age 18.

As far as food costs are concerned, children are definitely cheaper by the dozen. In a six - or - more - person family, you can subtract 10 per cent per person as compared to the per - person food costs of a family consisting of a mother, father and two children. Food costs per person in large families are lowered by savings gained through buying and cooking in large quantities.

Even so, to feed four children on a moderate food budget from infancy to 18 years would cost between $30,000 and $32,000—at current prices. This does not take into account any rise in food prices, or candy bars and ice cream cones purchased by each child away from home. Nor does it take into account the high cost of providing snacks and occasional meals for his friends. And this estimate depends upon the family's following a moderate-cost food plan for the first 18 years of each child's life.

When the additional costs for food away from home and meals and snacks furnished the child's friends are taken into account, food expenses associated with each child will be higher than $8,900 for a boy or $8,300 for a girl. For most families, it is fortunate this cost comes on a pay - as - you - go basis.

If you are curious, here is a table from which you can judge weekly food costs per child under lost - cost, moderate - cost, and liberal - cost food buying plans:

A CHILD'S PORTION OF THE WEEKLY FOOD BILL (1)

Sex-age group	Low-cost plan	Moderate-cost plan	Liberal-cost plan
	Dollars
Children, under 1 year (2)	3.60	4.60	5.10
1-3 years	4.60	5.80	7.00
3-6 years	5.50	7.10	8.50
6-9 years	6.80	8.60	10.80
Girls, 9-12 years	7.70	9.90	11.60
12-15 years	8.50	11.00	13.30
15-20 years	8.70	10.90	13.00
Boys, 9-12 years	7.90	10.10	12.20
12-15 years	9.20	12.10	14.40
15-20 years	10.70	13.50	16.30

(1) Based on average prices, June 1971. Estimates were computed from quantities in food plans published in "Family Economics Review," October 1964. The costs of the food plans were first estimated by using the average price per pound of each food group paid by urban survey families at three selected income levels in 1965. These prices were adjusted to current levels by use of "Retail Food Prices by Cities" released periodically by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

(2) Costs given are for individuals in 4-person families. For individuals in other size families, the following adjustments are suggested: 1-person—add 20 per cent; 2-person—add 10 per cent; 3-person—add 5 per cent; 5-person—subtract 5 per cent; 6-or-more person—subtract 10 per cent.

Family economic position is one of the main factors in determining how much will be spent for a child's food. Children's food expenses at various economic levels can be gauged by using the USDA food plans. The food plans are guides for the quantities of food needed for individuals of specified age and sex. Plans are available at four levels—economy, low-cost, moderate cost, and liberal.

Both the economy and low-cost plans recommend specific amounts of food from 11 food groups that provide nutritionally adequate diets for families on limited budgets. The moderate-cost plan lists larger quantities of milk, meat, fruit and vegetables. In addition, it provides for a few higher-priced commodities—such as fresh products purchased out of season, and convenience foods. The liberal plan suggests slightly larger quantities and permits more expensive choices within the food groups.

Level of food spending is affected by income and size of family. For example, the food expenditures in a two-child family with a net income of $8,000 would probably be in line with the moderate-cost plan. Add two more children to the same family, however, and food spending per child would fall in the low-cost category.

Food costs per child increase as the child grows older. If one of the two children is under a year old, the weekly food bill for the family would be about $35. Under the moderate food plan, the cost of feeding an infant is roughly $4.60 per week—or about $240 a year.

The food needs of young boys and girls grow at the same rate until about 9 years. Then a gap in their eating patterns emerges. The June 1971 estimates per week are $11 for a girl and $13.50 for a boy between the ages of 12 and 15. These costs refer to 21 meals a week prepared at home or carried from home in packed lunches.

Using yearly price changes measured by the Consumer Price Index, it's possible to estimate the cost of feeding a child of any age during any one year. Suppose, for example, there's a 9-year-old boy in a four-person family that spends at the moderate food plan level. At June 1971 prices, his annual food bill would be $525. But in 1960—due to lower food prices—the cost would have been roughly $400.

Train Injures Three In Car At Greenbush

Three passengers were injured, one seriously, when a car driven by Walter Lunsetter of Gatzke was struck by a Burlington Northern freight train on the highway 11 crossing in Greenbush at 3:30 p.m. January 3. The car, headed east, was hit in the rear and thrown east of the tracks by the train, which was coming from the south.

Bernhard Lian of Gatzke was seriously injured, sustaining severe head injuries and a skull fracture. He was still unconscious last Tuesday afternoon, Dr. L. H. Kiefstad reported.

Marvin Olafson, also of Gatzke, was being taken home after having been hospitalized for a week after the accident occurred. He suffered a severe head laceration and cerebral concussion. Mrs. Walter Lunsetter suffered contusions and lacerations of the head, but was treated and discharged the same day of the accident. Lunsetter was uninjured.

PROMOTION and transfer of Gary R. Masog to assistant manager of the Thorp Loan & Thrift company office in Thief River Falls has been announced by Jean C. Broeren, executive vice president. Masog previously served at the firm's office in Little Falls, and prior to joining Thorp attended St. Cloud state college and served in the U.S. Army. He and his wife June have made their home in Thief River Falls. Gary is the son of Frank Masog of Little Falls.

Masons Offer Scholarships To H.S. Seniors

Public school scholarships for graduating high school seniors in Minnesota are being awarded for the tenth year by Grand Lodge of Masons of Minnesota, according to William W. Widstrand, grand master, Hibbing.

The deadline for accepting applications through Minnesota high schools has been set for Feb. 1, 1972, with presentation of award checks scheduled during the Grand Lodge annual meeting at St. Paul, April 20-21.

Two awards of $500 will be made to the top ranking senior boy and senior girl for further study at a trade or vocational-technical school, college or university. Six awards of $250 each will also be made.

Minnesota Masons, and local Masonic lodges, adopted the public school scholarship program to emphasize the unique privileges and benefits of the public school system of the United States in improving the American way of life.

"Citizens living in a democracy such as ours, as free men and women, must be well-informed to exercise their rights intelligently and perform their responsibilities for the well-being of the nation and mankind," Widstrand said.

Senior boys and girls in any Minnesota public high school may ask their principal or counsellor for an application form. Officers of local Masonic lodges will assist where necessary. A local screening committee will process applications and forward the local winners to the Grand Lodge Scholarship Committee, Masonic Temple, 130 North Smith Avenue, St. Paul, Minn. 55102.

Income Limit Raised For FHA Housing Loans

Rural housing loans through the Farmers Home administration may now be made to families with adjusted annual income of $9,500 or less. This represents an upward adjustment from the previous limitation.

Loren D. Luschen, Pennington county FHA supervisor, states that other eligibility requirements for rural housing loans have not been changed.

"Basic objective of the rural housing program administered by the Farmers Home administration is to assist deserving families of low to moderate incomes with adequate housing," Luschen said. "In addition to other eligibility requirements, the family must be unable to obtain the necessary credit from another source."

Additional information concerning the rural housing program may be obtained at the FHA office located at the county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

The rate of increase in fees during 1969, for most of the procedures studied, was quite a bit less than the rise reported the previous year.

Jacobson Named To Study Group In State League

Two municipal officials from this area have been named to serve on legislative study committees of the League of Minnesota Municipalities by Don O. Kost, league president and mayor of Hutchinson.

The officials are Dr. A. E. Jacobson, mayor, Thief River Falls, member of the public safety committee; and William E. Fahey, former clerk-treasurer, Thief River Falls, member of the utility regulation committee.

"League legislative committees develop policy on behalf of member municipalities throughout the state," President Kost said. "While the majority of policies will be aimed at league activity in the 1973 legislative session, others may forcus on federal legislation or on improving municipal government in general," Kost said.

Policies developed by the committees ultimately will be considered by league membership as a whole—including officials of more than 700 municipalities—at the league legislative conference on June 16, 1972, in Rochester.

This year, the league will have nine legislative study committees with a wide variety of assignments. They include:

Local government structure, to make recommendations concerning what functional responsibilities should be assigned to counties and municipalities, and how the legal structure and powers of local governments should be modified to more effectively meet the increasing demands placed upon them;

Personnel administration and pensions committee, to make recommendations on modification of existing laws governing local civil service and merit systems, veterans' preference, special and general pension plans and related matters;

Planning and development committee, to make recommendations on any new or existing law pertaining to planning and development, including the Minnesota municipal commission law and housing and development programs;

Public employee labor relations committee, to make recommendations concerning desirable modifications in the existing public employee labor relations law and bargaining procedures;

Public safety committee, to make recommendations to improve police and fire protection, including intergovernmental cooperation in public safety services and the effect of existing and proposed mandatory police training;

Revenues and property tax administration committee, to make recommendations on any tax or revenue subject matter, including improvement of property tax administration;

Utility regulation committee, to make recommendations concerning the need for regulating electric and gas utilities on a statewide or regional basis and how such regulation can best be accomplished;

Welfare and health care committee, to make recommendations on federal and state welfare and health care legislation and on the administration of these programs as they affect local units of government;

General legislation committee; to make recommendations on miscellaneous matters not within the purview of other study committees.

The League of Minnesota Municipalities is the official cooperative organization of Minnesota cities and villages.

Red Lake Board Met On Monday

Red Lake county board of commissioners held their first meeting of 1972 last Monday. The new board was organized with Adrian Brule of Red Lake Falls elected chairman and Arnold Person of Oklee elected vice chairman.

Meetings will continue the second and fourth Monday of each month at 10 a.m. The Red Lake Falls Gazette was selected as official county newspaper for 1972.

County Board Given Redistricting Plan

Pennington county commissioners discussed county salaries for about four hours Monday afternoon and then received a proposal for study of county redistricting. The resolution on redistricting was introduced by Glenn Tasa of Trail, commissioner from the fifth district, and seconded by Odin Hanson, commissioner from the first district.

Commissioner Donald L. Olson of the second district, chairman of the board for 1972, introduced an amendment which called for presentation to the city council and others interested and the amendment was adopted unanimously. Resolution as amended was passed with commissioners Tasa, Hanson and Carl Anderson of the third district voting in favor. Commissioners Olson and Otto Stenberg of the fourth district abstained from the roll call vote since they had not previously seen the proposal.

The resolution calls for study of a plan dividing Rocksbury township, now in the fifth district, and adding the west part to the third district, thereby causing the third district to adjoin the second district in Thief River Falls. The Red Lake river has been suggested as the dividing line for Rocksbury township.

It also proposes that Star township be transferred from district one to district five, and that divided portions of the second and fourth districts be added to the first, third and fifth districts to give each about 20 per cent of the county population. It was stated that this would equalize the work load for the commissioners.

Legality of the proposal has not been determined at this time.

Redistricting of the county became an issue again recently when a petition requesting consideration of redistricting was presented to the county board by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce board of directors. That petition made no recommendations on how redistricting should be accomplished, but call attention to inequities in population of the five commissioner districts.

At the present time, approximately 60 per cent of the Pennington county population resides in Thief River Falls which has two of the five commissioner districts.

At the Monday meeting called primarily to discuss county salaries, all county personnel was taken into consideration, including elected officials, their assistants and highway department and other employees.

The board also adopted a resolution in support of activity by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) in Oklee to coordinate senior citizen housing units in a seven-county area for the purpose of obtaining rent supplement funds from the federal government.

Employment Decreased Here In December

Employment in Thief River Falls showed a slight decrease of 233 workers for a December total of 5,645 workers employed, according to J. K. Stadum, manager of the local office of the Minnesota department of manpower services.

Seasonal factors contributed to the fluctuations that developed in those categories which showed a loss in the month. These included finance, manufacturing, transportation and construction.

Stadum said it is anticipated that substantial employment gains will be made during 1972. Most of the activities that showed a decline will be in full scale operations by March, which will bring total employment to nearly 6,000 individuals.

In statistics compiled for December, the department said that employees in wholesale trade increase by one, finance employees decreased by four, manufacturing decreased by 519, transportation decreased by 13, service industries increased by 24, retail trade increased by 135, construction decreased by 39, and government employees increased by 182.

Stadum said that demand for workers has been very light and that employer estimates indicate very little change for the next few months.

Marijuana Found In Woman's Coat

Aside from an incident involving marijuana, last week was relatively uneventful for Thief River Falls police, a spokesman for the department reported, with only one traffic accident reported during the week.

The marijuana incident began in the bowling alley when a female bowler left the place at about 5:30 p.m. Sunday, accidently taking the wrong coat. After arriving home she reached into the coat pocket for a pack of cigarettes and instead discovered what the police said was marijuana. She immediately turned the substance over to the police, who are investigating.

The same police department spokesman revealed that three other young people had recently been charged with possession of marijuana, two of them young men who had been stopped for a traffic violation and the other a young woman who forgot her purse, which was later found and discovered to contain what is believed to be marijuana.

Marilyn Nelson of Goodridge reported that her purse and billfold had been taken from her locker at Lincoln high school. The billfold was returned after it was found by a custodian. The purse is still missing. A small cash loss was reported.

On Monday at noon a car driven by Roseann E. Gallher, Thief River Falls, was at-

Immunization Clinic Sunday

Public immunization clinic will be held in the Thief River Falls city auditorium Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The vaccinations will be administered at a minimal charge of 25 cents each.

Vaccinations will include diphtheria-whooping cough-tetanus boosters for children from one to six years, diphtheria-tetanus boosters for children of seven and above including adults of any age, oral polio vaccine for children through age 19, and German measles and hard red measles for children from one through 12.

Ask Voluntary Curtailment Of Hospital Visits

Voluntary curtailment of visiting at Northwestern hospital has been requested by Norman Peterson, administrator, and Dr. Arnold Berg, chief of staff.

Peterson and Dr. Berg request that persons having illness or suspecting that they are becoming ill refrain from visiting patients at the hospital.

While the hospital does not have a high incidence of patients with flu or respiratory ailments, an indication of sickness in the community is that approximately 370 students in the local public schools are absent today.

A hurried check this morning indicated 109 absent at Franklin junior high school, 93 at Lincoln senior high school, 38 at Northrop elementary, 50 at Knox elementary, 30 at Washington elementary and 50 at Mark Twain elementary. Several schools indicated that attendance was up this week in comparison with a week ago.

Marshall County Central School Taxes Reduced

Taxpayers in Marshall County Central school district will have a 28 per cent reduction in mill rate on agricultural land for the coming year, according to R. Gene Busch, superintendent of schools.

Preliminary figures furnished by Charles Cheney, Marshall county auditor, indicated a drop of 57 mills this year from 198 in 1971 to 141 in 1972 for agricultural land. Non-agricultural land will drop from 223 mills to 116 mills this year.

In 1971 the Marshall County Central board asked for $531,814 from the local taxpayer to support the district's program. This year the board has certified a request for only $411,943 to the county auditor.

Three primary reasons were given by Supt. Busch for the reduction. He cited property tax relief passed by the legislature and signed by the governor, an increase in the assessed valuation of the school district, and anticipated tuition from other school districts which have increased substantially.

No Cross-Country Set For Snowmobile Races

HIGH POWERED snowmobiles will be racing Saturday and Sunday, February 12 and 13, at the fifth annual States-Dominion snowmobile races in Thief River Falls. Oval track races for women and juniors will be held Saturday with stock and modified races for men on Sunday. The races are sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees with James Pampuch as chairman.

Replacement of cross-country racing with oval track racing for juniors and women will be a major change in format for the 5th annual States - Dominion snowmobile races to be held February 12 and 13 in Thief River Falls. All activity will take place at the Pennington county fairgrounds, according to James Pampuch, general chairman of the project for the sponsoring Thief River Falls Jaycees.

Registration for juniors and women on Saturday, February 12, will be held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. at the fairgrounds. Driver briefing will be held at 11:30 a.m. and the oval races will get underway at noon. Registration fee will be $15 per class.

Juniors 12 and 13 years of age will be driving machines with engines up to 250cc in size. Class two juniors will be 14 and 15 years old with machines limited to 295cc or smaller. Class three juniors, age 14 and 15, can race machines from 296 to 345cc.

Women's races include Class I for 0-250cc machines, Class II for 251-295cc, Class III for 296-345cc, Class IV for 346-400cc and a modified class for 0-295cc machines.

Since the races here are sanctioned by the United States Snowmobile association (USSA), all USSA rules and regulations will be followed. All drivers must be members of the USSA for 1972.

Men's registration will be held from 8 to 10 a.m. on Sunday, February 13, with driver briefing at 10:15 a.m. and oval track racing beginning at 11 a.m. Trophies will be awarded to the first three places in each class and 100 per cent of entry fees will be returned in cash.

Men's stock classes will include Class A for 0-250cc machines, Class B for 251-295cc units, Class C for 296-345cc snowmobiles and Class D for 346-400cc engines. Modified classes include Class I for 0-295cc, Class II for 296-340cc, Class III for 241-440cc, Class IV for 441-650cc and Class V for 651-800cc. Entry fees are $15 in the stock classes and $20 in the modified classes.

In addition to the racing for juniors, women and men, there will be Kitty Kat exhibitions for youngsters on both days. Concessions will be open both days at the 4-H club building and the city

TRF Foundation Has Student Loan Funds

William LaFave was reelected president of the Thief River Falls foundation at the annual meeting of the board of directors recently in Thief River Falls. The foundation is a non-profit corporation which makes loans to students for post high school education.

Randall Noper was reelected vice president and Ron Hanson, treasurer of First Federal Savings and Loan association, was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Orville Hanson. Frank Tunberg and Robert Lund were reelected to five-year terms on the board of directors.

Scholarships totaling $400 were approved by the board with $200 to be granted to students at Northland state junior college and $200 to students at the area vocational-technical school. A donation of $25 was also granted to the revolving fund for short-term student loans at Northland.

Annual report of the foundation shows assets of $44,189 which include $996 in checking account, $24,488 in savings accounts and time deposits, and $18,705 in loans receivable. The $18,705 in loans receivable was in the form of 22 loans currently held by students. There were six new loans made during the year and seven loans were paid in full during the period.

Cash receipts for the year were $9,340 and cash disbursements were $8,794. Receipts included $4,052 in principal payments, $1,982 in interest on loans and savings, $200 in donations and $3,105 in transfers from savings. Disbursements included $6,000 in loan advances, $2,048 in transfers to savings, $346 in operating expenses and $400 in junior college and vocational-technical school scholarships.

Officers of the foundation emphasized that approximately $25,000 is available for loan to students in post high school education, including colleges, trade schools or vocational schools. Interest is charged at the rate of four per cent beginning at the time the loan is made with repayment deferred until the student leaves school.

President LaFave also encouraged contributions to the foundation in the form of donations, bequests and memorials. Persons interested in assisting students through the foundation may contact Ron Hanson at Frist Federal Savings and Loan association.

LHS Art Show To Open Friday At Local Bank

Student art show by Lincoln senior high school students will open Friday at Northern state bank, according to Donald Lerud, art instructor. Work to be exhibited was done by students during the first semester.

Included in the show will be drawings, paintings, sculpture, prints, textiles and jewelry. About 50 items have been selected for display at the exhibit which will be at the bank for at least two weeks.

A spring exhibit will be held at the Union state bank in April.

March Of Dimes Drive To Start

"Today's mothers can take steps this month to protect the good health of tomorrow's children," says Mrs. Richard Mabey, Mothers' March chairman for the annual March of Dimes appeal. A pass-the-envelope appeal will be started door to door in Thief River Falls this week.

"By your support, you can help finance research into causes and prevention of birth defects. There are more than 250,000 babies born each year with birth defects in this country," Mrs. Mabey said.

"The January drive asks your help in the March of Dimes work in research, medical care and health education in more than 100 birth defects centers throughout the country, including those in Duluth, Minneapolis and Rochester in our state alone."

When the envelopes have completed their rounds, they should be returned to Mrs. Richard Mabey, 420 St. Paul Ave. S., Thief River Falls, 681-3337.

'Hello Dolly' Is LHS 1972 Musical

Auditioning is now taking place for the Lincoln senior high school musical "Hello Dolly", according to David Morken, vocal music instructor at the school and director of the musical.

For the first time the musical will be scheduled for four nights this year—April 7, 8, 10 and 11 in the high school auditorium. Last year the musical was scheduled for three nights but forced to a special fourth performance by overflow crowds. About 125 students will be involved in the various phases of the musical which is a highlight of the music year at Lincoln.

Edgar Hetteen Is Elected To Safety Council

Edgar Hetten, vice president of sales for Arctic Enterprises, Inc., was elected to the board of directors of the Minnesota safety council at the annual meeting of the state safety organization today at the Hotel Lowry in St. Paul.

Hetteen will serve as an advisor on snowmobile safety. Arctic Enterprises, Inc., has recently produced a film on safe snowmobile operation.

Highlights of the year were reported by Robert L. Anderson, safety council executive vice president. In addition to traffic safety education programs (defensive driving courses and driver improvement clinics), he reported on newly-developed occupational safety training programs presented during the year, the statewide home safety inventory and the bicycle safety pilot program presented to second grade students in four St. Paul grade schools during the fall semester.

Officers elected at the annual meeting were: president-Larry F. Haeg, president, WCCO radio-television; vice president-J. C. Landen, vice president, 3M company; D. Kelly Campbell, assistant vice president, Oglebay Norton company; Roland D. Wilsey, executive vice president, Indianhead truck lines, Inc.; Dr. Tracy Barber, medical director, Geo. A. Hormel and Co.; and Donald W. Peterson, secretary, Minneapolis Gas company.

Senior Class To Hold Slave Sale

Senior class at Lincoln high school will hold a slave sale Saturday to raise funds for the annual Sno-Fest competition. All proceeds from the Sno-Fest will be contributed by the Lincoln classes to the Falls Day Activity center for the retarded.

Persons interested in purchasing the work of senior class members on the basis of 75 cents per hour are asked to call 681-4475 on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Specific students can be requested, or buyers can merely purchase a block of work time and a class member will be supplied.

King and queen of the Sno-Fest will be crowned from the class which raises the largest amount of money through its projects. Senior class candidates are John Barry and Patty Waldera. Nancy Knutson is class president.

Arctic Joins In Business Career Information Day

Arctic Enterprises, Inc., of Thief River Falls will be one of 25 companies and three government agencies participating in a "Business Career Information Day" at St. Cloud state college next Tuesday.

"We want to let students find out what they need to prepare for careers with various companies and agencies," said Leland Batdorf, assistant professor of finance management and faculty adviser for the day's activities.

From 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. the company representatives will answer questions in the Civic-Penney room and in rooms 146-147 in the Atwood memorial center. A banquet will be held at 1 p.m. in Newman center.

Career Day is sponsored by the school of business executive council, which consists of two student representatives of each of the six student organizations in the school of business.

Norma Stucy, G. Johnson United In Matrimony

Norma Joan Stucy and Gary A. Johnson, both of Goodridge, were united in holy matrimony on December 11 at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city with Rev. James Bernauer officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stucy and the groom is the son of Albert J. Johnson and the late Mrs. Albert Johnson, both of Goodridge.

Potted poinsettias decorated the church altar and the pews were marked with green velvet bows and holly berries.

Brenda Burger was organist and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Arnold Hammer, as she sang "A Time for Us" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attired in a white satin princess style floor length gown with high collar and long sleeves. Lace panels extended down the front and sides. A detachable train fell from the high waist line of the gown and identical lace trimmed the sleeves at the wrist and collar. Her veil of nylon tulle fell from a Camelot headpiece decorated with pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white chrysanthemums.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Warren Syverson of Bagley and she wore an emerald green velvet floor length gown, styled with long lantern sleeves and round neckline. Her headpiece was a gathered piece of light green tulle accented with holly leaves and red berries.

The bridesmaids were Renae Fjeld and Delores Goethe, both friends of the couple. They wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor and carried a large white chrysanthemum with long white ribbons.

Flower girl was Della Kuznia, Stephen, cousin of the bride. Her dress was identical to the bridesmaids' dresses and she carried miniature white chrysanthemums with a red rose in the middle.

Kurt Phillip, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer and wore a black tuxedo.

Best man was Glen Johnson, brother of the groom, who lives at Babbitt. Groomsmen were Bryan Wiseth and Donnie Wilkins, both of Goodridge and friends of the couple. The men of the wedding party wore black continental tuxedos with white shirts and black bow ties and their boutonnieres were white carnations.

Ushers were Dave Opdahl of this city, and Roger Blaine of Goodridge, both friends of the couple.

Ronald Stucy, brother of the bride seated the special guests at the wedding. They were Edward Stucy Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cullen Sr., grandparents of the bride.

The bride's mother chose a light blue polyester knit dress with navy blue accessories and her corsage was of white chrysanthemums and red baby roses.

The bride's personal attendant was Mrs. Ronald Phillip, sister of the groom.

The reception was held in the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Sunsdahl, sister and brother-in-law of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hovet serving as hosts and hostesses.

The three-tiered wedding cake was baked by Mrs. Henry Hovet, aunt of the bride. Each tier was separated by Grecian pillars trimmed with red roses and white wedding bells. The base of the cake was surrounded by holly leaves and red berries.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Kenneth Sanders and Mrs. Richard Sanders, sisters of the groom. The groom's cake was served by Rhonda Sanders, niece of the groom, and Thresa Cullen, cousin of the bride.

Kaye Marquis and Audrey Elg served the punch while Gwen Sunsdahl, niece of the groom, registered the guests.

Marlys Johnson, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Ray Kuznia, aunt of the bride, were in charge of the coffee servers.

Waitresses were Gail Sunsdahl, niece of the groom; Kathy Lager, friend of the couple; Lynn Cullen, cousin of the bride; and Marie Parnow, friend of the couple.

Out-of-town guests were from Minneapolis, Goodridge, Grygla, Babbitt, Bagley, Stephen, Trail, Oklee, St. Hilaire and Erie, N. D.

The newlyweds are both graduates of the Goodridge public school and the groom is employed by the Farmers Union elevator in this city.

75TH ANNIVERSARY was noted by Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Fredrickson of Plummer at their home recently. They began farming in the Plummer area in 1904 when they moved from Fertile.

Fredricksons Of Plummer Feted On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Fredrickson of Plummer observed their 75th wedding anniversary Friday with an open house at their home for friends and relatives.

Hjalmer Fredrickson, 97, and his wife Adella, 91, came to the Thief River Falls area along with the Soo Line railroad in 1904. He was born in Sweden and immigrated to the United States in 1892, while Mrs. Fredrickson was born in this country. They had farmed in the Fertile area before moving to the Plummer area, purchasing their present farm in 1925.

Fredrickson served as secretary-treasurer of the Plummer Cooperative Creamery for 26 years, was on the elevator board for eight years, served for many years on the board of the cooperative store and also saw service on the school board.

The family includes one son, Chester of Plummer; one grandson, Floyd Fredrickson of Thief River Falls; three granddaughters, Mrs. Loren (Gladys) Borsheim of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Vern (Merlyn) Perreault of Red Lake Falls and Mrs. Harold (Clarice) Wilcox of Fargo, N. D.; and 13 great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrickson were honored pioneer guests during the Diamond Jubilee in Thief River Falls in September.

Otter Tail Co. Total Electric Homes Increase

An additional 384 total-electric homes were connected to Otter Tail Power company's lines during 1971, according to Gary Cranston, manager of Otter Tail's lighting, heating and commercial sales department. At year end, the number of total-electric homes had grown to 3,213, Cranston said. These are homes which use electricity exclusively for heating and does not include thousands of other customers who use electricity to supplement other systems.

Of the 384 total-electric homes added in 1971, 240 were new homes with electric heating systems; 144 were older homes which were modernized. The fastest-growing type of heating system is the electric heat pump, which is a forced-air type of system for heating in the winter and cooling in the summer months.

Results of a detailed year-end survey revealed that Otter Tail's Langdon and Rugby districts led all others in number of total-electric homes added during the year. Other districts which met or exceeded their quotas during 1971 included Hallock, Devils Lake, Oakes, Milbank and Canby.

Commercial space heating installations were also impressive during 1971, Cranston said. The Otter Tail system-wide quota was exceeded by 45 per cent, with substantial gains in the Wahpeton, Fergus Falls, Oakes, Langdon, Milbank, Bemidji, Rugby, Devils Lake and Jamestown districts.

More Setaside On Wheat Acres Is Approved

Wheat farmers will be allowed to idle additional acres in return for payments under the 1972 program it was announced recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The USDA plan would increase the government's 1972 wheat program by an estimated $154 million in hopes farmers will reduce production this year. Officials said the goal is to take an additional five million acres from wheat production.

That will be land in excess of regular set-aside acres required to be idled as a basic qualification for federal program benefits. Under the plan, farmers will be allowed to idle the additional land in return for payments which, estimated from last year's average yield, would average close to $30 per acre.

The department said farmers will be paid at the rate of 94 cents per bushel of their farm's normal wheat yield for each acre. For example, if a farmer's yield was 32 bushels per acre, his payment would be $30.08 per acre.

The acreage limit will be 75 per cent of the farm's "national allotment" which is the acreage used to determine regular set-aside requirements and other benefits.

Last year wheat production in the U.S. was a record of more than 1.6 billion bushels, more than is needed this season.

Many Groups Entertain At Oakland Park

December proved to be an entertaining month for residents of the Oakland Park nursing home, as numerous individuals and groups from throughout Thief River Falls came to entertain them during the holiday season.

Month's entertainment began with a group of some 30 young people under the direction of Mrs. Richard Mosbeck presenting a musical program for the residents. Fifth graders from Knox elementary school visited the home to sing Christmas carols. They were accompanied by music teacher Jeanne Harger and teachers--Don Hejlik and Patrick Klemisch.

The Mothers Circle of Trinity Lutheran church and their children presented a luncheon program the afternoon of December 17. Mrs. Jay Borchert, vice president of the circle, was in charge of the entertainment. Later the same afternoon the Golden Age group of Trinity Lutheran church accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. Harold Peterson caroled in the halls. After supper that day Kris Lavine and a group of friends brought Christmas greetings and sang carols.

On the afternoon of December 20 the Catholic Daughters of America entertained with a program and luncheon, and provided treats for the residents. Mrs. Bill Ness was in charge of the group.

The birthdays of Thea Nygaard and Thor Bolstad were observed December 21, with a group of women from the Evangelical Covenant church assisting in serving the birthday luncheon. The "Trail Blazers" also played several musical numbers.

The next day a youth group from the Evangelical Free church put on a program under the supervision of Mrs. Martin Mosbeck. Among other groups that sang in the home during the holidays were a junior high school group, a number of young people from Our Savior's Lutheran church, and a group of scouts, who presented musical numbers and sang songs during the evening hours.

According to the Council, motor vehicle deaths took 54,800 lives; work accidents resulted in 14,200 deaths and 2.2 million disabling injuries and home accidents claimed 26,500 lives.

COLD WEATHER of last week was something which people of the area had to accept as they went about their regular activities. This included young people who normally walk to school, mailmen who kept their appointed rounds, and fuel oil deliverymen who were extra busy filling home and business storage tanks. These photos were taken Friday when temperatures dropped to the season's low of -32 degrees. That mark was broken the next day with a -39 reading.

Tax Hearing On Relief For Senior Citizens

State department of taxation and the governor's citizens council on aging are conducting a state-wide series of meetings and staff members from both agencies will be at these meetings to explain the changes in the senior citizens tax relief law and to provide training for volunteer tax helpers. The meeting in Thief River Falls will be held at the senior citizens housing next Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

The 1971 Minnesota legislature made a number of changes in the senior citizens tax relief law for homeowners and renters. These changes will increase the number of persons eligible to receive an income tax credit or refund. The total income limit was raised from $3,500 to $5,000 per year and persons reaching age 65 any time during the past year are now eligible.

Proposal Made To Up Veterans' School Benefits

Under a new proposal by the Nixon administration, a single Minnesota veteran going to school under the GI bill would receive an 8.6 per cent cost-of-living increase in monthly benefits, and veterans in on-the-job or apprenticeship training would get an additional 48 per cent in their monthly allowances.

John R. Murphy, director of the Veterans administration center at Fort Snelling, said today that under the proposal a single veteran going to school under the GI bill would receive $190 per month instead of the present $175.

For veterans engaged in on-the-job or apprenticeship training, the present $108 per month allowance would be hiked to $160 in a move to interest more employers and veterans in these types of training.

Murphy said that a large number of Minnesota veterans would be affected by the proposition, if approved. More than 35,500 Vietnam-era veterans in the state are currently using the GI bill in some form. Minnesota's veteran population totals 537,000, with Vietnam-era veterans numbering some 115,000.

These proposals and others were made by the VA in testimony in Washington, D.C., presented before the subcommittee on education and training of the House committee on veterans affairs on November 30.

The subcommittee was presented an administration-backed omnibus bill which, in addition to boosting educational allowances for veterans, would also provide cost-of-living increases approximating 8.6 per cent in allowances paid to wives, widows and children training under other VA programs.

Murphy said the proposed legislation, in addition to boosting allowances, would authorize the payment in advance of training allowances, and would extend on-the-job and apprentice training to eligible wives, widows and children, as well as extending secondary level training and correspondence training to wives and widows. The recommended bill carries an estimated first-year price tag of $175 million.

Basic monthly allowance for a single veteran has been increased by 75 per cent since the present GI bill was enacted in 1966—from $100 to $175—with matching hikes for dependents.

Washington VA officials said that a cost-of-living increase is needed in addition because "the President has been greatly concerned that rises in living costs since the last adjustment in February 1970 not tip the balance adversely against a veteran's decision to enter or continue training."

In testimony to the House subcommittee, Olney B. Owen, VA chief benefits director, said "the GI bill participation rate has shot upward by any index. In the past three years, the participation rate of Vietnam-era vetrerans, on a cumulative basis, has risen from 16 per cent to 35.2 per cent."

He said there is evidence also that veterans are entering training more quickly after discharge from military service, with the first-year participation rate rising by 25 per cent. Enrollment of veterans in on-the-job training has risen by 121 per cent in fiscal years 1969-71, from 66,000 to 146,000. Enrollment in courses below college level has risen from 330,000 to 522,000.

Since its enactment in May 1966, Owen added, approximately 2.7 million veterans and servicemen, nationally, have received education and training under the newest GI bill.

Economic Stabilization

Questions and Answers

Internal Revenue Service

Q—Are hospitals, doctors and other persons furnishing health care services subject to price controls?

A—Yes. Under price commission guidelines, physicians and other "non-institutional providers" of health care are subject to an average 2.5 per cent limitation on price increases which must be justified by increases in costs.

For institutional providers, such as hospitals and nursing homes, price increases will be permitted only when justified by allowable costs, adjusted by productivity gains and limited where appropriate by base period profit margins.

Excessive cost increases above the guidelines will not ordinarily be considered as allowable costs. These institutional providers may increase prices up to 2.5 per cent without prior approval. Allowable price increases over 2.5 per cent and up must be reported to the Internal Revenue service and the Medicare intermediary with cost justification. Any increase in excess of six per cent must be treated as an exception and filed with the Internal Revenue service.

Q—Is there a ceiling on amounts allowable as an exception to the pay board's 5.5 per cent general wage standard where the increases are necessary for the employer to attract or retain essential employees?

A—Yes. If increases above the general wage standard are deemed necessary to attract or retain essential employees in accordance with specific criteria to be established by the pay board, these increases will be allowed only up to seven per cent. Prior approval of the pay board or the Internal Revenue service is needed before a company can implement these increases.

Q—Is a wage increase which exceeds the general guideline of 5.5 per cent and which was agreed to after pay board guidelines were announced an "allowable cost," justifying a price increase?

A—No. Under these circumstances, "allowable costs" for the purpose of justifying a price increase shall not generally include wage payments, including fringe benefits, in excess of 5.5 per cent per year.

This rule does not apply to wage increases for workers making less than the minimum wage and in cases where payments are made to replenish major deficiencies in a welfare fund, which are necessary to protect the pensions of men already retired. Nor does it preclude a company from obtaining an exception by ruling if it can demonstrate gross inequity with respect to its particular situation.

Q—Are the wages and salaries of Americans who live abroad and work for U.S. companies subject to controls under the economic stabilization program?

A—No.

Q—Do retailers who are required to prenotify their price increases have to give advance notice and obtain approval of price increases at the closeout of a temporary promotional campaign?

A—No. Such changes representing a return to normal prices need not be included by the retailer in determining base prices and do not have to be prenotified to the price commission or approved in advance. However, these changes must be included in quarterly reports that firms with annual sales of $50 million or more must file with the commission.

Sales Tax Here Said Less Than In Other States

U. S. internal revenue service has come up with a wry bit of solace for tax-tired Minnesotans, according to the Minnesota Taxpayers association. It's this:

The state sales tax—despite the November 1 rate increase from three per cent to four per cent—cost the average family less in 1971 than they would have paid in 42 of the 45 sales tax states.

"Income taxpayers who itemize their deductions will find optional state sales tax tables in the instructions accompanying their 1971 federal tax forms," said Charles P. Stone, executive director of the association.

"Minnesotans may increase the listed optional deduction by five per cent because of the November 1 rate increase from three per cent to four per cent.

"A study of the optional deduction tables for all 45 sales tax states shows that, in the judgment of the internal revenue service, the Minnesota state sales tax was less burdensome to individuals and families than those in 42 of the 45 sales tax states.

"For the average family of four in Minnesota, for instance, the internal revenue service has computed $44.10 in state sales taxes paid if their income was from $5,000 to $6,000; $71.40 if their income was from $10,000 to $11,000, and $95.55 if their income was between $15,000 and $16,000.

"In only two states, Massachusetts and Vermont, were the permitted optional deductions lower. In the remaining 42 sales tax states, the federal estimates of sales taxes paid by the average family ranged upward to $163 at the $5,000-$6,000 income level, to $244 at the $10,000-$11,000 level, and to $311 at the $15,000-$16,000 level."

Palmer Vaadeland

Sacred Concert Is Sunday At Viking Church

Public is invited to attend an evagelistic sacred concert at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Viking Lutheran church. The service will be presented by Palmer E. Vaadeland of Park Rapids, who will present several vocal solo numbers and scripture and testimony, concluding with a short message from the Bible.

Rather than accept a call to serve a congregation after graduation from the seminary, Rev. Vaadeland dedicated himself to presenting these concerts. In the past services of this nature have been presented twice in Norway, in several of the Canadian provinces and throughout the great part of the United States.

Prior to conducting his ministry, Rev. Vaadeland was a member of the Concordia college concert choir. For three years he had a radio broadcast of hymns and gospel songs over a radio station at Wadena. He has also traveled as tenor soloist with the capella choir from the Lutheran Brethren Bible school and seminary at Fergus Falls.

Prayer Service For Unity Set At St. Bernard's

A world and national week of prayer for unity among all Christians, sponsored by the commission on faith and order of the National Council of churches and the Graymoor Ecumenical institute, is being observed this week.

In past years, services were held in various churches of this city. This year St. Bernard's Catholic church will hold a Sunday evening of prayer open to all fellow Christians. This service will be at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, January 23. Rev. Louis Hermansen of Trinity Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, will speak.

tempting to make a left turn at the intersection of Eighth and Dewey when her car was struck in the rear by a car driven by Michael R. Logan, East Grand Forks. There was $25 damage to the Gallher vehicle and $125 to the Logan car.

Also on Monday Tunberg Motors reported that a battery valued at $49 had been taken over the weekend from a pick-up truck parked on the firm's lot. Mrs. Betty Wellnitz reported the theft of a tape player valued at $90 from her car while it was parked in her garage.

Police also reported that after acting on a tip they recovered a tape recorder taken from Lincoln senior high school a short time ago, and also recovered two tape recorders that had not yet been reported missing. A juvenile boy will be charged in the incident, police said.

In other traffic cases during the week, Pennington county sheriff's office reported a collision between a St. Hilaire kindergarten school bus and a North Dakota automobile.

The accident happened at 12:25 p.m. Monday at the intersection of state aid highway 3 and county road 10. Charles V. Weg of Red Lake Falls was driving the school bus north on county road 10 when he saw a car driven by Otto G. Tande of Battleview, coming from the east on highway 3. Weg was unable to stop and the bus slid through the yield sign, striking the Tande vehicle on the left side.

Both Tande and his wife Evelyn, a passenger, complained of injuries. The five kindergarten students on the bus, Wendy Dobia, Glen Armstrong, Ken Jordet, Kathy Strong and Tim Kruse, were uninjured.

arena. Officials of the race have requested that snowmobilers stay off the fairgrounds track while it is being conditioned for the race between now and race time. A good track will mean faster and more competitive racing.

Other events in connection with the event include a torchlight parade on Friday evening, February 11. The snowmobile parade will proceed through the downtown area and then be converted into a 15 to 20-mile trail ride, concluding with hotdogs and hot chocolate being served. Participants in the parade will be charged 50 cents each to cover costs of refreshments.

Also on Friday night, February 11, a teenage dance will be held in the city auditorium. Name of the band which will play for the dance has not yet been announced. There is no banquet planned for the races and prizes will be awarded after the races each day.

Assisting chairman Pampuch with the event as sub-chairmen are Wallace Sparby, publicity; John Harrington, concessions; Conrad Iverson, judge; Mike Lehrer, registration; Bill Wood, torchlight parade; Glenn Porter, race program booklet; Donald Grabanski and Donald Loeb, pit crew; John Lemoureux, set-up and tear-down; and Duane Glass, admissions.

Funeral Friday At Brooks For Mrs. J. D. Davis

Mrs. Josephine Dondoneau Davis, 83, of Brooks died Monday evening at Hillcrest nursing home in Red Lake Falls where she had been a resident for the past several months.

The liturgy of the funeral will be offered for Mrs. Josephine Dondoneau Davis at 10:30 a.m. Friday at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Brooks with the Rev. Henry Carriere officiating. Interment will be in St. Anthony's cemetery at Terrebonne.

Relatives and friends may call at the Petterson Funeral home at Red Lake Falls beginning Thursday at 3 p.m. with prayers at 8 p.m. Thursday from the funeral home in Red Lake Falls.

Mrs. Josephine Davis was born June 2, 1888, at Marquette, Mich. As a child she came with her parents, the late Alfred and Mary Remmear, to Minnesota. The former Josephine Remmear married Joseph Dondoneau in 1918 at Terrebonne in rural Red Lake Falls. He died in 1928. On June 17, 1942, at Brooks she married Jesse Davis, who preceded her in death in 1957. For the last 11 years she had lived with her daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Sather in St. Paul. She moved to Hillcrest nursing home in November.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Lloyd (Louise) Sather, St. Paul; one step-son, Howard Davis, Minneapolis; seven stepdaughters: Mrs. Lulu Chester, Milwaukeee, Wis.; Mrs. Earl (Agnes) Spears, St. Paul; Mrs. Florence Carol, St. Paul; Mrs. Rosalba Howlette, Minneapolis; Mrs. Clifford (Lena) Lafaivre, Moorhead; Mrs. Felix (Viola) Lafaivre, Crookston; and Mrs. Roseanna Cloutier, Minneapolis. She is also survived by a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by seven children and four stepsons.

Mrs. C. Ornquist Dies Tuesday; Rites Saturday

Mrs. Christine Ornquist, 83, formerly a resident of Strathcona, died Tuesday at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. She had been a resident of a Thief River Falls nursing home for the past several years.

Funeral services for Mrs. Christine Ornquist will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday at Gustav Adolph Lutheran church at Strathcona with the Rev. Phil Lathrop officiating. Interment will be in the Greenwood cemetery at Strathcona.

Relatives and friends may call at the Collins Funeral home in Middle River after 2 p.m. Friday. A complete obituary will appear in the Monday edition of the Times.

C. Herbert Jung Dies At 81 In Calif. Home

C. Herbert Jung, former resident of Thief River Falls and a former partner in the Jung bakery in this city died Monday at his home in Buena Park, Calif., at the age of 81.

Funeral services for C. Herbert Jung will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Green Funeral chapel, where the body will repose beginning at noon on Friday. Interment will be in the Greenwood cemetery. A complete obituary will be published in the Monday edition of the Times.

Gunder Olson Services Held Here Monday

Funeral services were held Monday for Gunder Olson, 95, of Kratka township, who died last Wednesday at Northwestern hospital. The Rev. Bruce Anderson officiated, and interment was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Gunder Olson was born March 11, 1876, in Satersdal, Norway, to the late Ole and Kari Gunderson. He was educated and grew to manhood there. He came to the United States at the age of 17 and lived for a short time in Idaho and at Oklee before homesteading in Kratka township in Pennington county in 1904.

In 1910 he was united in marriage in Thief River Falls to Pearl Brorby. After their marriage the couple continued to farm in Kratka township.

For the past five years Gunder Olson made his home at the Osar Johnson rest home, and since June of this year he had been a patient at the convalescent nursing care unit at Northwestern hospital. He served on the school board of District 41 for a number of years and also served on the Kratka township board.

He is survived by three daughters: Mrs. C. A. Mandt of San Francisco, Calif.; Amy Johnsrud and Mrs. Ronald (Betty) Wisniewski of Thief River Falls; one son, Olaf C. of Thief River Falls, eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. He is also survived by one brother, Ole, of Edson, Alberta, and several nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his wife, one daughter, one grandchild and two brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Arnold Hammer was the organist and soloist, and pallbearers were Gunder Loiland, Arnold Person, Wallace Tieman, Bert Johnson, Warren Wilson and Hilmer Skomedahl. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

A. H. Offerdahl Dies In Anoka; Rites Were Mon.

Alfred H. Offerdahl, 71, a former resident of this area, died at Mercy hospital in Anoka last Friday. Funeral services were held at Fair Haven Lutheran church at Fair Haven Monday, and interment was in the Fair Haven cemetery.

Alfin Offerdahl was born April 2, 1900, to the late Mr. and Mrs. Jens Offerdahl at Holt. He was married to Dollye Olson on November 4, 1924, at Stephen. The couple farmed for 12 years at Middle River and then moved to Thief River Falls, where he was a warehouse employee for Land O'Lakes. He retired in 1965 and the couple then moved to South Haven, where he was employed for a time by the Annandale creamery.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Ray (Donna) Gram and Mrs. Jerome (Frances) Jaranson, and one son, Merlyn, all of whom live in Circle Pines. He is also survived by nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Also surviving are six sisters: Mrs. Serina Engen, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Hannah Boyd, Pelican Rapids; Mrs. Ed (Emma) Rall, Washington; Mrs. Clara Ziegler, Sioux Falls, S.D.; Mrs. Adolph (Mary) Johnson and Mrs. Clifford (Minnie) Lee of Grand Forks, N.D. He was preceded in death by his parents, three brothers and one sister.

At the funeral the congregation sang "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Rock of Ages". Pallbearers were George Truenou, Walter Tolzman, Arnold Roose, R. B. Muehring, Donald Maurer and Herman Gutknecht.

Services Thurs. For Mrs. Emma Boucher, Oklee

Mrs. Emma Marie Boucher, 82, of Oklee died late Monday evening at Fosston hospital where she had been a patient for the past two weeks. The liturgy of the funeral for Mrs. Emma Boucher will be offered at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) from St. Francis Xavier Catholic church at Oklee with the Rev. Keough Patnode officiating.

Interment will be in the church cemetery. Pallbearers will be Kenneth, Michael and Leonard Boucher, Stanley Radniecki, Charles Bachand and Dewey Lambert. Relatives and friends may call at the Petterson Funeral home in Oklee beginning this (Wednesday) afternoon beginning at four. Prayers will be said at 8 tonight at the funeral home.

The former Emma Cote was born January 14, 1890, at Terrebonne, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cote. On February 6, 1912, she married Armida Boucher at Terrebonne. The Bouchers farmed in Lambert township until 1951 when they moved into Oklee, where her husband died in 1953. She was a member of the Sodality of St. Anne.

Survivors include four sons: Melvin and Norman of Brooks; Henry of Oak Creek, Wisc.; and Harvey of Yakima, Wash.; two daughters; Mrs. Robert (Mae) Griffey, Wauwatosa, Wisc.; and Mrs. Peter (Doris) Mrozek of South Milwaukee; 21 grandchildren and 29 great grandchildren; one brother, Albert Cote of Yakima; four sisters: Mrs. Clara Degrosseilier and Mrs. Amelia Paquin, both of Yakima; Sister Irene, O.S.B. of Crookston and Sister Christine, O.S.B., of Duluth. She was preceded in death by one brother and three sisters.

Rites Friday For L. Johnson Of Highlanding

Leo A. Johnson, 63, died Monday evening at his farm home in Highlanding township. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at Sinding's Funeral chapel in this city with the Rev. Bruce Anderson officiating. Interment will be in the Highlanding cemetery.

Relatives and friends may call at the funeral home beginning at 3 p.m. Thursday and until the time of services on Friday. A complete obituary will be published in the Monday edition of the times.

Family Assistance Program Planned

New kind of family assistance facility will be ready in Crookston early in February, according to Bernard DesRoches, Red Lake Falls, president of the family living center which sponsors the new program.

Des Roches, staff member of the Catholic social service association at Red Lake Falls, said he is almost certain the program is the first of its kind in Minnesota and is probably unique in the United States.

He explained that "this is not a marriage problem clinic or a counseling service, but a special enrichment program for couples that recognize that no matter how good their marriage, it can always be better."

De Roches emphasized that the program would be "preventative rather than problem solving".

"You might say," he added, "that the theme of the family living center is 'the time to safeguard any marriage is when the good things are still there.'" However, he added that some couples with problems will be accepted.

Open to all families within commuting distance of Crookston, the family living center will work with couples and individuals in small informal groups of from 10 to 15 persons.

DesRoches made it clear that the program was not regarded as a form of group therapy but rather "taking families where they are and helping guide them in the direction they want to go. The term enrichment much better describes what they will be doing than group therapy does," he added.

The center is being sponsored and staffed by the Crookston ministerial association, the Catholic social service association of the Diocese of Crookston, Lutheran social service of Minnesota, the Crookston public schools, the Polk county social service center, Northwestern mental health center and the Tri-Valley opportunity council.

Other officers are Sanford Fuglestad, Moorhead, vice president of Lutheran social service of Minnesota; and Rev. David Gray, secretary-treasurer of the Crookston ministerial association and minister of First Methodist church, Crookston.

The initial listing of offerings includes: "Marriage Enrichment Program", "Parent-Child Program", "Pre-Marriage Course", "Enrichment Program for Housewives", and "Family Finance". All programs will run from three to six consecutive weeks depending on the work to be covered. Other programs are being considered for a later date.

Persons interested in registering or seeking more information should write: Family Living Center, Box 603, Crookston, Minn. 56716, or phone Crookston, area code 218-281-1746. All classes or meetings with the exception of the enrichment program for housewives and the pre-marriage course will be conducted in the evening.

Crookston churches will provice facilities for the various activities sponsored by the Family Living Center. The center is expected to be well received in the Crookston area, and there is interest in such a program in other sections of Northwestern Minnesota. The fee for each program sponsored by the Family Living Center is $4.00 per couple or $3.00 per individual.

Commenting on the new facility, a Crookston area pastor said "I have been waiting for such a program for six years. It is one of the best things that could happen for our young people getting married and for those who are already married no matter how well they are swimming the sea of holy matrimony."

Reseal Program Is Announced

U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced recently the reseal program for 1972-73 year. The 1968-1969-1970-1971 crops of oats, wheat and barley now under reseal will be resealed to mature May 31, 1973.

The 1969-1970-1971 crops of corn will be extended for reseal to mature May 31, 1973. The 1971 rye will be resealed this year also and will mature April 30, 1973.

If any farmer has any questions on the newly announced reseal program they should contact their local ASCS office according to Wallace Sparby, county executive director, Pennington county.

Free Lutheran Bible Conference Is Next Month

Tenth annual Bible conference of the Association of Free Lutheran congregations will be hosted by the Bethel Free Lutheran church of Grafton, N.D. The conference will be held during the February 3-6 weekend, and the public is invited to attend.

Opening service of the conference will be 7:30 p.m. February 3. This and the services on Friday and Saturday will be evangelistic services with Rev. Francis Monseth as preacher. He is presently an instructor at the Association Free Lutheran theological seminary in Minneapolis and is also an instructor at the Bible school there.

Bible teacher for the conference will be Rev. Eugene Enderlein, a recent worker with the Wycliff Bible translators. Rev. Enderlein will lead in morning studies at 9. He is presently pastor of the Free Lutheran parish in Minnewaukan, N.D.

A youth meeting will be held at the Grafton youth center at 5:30 p.m. February 5. The rally will feature a gospel team from the A.F.L.C. Bible school in Minneapolis. The team will also be part of the closing session Sunday.

Changes Made In Unemployment For Students

Governor Wendell R. Anderson said today that some Minnesotans taking full-time vocational training may qualify for unemployment insurance benefits under a new Minnesota law which became effective January 1.

"This new provision of the law will be particularly helpful to recently separated veterans who will be taking vocational training to improve their chances for employemnt," Governor Anderson said.

Previously, persons in full-time vocational training could not qualify for unemployment insurance under Minnesota law. However, amendments to the Minnesota manpower services law by the 1971 legislature permit unemployment insurance payments to those who otherwise are eligible for benefits.

To be eligible, a trainee must meet the following general requirements:

Must have had sufficient employment, which may include military service, to establish to regular unemployment insurance claim; have an existing claim, or be eligible for extended unemployment benefits.

Must be enrolled full-time in an approved vocational training school.

Must be maintaining satisfactory attendance and progress.

Anderson urged persons who feel they may qualify to contact the nearest state employment service or unemployment insurance claims center of the Minnesota department of manpower services.

Reading Study Set At Bemidji For Saturday

Northland Reading council of the Minnesota Reading association is conducting a workshop on "Stations in Action" for all area classroom and special reading teachers Saturday at the Bemidji state college cafeteria of Walnut hall.

Dr. Duane Googins, school psychologist of St. Anthony schools and president-elect of MRA, will present a talk on "Station Teaching as One Approach to Individualized Instruction".

Googins will show the use of games as an aid to teaching specific skills, with area teachers assisting and demonstrating methods they have used and found successful.

The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. Lunch will be served at noon, and in the afternoon time will be provided and materials will be sold for use in construction of stations for putting Dr. Googins' ideas to use.

Fee for the workshop, lunch and morning and afternoon coffee is $5. Registration should be made by calling Mrs. Carol Close, 751-3279.

The reading council is a new organization in the area, with a goal of bringing latest information and trends to the members.

Retailers Must Answer Queries About Prices

Retailer's posting of base prices, as required by the economic stabilization act, does not release him from answering questions on prices of other non-posted items.

George O. Lethert, internal revenue serivce district director for Minnesota, said that the act requires base price information on any item sold by the store to be furnished to anyone requesting the information.

In addition, the retailer must post a sign, minimum of 22" x 28" on each floor of his establishment announcing the availability of base prices. The sign is to be titled "Base Price Information," and state:

"Information regarding the lawful base price for any item sold by the store not posted may be obtained by filling in a Base Price Information Request Form available at (specify location) and by handing it to (fill in). You will receive a speedy answer by mail."

Lethert cautioned merchants that the posting lists and posters advising persons of the availability of base price information is required by law and failure to comply may result in fines or penalties.

Retailers needing information or assistance on the economic stabilization program posting requirements should contact their nearest internal revenue service office immediately.

MEA Legislative Commission Sets Alexandria Meet

Legislative policy making body of the Minnesota Education association is once again taking its monthly meeting outstate to receive teacher input on matters that concern them regarding education and the legislature.

The legislative commission of the MEA will hold its January meeting at Arrowwood lodge in Alexandria, January 21-22.

A. L. Gallop, MEA's executive secretary and chief lobbyist, says it is important to receive as much input as possible from sources who are familiar with the educational climate in Minnesota.

"Teacher concerns," he emphasizes, "vary greatly across the state. The commission is dedicated to evolving these concerns into legislative objectives that will insure continuing quality education for our children."

This is the third in a series of meetings held around the state. The legislative commission previously convened in Rochester November 12-13 and Duluth December 3-4. Melvin Wang of Greenbush is a commission member from the northern division.

Fergus Falls Hospital Closed To Public Visit

During the duration of the current flu problem in the area, the Fergus Falls state hospital will be closed to tour groups and other visits from the general public.

Exceptions to this ban on visiting will be made only in the case of an emergency, and such visits will be permitted only after permission for the visit has been obtained from the hospital's medical staff.

Extra Benefit Requests Behind For Unemployed

Only 2,339 unemployed Minnesotans who have exhausted their regular unemployement insurance benefits filed claims for additional weekly payments during the first week of the new state-federal extended unemployment insurance benfits program, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of manpower services said today.

"This is slightly more than half the response we expected," Commissioner Cushing said. "We feel many of the eligible unemployed still are not aware that these additional benefits are available."

Those eligible for benefits under the new program which became effective January 2 are those who have exhausted their regular benefits and cannot establish rights to other unemployment insurance, and whose benefit-year did not expire prior to January 2, 1972.

The extended benefit program also applies to claims of persons who have exhausted benefits under unemployment compensation for ex-servicemen and federal employees, programs also administered by department of manpower services.

Claimants who feel they are eligible should contact the same office where their original claims were filed, Cusing said. Persons who have moved should contact the nearest state employment service office or unemployment insurance claims center of the Minnesota department of manpower services. This also applies to persons living in Minnesota whose claims for unemployment insurance were filed against other states.

Cushing advised claimants to bring their identification booklets and their Social Security cards with them when they come to file their claims. He pointed out eligibility for payment begins the week in which filing is made so claims should be filed as soon as possible.

The federal-state extended benefits will be paid at the same weekly rate as the regular claim and will continue until a qualified claimant has found a job or has received additional payments equal to 50 per cent of the total amount of his previous claim.

Cushing said the department anticipates 31,000 out-of-work Minnesotans will collect approximately $12 million in benefits under the program, which is expected to remain in effect for about 27 weeks. The average claim will pay about $50 for eight weeks. Maximum eligibility is $64 for 13 weeks.

The program was triggered on a national basis because the seasonally adjusted insured unemployment rate nationally exceeded 4.5 per cent for three consecutive months. It will end when the national rate falls below 4.5 per cent for three consecutive months.

This is the second extended benefits program in Minnesota. The state paid extended benefits from March 21 through August 3, 1971, under the state law which was passed by the 1971 legislature and signed into law March 18 by Governor Wendell R. Anderson. Under that program, 19,100 Minnesotans received $7,545,000 in extended benefits.

Women Given Advice On Social Security

Social security, ladies, is not something to start thinking about solely when you're approaching your 60th birthday. The program can and often does mean the difference between financial security and financial despair to younger families as well as to older persons.

Many young married couples, says a major life insurance company, do not realize that if they have children, social security benefits become available immediately should the man in the family die. A recent study of widows aged 25 to 65 reveals that one out of two had no idea of the Social Security benefits that they could have been receiving. Fewer still had really sat down with their husbands and planned for the protection of their children's futures and their own.

Here are some facts about social security:

(1) If the widow's husband had been covered by social security during his lifetime, she can receive income benefits for the family until her children reach the age of 18. And, if the children should go on to college as unmarried full-time students, they can receive additional income until the age of 22.

(2) The amount of social security income benefits for which a family is eligible is based on the father's taxable earnings, with the maximum benefit allowable generally reached in a family containing a widow and two dependent children.

(3) After the children are past 18 (or 22 if they're in college), social security income is not again available to the widow until she reaches 60.

(4) A widow who has no dependent children at the time of her husband's death receives no income at all under her husband's social security until she is 60 or, if she is disabled, at 50.

Social security was designed as a "floor of protection," providing a helpful base for the family to build upon for further security for a widow, for children, for a disabled wage earner or for retirement income.

The first step is to know what that base really means in dollars and cents. The second is to figure out how to fill in any gaps—and that can be readibly calculated. For instance, it is possible for a family to determine right now how much retirement income husband and wife can expect from social security, even though retirement still seems decades away. With that sort of information at hand, the young family can start planning today for whatever supplementary income it may need or want later.

U of M Duluth Enrollment Is Study Subject

One of every four students at UMD (University of Minnesota, Duluth) is from outside the immediate nine-county region. A survey of the 5,230 undergraduate students who registered at UMD this fall showed that 26.5 per cent of them came from outside the region, the highest total in UMD's 25-year history as a coordinate campus of the University of Minnesota.

The 1,389 students from around the state is more than double the number six years ago when 543 or 12.9 per cent were registered. Most of the influx of out-state students has come from the Twin Cities area. In the last 10 years Twin Cities area enrollment has climbed from 6 to 18 per cent.

"UMD definitely is a campus with a state-wide role to play in higher education in addition to serving the nine-county region of northeastern Minnesota," Theodore E. Kellogg, vice provost for student affairs, declared. "With the proper interest and support, we will become the university center which planning committees have predicted for UMD within the University of Minnesota system."

Vice Provost Kellogg said that students from outside the regional area "bring different backgrounds and understandings to our campus. It is desirable for students from all over the state and from other states and foreign countries to become acquainted with each other and to share their ideas."

The survey showed that 2,910 students or 70.79 per cent came from Duluth and the nine-county region, still the major source of UMD's enrollees. The city of Duluth had 2,279 or 43.5 per cent, down 10 per cent from 1966. Seven students from Thief River Falls are enrolled.

The other counties in the region showed varying increases or decreases in the past six years: Aitkin, 53 students or 1.01 per cent compared with 30 and .7 per cent in 1966; Carlton, 360 or 6.88 per cent compared with 305 or 7.2 per cent in 1966; Cook county had 25 or .48 per cent compared with 31 or .7 per cent in 1966; Crow Wing had 47 or .90 per cent compared with 38 or .9 per cent in 1966; Itasca had 68 or 1.30 per cent compared with 55 or 1.3 per cent in '66; Koochiching had 33 or .63 per cent compared with 55 or 1.3 per cent in 1966; Lake County had 130 students or 2.49 per cent compared with 140 or 3.3 per cent in 1966.

Ninety-nine students came to UMD from states other than Minnesota. They include Wisconsin with 34 students or .65 per cent of the total student body compared with 21 or .5 per cent in 1966. Other states represented this fall were: Alabama, one; California, four; Florida, one; Georgia, one; Illinois, 10; Indiana, four; Iowa, two; Louisiana, one; Maryland, three; Massachusetts, three; Michigan, 17; Mississippi, one; Missouri, one; New Jersey, three; New Mexico, one; New York, two; Ohio, three; Oregon, one; South Carolina, one; South Dakota, one; Utah, one; Virginia, one; and Washington, two.

Forty foreign students include Canada, 25; Cyprus, one; Finland, one; Hong Kong, three; Kenya, one; Malaysia, four; Nepal, two; Nigeria, two; and Syria, one.

Seventy-nine of Minnesota's 87 counties are represented at UMD.

Economist Says Farm Prices Are On Rise

Significant rise in realized net incomes for Minnesota farmers during the first half of 1972 over the first half of 1971 was predicted today by University of Minnesota economist Wesley B. Sundquist, head of the department of agricultural and applied economics.

Improvement in Minnesota farm incomes during the first half of the new year will follow a national trend. Sundquist based his outlook on these factors:

Incomes are expected to increase as marketings and government payments increase and prices remain firm for livestock products and soybeans, which total almost 90 per cent of cash farm receipts in this state.

Strong consumer demand for agricultural products is expected from large advances in after-tax incomes of consumers.

A rise in farm production expenses will slow due partly to lower feed costs. Large corn supplies will continue to hold prices well below year earlier levels going into 1972, but increases in direct government payments to corn producers will ease the impact of lower corn prices. Legislation or administrative action may be in the offing that may strengthen feed grain and wheat prices.

Also, U.S. farm products should become more attractive to foreign countries due to recent actions to devalue the dollar.

Cash receipts for Minnesota farmers in 1971 have been lagging slightly behind those of a year earlier. Receipts from livestock and livestock products for the first 10 months of 1971 totaled $1,139 million as compared to $1,152 million in 1970. Crop receipts for the first 10 months of 1971 were $500 million as compared to $506 million for the same period in 1970.

Although Minnesota's total 1971 cash farm receipts will approach the 1970 total—$2,015 million—higher expenses probably will result in a realized net farm income slightly below the $638 million mark of 1970, the economist said.

1971 Farm Price Results

Prices received by Minnesota farmers on Nov. 15 included:

Corn, 90 cents a bushel, down 27 cents or about 23 per cent below the price a year earlier.

Soybeans, $2.79 a bushel, up two cents from a year earlier.

All cattle, $26.50 a hundredweight, up $2.90 or more than 12 per cent from a year earlier.

Hogs, $18.80 a hundredweight, "up $4.10 from the disastrously low prices of a year earlier," Sundquist said.

Milk production was down about three-tenths of a per cent from 1970, but the average return per hundredweight marketed—$4.84—was up about 2.8 per cent resulting in estimated cash receipts of $457.4 million—up about 2.6 per cent from 1970.

The national council on the aging has found jobs for more than 1,400 senior citizens since February, 1968, under manpower administration contracts. The council has a 1-year, $1.6 million contract to do more of the same.

Student Learner May Perform Jobs Said Hazardous

Sixteen and 17-year olds enrolled in cooperative vocational educational programs may work in many jobs usually limited to those 18 and older, the U.S. department of labor reminds youths and their potential employers.

Under federal hazardous occupations orders, 16 and 17-year-old student - learners may operate power - driven woodworking, metal forming, punching and shearing machines, paper products machines, circular and band saws and guillotine shears. They may also work in meat slaughtering, packing, processing and rendering plants and in excavation operations.

Employment in these and other hazardous nonagricultural occupations is usually prohibited for teenagers under 18.

However, those young workers learning appropriate skills in programs which coordinate academic work with technical training may be exempt. In addition, if the student - learner graduates before his 18th birthday he may continue to work in the hazardous occupation for which he was trained.

Approximately 300,000 student-learners are currently enrolled in cooperative education programs administered by the department of health, education, and welfare's office of education.

For the exemption to apply, both the school placing the student in a job and his employer must observe a written agreement containing conditions set by wage-hour and the office of education.

The conditions require that the work of the student - learner includes training in other than the hazardous occupation, meaning the worker performs all phases of the job rather than just operating a hazardous power-driven saw, etc.

The student works on the hazardous job only for short periods of time under the direct supervision of an experienced person.

The vocational school provides safety instruction related to the job training provided by the employer.

A schedule of organized and progressive work in the training program is developed for the student-learner.

Vocational school coordinators and employers who want additional information on the student - learner program should contact the nearest wage and hour division office listed in most telephone directories under U.S. government, department of labor.

The American Conscience

by Dr. RUDY SKOGERBOE

Modern scientific discoveries result from the inquiring mind which is well trained and motivated to seek absolute truth. The intellectual culture of today's literature and stage often forgets this fact. Too often we find ourselves caught up in the sophistication of the day. Movies and even the critics seem to accept as a fact that absolutes do not exist. By this I mean such basic concepts as the nature of man and the reality of God as Creator.

To examine a flower in depth or a star in space immediately brings us to the threshold of the infinite beyond which we cannot step. I remember in the dissection of a cadaver in our anatomy class the condescending question of a classmate. "Where, friend," he asked, "Did you find this man's soul?" I remember also my frustration at not knowing the best answer to give. However, as I went to bed that night, I knew the secrets of the Creator were there even if I couldn't show him a soul with my forceps. Why was I so sure?

The reality of the difference between the highest of the animal world and the lowest, most degenerate example of a human is a startling fact. Where do we find the intricate and beautiful fruits of the creative mind both for good and evil, but in the human species? Despite this absolute, we still cling like obstinate children to our desire to be free from a "silly" God concept to say nothing of the idea of atonement through Christ.

We don't have to turn back to ancient times to see evidence of the beastiality in man. In an apparent denial of conscience, the camps of Dachau and Buchanvold, the Russian liquidation of Christians in their Siberian "back yard," the Chinese and their mass murders, and now the many atrocities of our own war are history. These gigantic displays of killing are not found in any species but our own. To me it is an awfully clear picture of the depths to which a natural and a depraved man can descend. This in other words is a reality that proves the existence of God.

As the modern liberal intellectual insists on the idea that a well fed and a well educated man is able to become better and better because of the presence of these two conditions, he of necessity insists man is by nature good. It is only a need for these tools that keep him from becoming good. History, however, does not bear this out. Thus the need for a society with checks and balances continues. Our constitution is based on this Cristian concept of the nature of man.

Reinhold Niebuhr, a liberal theologian, stated, "The liberal part of our culture thought that the Christian idea of the sinfulness of all men was outmoded."

It is necessary for us to remember why we need to continue our society by laws rather than edicts from men. Power corrupts. Dr. Neibuhr further states, "And a monopoly of power leads to all the evils which the Russian tyranny exhibits. The so called left opinion, whether Cristian or secular, must plead guilty to its failure to foresee the perils of this development."

The real intellectual is honest and he knows there exists the absolute need to curb the power of government over the lives of its people. The government which governs least is the best. This should be our goal in choosing men to run the affairs of state.

Although the following idea is now new, a direct quote from the late H. W. Prentis, Jr., chairman of the board of the Armstrong Cork Co., is worth repeating. He said, "We travel in a kind of cycle which runs something like this: From bondage to spiritual faith, from spiritual faith to courage, from courage to freedom, from freedom to a measure of physical abundance, from abundance to selfishness, from selfishness to complacency, from complacency to apathy, from apathy to fear, from fear to dependency, from dependency back again to bondage."

Every campaign year we hear of "National Purpose". Looking at all that has been said so far one image stands out loud and clear. All the present candidates who are seeking the nomination for President, and who want to oppose Mr. Nixon have one thing in common. They agree that whatever the government is trying to do for people is not enough. We are told we must realize it is not good enough to live in the country that provides the greatest freedom to the individual. The individual must have more. What does this mean? Does it mean more taxes, more controls, more programs for every conceivable problem that might exist? In other words, does it mean we must have even more of a welfare state? Now it has been proven by history and in countries that exist today that the welfare state comes first and the police state next. Is this our national purpose?

Another disturbing campaign slogan that is heard often is that we must change our priorities in relation to national defense. Does this mean less for defense now that we are already in trouble for not doing what our military experts have shown was necessary to do? Mr. Nixon has proposed a reduction in his defense budget on a percentage basis from 48 per cent in 1961 to 34 per cent in 1972. Do his critics mean we should reduce this even further? Is unilateral disarmament what we want for national purpose?

The real trouble is that America is split down the middle. Some of us are actually as materialistic as any communist, and have no idea of the spiritual roots of the freedom we enjoy. The logical question could be, "Do we have to become slaves before we can break the cycle mentioned above? Can we regain our spiritual faith and go to work? This is basic and would give us more than enough for a national purpose. National self pity might be the theme of the political campaign, but I don't think it is necessary nor does it fool anyone.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINN. HWY. 59 E.

PROWLER GOALIE Pete Sullivan turned in one of the best plays in last night's Thief River Falls-Warroad hockey game when the junior netminder stopped the Warriors' Pete Roberts on this clear breakaway shot during the second period in the sports arena. Sullivan kicked out 25 Warroad shots in the Prowlers' impressive 10-3 triumph. The win hiked the Prowler season record to 7-4 with their next action scheduled Saturday night when they host Grand Forks Central in the sports arena.

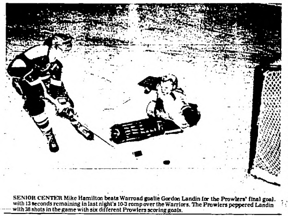
Prowler Icemen Overwhelm Warroad Warriors 10-3

Thief River Falls turned in three impressive periods of good, solid hockey last night to post a surprisingly easy 10-3 victory over Warroad in the sports arena.

The Prowlers led 2-0 after the first period before they erupted for four goals in the second stanza and a 6-1 lead. The scoring epidemic continued to spread in the final period as the Prowlers added four more tallies. Mike Hamilton, Don Brown, Tom Goddard and Jeff Bottem all collected two goals for the Prowlers who upped their season mark to an ever-improving 7-4.

Junior goalie Pete Sullivan played an important part in the Prowler win as he kicked out 25 Warroad shots while playing almost the entire game. Stan Ehrenstrom finished the game in the Prowler nets.

Jon Jensen opened the game's scoring in the first period when his 15-feet slap shot sailed past Warroad goalie Gordon Landin with 13:33 remaining. Rory Anderson was credited with an assist on the score. Senior center Don Brown tipped in a Rob Swenson centering pass with 7:09 remaining to give the Prowlers a 2-0 advantage and a clear-cut edge in the game's domination. Tom Wurst also got an assist on the play.



SENIOR CENTER Mike Hamilton beats Warroad goalie Gordon Landin for the Prowlers' final goal with 13 seconds remaining in last night's 10-3 romp over the Warriors. The Prowlers peppered Landin with 38 shots in the game with six different Prowlers scoring goals.

An explosive second period quickly opened up with Warroad's Bob Fish scoring a short handed goal with 13:17 remaining. The Prowlers had kept the pressure on Landin with a succession of power play blasts from all angles before Fish broke into the clear for a breakaway goal.

The Prowlers got the goal back when defenseman Gary Burstad's hard slap shot from the right point sailed past the screened Landin with 8:26 remaining. Don Brown assisted on Burstad's score.

Four minutes later the Prowlers led 4-1 as Mike Hamilton scored his 13th goal of the season on an assist from Anderson. In a short 1:11 span the Prowlers added their fifth goal of the game as Brown skated down the left boards on a rink-long rush and put in a backhand from close range with 3:17 remaining.

Tom Goddard's long range slap shot with 1:36 remaining gave the Prowlers a 6-1 margin going into the final period. Linemates Jeff Bottem and John Wangberg were credited with assists on the score.

Warroad's Ron Johnson, on an assist from Scott Marvin, knocked in a rebound with 12:48 remaining in the game for a 6-2 contest, before Bottem got behind the Warroad defense for the Prowlers' seventh goal with 6:22 left to play. Team captain Mike Protz earned an assist on the score.

The Prowlers climbed out to an 8-2 lead with 5:41 remaining as Goddard beat Landin on the short side from 15 feet on assists from Bottem and Wangberg.

Bottem and Hamilton added breakaway goals with 1:32 and 13 seconds remaining for a 10-2 bulge. Bottem's close range wrist shot was unassisted while Rory Anderson was credited with an assist on Hamilton's second goal of the night.

Warroad's Dave Kvarnlov, on an assist from Les Sutherland, scored with just six seconds remaining in the game for the final 10-3 count.

THE PROWLER junior varsity opened the night's activity with a come from behind 4-2 triumph in the preliminary contest.

Mike Froehle scored a first period goal for the JV's, before Scott Reed's marker with 1:30 remaining in the second period tied the game 2-2. The Prowler Bees added two third period goals by Mike Onkka and Froehle's second goal. Jeff Langlie worked the nets for the Bees.

Northland Rally Falls Short In 85-83 Loss At Crookston Tech

Crookston Tech broke free for 13 straight unanswered points over a 5:06 span of the first half, and then held on for an 85-83 MJCAA triumph over Northland junior college last night in the UMTC gym.

The loss dropped Chet Engelman's Northmen to 7-9 for the year, with their next game scheduled Saturday when the Northmen will host Hibbing in the Northland gym, beginning at 2 p.m.

A Mike Rasch free throw gave the Northmen a 1-0 lead in the opening moments of the game last night as the lead changed hands three times in the early stages. Freshman forward Stan Leach sank a single free throw with 14:05 remaining to tie the game for the third time, 15-15.

Crookston then proceeded to shutout the Northmen for 5:06 while the Trojans scored 13 points for a 28-15 lead with 8:59 remaining, enroute to a 47-36 halftime lead.

Crookston continued to hold the hot hand at the outset of the second half as the Trojans moved out to a 51-38 advantage. Hallock product Terry Swanson connected on a long jump shot from the right corner with 14:35 remaining to give Crookston its biggest lead of the contest, 62-44.

Northland's offense began to jell midway through the second half as the Northmen scored in spurts of eight and five straight points to climb to within 77-71 with 6:56 left to play.

A Terry Hoppe field goal gave Crookston an 83-81 lead with 4:25 remaining before three straight Northland field goals made it 83-81 with about 2:30 left.

Northland center Tony Burke scored from underneath with 2:10 remaining to tie the game 83-83 before Hoppe's field goal with 1:20 remaining proved to be the winning bucket for Crookston.

Northland was frustrated by several close misses in the last minute of play with Burke's last second shot from the field rolling off the rim as the buzzer sounded.

Crookston turned in a 53 per cent shooting mark from the field, hitting on 31 of 58 attempts while Northland recorded a 43 per cent mark on 34 of 80 field goal attempts. From the free throw line the Trojans sank 23 of 30 while Northland connected on 15 of 23. Northland held a 48-32 rebound advantage in the losing effort.

Burke led five Northland players in double figures with 17 points while Kent Hanson and Rasch had 16, Dale Hanson 14 and Willie Bayne 12. All-Conference Pablo Ronderes continued his hot scoring hand with 28 for the Trojans while Swanson scored 14 and Johnson, along with Peeters got 13.

"It was nice for the fans, but not too good for us," said Engleman after the game. "We had far too many turnovers the first half (10) and we let them beat us down the court too many times."

NSJC Six Win 7-4

Northland junior college hockey team opened up a 3-0 first period lead enroute to a 7-4 triumph over Lakewood yesterday afternoon to improve the Northland season record to 8-4.

The two teams will meet again today at the Fridley arena, beginning at 4:30. The Northmen will be on the road this weekend with a pair of games at Virginia against Mesabi.

Next home game for the Northmen will be Friday, January 28, against Itasca.

Larson Rink Is First In City Mixed Bonspiel

Jon Larson rink won the mixed bonspiel conducted recently by the Thief River Falls curling club for local members of the club. Larson skipped the rink which included Cookie Ault, lead; Ev Ault, second; and Val Larson, third.

In other recent curling action, the Alice Liden rink scored a near perfect seven-ender against the Elaine Borsheim rink last week. An eight-ender is a perfect score, and much more rare than a hole-in-one in golf or a perfect game in bowling.

Under Norm Van Brocklin the Vikings showed a record of 29 wins, 51 losses and four ties during the 1961-66 seasons.

NSJC Face Hibbing Quint Saturday 2p.m.

Chet Engleman's Northland junior college basketball team will play host to Hibbing Saturday afternoon in a MJCAA Conference game scheduled for a 2 o'clock starting time in the NSJC gym.

The Cardinals are 6-6 for the season, holding a 2-2 mark in Northeast Division play. Hibbing is led by 6-5 sophomore center John Enderle and 5-9 sophomore guard Bob Loushine, the squad's co-captains. Another scoring threat from the Cardinals will come from 5-11 freshman Tom Ronchetti.

"They'll be tough," Engleman was quoted as saying, "we'll have to play a good game to beat them." Engleman will start his basic line-up of sophomore Tony Burke (6-6) at center, freshmen Stan Leach (6-2) and Mike Rasch (6-1) at forwards, and freshmen Dale Hanson (6-5) and Willie Bayne (5-9) at the guards.

Northland will see their next road action Tuesday, January 25, when the Northmen meet Fergus Falls.

Lincoln Hoopsters Host East Grand Forks Friday

East Grand Forks will make a big splash Friday night when the Green Wave rolls into the Lincoln high school gym for a key Big Five Conference basketball game against Thief River Falls.

The Wave carries a 6-2 season log into Friday's game, including a league-leading 2-0 mark in conference play. East Grand Forks has defeated Fosston, Stephen, Warren, Karlstad, Crookston and Ada this season, while losing a pair of games in a tough Fergus Falls holiday tournament.

East Grand Forks will be trying to extend an 18-game win streak in Big Five Conference play Friday night. "East Side" has not lost to a league foe since the 1969-70 season. The Wave has captured two straight loop titles which eventually culminated in last year's third place finish in the Minnesota state class A tournament.

The Wave attack is led by All-State performer Kurt Knoff, a 6-2 senior forward, and by 5-10 junior guard Rip Thompson. Knoff and Thompson are the lone returning starters back from last year's team. Knoff leads the Big Five Conference in three different individual categories, including his 33.5 points per game average in two league starts. He also leads the loop in shooting per centage with a remarkable .768 eye from the field while leading the league in rebounds with an 11.5 average.

Also expected to be the Green Wave line-up are Bryan Johnson (6-1) at a forward, Dean Avery (5-10) at a guard and Roger Hagen (6-3) at center.

The Wave relies on quickness this season with a fast break, potent offense and an aggressive full court press defense.

Other East Grand Forks players ranking among the leaders in various categories of Big Five play include Johnson's 14.0 scoring average and Avery's .625 field goal shooting per centage. Avery also leads the loop in assists with an average of eight in two conference games.

Team-wise, East Grand Forks leads the league in field goal percentage (58.3), assist average (22.0), rebound average (45.0), scoring average (84.5) and defensive average (48.5).

The Prowlers have played just one conference game, losing 72-66 to Crookston, so their league averages are not reflective of true team strength.

Prowler starters for Friday's 8 o'clock contest will be senior Rande Smith (6-5) at center, senior Tom Kays (6-2) and junior Jeff Rhoden (6-3) at the forwards and juniors Kent Smith (6-1) and Ordean Peterson (6-2) at the guards.

Lee Swanson's quint, standing 7-3 for the year, will also see action Saturday night when the Prowlers travel to Littlefork-Big Falls to face the defending district 29 champion Vikings.

University of Minnesota football teams once won four undisputed Big Ten championships in a five year period (1937-38-40-41).

Prowler Pucksters Take On Grand Forks Central

John Schmitz' Lincoln high school hockey team continues to wade through the meaty portion of its 1971-72 schedule Saturday night when the Prowlers host North Dakota power Grand Forks Central in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

The Redskins, winners of 11 straight North Dakota state titles, carry a 10-3 record this season, including a present streak of five straight impressiveve wins since dropping a 6-2 decision at Eveleth December 18. The Skins beat Grafton 5-1 in their last outing and have a Friday night game scheduled in Grand Forks against Fargo South.

Coach Roy Nystrom's squad was hard hit by graduation after going 22-1-1 last winter, but the head coach doesn't fret too much, with six lettermen back. Two players that carry the heavy scoring load for the Redskins are Rick Bohlman and Gerald Omlid. Both of those players saw plenty of playing time last year and form Central's first line, along with Brad Spicer. Bohlman is the center on the first forward line.

A trio of sophomores have been impressive for Central this season on a line consisting of center Dave Como and wings Mark Capouch and Max Nelson.

Bob Hillstrom was the lone returning letterman on defense, but after 13 games this season, his partners on the blue line have seen plenty of action. Veteran Jim Twoomey is the Redskin goalie.

Central leads the North Central Conference, having lost just once to a North Dakota team, that being a 5-4 defeat at the hands of Grand Forks Red River. Como, Spicer and Capouch rank among the league's leading scorers.

The Prowlers will also host region eight foe East Grand Forks in the TRF sports arena Monday night, Jan. 24.

The Prowlers opened their season with a 7-3 triumph over the Green Wave at Grand Forks December 4. The Wave struggled after that initial defeat and floundered until posting back to back triumphs over Grand Forks Red River (2-1) and Crookston Central (6-2) for a 4-8 season log.

The Green Wave led the Pirates 6-0 before Crookston scored twice in the last 3:29 of the game. East Grand Forks goalie Gordy Hangsleben turned in a 37-save performance against the Pirates.

Games each night will have the usual 8 o'clock starting times, with junior varsity action slated for 6:15.

TRF YOUTH HOCKEY

3rd and 4th Grade

All third and fourth grade hockey games were cancelled Saturday because of the condition of the old arena. Due to the extremely cold weather, the arena was nothing but a network of cracks and therefore unplayable for the morning games.

Games will continue this Saturday in the old arena with the following schedule: 8:00—Blackhawks vs. Canadiens; 9:00—Red Wings vs. Maple Leafs; 10:00—Rangers vs. Bruins.

Practices for the week of January 24 and 26 will find the Rangers and Canadiens in the old arena, and other teams on the outdoor rinks.

2nd Grade

Boys on the East Side will practice on the outdoor rink Thurs., Jan. 20, Tues., Jan. 25 and Wed., Jan. 26. They will practice in the old arena on Sat., Jan. 22 at 11 a.m.

Boys on the Northrop rink will practice outside Thurs., Jan. 20, Mon., Jan. 24 and Tues., Jan. 25. They will practice in the new arena Sat., Jan. 22 at 1 a.m.

5th and 6th Grade

	w	l	t	pts
Red Wings	5	1	0	10
Bruins	4	1	1	9
North Stars	2	2	2	6
Rangers	2	3	1	5
Blackhawks	2	4	0	4
Canadiens	1	5	0	2

Practice on Thurs., Jan. 20 will find the Blackhawks in the old arena and the other teams outside. On Tues., Jan. 25 the Bruins and Canadiens will practice in the old arena and the other teams will play outside.

Games on Sat., Jan. 22 in the new arena: 8:00—North Stars vs. Red Wings; 9:00—Canadiens vs. Blackhawks; 10:00—Bruins vs. Rangers.

New Uniforms

New uniforms have been issued to the fifth and sixth grade hockey players. In order to insure that the uniforms will last for a number of years, boys are asked not to wash them, or not to use pins and tape on their socks, but rather garter belts.

A thank you to the following women who volunteered their time and effort to sew the patches on the new uniforms: Mrs. John Schmitz, Mrs. Elgin Loeffler, Mrs. Richard Bergland, Mrs. Harold Froehle, Mrs. Darrell Bakke, Mrs. Jim Klosterman, Mrs. Paul Beigner, Mrs. John Besserud and Miss Julie Swanson. Also a thank you to Mrs. Ron Novak for organizing the campaign.

Blues	2	4	1	5
Kings	2	5	0	4
North Stars	1	5	1	2

Games scheduled for Thurs., Jan. 20 in the old arena: 6:00—Red Wings vs. Blackhawks; 7:15—Blues vs. North Stars; 8:30—Penguins vs. Kings.

Games scheduled for Mon., Jan. 24 have been postponed because of the high school game.

Bantam, Pee Wees & Squirts

All TRF youth hockey teams were victorious over the weekend. On Saturday all three teams defeated the squads from Fergus Falls.

The TRF Pee Wees, getting the hat trick from Danny Malberg and two goals by Steve Geatz, defeated the Fergus Falls Pee Wees 7-1. The win left TRF with a 3-11-1 season record.

Single goals by Chris Beigner, Mike Noel, Jeff Joppru and Tim Collins led the TRF Bantams to a 4-2 victory over Fergus Falls. The Bantam season record stands at 3-12-2.

The Squirts, a newly formed team made up of 9-10 year olds, defeated Fergus Falls 2-1 on Saturday and stopped Red Lake Falls 8-3 on Sunday. The Squirts carry a 2-1 record, having lost to Stillwater 5-2 earlier in the season.

Action this weekend will find the Bantams and Pee Wees traveling to Grand Rapids for a pair of games on Saturday and Sunday. The Bantam B. team and the Squirts will travel to Crookston on Sunday. The Bantam and Pee Wees will also see action Tuesday, January 25, when they host East Grand Forks. The Pee Wees will play at 6 o'clock in the old arena and the Bantams at 7:30 in the new arena.

A special thanks to Elmer Poole for putting in extra time and effort in order to get the ice in the old arena ready for play on Saturday afternoon. A 8 a.m. the ice was full of cracks, but by noon Elmer had it looking like a sheet of glass.

Seventh & Eighth Grade Basketball

	w	l	pct
Knicks	3	0	1.000
Bucks	2	1	.750
Lakers	1	1	.500
Globetrotters	0	2	.000
Kings	0	2	.000

Results from Saturday, January 15, found the Bucks beating the Globetrotters 36-30 and the Knicks defeating the Lakers 39-29.

Dave Peterson and Bob Penne each scored 12 points for the Bucks in their win over the Globetrotters, while Mark Folkedahl led the losers with 14. Brian Peterson and Mark Stenberg scored 15 and 12 points respectively for the Knicks while Don Forney tallied 19 for the Lakers.

Games scheduled for Saturday, January 22, will find the Knicks meeting the Kings at 9:30 and the Lakers will play the Globetrotters at 10:30.

JEFF BOTTEM leaves a fallen defenseman behind as he scores the Prowlers' ninth goal with 1:32 remaining in the third period of last night's 10-3 Prowler victory over the rival Warroad Warriors in the Thief River Falls sports arena. The Prowlers will now face Grand Forks Central Saturday and East Grand Forks Monday in the sports arena.

Third Annual "True Grit Award" Offered

Winning is the ultimate: merely finishing calls for accolades, and finishing despite overwhelming obstacles requires "true grit."

And so, for the third year, Theodore Hamm company is offering the $1,000 "True Grit Award" to the Saint Paul Winter Carnival International 500 snowmobile race driver who best exemplifies the qualities of "courage, persistence and tenacity against heavy odds."

The seventh annual race will begin on Tuesday, Jan. 25, beside the Assiniboine River near Winnipeg, and end four days later in St. Paul. The awards banquet will be held at 5 p.m. Friday in Hamm's Rathskeller in the Sky atop the 106-year-old brewing firm's tour center at Minnehaha and Walsh, St. Paul.

Winner of the $7,500 first prize could suspect he's the winner when he crosses the finish line some time Friday. So, too, will others "in the money"—this year, more than $20,000 total. But the "True Grit" winner will have to wait until the 6 p.m. awards presentation at the banquet.

In 1970, first year of the award, a modest machinist from St. Cloud picked up the $1,000 True Grit money after finishing 59th among 62 finishers. Floyd Beumer completed the tough race, actually 571 miles, after a nightmarish series of problems.

Beumer's troubles began on the first day of the race, when his throttle jammed full speed at the U.S.-Canadian border crossing. He managed to stop the machine two blocks later, but less than two miles into the U.S., he cracked a back shaft. Five miles further, his left front ski broke, and 15 miles after that, the repaired ski turned completely around, requiring another repair stop.

After using a screwdriver to replace an important lost bolt, and walking his machine across the first day's finish line because of a power loss, Beumer raced headlong into continuous trouble the remaining three days of the race.

On the second day, the main mishap was a broken spring, which he fixed with a rubber band. On the third and fourth days, he successfully battled: carburetor trouble, fan belt slippage caused by gas spray from the carburetor, recurring spark plug problems, a 20-mile unintentional detour because of a missed signal flag, a bent front shaft, and a minor collision with another snowmobile.

Beumer still was able to smile, especially while accepting the $1,000 True Grit prize and accompanying jumbo German beer stein trophy from Hamm's.

The 1971 winner of Hamm's True Grit award was a Viking-bearded Erv Melvie, driving a Viking machine and wearing Minnesota Vikings' purple clothing. The trucking firm co-owner from Thief River Falls completed the race last in a field of 59 finishers, just a half-hour before the official race end. Merely by finishing, he was a prize-winner: 300 had started the race.

To earn the Hamm's award, Melvie drove 80 miles on one ski after breaking the other near the Canadian border, blew three clutches and replaced them without the aid of a clutch puller, drove 50 miles with no oil after his chain case cracked, and sweated out a fuel leak the last 75 miles of the race.

Near Walker Melvie roared around a blind corner in the woods and crashed into another machine. He was thrown from his snowmobile, and chased the driverless machine several yards before jumping back on and resuming the race.

Assisting an independent judging panel with choice of the 1972 Hamm's True Grit winner will be Jim Pendergast, race director; Joe Shields, facilities chairman; Robert Lockie, director of the Manitoba Tourist and Convention Association (handling race arrangements in Canada), and some 28 timers and other officials following the race.

16 Athletes At NSJC Get Grants

Sixteen athletes at Northland state junior college have received a total of $935 in scholarships from the Northland Area Sports association (NASA) for the winter quarter. The scholarships were given to seven hockey players and nine basketball players and ranged in amount from $25 to $90.

Under terms of the NASA program, athletes receiving scholarships at Northland must show exceptional athletic ability, financial need and establish a scholastic average equivalent to a "C" grade during the fall quarter. The scholarship is renewable for the spring quarter if the scholastic average is maintained during the winter quarter.

Basketball scholarship recipients for the winter quarter include Tony Burke, Bemidji, $90; Kent Hanson, Karlstad, $65; Mike Rasch, Hoffman, $65; Willie Bayne, Oslo, $40; Jay Forney, Thief River Falls, $40; Stan Leach, East Grand Forks, $40; Darrell Stromlund, Greenbush, $40; and Jamie Tronnes, Climax, $40.

Hockey scholarship recipients were Leo Marshall, Warroad, $75; Richard Ellerbusch, Warroad, $50; Maurie Pearson, Crookston, $25; Bob Lundbohm, Roseau, $75; Mark Hughes, East Grand Forks, $75; Rick Lindegard, Hallock, $50; and Tom Matanich, Aurora-Hoyt Lakes, $75.

Northland Area Sports association was formed several years ago to assist student athletes at Northland state junior college. The association is supported by contributions from community-minded individuals and business firms.

UND won the 1971 NCC football championship.

KC Fishing Derby Set For Sunday

Area Knights of Columbus will sponsor their 15th annual fishing derby Sunday, January 23, at Tindolph point in Thief River Falls.

The event, sponsored by the area Knights of Columbus Council 4619 of Thief River Falls, Oklee, Brooks and Red Lake Falls, will be held from 12 to 3 p.m. A number of prizes are being offered.

Tickets are now on sale, with proceeds to be used for scholarship funds for Northland junior college, area vocational school and youth activity.

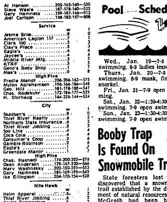
VETERAN TRAPPER Ed Bollie of Gatzke, left, shows off several of the animals he has trapped this winter. The two lynxes were caught on the same day about seven miles northeast of Gatzke, the sixth and seventh which Bollie has trapped in the last seven years. In his right hand he holds a fisher, one of the larger members of the weasel family. The fisher is a protected species and must be turned in to conservation officials when trapped by mistake. Bollie still runs a 20-mile trapline and notes that in the past 52 years he has caught hundreds of foxes, wolves and other furbearers.



FROZEN SOLID but still a beauty is this walleye caught by Mrs. Don Thompson of Thief River Falls. She made the catch at the five-mile reef on Lake of the Woods out of Warroad a week ago and the fish weighed in at nine pounds, one and one-half ounces. A minnow was used for bait.

Sportsmens Club Meeting Tonight

Pennington County Sportsmens club will hold its annual meeting tonight (Wednesday) at 8 o'clock in the meeting room of the city auditorium.

Area game manager Bob Farmes will show wildlife slides and a lunch will be served. All interested sportsmen are welcome to attend.

Fish Shack Numbers Reach New Record

An aerial count of fishing shacks on Mille Lacs Saturday, January 8, revealed the highest number since the surveys began in 1952, the Minnesota department of natural resources reported today.

A total of 5,470 fish houses were counted, exceeding the previous high of 5,097 set in 1967. Last winter at this time, only 1,698 shacks were seen on the lake due to poor ice conditions.

Hjalmar Swenson, department fisheries supervisor, said littering could become a serious problem on Mille Lacs this winter due to the large numbers of persons using the lake.

UND won the 1971 NCC football title.

Booby Trap Is Found On Snowmobile Trail

State foresters last week discovered that a snowmobile trail established by the department of natural resources near McGrath had been booby-trapped.

Stakes had been driven into the trail and barricades created with branches at corners and dips where snowmobilers would have difficulty in avoiding them in time. More than two miles of trail were affected.

Officials said the Giese snowmobile trail is located in the Solana state forest in a fairly remote area, far from any habitation.

"It is difficult to see," said one, "how the presence of snowmobiles in this area could have offended anyone to the point of endangering lives and property in this manner."

They said trail users should be on the watch for such hidden dangers and report any future incidents of the kind to the department. An investigation is continuing in an effort to find those responsible for the traps in the Giese trail.

Live Minnows Banned From Trout Lakes

Minnesota's 1972 fishing regulations should be available soon, the department of natural resources said today, but noted that a major change had been made in trout fishing regulations for next year.

Starting January 1, anglers will not be allowed to use live minnows in the 117 designated trout lakes listed in a department order. Dead minnows may be used if they have been frozen or otherwise preserved for bait purposes.

The designated lakes have been posted at public access sites to call attention to the ban on live minnows.

Snowmobile Film Racing Scenes Now Being Taken

Dandelion film crews face the sub-zero cold and threat of snow in this area again as they enter the final two weeks of shooting the full-length feature "Into a Storm", which is about a boy and a girl, small town life and snowmobiles.

Camera crews will shoot spectacular cross country chase and race scenes through January 18, traveling to various scenic outdoor locations with a cast of stuntmen who are real-life snowmobile race drivers.

Hoping to capture the action of snowmobiles speeding at up to 80 miles an hour, bounding over banks and creeks and curling around hairpin turns, the shooting will provide some of the most dramatic scenes of the film.

In the movie, the fast-paced footage will be used for two scenes—one, a cross country challenge race involving one of the film's central characters; the other, a chase involving narcotics smuggling across the U.S.-Canadian border.

In the last week of January, a crew will travel to Arizona to take scenes of highway hitch-hiking encounters that are part of a sequence in which the male lead returns to Minnesota.

Film editing is scheduled for completion by March 31, and the movie will be released early next fall.

Vesell Named Assistant Fish, Game Director

Minnesota's new assistant director of game and fish in the department of natural resources is David B. Vesall, 54, of Stillwater. He will serve under Mike Casey, department game and fish director.

Vesall has for the past 13 years headed up the department's section of game and has worked for the department continuously since 1939 except for three years of military service during the World War II.

He graduated from the University of Minnesota forestry school in 1939 with a major in game management. He held various posts in the division of game and fish before being appointed supervisor of the section of game in 1958.

One of his primary duties as supervisor of the game section has been to oversee the wetlands acquisition program. In addition, he has been responsible for supervising the acquisition and management of other state owned wildlife areas and encouraging good game management on lands in private ownership or under the jurisdiction of other units of government.

He fills a post left vacant by the resignation last month of Richard Wettersten, who accepted a position as director of the Kansas forestry, fish and game commission.

Vesall says he hopes to advance the department's game and fish programs by encouraging the cooperative efforts of other divisions within the DNR and related resource agencies and conservation groups.

He will also work with the legislature on game and fish matters.

In 1971 there were 143 eagle nests and 90 osprey nests in the Chippewa national forest in northcentral Minnesota.

Hear Many Cases In County Court

Minnesota state highway patrol, conservation department, Pennington county sheriff's department and Thief River Falls city police cases were heard yesterday in the criminal division of county court with Judge J. A. Harren presiding.

In highway patrol cases, Dale R. Olson, Thief River Falls, forfeited a $30 bond on a speeding charge, as did Earl H. Peterson of Middle River. Harold G. Thompson, Thief River Falls, forfeited a $20 bond on a speeding charge. Roy W. Timmins, Winnipeg, forfeited a $75 bond on a charge of driving over the centerline.

David D. Hanson, Thief River Falls, was found guilty of possession by a minor and received a five-day jail sentence which was stayed, on condition that he commit no more liquor violations. Roy V. Chrastil, Detroit Lakes, was fined $15 on a speeding charge. Leland C. Leidberg, Minneapolis, forfeited a $30 bond on a speeding charge. Edward M. Monsrud, Roseau, was fined $20 with $5 suspended on a speeding charge.

In conservation department cases Douglas L. Johnson, St. Hilaire, was fined $20 for having no valid fishing license. Herbert Goethe, Goodridge, was fined $25 with $15 suspended for permitting the operation of an unregistered snowmobile. Louis Vettleson was fined $25 with $15 suspended for failure to display his snowmobile registration.

In sheriff's department cases Wallace O. Jones, Goodridge, was fined $75 for careless driving. David J. Philipp, Goodridge, was fined $20 with $5 suspended for speeding. Duane D. Lundemo, Thief River Falls, was fined $25 for littering, and Roger Hinden of North Dakota forfeited a $59 bond on a worthless check charge.

In city police cases, Christine J. Wald, St. Hilaire, was fined $75 with $40 suspended for driving 90 in a 55 mile per hour zone. Jack D. Boyer, Thief River Falls, was fined $25 with $10 suspended for making an improper left turn.

Timothy S. Magnuson, Thief River Falls, forfeited a $50 bond on a charge of failure to yield the right of way. Marsha A. Jorde, Thief River Falls, was fined $20 with $5 suspended for driving too fast for conditions. Armand C. Westlund, Strathcona, was also fined $20 with $5 suspended for driving too fast for conditions.

Clifford A. Arveson, Trail, was fined $20 with $5 suspended for a stop sign violation. Taito J. Niemela, Middle River, was fined $300 with $100 suspended for driving while under the influence. His drivers license was suspended. Theodore P. DuCharme, Grand Forks, was also found guilty of driving under the influence and was fined $300 with $100 suspended. Receiving the same fine for driving under the influence were John Fredrickson, Thief River Falls; Lloyd J. Johnson, Middle River; William H. Hoglo, Thief River Falls; Vernon Belland, Thief River Falls; and Glen D. Haugen, Thief River Falls. Their drivers licenses were also suspended.

Local Student In Concordia Band

Margaret Semrud is a member of the Concordia college concert band which begins its annual tour on February 7. The band, directed by Dr. J. Robert Hanson, opens its tour with a concert in Mandan, N. D., with other performances in Montana, Idaho, and Minnesota. Their final performance will be at Concordia on February 15.

A psychology major with a minor in music, Margaret is a senior at Concordia. She graduated from Farmington high school in 1968 and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Allen Semrud of Thief River Falls.

SDA Community Services Center Assists 1,296

Community Services center of the Seventh-Day Adventist church gave assistance to 1,296 persons during 1971, according to Mrs. Eugene Howes, president of the organization, and Mrs. Floyd Borgan, secretary.

The group gave 9,494 pieces of clothing to local persons and also sent 2,056 pounds of clothing overseas. Seven families who lost their homes were also helped with clothing, bedding and other materials. Six families received donations of overshoes, scarves, layettes and other clothing for children. The churchwomen also made 16 quilts, donating 1,862 hours of volunteer service to the center.

Seventeen holiday food baskets were distributed at Christmas. The canned goods contained in the baskets were collected from homes in Thief River Falls by young people who solicited for canned foods instead of the traditional "trick-or-treat" at Halloween.

Personnel at the center said they wish to express their thanks to those who donated canned goods, money, clothing and other material to the center, and also to the merchants, who contributed new clothing.

Persons wishing to contact Mrs. Howes regarding anyone who needs assistance or anyone who is willing to offer assistance may call at 681-4007.

Talent Contest Scheduled For Winter Shows

Thirteenth annual talent festival, held in conjunction with Red River Valley winter shows at Crookston has been scheduled this year for Sunday, February 20, according to Al Croone of the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston, who is general chairman for the event. The college and Collegiate 4-H club group will be serving as hosts for the contest.

Prizes totaling 250 will be awarded to winning contestants. Categories of competition this year include vocal solo, vocal group, instrumental solo, instrumental group, variety acts and piano.

Registration will begin at 2 p.m. in Kiehle hall auditorium on the campus with auditions starting immediately to select the finalists for the evening program. Winners will be chosen by a team of judges at the evening program and contest to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Kiehle hall.

APPRECIATION to James Kotz of the Lincoln high school faculty was expressed by Henry Thompson, commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793, after Kotz directed the VFW's Voice of Democracy contest at the school. Commander Thompson presented him with a certificate from the local post. Sponsors of the contest, won by Valerie Hanson, are the VFW post, Lincoln high school and radio station KTRF.

Bergland Calls For Healthy Rural America

Addressing the annual meeting of the Clay-Wilkin Opportunity Council in Moorhead last week, U.S. Rep. Bob Bergland called for a "firm commitment to the idea that unless there is a healthy rural America, we cannot have a healthy nation."

Bergland said that "allowing the disadvantaged in rural areas the opportunity to help themselves must be linked with fair farm prices and economic development to gain a healthy countryside."

The Congressman noted that although half of America's poor and disadvantaged live in rural areas "we have tried to bury our heads in the sand, ignore the problem, and hope it would go away."

Bergland praised his audience, which included State Representative Arlan Stangeland, a possible Bergland opponent in the 1972 election, for "associating themselves with programs to help the disadvantaged in a time when all welfare programs are suspect. Denouncing all programs, without attempting to improve them," Bergland added, "will not make the problem disappear."

Bergland outlined current programs in welfare reform now being considered by Congress and observed that Congress "is aware of the problems facing the world poor and willing to help. Urban Congressmen are realizing that they can no longer absorb our disadvantaged and are now willing to offer them the opportunities that will allow them to help themselves and remain in the countryside," he said.

Art Heinze Will Attend Research Meet

Art Heinze, chairman of the Thief River Falls United Fund board and a trustee for the Minnesota Community Research Council (MCRC), will attend the annual MCRC meeting Thursday in the Citizens Aid building in Minneapolis.

MCRC is a non-profit corporation created by Minnesota business, labor and professional men to act in an advisory capacity to United Funds, Community Chests, Chambers of Commerce, corporations, firms and individuals requesting service.

It is supported by United Funds, Community Chests, foundations and major firms in Minnesota and gets its direction from an executive committee composed of business, labor and professional people from all parts of the state.

Heinze has been re-nominated as a member of the MCRC board of trustees to serve again until the 1973 annual meeting.

Items for discussion and report at the annual meeting will be a change in the research council's name, current actions of the state involving the charities law, and trends in giving and soliciting over the last year.

The TRF United Fund board uses the MCRC's recommendation in determining our city's fair share to its participating agencies.

State Awarded $109.7 Million In Construction

Minnesota awarded $109.69 million in construction contracts during 1971, State Highway Commissioner Ray Lappegaard reported today. The amount of the 303 contracts in trunk highway projects, including the interstate system, compares with $101.4 million in 1970.

The 1971 contract awards ranged from $1,970, for removal of a building on right-of-way, to $4.236 million. The latter is a project which will commence next spring in the construction of two bridges and the grading, base and paving of a 1.9-mile section of TH 169 between I-494 and Hennepin county Road 18 in Eden Prairie.

The construction of 63 bridges—36 on interstate routes and 27 on the regular trunk highway system—is included in the year's contract awards. Included are structures on I-94, spanning the St. Croix river from Lakeland to Hudson, Wis. on I-35 at Scanlon over the St. Louis river and a connector from I-35 to Piedmont avenue on the west hillside of Duluth. Minnesota shares with Wisconsin in the cost of the new freeway bridge over the St. Croix river.

During the past year, the state brought its total of interstate highway miles that are open to traffic to 611, which is 67 per cent of the 914 miles of interstate system routes that was allocated by the federal government. Sections opened in 1971 included I-90 from St. Charles to Stewartville, 23.3 miles; I-35 and I-535 in the western area of Duluth, and a 1.3-mile segment of I-94 with the Lowry Hill tunnel, in Minneapolis.

Continuing a program initiated in the mid-60s, was the removal of the raised lip curb and depressed shoulder drains on 102 miles of old pavement. Longest single stretch improved in this manner was on the 39-mile roadway between Cannon Falls and Rochester.

During the year, 324 miles of trunk highways were resurfaced under contracts totaling $5.24 million. Longest resurfacing project was a 29-mile section of TH 108, from 5½ miles west of Pelican Rapids to about 5½ miles east of Dent, in Otter Tail county.

Concordia Club Announces New Building Project

Concordia college's C-400 club has embarked on a fifth project with a $700,000 goal to fund construction of a Student Life center on the campus.

National chairman of C-400 for Project Five will be Dr. John R. Holten, a Moorhead physician, who succeeds Carles Bailly of Fargo, chairman of the recently completed Project Four.

Announcement of the latest C-400 club endeavor was made by Dr. Joseph L. Knutson, Concordia's president.

Dr. Knutson said the Student Life center will include a large multipurpose area for religious activities and meetings, other meeting rooms, an expanded recreational area, an enlarged lounge area and extended foyer space leading to the commons dining room.

He indicated that the structure will be connected to existing food service facilities as well as student government and publications offices in the present commons building.

"The Student Life center is being designed to provide a place for students to come for worship or for recreation. It also is intended as a place for fellowship and the development of personal and social contacts," he said.

Construction will take place on the east and south sides of the existing commons building and Academy hall, connecting the new facilities to both structures for maximum utilization of available space.

Target date for the end of Project Five by the C-400 club's reaching its $700,000 goal is mid-1973.

Completion of the $850,000 Project Four was announced last week. That project provided funds to aid in construction of the addition to the Carl B. Ylvisaker library. Also involved were funds for the Concordia language village near Bemidji, refurbishing of Old Main on the campus, student aid and scholarships, and campus improvement and beautification.

The C-400 club was founded in 1955 to finance construction of the library's first unit.

Its present membership is 2,656 with the club through the years paying for construction of the first unit of the library as well as the present administration building. In addition, members have partially supported construction of the library addition, science center, music hall, and football stadium on the campus, besides the other aspects of Project Four.

"The C-400 club has been a vital force for the development of physical facilities at Concordia," said Dr. Knutson. "Such support by individuals for this private, church-related college is extremely significant for its continued well being."

Executive secretary of the C-400 club is John Pierce. Since assuming the position a year and a half ago, the club has gained about one-fifth of its total membership.

Hay hasn't always been only a livestock feed. During the Revolutionary War, colonials built a sturdy fort from 700 pound hay bales in one night. Come morning, British troops were amazed to see the imposing structure and abandoned their planned attack on the heights of Dorchester near Boston.

The United States will need 450,000 physicians by 1980, according to the Department of Labor estimates.

Grant Supports Team Approach To Social Ills

University of Minnesota board of regents today accepted a $275,000 grant from the National Science foundation for a pioneering study of social problems by a faculty team from the diverse fields of engineering, social sciences and mathematics.

The new funding makes possible full-scale activation of a program that was outlined under a previous award of $55,000. It will support major research ranging from basic theory to suggested application on specific problems of areas and communities as well as governments.

It will advance efforts of University of Minnesota scholars from economics, political science, sociology, geography, mathematics and engineering to combine their research into a unified focus on complex modern problems, according to Professors Frederic N. Bailey of department of electrical engineering and Robert T. Holt of political science, who serve jointly as principal investigators for the program.

The coordinated research will bring to the social sciences a problem-solving approach. Administrative direction for the project will be in the university's center for comparative studies in technological development and social change, a unit headed by Holt.

"The purpose of research to be carried out under this grant is to provide a firm theoretical foundation for implementing plans to achieve social objectives," Holt explained. "We remember that early in the 1960's President Kennedy proclaimed a national objective of landing a man on the moon before the end of the decade. That objective was endorsed by Congress and pushed vigorously by succeeding presidents, and the program was a spectacular success."

Holt also noted that soon after the first moon landing suggestions were made for initiating equally intense projects to attack major social problems such as poverty, crime, and deterioration of the nation's cities.

"But there is a striking difference between the two situations," Holt believes. "When massive resources were committed to putting a man on the moon, most of the scientific knowledge needed to accomplish that task was available. Scientists and engineers knew the basic principles for solving the problem and had only to work out some complex detail and create the organization to run the project."

There is no equally reliable knowledge on which to base practical efforts for reaching social goals, according to Holt and his associate; little is known even in principle on the procedures necessary to establish broadly desired goals democratically and to apply large-scale collective effort to move forward in those areas.

The university researchers see the project as a start to building a formal theory for setting social goals in a democratic fashion, and a guide for designing the decision-making agencies or operations needed to achieve the goals efficiently.

"Basically, we will be involved with developing mathematical models of social, political, and economic processes and investigating the range of public agencies that might intervene effectively in these processes on the basis of goals and constraints arrived at collectively," Holt said.

The team approach was developed in recognition of the fact that theoretical objectives could not be achieved by researchers from any one discipline working alone. Similar team efforts also have been organized at other universities, notably Stanford and M.I.T.

Senior members in the Minnesota research team, in addition to Bailey and Holt, are Theodore R. Anderson, sociology professor; Lawrence Markus, mathematics professor; and John B. Stever, instructor in the center for comparative studies. John Adams, associate professor of geography, has recently been affiliated and Leonid Hurwicz, regents' professor of economics, will work in the new program while continuing efforts on a related project of his own.

Members of the faculty team already have crossed traditional lines in their teaching and in numerous publications exploring the potential of such a project, Holt said.

The grant will support the program through the spring of 1974, he said, but the research is expected to have longer-range implications and may lead to new kinds of course offerings in the university and other institutions.

Renee Horner, Minnesota March of Dimes Poster Child, and Karl Kassulke, Minnesota Vikings strong defensive safety, take a practice snowmobile run for one of the upcoming March of Dimes Volunteer special events a "Snowmobile Marathon". Sixty-five marathons are scheduled throughout the state. Karl, who is also volunteer campaign director for the Greater St. Paul March of Dimes, will play on the defensive team of the "Minnesota Vikings Offense vs. Defense Basketball game" to benefit the March of Dimes to be held at Met Center in Bloomington. The game is another special event sponsored by the Theodore Hamm Brewing Co.

Health Leader Sees Change In Hospital Care

President-elect of the American Hospital association for 1972 sees early changes in the health care delivery system that will stress health maintenance and conserve health dollars for the individual.

John W. Kauffman, executive vice president of the Princeton hospital, Princeton, N.J., presents his views on the health care delivery system in the January issue of "Hospitals, Journal of the American Hospital Association".

Kauffman suggests that health care dollars can be spent in a different way "to reduce the incidence of general hospital admission by concentration on health maintenance".

For many years the general hospital has been overutilized (some patients have been kept in the hospital bed too long and others shouldn't have been there in the first place), Kauffman said. He advocates the expansion of extended care facilities to reduce the direct cost to the individual, and the use of these dollars in health maintenance programs.

"This is where the delivery system is going to change," Kauffman said. "As a hospital administrator, I can't change this. The only way it can be changed is through working and obtaining the understanding and willingness of the medical profession. I'm not sure how we can do that, but I think it will be through a continuing education effort. The nation doesn't have unlimited dollars for health care, and we must find a way to spread them around and do a better job with them."

Kauffman assumes the office of president of AHA on January 1, 1973. The 1972 president of AHA is Stephen M. Morris, president of the Samaritan health service, Phoenix, Ariz.

Mortality Rate Decreases In United States

Mortality in the United States was slightly lower in 1971 than in 1970, according to statisticians of a major life insurance company.

They estimate the national death rate for 1971 to have been about 9.3 per 1,000 population. This is the 24th year in succession in which a death rate below 10 per 1,000 population was registered in this country.

The 1971 death rate from diseases of the heart, which are currently responsible for nearly two-fifths of all deaths in this country, was virtually the same as a year ago. The rate for the ischemic type of heart disease, mainly coronary, increased by less than one per cent compared with 1970. However, among persons insured by the company under ordinary policies, there appears to have been a small decrease in ischemic heart disease in recent years.

The mortality rate from cancer, which is second only to heart disease as a cause of death, showed very little change in 1971, down less than one per cent compared with 1970. But, the indications are that there was some further increase in the death rate from cancer of the respiratory system.

Diabetes mortality was slightly lower and the rate for cirrhosis of the liver declined by about 1.5 per cent.

The mortality rate from influenza and pneumonia, which often varies appreciably from year to year, is estimated for 1971 at about 27 per 100,000, or about 10 per cent below that in 1970.

Provisional data indicates that the number of motor vehicle accident fatalities in 1971 was approximately the same as that in 1970. The death toll from all types of accidents combined is also likely to be about the same as in 1970. And, there was some further increase in the homicide rate during 1971.

Infant mortality, which had registered a record low of 19.8 per 1,000 births in 1970, was somewhat lower in 1971 and may establish a new record low—around 19 per 1,000. The infant mortality rate declined in the United States by about 25 per cent from 1961 to 1971, more than twice that for the pervious period 1951 to 1961.

University Office Will Initiate Four-Day Week

An experimental four-day work week for employees of the business office at the University of Minnesota has been approved by the central administration, the university regents were told at a committee meeting last Thursday.

Employees of the business office will work four 10-hour days on a rotating basis, allowing more opportunity for three-day weekends while keeping the office open for the full five-day work week.

In presenting the plan for the information of the regents' committee on faculty, staff and student affairs, James F. Brinkerhoff, vice president for finance, planning and operations, explained that the business office would be open from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily, with a half-hour for lunch and two 15-minute coffee breaks.

The business office is located in the administrative services building, 2610 University ave., St. Paul, and is not directly related to on-campus activities such as payment of student fees.

Although the exact length of the experiment has not yet been determined, Brinkerhoff assured the regents that there will be a period of evaluation some time after the four-day week has been established.

A Times subscription—The gift that keeps on giving!

Here's the population explosion in personal terms. To the proud parents, it's their first child — and they love her! But to the statisticians, who deal only with cold facts, she's just one more person on an already crowded earth.

What a dilemma! We want children, but we want them to face a secure future. When almost no one is optimistic about the present, how can anyone look forward to the future?

Other generations have faced momentous problems, too. Yet, with God's help, they surmounted them.

And God — if we turn to His Church — will do the same for us!

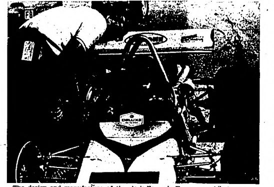
Test Run For A Prototype



The design and manufacture of the sleek Formula B race cars has been monopolized by European countries, at least until recently when an American firm was formed to build them. Cicada Racing Enterprises put its prototype Formula B car through its paces last summer on the roadrace circuits. Dan Murphy, Cicada president and test driver, is shown here at the wheel of the new formula B, while the car's Deluxe oil filter is checked during a pit stop at the Road America track near Elkhart Lake, Wis. The car — which measures only 22 inches from the ground to the top of its windscreen and can reach speeds in the 160 mile an hour range — is scheduled for production at the company's shop at Plymouth, Wisconsin in 1972. Murphy and his team are confident that a top-flight American-built Formula B will soon make its mark on the road race circuits.

"I came into this world, not chiefly to make this a good place to live in, but to live in it, be it good or bad. A man has not everything to do, but something; and because he cannot do everything, it is not necessary that he should do something wrong." —Henry David Thoreau

A Growing Fund

According to recent financial reports, the Thief River Falls Foundation has a growing fund of cash available for student loan assistance. Approximately $25,000 is available for loan to students who need a financial boost in their post high school education.

The foundation was formed many years ago by community-minded citizens who had been loaning money as individuals to students in need. It was disigned at that time to primarily assist seniors in college who needed an extra boost to stay in school.

Over the years, however, the fund has increased, primarily through several generous gifts from estates of early founders. Availability of cash has allowed larger loans for longer periods of time. There are currently 22 loans outstanding in the amount of $18,705. Six new loans were made during the year and seven were repaid in full during the year.

Officers and directors of the organization feel that the foundation is not doing its job by having a large fund reserve. It is eager to make loans to qualified students who need financial help. Interest rate is four per cent beginning when the loan is made, but repayment does not begin until the student leaves school. Repayment terms are negotiated with the foundation.

Eligible for loans are any students enrolled in post high school education, including college, university, vocational or trade schools.

We believe the Thief River Falls Foundation can still serve an important role in student assistance, particularly with Northland state junior college and the area vocational-technical school located here. Students interested can contact Ron Hanson, secretary-treasurer of the foundation, at First Federal Savings and Loan association.

And anyone interested in adding financial support to the foundation may also contact the secretary-treasurer. Bequests, memorials and contributions are all appreciated.

Now You Know

Beginning skaters soon discover that the hardest thing about skating—when you come right down to it—is the ice!

And speaking of ice, here are some general rules regarding ice which should be of interest to anyone who expects to spend some time on the frozen water surfaces of Minnesota this year or in future years:

Three inches of ice thickness will support one man on foot; four inches will hold a group of people walking single file; seven and one-half inches will support an automobile; a foot of ice will hold a truck; 25 inches of ice will support 45 tons of weight; and three feet of ice has been known to hold 110 tons.

Clear blue ice is stronger than slushy ice and lake is usually stronger than river ice. Continuous travel over one path on ice will weaken it while removal of snow from icy surfaces will cause ice to thicken.

The danger of ice, however, is that it is usually impossible to tell from the surface how thick the ice is in any given spot. Ice thickness may vary drastically due to river current, underwater springs, lowered water levels or other factors such as pressure ridges on large bodies of water.

If you have ever wondered the general rules for ice thickness and safety, however, now you know.

12 Ways To Avoid Making A Decision

Following suggestions of 12 ways to avoid making a decision come from the New York-Washington Exclusive:

1—Find a scapegoat and ride him. Americans can blame the Russians or vice versa. Both can blame the general apathy of the people or the atom bomb or the social order.

2—Profess not to have the answer. That lets you out of having any answer.

3—Say that we must not move too rapidly. This avoids the necessity of getting started.

4—For every proposal, set up any opposite and conclude that the middle ground (no motion whatever) represents the wisest course of action.

5—Say that the problem can't be separated from other problems. Therefore, it can't be solved until all other problems have been solved.

6—Ask what is meant by the question. By the time it is clarified it will be time to go home.

7—Discover that there are all kinds of inherent dangers in any specific formulation of conclusions: danger of seeming too pro-Russian, too anti-Semitic, of having your statement in the hands of the wrong people, or of committing the organization too deeply.

8—Appoint a committee.

9—Wait until an expert can be consulted.

10—State in conclusion that you have clarified your thinking. This completely obscures the fact that nothing has been done.

11—Point out how the deepest minds have struggled with the same problem. This implies that it gives you credit even to have thought of it.

12—In closing, thank the problem. It has stimulated the discussion, contributed to our growth, opened up new vistas, shown us the way, challenged our inventiveness. It may have wasted two perfectly good hours, to be sure, but the problem should get the medal.

Drinking Drivers

Following editorial is from the Webster (S.D.) Reporter and Farmer, but much of the information presented is applicable to Minnesota situations:

We're happy to see that South Dakota's Alcohol Safety Action Project of the South Dakota Department of Highways has launched a new effort to decrease accidents and fatalities due to drunk drivers in this state.

Among its activities is a new brochure giving facts and figures about alcohol and traffic fatalities. In past issues, this newspaper has editorially brought attention to the problem of drinking drivers and traffic accidents, at the same time criticizing the judicial branch, both judges and attorneys, for not being tougher on persons arrested for driving while intoxicated. Among facts pointed out in the new brochure is the statewide apathy toward prosecuting drinking-driving individuals.

Legislators took a step forward last session when they approved a new .10 per cent blood alcohol law at which level a drinking driver is considered intoxicated and illegally driving on the highway. It took a higher percentage of alcohol content in the blood prior to the law change to consider a drinking driver as illegally operating a vehicle on the highway. However, we've found that in most cases those convicted of DWI received light sentences anyway.

Are drinking drivers really a hazard on our country's highways? Statistics bear out this fact.

In 1970 there were 28,000 highway deaths attributed to alcohol out of a total of 56,000 traffic deaths in the U.S. Compare this with 15,000 by murder and 9,360 in Vietnam.

Alcohol is involved in at least 50 per cent of all fatal crashes (South Dakota officials say 50-75 per cent in this state) with the problem drinker-driver being involved in approximately two-thirds of these cases.

Problem drinker-drivers compose less than 10 per cent of the licensed driver population.

The relative probability of a fatal crash at a .10 per cent blood alcohol concentration is about seven times that of drivers with no alcohol in their blood and when the BAC is at .15 per cent the risk potential is more than 25 times that of no alcohol present in the blood.

Last year alone in South Dakota the economic loss due to alcohol-related traffic accidents reached approximately $20 million.

Alcohol consumption is the largest single documented causual factor known in fatal accidents, out-ranking bad road conditions or faulty auto conditions.

The ASAP has indicated efforts will be made in the future to identify problem drinker-drivers and once they have been processed through the courts the probability that these individuals will continue to drive will be nil after license suspension or revocation.

We think the ASAP of South Dakota is off and running in the right direction to help curb a problem which has been with us for much too long, and we hope the people of South Dakota, law enforcement personnel and members of the judicial branch will fully support the program to guarantee that it will work.

"Save beyond your means"
Says John J. Womack
Most people try to save what's left after the bills are paid. But somehow there's never anything left. So we've made saving automatic. Simply tell us how much you want to save each month (we suggest 10% of your take-home pay) and we'll automatically transfer the amount from your checking account to your savings account. That way you pay yourself before you pay the bills. Saving is automatic at the helping hand bank.

Apple Cobbler Rates A's

"A is for apple" is one of the basics of nursery school learning . . . And one of the basics of home baking is fruit cobbler — apple in particular. Here's one of the easiest, tastiest apple cobbler recipes ever.

Apple Raisin Cobbler starts with canned apple pie filling. Raisins contribute natural sweetness, while grated lemon peel heightens the overall flavor. The topping couldn't be simpler. A mixture of complete pancake mix and sugar is sprinkled over the fruit, then melted butter is drizzled over the top.

Serve the warm cobbler topped with vanilla ice cream and you'll rate A's for approval!

APPLE-RAISIN COBBLER

Makes 6 servings

- One 1 lb. 5-oz. can apple pie filling
- ½ cup dark seedless raisins
- 1-½ teaspoons grated lemon peel
- ⅔ cup complete pancake mix
- ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- ¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

Heat oven to moderate (375°F.). Combine pie filling, raisins and lemon peel in 8 inch square pan; blend well. Place complete pancake mix and sugar in small bowl; blend well. Sprinkle evenly over apple base. Drizzle with melted butter. Bake in preheated oven (375°F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream.

Presented annually for outstanding attention to service, the Central Exchange proudly recognizes another winner of the SPARKLE AWARD
Congratulations
FARMERS UNION OIL CO.
Grygla, Minnesota
on being named a Sparkle Award winner
This handsome plaque is our way of honoring those co-ops we serve which give special attention to service, cleanliness and courtesy—the elements of being a good neighbor and community member. A mystery customer judged your co-op "outstanding" in these categories. That's why you'll find this plaque displayed there. Look it over next time you drop in.

NOW WE'RE 200 BILLION DOLLARS STRONG. AND YOU HAVE A STAKE IN IT.
By NORMAN STRUNK, Executive Vice President, United States Savings and Loan League
Because you are our business.
Ever since the first Savings and Loan Association was founded 140 years ago—we've concentrated on making this country a better place in which to live.
And we grew.
It took us 132 years to reach our first $100 billion in assets—and only eight years to reach the second $100 billion.
In the process, we helped America grow.
We helped make America a nation of homeowners. Today, we finance over half the homes in the country. Advance 85% of Savings and Loan resources to home buyers.
This generates new economic activity. New homes mean new stores, schools, roads, factories, jobs. New salaries, wages, profits in your community.
But it couldn't happen without you. Your confidence in us makes it possible.
Today, we are more strongly than ever committed to keeping America the best-housed nation in the world. Bringing a better standard of living for all Americans.
We're doing a lot for America. We want to do more.
